Fairground Project Gets Top Priority

Rapid Development Of Center Site Is Urged

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Marin County supervisors tentatively agreed yesterday to proceed with rapid development of the fair site at Civic Center even if it means other long-sought projects must be delayed. (Other supervisors stories, page 12.)

The informal agreement came after about an hour's surgery on the county administrator's six-year capital improvements program, which proposes about $2.5 million in projects for the next year alone.

Supervisors, noting their decisions are not final until June budget hearings, shifted several projects from one year's funding to the next, but seriously disagreed with County Administrator John F. Barrows on only one occasion.

That involved the reoccurring disagreement over funding for fair site development, which Barrows recommended for gradual improvement over four years at about $250,000 per year.

Three supervisors, however, sided with his assistant, Thomas F. Campanella, that larger sums be pumped in over a shorter period.

Campanella, the staff official responsible for fairgrounds development, successfully urged some $476,000 be appropriated during fiscal 1973-74 and $488,500 the following year.

The funds are needed for multipurpose exhibition halls and extensive landscaping to make the fair site a year-round park and activity center, Campanella said.

While the county fair uses the site only five days a year, other activities, such as the annual Grape Festival, also use it.

Campanella's strongest support came from Supervisors Michael Wornum and Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., who make up the board's committee on fair site development.

Both said funds needed to expedite development of the site should be shifted from planned improvements at the new North Bay Front Park, which is slated for a major swim and tennis center.

"I think we should concentrate on the completion of one site before starting another," Arrigoni said, adding he sees the fairgrounds as a major county park.

"The fair site should be a public site for full year use," he

Nixon Asks Death In Some Cases

WASHINGTON — President Nixon asked Congress today to restore the death penalty for wartime treason, sabotage and espionage and for federal crimes such as hijacking and kidnaping in which a death results.

He also called for harsh, new mandatory penalties for narcotics violations. The President said this would sharply reduce the discretion of courts which he said had often become "an escape hatch for those who are responsible for the menace of drugs."

In the sixth instalment of his written State of the Union report, Nixon also proposed a complete revision of the federal criminal code. Included is a restriction on the insanity defense which would permit acquittal only if a defendant "did not know what he was doing."

The code revision also would alter penalties —increasing some and reducing others —and would eliminate such obsolete crimes as interference with a carrier pigeon.

Nixon said the Justice De-

Fourth Of Marin Deaths Become Coroner's Cases

By JEFF GREER
(Third in a series)

More than 400 of the approximately 1,500 persons who die each year in Marin County become coroner's cases.

Coroner's cases may result from accidents, violence, or any fatal illness unattended by a "licensed practitioner," according to Keith C. Craig, Marin County coroner's investigator.

A "practitioner" may be a medical doctor, a chiropractor, or a licensed healer in such faiths as Christian Science, Craig explained. All such licensed persons may sign a death certificate, provided they are able to state the cause of death, he said.

Otherwise, the coroner's office must determine the cause of death and sign the death certificate. In Marin County all bodies under the coroner's jurisdiction are subject to formal autopsy to determine the cause of death, according to Dr. Donovan O. Cooke, county coroner and health department director.

Whenever an unattended death or accidental death occurs, a coroner's deputy or investigator takes charge of the body on the spot, obtains necessary information about the discovery, and orders the body removed to a private mortuary.

Marin County has no central morgue, so the mortuaries' facilities are used for performing the autopsies, Craig explained..

Autopsies sometimes reveal that a seemingly natural death was due to alcohol, drugs, suicide or even murder, Craig said. Fatal auto accidents have been found to have similar causes.

A suicide's relatives have been known to try to hide the actual cause of death, the investigator said. He recalled one

Behr Introduces Bill To Halt Trafficking Of Medical Records

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to halt widespread but little known trafficking in confidential medical records was introduced today by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael.

The bill, the Confidentiality of Medical Information Act, is aimed at the allegedly common practice by insurance companies of sharing such records with an endless commercial chain of outside organizations, including credit groups and employers.

The supposedly confidential information, some of it unverified, is stored in growing computer banks with psychiatric records and other data on morals and drug problems.

One of the largest data banks, the Medical Information Bureau, says it has backgrounds on 12 million people. Its repository grows by 400,000 files a year, and it answers 80,000 queries a day from its more than 700 life insurance company members.

The release of such confidential information is triggered when applicants for insurance sign waivers authorizing their

108 POWs Arrive In Philippines

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (UPI) — A gaunt but cheerful 108 American prisoners of war regained their freedom today, with the senior ranking prisoner in North Vietnam declaring the U.S. POWs "performed magnificently.. .they were first class soldiers."

"I would like to say I've been in better places but I have never been with better people," Air Force Col. John P. Flynn, 50, the senior ranking man held in the North, said as he stepped off his freedom flight.

"Our men performed magnificently. They were first class soldiers, they were first class citizens."

The 108 were flown from Hanoi to Clark Air Base in the Philippines in three planeloads. If processing at Clark goes as smoothly as it has in the past, the first of the men should be back in the United States by the weekend.

The release leaves 147 known U.S. POWs still in Indochina, including 10 in Laos. Another 32 are to be released by the Viet Cong Friday and the rest are all supposed to be freed by March 28 according to the Vietnam cease-fire.

Flynn was followed off the plane by Navy Lt. Cmdr. John S. McCain III, the son of retired Adm. John S. McCain, who was commander in chief of the Pacific forces at the height of the Vietnam war.

The younger McCain, 36, walked from the plane with a noticeable limp and graying hair. He paused for about 15 seconds to chat with his father's successor, Adm. Noel Gayler, and then limped to the bus

Start Is Delayed For Fluoridation

By PAT ANGLE

In an unprecedented move, the state Board of Public Health decided yesterday not to allow the Marin Munciipal Water District to begin fluoridating its water until the county's medical and dental societies have expressed their opinions on the project.

The state board, meeting in Anaheim, declined to grant the district a permit to start the process after a group of fluoridation opponents from Marin argued that the county's children are already receiving more than enough fluoride in their food.

William R. Seeger, general manager of the water district, said today the state board's refusal to act on the permit will delay start of fluoridation at least two months. Fluoridation, approved by the district's voters last November, was scheduled to begin April 1.

The Marin group which appeared before the state board yesterday asked the state board to withhold a decision on the permit until studies on the amount of fluoride in the food have been completed, according to Vince Carne, public information officer for the state health department.

Elmer Weden Jr., new president of the Marin Medical Society, told the board that food samples taken from 18 Marin families contain up to two milligrams of fluoride per liter. This is twice the amount of fluoride that district residents would receive in their water, once the substance is added to it, Weden told the board.

He went on to say that the medical society — which had endorsed fluoridation during the campaign — would not now approve it for Marin until studies of the food supply were completed, according to Varne.

As a result of contentions by the anti-fluoridationists, the state board agreed not to act on the permit request until it has heard from the medical and dental groups.

Varne said state regulations do not require that medical and dental socieites approve fluori-

Doyle Drive Widening Faces Another Delay

SAN FRANCISCO — Long-delayed plans to widen the deadly San Francisco approach to the Golden Gate Bridge seem headed for another indefinite delay, perhaps to 1979.

The present narrow, six-lane viaduct was set for widening as early as next year to eight lanes — with a concrete median barrier and two more feet tacked on to each lane's width.

A decade of slow progress toward the project, however, was reversed Monday night by the San Francisco Board of Supervisors, which voted unanimously to limit the project to six lanes.

This would mean a 25 per cent cut in the traffic capacity of the viaduct because the median barrier no longer would be moveable to accommodate a fourth lane in the direction of peak traffic.

It also would kill plans for a reverse lane for buses since a buffer lane would not be available with a six-lane viaduct.

Bridge officials estimated a six-lane project would back morning commuter traffic up the Waldo Grade, and add at least 15 minutes to travel time.

The board of supervisors, which previously ehborsed the eight-lane project, reversed itself at the urging of citizen groups fearing it would lead to a second deck on the bridge and a new freeway.

State highway officials said the supervisor ' new stanc means design work on the project will have to begin "from scratch." One official privately predicted the supervi-

Plank Quits As Chief Of Schools

John F. Plank, superintendent of San Rafael City Schools since February, 1967, last night announced his resignation as of June 30 to become superintendent of the Singapore-American School in the Republic of Singapore.

The San Rafael Board of Education, after meeting in closed session, unanimously accepted the resignation and praised Plank for commendable service in the city's school system. (Another board of education story, page 17.)

The 55-year-old Plank said his new post will pay about the same as his $30,000-per-year San Rafael job.

The Singapore-American School is a private school serving 7,500 American pupils in the Republic of Singapore, Plank said today, adding he traveled to the country last week on vacation time to be interviewed for the post.

He said his family will leave for Singapore in late June so that he can begin work there in July.

Plank became superintendent of San Rafael City Schools in 1967 after serving as superintendent of Alvord Unified School District in Riverside County for three years.

He began his schools career as a teacher at Santa Maria High School in Santa Barbara

The state board, meeting in Anaheim, declined to grant the district a permit to start the process after a group of fluoridation opponents from Marin argued that the county's children are already receiving more than enough fluoride in their food.

William R. Seeger, general manager of the water district, said today the state board's refusal to act on the permit will delay start of fluoridation at least two months. Fluoridation, approved by the district's voters last November, was scheduled to begin April 1.

The Marin group which appeared before the state board yesterday asked the state board to withhold a decision on the permit until studies on the amount of fluoride in the food have been completed, according to Vince Carne, public information officer for the state health department.

Elmer Weden Jr., new president of the Marin Medical Society, told the board that food samples taken from 18 Marin families contain up to two milligrams of fluoride per liter. This is twice the amount of fluoride that district residents would receive in their water, once the substance is added to it, Weden told the board.

He went on to say that the medical society — which had endorsed fluoridation during the campaign — would not now approve it for Marin until studies of the food supply were completed, according to Varne.

As a result of contentions by the anti-fluoridationists, the state board agreed not to act on the permit request until it has heard from the medical and dental groups.

Varne said state regulations do not require that medical and dental socieites approve fluori-

SUPT. JOHN F. PLANK
Accepts Singapore post

Plank Quits As Chief Of Schools

John F. Plank, superintendent of San Rafael City Schools since February, 1967, last night announced his resignation as of June 30 to become superintendent of the Singapore-American School in the Republic of Singapore.

The San Rafael Board of Education, after meeting in closed session, unanimously accepted the resignation and praised Plank for commendable service in the city's school system. (Another board of education story, page 17.)

The 55-year-old Plank said his new post will pay about the same as his $30,000-per-year San Rafael job.

The Singapore-American School is a private school serving 7,500 American pupils in the Republic of Singapore, Plank said today, adding he traveled to the country last week on vacation time to be interviewed for the post.

He said his family will leave for Singapore in late June so that he can begin work there in July.

Plank became superintendent of San Rafael City Schools in 1967 after serving as superintendent of Alvord Unified School District in Riverside County for three years.

He began his schools career as a teacher at Santa Maria High School in Santa Barbara

Doyle Drive Widening Faces Another Delay

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Long-delayed plans to widen the deadly San Francisco approach to the Golden Gate Bridge seem headed for another indefinite delay, perhaps to 1979.

The present narrow, six-lane viaduct was set for widening as early as next year to eight lanes — with a concrete median barrier and two more feet tacked on to each lane's width.

A decade of slow progress toward the project, however, was reversed Monday night by the San Francisco Board of Supervisors, which voted unanimously to limit the project to six lanes.

This would mean a 25 per cent cut in the traffic capacity of the viaduct because the median barrier no longer would be moveable to accommodate a fourth lane in the direction of peak traffic.

It also would kill plans for a reverse lane for buses since a buffer lane would not be available with a six-lane viaduct.

Bridge officials estimated a six-lane project would back morning commuter traffic up the Waldo Grade, and add at least 15 minutes to travel time.

The board of supervisors, which previously ehborsed the eight-lane project, reversed itself at the urging of citizen groups fearing it would lead to a second deck on the bridge and a new freeway.

State highway officials said the supervisor ' new stanc means design work on the project will have to begin "from scratch." One official privately predicted the supervi-

Nixon Asks Death In Some Cases

WASHINGTON — President Nixon asked Congress today to restore the death penalty for wartime treason, sabotage and espionage and for federal crimes such as hijacking and kidnaping in which a death results.

He also called for harsh, new mandatory penalties for narcotics violations. The President said this would sharply reduce the discretion of courts which he said had often become "an escape hatch for those who are responsible for the menace of drugs."

In the sixth instalment of his written State of the Union report, Nixon also proposed a complete revision of the federal criminal code. Included is a restriction on the insanity defense which would permit acquittal only if a defendant "did not know what he was doing."

The code revision also would alter penalties —increasing some and reducing others —and would eliminate such obsolete crimes as interference with a carrier pigeon.

Nixon said the Justice De-

Fourth Of Marin Deaths Become Coroner's Cases

By JEFF GREER
(Third in a series)

More than 400 of the approximately 1,500 persons who die each year in Marin County become coroner's cases.

Coroner's cases may result from accidents, violence, or any fatal illness unattended by a "licensed practitioner," according to Keith C. Craig, Marin County coroner's investigator.

A "practitioner" may be a medical doctor, a chiropractor, or a licensed healer in such faiths as Christian Science, Craig explained. All such licensed persons may sign a death certificate, provided they are able to state the cause of death, he said.

Otherwise, the coroner's office must determine the cause of death and sign the death certificate. In Marin County all bodies under the coroner's jurisdiction are subject to formal autopsy to determine the cause of death, according to Dr. Donovan O. Cooke, county coroner and health department director.

Whenever an unattended death or accidental death occurs, a coroner's deputy or investigator takes charge of the body on the spot, obtains necessary information about the discovery, and orders the body removed to a private mortuary.

Marin County has no central morgue, so the mortuaries' facilities are used for performing the autopsies, Craig explained..

Autopsies sometimes reveal that a seemingly natural death was due to alcohol, drugs, suicide or even murder, Craig said. Fatal auto accidents have been found to have similar causes.

A suicide's relatives have been known to try to hide the actual cause of death, the investigator said. He recalled one

108 POWs Arrive In Philippines

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (UPI) — A gaunt but cheerful 108 American prisoners of war regained their freedom today, with the senior ranking prisoner in North Vietnam declaring the U.S. POWs "performed magnificently.. .they were first class soldiers."

"I would like to say I've been in better places but I have never been with better people," Air Force Col. John P. Flynn, 50, the senior ranking man held in the North, said as he stepped off his freedom flight.

"Our men performed magnificently. They were first class soldiers, they were first class citizens."

The 108 were flown from Hanoi to Clark Air Base in the Philippines in three planeloads. If processing at Clark goes as smoothly as it has in the past, the first of the men should be back in the United States by the weekend.

The release leaves 147 known U.S. POWs still in Indochina, including 10 in Laos. Another 32 are to be released by the Viet Cong Friday and the rest are all supposed to be freed by March 28 according to the Vietnam cease-fire.

Flynn was followed off the plane by Navy Lt. Cmdr. John S. McCain III, the son of retired Adm. John S. McCain, who was commander in chief of the Pacific forces at the height of the Vietnam war.

The younger McCain, 36, walked from the plane with a noticeable limp and graying hair. He paused for about 15 seconds to chat with his father's successor, Adm. Noel Gayler, and then limped to the bus

Behr Introduces Bill To Halt Trafficking Of Medical Records

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to halt widespread but little known trafficking in confidential medical records was introduced today by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael.

The bill, the Confidentiality of Medical Information Act, is aimed at the allegedly common practice by insurance companies of sharing such records with an endless commercial chain of outside organizations, including credit groups and employers.

The supposedly confidential information, some of it unverified, is stored in growing computer banks with psychiatric records and other data on morals and drug problems.

One of the largest data banks, the Medical Information Bureau, says it has backgrounds on 12 million people. Its repository grows by 400,000 files a year, and it answers 80,000 queries a day from its more than 700 life insurance company members.

The release of such confidential information is triggered when applicants for insurance sign waivers authorizing their

Mystery POW Shuns Newsmen

BOBBY JOE KEESEE
Mystery prisoner

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (UPI) — Mysterious soldier of fortune Bobby Joe Keesee was repatriated from North Vietnam today but slipped off the rear of his freedom plane to avoid the crowd welcoming other POWs and told a State Department official he didn't want to talk to newsmen.

State Department official James Murphy, who escorted Keesee back to Clark Air Base, said the civilian POW remained a "mystery man."

"Nothing really is cleared up," Murphy said, including just exactly how Keesee, a civilian, came to be imprisoned in North Vietnam.

Murphy said the repatriation flight with 27 other happy returnees wasn't the time and the place for deep questioning but he did ask Keesee about reports he hijacked a single-engined plane in Thailand and forced two Thai crewmen to fly him to North Vietnam where they dropped him on a beach on Sept. 18, 1970.

The plane took off under fire and returned to Thailand, carrying with it Keesee's passport.

Murphy told newsmen, "I made reference to it and got no response."

The State Department official said Keesee, 39, a former resident of Amarillo, Tex., waited inside the big C141 hospital plane at Clark while the 27 military returnees debarked amid cheers from a big welcoming crowd and then climbed directly out of the rear of the big plane into an openended ambulance bus.

"It was his own desire," Murphy said. "I think he wants to get himself organized. I pointed out to him there would be press queries and he said 'just hold up on it.'"

Murphy, the State Department's deputy special assistant for prisoner of war affairs, said Keesee's status is that of a "civilian returning home." Officials said in Washington they knew of no pending criminal charges against the man although his past includes hijacking a plane to Cuba in 1962 and a five-year jail sentence imposed the same year on 152 federal charges, including passing bad checks and car theft.

At his trial, Keesee claimed he was on an assignment for the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) and went on a crime spree as part of his cover story.

Bomb Raids Continue In Cambodia

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

American warplanes, including B52 bombers, carried out more raids Tuesday in Cambodia as officials reported fighting over an area ranging from near Phnom Penh to the historic ruins of Angkor Wat.

In neighboring South Vietnam, authorities said Communists violated the truce there 118 times during the 24-hour period ending at 6 a.m. today.

As usual, U.S. authorities did not say where American warplanes struck or how many planes took part in the raids.

but field reports reaching Phnom Penh said some U.S. jet fighters hit Communist positions along Highway 2.

The daily one-sentence statement issued by officials in Honolulu, headquarters of the commander of U.S. forces in the Pacific, said only that B52s and other aircraft carried out raids at the request of the Cambodian government.

Gun Roundup

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UPI) — In a determined effort to track down the killers of Gov. Sir Richard Sharples, police rounded up all of the island's 800 registered handguns today and detained at least six persons for questioning.

As police collected the weapons, final preparations were made for the burial of Sharples, 57, and his aide de camp, Capt. Hugh Sayers, 25, slain Saturday as they took a midnight stroll through the sprawling grounds of Government House.

The governor's widow, Lady Pamela Sharples, said yesterday the burials Friday would be in the cemetery of St. Peter's Church.

45 Crash Deaths

ANTOFAGASTA, Chile (UPI) — The toll in Chile's worst traffic accident rose to 45 today with the deaths of 10 more persons. Authorities said many of the 70 persons injured in the crash were unlikely to survive.

The accident occurred Monday night on a narrow highway about 80 miles east of this port city when a bus headed toward Santiago smashed head-on into a bus traveling to the nearby Chuquicamata copper mine.

Police said 27 persons died instantly in the crash. The others died over the next 24 hours, 10 of them in ambulances rushing them to hospitals.

Plans To Forgive

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — President-elect Hector J. Campora said yesterday he will "forgive and forget" current military government officials who jailed him for two years as a follower of former President Juan D. Peron.

Campora, a 63-year-old former dentist handpicked by the exiled Peron to run in Argentina's first presidential election in 10 years, swept the balloting Sunday with a promise to return the "real power" to Peron, who is living in Madrid.

But Peron was quoted by the Spanish newspaper ABC in Madrid today as saying age has wiped out his ambition for power. "I am now 77 years old," Peron told the paper. "There is no ambition for power in me anymore."

Border Security

BELFAST (UPI) — The army stepped up its security along the border with the Irish Republic today after gunmen killed one soldier and critically wounded four others yesterday.

Pvt. John W. King, 22, died and three soldiers were badly wounded when their military vehicle ran over a land mine on a border road near Crossmaglen, 46 miles southwest of Belfast.

Election Fails

ANKARA (UPI) — Lawmakers halted efforts early today to elect modern Turkey's sixth president after failing in four ballots to choose from three candidates, two of them former military commanders.

Troops and armoured vehicles surrounded the parliament building as members of the National Assembly and the Senate assembled to elect a successor to Cevdet Sunay.

Political sources said the outcome still was wide open after a joint session of the Assembly and Senate failed in three ballots yesterday and one early today to elect a new president.

Hopes For Weapons

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Prime Minister Golda Meir yesterday said she hopes the United States will supply the weapons Israel needs to "keep away war."

"The best guarantee for peace in this area is a strong Israel," Mrs. Meir told a B'nai Brith conference attended by about 1,000 persons, most of them Americans.

"When we ask for planes and tanks and other material that we need in self defense, we know that to the degree that our neighbors have learned that we are capable of defending ourselves — that has kept away war," she said.

Police Test

A total of 109 applicants vying for one opening on the San Rafael police force will take civil service examinations at 7 p.m. tomorrow in the San Rafael High School cafeteria, Police Chief Joseph J. Brusatori said today.

Shultz Optimistic On Trade Pact

MOSCOW (UPI) — Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz said today he told Soviet leaders that President Nixon is determined to push forward on the trade agreement with Moscow that has come under attack in Congress.

Shultz told a news conference following a three-hour meeting with Soviet Communist Party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev that he was optimistic about chances of removing roadblocks to the agreement, which include a controversy over emigration of Soviet Jews to Israel.

A large group of U.S. senators and congressmen is threatening to block most-favored-nation trade legislation status for the Soviet Union unless the Kremlin abolishes its so-called educational tax on Jewish emigrants.

Shultz refused to say if Soviet leaders told him they would rescind or modify the tax.

He said he had described the legislative problem in the United States to the Soviets and expressed "the President's continuing determination to carry forward" the trade agreement.

He said his three days of meetings with Soviet officials were "serious and constructive in tone."

Shultz said he discussed with the Soviets agricultural questions and emphasized that the United States needs to know as soon as possible exactly how much grain the Soviets plan to purchase from Washington this year.

He said it was too early to say what the Kremlin's needs will be.

The Soviet Union last year suffered its worst crop disaster in a century, forcing it to buy $1.8 billion worth of grain abroad, most of it from the United States. Soviet spokesmen this week admitted staples like butter and potatoes are being rationed in some areas as a result.

Asked if he were optimistic about resolving the trade controversy, he said, "The answer is yes. There does seem to be without question a warm and good and constructive spirit that says let us do things that are worthwhile together."

Trouble Seen Ahead For Gray Unless Nixon Counsel Testifies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democrats predict L. Patrick Gray III will have a difficult time winning confirmation as FBI director as long as White House counsel John W. Dean III refuses to testify at confirmation hearings.

The Senate Judiciary Committee mounted a direct challenge to President Nixon Tuesday by voting unanimously to call Dean to testify on his role in the FBI's investigation of the Watergate political espionage case.

Earlier, Nixon had declared he would not permit Dean, who conducted the internal White House inquiry into the Watergate affair, to testify. Nixon invoked "executive privilege" in his refusal.

Seven men, including two with connections to the White House staff, have been convicted of burglarizing and wiretapping the Democratic National Headquarters at Washington's Watergate office building last year. Gray has been questioned closely in the committee hearings about the FBI's probe of the case. Some Democrats have contended Gray's investigation was not impartial and that he was influenced by the White House.

Gray has acknowledged making 82 FBI investigative reports on the case available to Dean.

The Senate committee invited Dean to appear at his "earliest convenience."

Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., predicted that if Dean does not appear Gray's chances for Senate approval as the permanent FBI director are not "very good at all...it will be very difficult."

And Senate Democratic whip Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., joined the liberals in the assessment, saying Nixon should withdraw Gray's name if Dean does not appear.

Byrd said that for Gray to continue in an acting capacity as he has done for the 10 months since the death of J. Edgar Hoover would be "injurious" to the FBI.

However, Committee Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., noting that the President legally may block Dean's appearance, said Gray would be confirmed even without Dean's testimony.

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — President-elect Hector J. Campora said yesterday he will "forgive and forget" current military government officials who jailed him for two years as a follower of former President Juan D. Peron.

Campora, a 63-year-old former dentist handpicked by the exiled Peron to run in Argentina's first presidential election in 10 years, swept the balloting Sunday with a promise to return the "real power" to Peron, who is living in Madrid.

But Peron was quoted by the Spanish newspaper ABC in Madrid today as saying age has wiped out his ambition for power. "I am now 77 years old," Peron told the paper. "There is no ambition for power in me anymore."

Border Security

BELFAST (UPI) — The army stepped up its security along the border with the Irish Republic today after gunmen killed one soldier and critically wounded four others yesterday.

Pvt. John W. King, 22, died and three soldiers were badly wounded when their military vehicle ran over a land mine on a border road near Crossmaglen, 46 miles southwest of Belfast.

Election Fails

ANKARA (UPI) — Lawmakers halted efforts early today to elect modern Turkey's sixth president after failing in four ballots to choose from three candidates, two of them former military commanders.

Troops and armoured vehicles surrounded the parliament building as members of the National Assembly and the Senate assembled to elect a successor to Cevdet Sunay.

Political sources said the outcome still was wide open after a joint session of the Assembly and Senate failed in three ballots yesterday and one early today to elect a new president.

Hopes For Weapons

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Prime Minister Golda Meir yesterday said she hopes the United States will supply the weapons Israel needs to "keep away war."

"The best guarantee for peace in this area is a strong Israel," Mrs. Meir told a B'nai Brith conference attended by about 1,000 persons, most of them Americans.

"When we ask for planes and tanks and other material that we need in self defense, we know that to the degree that our neighbors have learned that we are capable of defending ourselves — that has kept away war," she said.

Police Test

A total of 109 applicants vying for one opening on the San Rafael police force will take civil service examinations at 7 p.m. tomorrow in the San Rafael High School cafeteria, Police Chief Joseph J. Brusatori said today.

Shultz Optimistic On Trade Pact

MOSCOW (UPI) — Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz said today he told Soviet leaders that President Nixon is determined to push forward on the trade agreement with Moscow that has come under attack in Congress.

Shultz told a news conference following a three-hour meeting with Soviet Communist Party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev that he was optimistic about chances of removing roadblocks to the agreement, which include a controversy over emigration of Soviet Jews to Israel.

A large group of U.S. senators and congressmen is threatening to block most-favored-nation trade legislation status for the Soviet Union unless the Kremlin abolishes its so-called educational tax on Jewish emigrants.

Shultz refused to say if Soviet leaders told him they would rescind or modify the tax.

He said he had described the legislative problem in the United States to the Soviets and expressed "the President's continuing determination to carry forward" the trade agreement.

He said his three days of meetings with Soviet officials were "serious and constructive in tone."

Shultz said he discussed with the Soviets agricultural questions and emphasized that the United States needs to know as soon as possible exactly how much grain the Soviets plan to purchase from Washington this year.

He said it was too early to say what the Kremlin's needs will be.

The Soviet Union last year suffered its worst crop disaster in a century, forcing it to buy $1.8 billion worth of grain abroad, most of it from the United States. Soviet spokesmen this week admitted staples like butter and potatoes are being rationed in some areas as a result.

Asked if he were optimistic about resolving the trade controversy, he said, "The answer is yes. There does seem to be without question a warm and good and constructive spirit that says let us do things that are worthwhile together."

Trouble Seen Ahead For Gray Unless Nixon Counsel Testifies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democrats predict L. Patrick Gray III will have a difficult time winning confirmation as FBI director as long as White House counsel John W. Dean III refuses to testify at confirmation hearings.

The Senate Judiciary Committee mounted a direct challenge to President Nixon Tuesday by voting unanimously to call Dean to testify on his role in the FBI's investigation of the Watergate political espionage case.

Earlier, Nixon had declared he would not permit Dean, who conducted the internal White House inquiry into the Watergate affair, to testify. Nixon invoked "executive privilege" in his refusal.

Seven men, including two with connections to the White House staff, have been convicted of burglarizing and wiretapping the Democratic National Headquarters at Washington's Watergate office building last year. Gray has been questioned closely in the committee hearings about the FBI's probe of the case. Some Democrats have contended Gray's investigation was not impartial and that he was influenced by the White House.

Gray has acknowledged making 82 FBI investigative reports on the case available to Dean.

The Senate committee invited Dean to appear at his "earliest convenience."

Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., predicted that if Dean does not appear Gray's chances for Senate approval as the permanent FBI director are not "very good at all...it will be very difficult."

And Senate Democratic whip Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., joined the liberals in the assessment, saying Nixon should withdraw Gray's name if Dean does not appear.

Byrd said that for Gray to continue in an acting capacity as he has done for the 10 months since the death of J. Edgar Hoover would be "injurious" to the FBI.

However, Committee Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., noting that the President legally may block Dean's appearance, said Gray would be confirmed even without Dean's testimony.

Mystery POW Shuns Newsmen

BOBBY JOE KEESEE
Mystery prisoner

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (UPI) — Mysterious soldier of fortune Bobby Joe Keesee was repatriated from North Vietnam today but slipped off the rear of his freedom plane to avoid the crowd welcoming other POWs and told a State Department official he didn't want to talk to newsmen.

State Department official James Murphy, who escorted Keesee back to Clark Air Base, said the civilian POW remained a "mystery man."

"Nothing really is cleared up," Murphy said, including just exactly how Keesee, a civilian, came to be imprisoned in North Vietnam.

Murphy said the repatriation flight with 27 other happy returnees wasn't the time and the place for deep questioning but he did ask Keesee about reports he hijacked a single-engined plane in Thailand and forced two Thai crewmen to fly him to North Vietnam where they dropped him on a beach on Sept. 18, 1970.

The plane took off under fire and returned to Thailand, carrying with it Keesee's passport.

Murphy told newsmen, "I made reference to it and got no response."

The State Department official said Keesee, 39, a former resident of Amarillo, Tex., waited inside the big C141 hospital plane at Clark while the 27 military returnees debarked amid cheers from a big welcoming crowd and then climbed directly out of the rear of the big plane into an openended ambulance bus.

"It was his own desire," Murphy said. "I think he wants to get himself organized. I pointed out to him there would be press queries and he said 'just hold up on it.'"

Murphy, the State Department's deputy special assistant for prisoner of war affairs, said Keesee's status is that of a "civilian returning home." Officials said in Washington they knew of no pending criminal charges against the man although his past includes hijacking a plane to Cuba in 1962 and a five-year jail sentence imposed the same year on 152 federal charges, including passing bad checks and car theft.

At his trial, Keesee claimed he was on an assignment for the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) and went on a crime spree as part of his cover story.

Bomb Raids Continue In Cambodia

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

American warplanes, including B52 bombers, carried out more raids Tuesday in Cambodia as officials reported fighting over an area ranging from near Phnom Penh to the historic ruins of Angkor Wat.

In neighboring South Vietnam, authorities said Communists violated the truce there 118 times during the 24-hour period ending at 6 a.m. today.

As usual, U.S. authorities did not say where American warplanes struck or how many planes took part in the raids.

but field reports reaching Phnom Penh said some U.S. jet fighters hit Communist positions along Highway 2.

The daily one-sentence statement issued by officials in Honolulu, headquarters of the commander of U.S. forces in the Pacific, said only that B52s and other aircraft carried out raids at the request of the Cambodian government.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Gun Roundup

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UPI) — In a determined effort to track down the killers of Gov. Sir Richard Sharples, police rounded up all of the island's 800 registered handguns today and detained at least six persons for questioning.

As police collected the weapons, final preparations were made for the burial of Sharples, 57, and his aide de camp, Capt. Hugh Sayers, 25, slain Saturday as they took a midnight stroll through the sprawling grounds of Government House.

The governor's widow, Lady Pamela Sharples, said yesterday the burials Friday would be in the cemetery of St. Peter's Church.

45 Crash Deaths

ANTOFAGASTA, Chile (UPI) — The toll in Chile's worst traffic accident rose to 45 today with the deaths of 10 more persons. Authorities said many of the 70 persons injured in the crash were unlikely to survive.

The accident occurred Monday night on a narrow highway about 80 miles east of this port city when a bus headed toward Santiago smashed head-on into a bus traveling to the nearby Chuquicamata copper mine.

Police said 27 persons died instantly in the crash. The others died over the next 24 hours, 10 of them in ambulances rushing them to hospitals.

DEATH

case in which the only cluewas a tiny, bloody abrasion at the hairline on the victim's head. The investigator was told this resulted when the victim collapsed and struck his head in falling.

The autopsy uncovered a bullet wound in the brain that caused the death. "We thought for a little while we had a murder," Craig said.

In the reverse, Craig recalled another case in which a man shot himself, but actually died of a heart attack. It was not listed as a suicide.

The once-common coroner's inquest now is rare in Marin County, Craig reported. He could recall only four such inquests in the last six years.

Inquests may be requested by police, the district attorney, a judge or the dead person's family, usually to establish ususual causes of death such as justifiable homicide, Craig explained.

"An inquest establishes the cause of death and the manner of death but not culpability," he added. The inquest can subpoena witnesses, but they legally may refuse to testify.

Once the coroner has performed the autopsy, the body usually is released to the family for disposition through a licensed funeral director.

The coroner orders the body embalmed immediately in many cases, because the autopsy process hastens decomposition.

Craig urged that any family opposing embalming for religious or other reasons immediately to notify the coroner, if the death is a coroner's case.

If the body is a "John Doe" — unidentified — or isn't claimed by any relative, the coroner must arrange burial through the county Department of Public Social Services.

Such cases occur only 10 to 15 times a year.

The welfare agency has a special fund, inelegantly referred to among social workers as "instant burial", to provide simple, austere disposition for indigents.

The Potter's Field of yore — the graveyard near the old County Hospital in Lucas Valley — no longer is used.

Burials are in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, unless the investigation shows the deceased to be a Catholic, in which case Mount Olivet Cemetery is used, Craig said.

More than once, a coroner's aide has been the only person to accompany the deceased to the burial site, and to say a few words over the coffin, Craig reported.

The county welfare department also uses its burial fund — a general relief fund from property taxes — to help indigent families which cannot otherwise pay for burials

Betty L. Presley, director of public social services, said the limit is $350, part of which goes to the funeral director and part toward the cemetery plot. The welfare rules forbid the family from paying anything extra to procure a e lborate funeral, Miss Presley said.

However, if the family already has space in a cemetery, perhaps in another county, the Marin fund will devote the full $350 to the funeral, she noted. The county burial fund wll not provide a grave marker.

The county-sponsored burials are divided among the county's funeral directors on a rotating basis. Some of the funeral directors have said privately that the welfare case burials often are fraught with more emotional conflict as to details than the services they perform for families with more means.

POWS

where he climbed on unassisted.

Also on one of the returning planes was Capt. William W. Butler of San Rafael, who had been held captive since November 1967.

Most of the men appeared to be in good physical condition although thin and pale. The two exceptions were McCain, who was shot down on Oct. 26, 1967, and Air Force Capt. Hubert C. Walker, 31, of Tulsa, Okla.. Walker, moving very slowly under his own power, was escorted off the plane by a medic.

The senior man on board the third C141, Air Force Col. David W. Winn, chose to step off his plane in the flight coveralls worn by American pilots instead of the blue outfits given the other POWs by the North Vietnamese.

"You brought us home with honor and we hope to serve you well," Winn said. "To borrow from Keats, freedom is happiness and happiness is freedom. That is all we need to know and it's all we know today."

FAIR

continued. "We would not be wisely budgeting our money if the grounds are developed for a five-day fair only."

Wornum agreed and said to forego rapid completion of the fair site in favor of improvements at North Bay Front Park would leave the county with two half finished projects.

"The fair site is two-thirds done. . .Let's finish it," Wornum said, adding he envisioned a park setting for passive recreation, such as picnicking.

Chairman Arnold M. Baptiste agreed.

Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere protested, saying an "active park" such as the North Bay Front Park would better serve residents.

Delay in funding for the swim and tennis center was urged Monday by the county planning commission.

The commission, following the recommendation of Planning Director Werner von Gundell, said county investment in a tennis center might prove foolish in view of private commercial facilities now being planned.

The commission said swimming facilities should be located at a high school or college campus to provide greater use.

That recommendation drew support yesterday(from Winifred S. Frederick of the Irate Taxpayers of Marin, who said the North Bay Front Park, located on Gallinas Creek near Civic Center, would be difficult to serve with transit.

Elsewhere in the multimillion dollar capital improvements program, the board agreed to budget landscaping and paving of the parking lot at the Veterans Memorial Building next year.

The $288,500 project was recommended for fiscal 1974-75 but was moved up a year at the urging of Baptiste, who said the condition of the parking lot "is a shame."

In order to balance next year's expenditures at about $2.5 million, supervisors agreed to delay $215,000 worth of office space construction in the Hall of Justice.

That move stirred opposition from Supervisor Gary Giacomini who said opening vacant areas of the building should be a priority in next year's budget. To elimiante the $215,000 was foolish, he said, adding the figure should be increased to $645,000 to alleviate cramped conditions.

"We should look for more room for ourselves, too" he continued, saying his Civic Center office is not large enough.

PENALTY

partment was convinced that his death penalty proposals would be constitutional in spite of last year's Supreme Court decision outlawing most capital punishment laws on the grounds that they were arbitrary and capricious.

Without referring specifically to the fact that there had been no executions in the United States since 1967, the President said:

"The sharp reduction in the application of the death penalty was a component of the more permissive attitude toward crime in the last decade.

"At present, those who plan these crimes (kidnaping, hijacking and other federal offenses) do not have to include in their deliberations a possibility that they will be put to death for their deeds.

"I believe that in making their plans, they should have to consider the fact that if death results from their crime, they too may die."

The President's plan would establish a two-tier trial in which following conviction for a possible capital crime, a separate hearing would be held for a defendant to determine whether death should be the penalty.

The death penalty would be mandatory if the jury determined that the crime was aggravated by creation of grave risk to the national security or to the life of another person, or by the killing of another person, or by other aggravating factors and was not reduced by a mitigating factor.

The death sentence would be prohibited if the jury found the existence of one or more mitigating factors such as youth of the defendant, mental incapacity or the commission of the crime under duress.

Owner Reports Motorcycle Theft

A 1971 motorcycle owned by a Kentfield man was stolen yesterday from the front of a San Rafael home.

Clayton S. Anderson of 60 Bayview Street told police someone took the motorcycle, parked in front of 15 G Street, after 10:30 p.m.

A Shuttle Bus Service Is Proposed

A shuttle bus service for residents in outlying subdivisions has been proposed to the Rohnert Park Recreation and Parks Commission.

Recreation director James Pekkain said residents of Holiday Park and Country Manor subdivisions told the commission Monday they wuld rather have youngsters bused to large recreation programs in major parks rather than have small programs set at their neighborhood park.

Pekkain said the commission agreed a shuttle bus system might work best for the area.

The residents also generally approved of plans for a neighborhood park which would include a recreation center, baseball diamond, tot lot and landscaping. Several suggested that shuffleboard and horseshoes be added.

Pekkain said the commission would meet again with the residents on March 26 at 7:30 p.m. in city hall to hear suggestions for a park name and for summer activities.

DELAY

sors' action could push the project at least back to 1978, or 1979.

San Francisco has no legal control over the project, but the state's policy is not to build such projects without local approval, a spokesman for the Division of Highways said.

He noted that the Metropolitan Transportation Commission also has a voice over the project, and could be expected to give a six-lane project too low a priority to be funded.

The Army may also object that a six-lane project would divert traffic through the Presidio of San Francisco, he said.

The supervisors' bitterly worded resolution warned the California Highway Commission that it "must accept responsibility" for "an incredibly calamitous harvest of death and destruction" if it fails to widen the viaduct's existing six lanes.

The resolution declared the highway commissioners may be personally criminally liable for further deaths on the roadway. Drivers on the roadway are "facing death each day," it said.

The supervisors also asked that the speed limit on the viaduct be cut from 45 to 35 miles an hour.

WATER

dation before a permit is issued. "If one or the other group says it is opposed to fluoridation, the state board will have to decide whether the organization's reasons are valid ones, then make a decision," he added.

The information officer said granting permits for fluoridation is "usually a very routine item. This is the first time the board has delayed its decision and asked for these opinions."

The matter may be considered again at the state board's next regular meeting on May 25 or it could be taken up again at a special meeting of the board, scheduled for April 25.

Seeger said he intends to ask his district board today for permission to proceed with plans for fluroridation "but I don't know how far I'll get." A call for bids for equipment needed to start the process was to be considered by the water district board today.

Although district voters approved fluoridation of the water supply in November, the bitter controversy which was evident during the campaign has not abated.

Opponents of the measure asked the district board not to implement the program until it has completed an environmental impact study on the process.

The board tentatively agreed to the impact study in January, then changed its mind last month.

RECORDS

doctors to release their records. The waivers are so broadly worded that they amount to a lifelong release of such information to virtually anyone with access to the data bank.

The threat to privacy posed by the practice was pointed out yesterday by the new president of the California Medical Association. Dr. Thomas Elmendorf of Willows warned the problem extends to government health care programs, which are demanding increasingly detailed reports on patients.

There is no guarantee that such reports will not be shared with outsiders, he said. Doctors are under strong pressures from governmental medical agencies, lawyers and insurance firms to disclose information on their patients that should be kept private, he said.

"There's a very real danger here for everyone," he said.

His fears also were reflected in objections yesterday by CMA's House of Delegates. Meeting in Anaheim, it assailed "unethical requirements" by insurance companies forcing doctors to reveal confidential information about their patients.

Behr's bill, worked out with the CMA, would limit sharply the release of medical information for employment, insurance, medical benefits claims or workmen's compensation benefits. It would restrict the release to information for the specific use and apply only to information before the release is signed.

The organization given a waiver would be barred from sharing the information with anyone else. Violations would be subject to general, special and exemplary damages.

(An Orange County Superior Court jury recently awarded $212,000 to a Farmer's Insurance policyholder who sued because the company shared his medical records with another insurance company.)

case in which the only cluewas a tiny, bloody abrasion at the hairline on the victim's head. The investigator was told this resulted when the victim collapsed and struck his head in falling.

The autopsy uncovered a bullet wound in the brain that caused the death. "We thought for a little while we had a murder," Craig said.

In the reverse, Craig recalled another case in which a man shot himself, but actually died of a heart attack. It was not listed as a suicide.

The once-common coroner's inquest now is rare in Marin County, Craig reported. He could recall only four such inquests in the last six years.

Inquests may be requested by police, the district attorney, a judge or the dead person's family, usually to establish ususual causes of death such as justifiable homicide, Craig explained.

"An inquest establishes the cause of death and the manner of death but not culpability," he added. The inquest can subpoena witnesses, but they legally may refuse to testify.

Once the coroner has performed the autopsy, the body usually is released to the family for disposition through a licensed funeral director.

The coroner orders the body embalmed immediately in many cases, because the autopsy process hastens decomposition.

Craig urged that any family opposing embalming for religious or other reasons immediately to notify the coroner, if the death is a coroner's case.

If the body is a "John Doe" — unidentified — or isn't claimed by any relative, the coroner must arrange burial through the county Department of Public Social Services.

Such cases occur only 10 to 15 times a year.

The welfare agency has a special fund, inelegantly referred to among social workers as "instant burial", to provide simple, austere disposition for indigents.

The Potter's Field of yore — the graveyard near the old County Hospital in Lucas Valley — no longer is used.

Burials are in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, unless the investigation shows the deceased to be a Catholic, in which case Mount Olivet Cemetery is used, Craig said.

More than once, a coroner's aide has been the only person to accompany the deceased to the burial site, and to say a few words over the coffin, Craig reported.

The county welfare department also uses its burial fund — a general relief fund from property taxes — to help indigent families which cannot otherwise pay for burials

Betty L. Presley, director of public social services, said the limit is $350, part of which goes to the funeral director and part toward the cemetery plot. The welfare rules forbid the family from paying anything extra to procure a e lborate funeral, Miss Presley said.

However, if the family already has space in a cemetery, perhaps in another county, the Marin fund will devote the full $350 to the funeral, she noted. The county burial fund wll not provide a grave marker.

The county-sponsored burials are divided among the county's funeral directors on a rotating basis. Some of the funeral directors have said privately that the welfare case burials often are fraught with more emotional conflict as to details than the services they perform for families with more means.

where he climbed on unassisted.

Also on one of the returning planes was Capt. William W. Butler of San Rafael, who had been held captive since November 1967.

Most of the men appeared to be in good physical condition although thin and pale. The two exceptions were McCain, who was shot down on Oct. 26, 1967, and Air Force Capt. Hubert C. Walker, 31, of Tulsa, Okla.. Walker, moving very slowly under his own power, was escorted off the plane by a medic.

The senior man on board the third C141, Air Force Col. David W. Winn, chose to step off his plane in the flight coveralls worn by American pilots instead of the blue outfits given the other POWs by the North Vietnamese.

"You brought us home with honor and we hope to serve you well," Winn said. "To borrow from Keats, freedom is happiness and happiness is freedom. That is all we need to know and it's all we know today."

FAIR

continued. "We would not be wisely budgeting our money if the grounds are developed for a five-day fair only."

Wornum agreed and said to forego rapid completion of the fair site in favor of improvements at North Bay Front Park would leave the county with two half finished projects.

"The fair site is two-thirds done. . .Let's finish it," Wornum said, adding he envisioned a park setting for passive recreation, such as picnicking.

Chairman Arnold M. Baptiste agreed.

Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere protested, saying an "active park" such as the North Bay Front Park would better serve residents.

Delay in funding for the swim and tennis center was urged Monday by the county planning commission.

The commission, following the recommendation of Planning Director Werner von Gundell, said county investment in a tennis center might prove foolish in view of private commercial facilities now being planned.

The commission said swimming facilities should be located at a high school or college campus to provide greater use.

That recommendation drew support yesterday(from Winifred S. Frederick of the Irate Taxpayers of Marin, who said the North Bay Front Park, located on Gallinas Creek near Civic Center, would be difficult to serve with transit.

Elsewhere in the multimillion dollar capital improvements program, the board agreed to budget landscaping and paving of the parking lot at the Veterans Memorial Building next year.

The $288,500 project was recommended for fiscal 1974-75 but was moved up a year at the urging of Baptiste, who said the condition of the parking lot "is a shame."

In order to balance next year's expenditures at about $2.5 million, supervisors agreed to delay $215,000 worth of office space construction in the Hall of Justice.

That move stirred opposition from Supervisor Gary Giacomini who said opening vacant areas of the building should be a priority in next year's budget. To elimiante the $215,000 was foolish, he said, adding the figure should be increased to $645,000 to alleviate cramped conditions.

"We should look for more room for ourselves, too" he continued, saying his Civic Center office is not large enough.

partment was convinced that his death penalty proposals would be constitutional in spite of last year's Supreme Court decision outlawing most capital punishment laws on the grounds that they were arbitrary and capricious.

Without referring specifically to the fact that there had been no executions in the United States since 1967, the President said:

"The sharp reduction in the application of the death penalty was a component of the more permissive attitude toward crime in the last decade.

"At present, those who plan these crimes (kidnaping, hijacking and other federal offenses) do not have to include in their deliberations a possibility that they will be put to death for their deeds.

"I believe that in making their plans, they should have to consider the fact that if death results from their crime, they too may die."

The President's plan would establish a two-tier trial in which following conviction for a possible capital crime, a separate hearing would be held for a defendant to determine whether death should be the penalty.

The death penalty would be mandatory if the jury determined that the crime was aggravated by creation of grave risk to the national security or to the life of another person, or by the killing of another person, or by other aggravating factors and was not reduced by a mitigating factor.

The death sentence would be prohibited if the jury found the existence of one or more mitigating factors such as youth of the defendant, mental incapacity or the commission of the crime under duress.

Owner Reports Motorcycle Theft

A 1971 motorcycle owned by a Kentfield man was stolen yesterday from the front of a San Rafael home.

Clayton S. Anderson of 60 Bayview Street told police someone took the motorcycle, parked in front of 15 G Street, after 10:30 p.m.

A Shuttle Bus Service Is Proposed

A shuttle bus service for residents in outlying subdivisions has been proposed to the Rohnert Park Recreation and Parks Commission.

Recreation director James Pekkain said residents of Holiday Park and Country Manor subdivisions told the commission Monday they wuld rather have youngsters bused to large recreation programs in major parks rather than have small programs set at their neighborhood park.

Pekkain said the commission agreed a shuttle bus system might work best for the area.

The residents also generally approved of plans for a neighborhood park which would include a recreation center, baseball diamond, tot lot and landscaping. Several suggested that shuffleboard and horseshoes be added.

Pekkain said the commission would meet again with the residents on March 26 at 7:30 p.m. in city hall to hear suggestions for a park name and for summer activities.

DELAY

sors' action could push the project at least back to 1978, or 1979.

San Francisco has no legal control over the project, but the state's policy is not to build such projects without local approval, a spokesman for the Division of Highways said.

He noted that the Metropolitan Transportation Commission also has a voice over the project, and could be expected to give a six-lane project too low a priority to be funded.

The Army may also object that a six-lane project would divert traffic through the Presidio of San Francisco, he said.

The supervisors' bitterly worded resolution warned the California Highway Commission that it "must accept responsibility" for "an incredibly calamitous harvest of death and destruction" if it fails to widen the viaduct's existing six lanes.

The resolution declared the highway commissioners may be personally criminally liable for further deaths on the roadway. Drivers on the roadway are "facing death each day," it said.

The supervisors also asked that the speed limit on the viaduct be cut from 45 to 35 miles an hour.

dation before a permit is issued. "If one or the other group says it is opposed to fluoridation, the state board will have to decide whether the organization's reasons are valid ones, then make a decision," he added.

The information officer said granting permits for fluoridation is "usually a very routine item. This is the first time the board has delayed its decision and asked for these opinions."

The matter may be considered again at the state board's next regular meeting on May 25 or it could be taken up again at a special meeting of the board, scheduled for April 25.

Seeger said he intends to ask his district board today for permission to proceed with plans for fluroridation "but I don't know how far I'll get." A call for bids for equipment needed to start the process was to be considered by the water district board today.

Although district voters approved fluoridation of the water supply in November, the bitter controversy which was evident during the campaign has not abated.

Opponents of the measure asked the district board not to implement the program until it has completed an environmental impact study on the process.

The board tentatively agreed to the impact study in January, then changed its mind last month.

RECORDS

doctors to release their records. The waivers are so broadly worded that they amount to a lifelong release of such information to virtually anyone with access to the data bank.

The threat to privacy posed by the practice was pointed out yesterday by the new president of the California Medical Association. Dr. Thomas Elmendorf of Willows warned the problem extends to government health care programs, which are demanding increasingly detailed reports on patients.

There is no guarantee that such reports will not be shared with outsiders, he said. Doctors are under strong pressures from governmental medical agencies, lawyers and insurance firms to disclose information on their patients that should be kept private, he said.

"There's a very real danger here for everyone," he said.

His fears also were reflected in objections yesterday by CMA's House of Delegates. Meeting in Anaheim, it assailed "unethical requirements" by insurance companies forcing doctors to reveal confidential information about their patients.

Behr's bill, worked out with the CMA, would limit sharply the release of medical information for employment, insurance, medical benefits claims or workmen's compensation benefits. It would restrict the release to information for the specific use and apply only to information before the release is signed.

The organization given a waiver would be barred from sharing the information with anyone else. Violations would be subject to general, special and exemplary damages.

(An Orange County Superior Court jury recently awarded $212,000 to a Farmer's Insurance policyholder who sued because the company shared his medical records with another insurance company.)

In order to balance next year's expenditures at about $2.5 million, supervisors agreed to delay $215,000 worth of office space construction in the Hall of Justice.

That move stirred opposition from Supervisor Gary Giacomini who said opening vacant areas of the building should be a priority in next year's budget. To elimiante the $215,000 was foolish, he said, adding the figure should be increased to $645,000 to alleviate cramped conditions.

"We should look for more room for ourselves, too" he continued, saying his Civic Center office is not large enough.

partment was convinced that his death penalty proposals would be constitutional in spite of last year's Supreme Court decision outlawing most capital punishment laws on the grounds that they were arbitrary and capricious.

Without referring specifically to the fact that there had been no executions in the United States since 1967, the President said:

"The sharp reduction in the application of the death penalty was a component of the more permissive attitude toward crime in the last decade.

"At present, those who plan these crimes (kidnaping, hijacking and other federal offenses) do not have to include in their deliberations a possibility that they will be put to death for their deeds.

"I believe that in making their plans, they should have to consider the fact that if death results from their crime, they too may die."

The President's plan would establish a two-tier trial in which following conviction for a possible capital crime, a separate hearing would be held for a defendant to determine whether death should be the penalty.

The death penalty would be mandatory if the jury determined that the crime was aggravated by creation of grave risk to the national security or to the life of another person, or by the killing of another person, or by other aggravating factors and was not reduced by a mitigating factor.

The death sentence would be prohibited if the jury found the existence of one or more mitigating factors such as youth of the defendant, mental incapacity or the commission of the crime under duress.

Owner Reports Motorcycle Theft

A 1971 motorcycle owned by a Kentfield man was stolen yesterday from the front of a San Rafael home.

Clayton S. Anderson of 60 Bayview Street told police someone took the motorcycle, parked in front of 15 G Street, after 10:30 p.m.

A Shuttle Bus Service Is Proposed

A shuttle bus service for residents in outlying subdivisions has been proposed to the Rohnert Park Recreation and Parks Commission.

Recreation director James Pekkain said residents of Holiday Park and Country Manor subdivisions told the commission Monday they wuld rather have youngsters bused to large recreation programs in major parks rather than have small programs set at their neighborhood park.

Pekkain said the commission agreed a shuttle bus system might work best for the area.

The residents also generally approved of plans for a neighborhood park which would include a recreation center, baseball diamond, tot lot and landscaping. Several suggested that shuffleboard and horseshoes be added.

Pekkain said the commission would meet again with the residents on March 26 at 7:30 p.m. in city hall to hear suggestions for a park name and for summer activities.

DELAY

sors' action could push the project at least back to 1978, or 1979.

San Francisco has no legal control over the project, but the state's policy is not to build such projects without local approval, a spokesman for the Division of Highways said.

He noted that the Metropolitan Transportation Commission also has a voice over the project, and could be expected to give a six-lane project too low a priority to be funded.

The Army may also object that a six-lane project would divert traffic through the Presidio of San Francisco, he said.

The supervisors' bitterly worded resolution warned the California Highway Commission that it "must accept responsibility" for "an incredibly calamitous harvest of death and destruction" if it fails to widen the viaduct's existing six lanes.

The resolution declared the highway commissioners may be personally criminally liable for further deaths on the roadway. Drivers on the roadway are "facing death each day," it said.

The supervisors also asked that the speed limit on the viaduct be cut from 45 to 35 miles an hour.

dation before a permit is issued. "If one or the other group says it is opposed to fluoridation, the state board will have to decide whether the organization's reasons are valid ones, then make a decision," he added.

The information officer said granting permits for fluoridation is "usually a very routine item. This is the first time the board has delayed its decision and asked for these opinions."

The matter may be considered again at the state board's next regular meeting on May 25 or it could be taken up again at a special meeting of the board, scheduled for April 25.

Seeger said he intends to ask his district board today for permission to proceed with plans for fluroridation "but I don't know how far I'll get." A call for bids for equipment needed to start the process was to be considered by the water district board today.

Although district voters approved fluoridation of the water supply in November, the bitter controversy which was evident during the campaign has not abated.

Opponents of the measure asked the district board not to implement the program until it has completed an environmental impact study on the process.

The board tentatively agreed to the impact study in January, then changed its mind last month.

RECORDS

doctors to release their records. The waivers are so broadly worded that they amount to a lifelong release of such information to virtually anyone with access to the data bank.

The threat to privacy posed by the practice was pointed out yesterday by the new president of the California Medical Association. Dr. Thomas Elmendorf of Willows warned the problem extends to government health care programs, which are demanding increasingly detailed reports on patients.

There is no guarantee that such reports will not be shared with outsiders, he said. Doctors are under strong pressures from governmental medical agencies, lawyers and insurance firms to disclose information on their patients that should be kept private, he said.

"There's a very real danger here for everyone," he said.

His fears also were reflected in objections yesterday by CMA's House of Delegates. Meeting in Anaheim, it assailed "unethical requirements" by insurance companies forcing doctors to reveal confidential information about their patients.

Behr's bill, worked out with the CMA, would limit sharply the release of medical information for employment, insurance, medical benefits claims or workmen's compensation benefits. It would restrict the release to information for the specific use and apply only to information before the release is signed.

The organization given a waiver would be barred from sharing the information with anyone else. Violations would be subject to general, special and exemplary damages.

310 Apartment Units Given Approval Of Novato Council

The Novato City Council was in an apartment building mood last night, granting approval to 310 units in two developments.

Acting on an appeal from planning commission denial; it approved precise development plans for 224 units in San Marin for Kaufman and Broad Inc. with a condition that one of two proposed tennis courts be eliminated to give more space between the eight-unit apartment buildings.

The vote was 4-1 with Mayor F. Wayne Sartain against.

The council, again overturning commission denial, unanimously approved the master plan of 86 apartments in two five-story buildings on approximately 2.25 acres east of Diablo Avenue and south of Warner Creek for Urban Dynamics.

Planning Director Brian W. Mattson said the flood control district now requires that buildings be at least 21 feet above sea level, and he voted that Diablo Avenue is only 14 feet above sea level.

Councilman George C. Quesada said that forcing a builder to elevate the first floor of a building seven feet higher than the street was unreasonable. He said that "some compromise with the flood control district should be possible."

The Novato City Council also:

PREZONING — Prezoned 66 acres on the north side of Olive Avenue east of the Novato city limits to a planned residential zone which will allow 73 units on the property owned by Woodlands Co.

ELECTIONS — Received a request from George H. Gnoss, county clerk, that all cities charge the same fee for filing for the city council. He said the maximum is $25. The council referred the matter to the Marin County Council of Mayors and Councilmen.

TRAFFIC — Authorized a no-parking zone on the east side of Lynwood Drive from Sunset Parkway to Lynwood School and a four-way stop sign at Grant Avenue and Seventh Street. Seventh Street has been a stop at Grant.

SALARY — Set the salary for the administrative assistant in the finance department at a four-step range from $854 to $988 per month.

LAND — Rejected an offer from Caroln Heustis to sell 1.25 acres of steep hillside adjacent to the freeway bypass for $1,000. The city offered $500, which was refused.

Stop Light Is Approved At Novato Intersection

A stop light will replace the four-way stop signs that tie up rush hour traffic at south Novato Boulevard and Sunset Parkway, the Novato City Council decreed last night.

The light will flash red for a four-way stop except during the morning and evening rush hours, when it will alternate between green for two minutes on South Novato Boulevard and 20 seconds on Sunset Parkway.

It will be a temporary light, suspended from a cable in the middle of the intersection, rented for $3,000 to $5,000 for approximately 16 months until the completion of the freeway bypass, according to Clifford E. Temps, public works director.

The vote was three in favor, with Councilman David Price Jones against and councilman George C. Quesada abstaining.

Presidents of the Lynwood Park, Forrest Park, and South Novato Homeowners Associations had favored the original four-way stop signs as necessary to protect Lynwood School pupils.

The four-way stop signs were opposed by residents along Cambridge and other streets, which motorists use during the rush hour to avoid the delay in the signs. They had petitions with 251 signatures against the sign.

Both groups applauded the compromise light agreed to last night.

The Great Salt Lake is about 15 miles west of Utah's capital, Salt Lake City.

Americans Are Fighting Battle Of The Budget

By PETER TONGE
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

Eat hamburger instead of steak . . . fix that leaky faucet yourself . . . Grow your own vegetables . . . ride a bicycle to work, or walk . . . wear clothes out instead of following fashion . . . pay cash and don't let credit cards run up bills . . . don't buy convenience foods, such as TV dinners . . .

That's what many Americans are doing as they try to beat the high cost of living — a cost that is beginning to change U.S. living habits, a Monitor survey shows.

Monitor bureaus report many people are reaching back 30 years and more for the more frugal approaches their parents and grandparents adopted as a matter of course. In the past five years the consumer price index has risen 27.7 per cent for all items (as of January, 1973).

Says one businessman: "I had the good fortune to grow up during the great depression. The (economizing) ideas my family learned then7coming in handy now."

Economizing, if not exactly enjoyable, is not all that difficult, many are finding. To some the frustrations of making ends meet is even being replaced by the challenge of it all; ingenuity has become the name of the game.

Lesson No. 1, he says, is to pay cash for everything other than water, electricity, etc. That way you don't run into debt. What you cannot afford you simply do not buy. You never make an unnecessary purchase.

One working woman disciplines her buying habits. She makes a list of everything she needs before going out to shop. "This keeps me from buying on impulse," she says. "I go through the supermarket in about three minutes flat. I don't have time to let an attractive wrapping or label lure me into buying."

She is a one-at-a-time buyer, too. "I never replace the cornflakes," she says, "until the box on the pantry shelf is empty."

Another approach: Keep a simple record of all purchases and expenditures. Enter them each day in a notebook.

Says a Boston housewife, who well recalls the rough times of the '30's: "We could never have done without it (the bookkeeping record) during the depression. If things got worse, our little book told us where we should trim some more. If we got a few extra dollars it told us where best to spend them."

She follows the money-in-the-bottle technique. The labels on the screw-top jars read: Food, gas, clothing, entertainment. When a jar is empty, no more is spent on that particular commodity until next pay day comes around.

A Washington, D.C., woman found she cut back considerably on grocery costs by working out the menu for every meal for the week. Only then did she go shopping — for just the items she needed.

An idea like this quickly spreads. Now many housewives in the neighborhood follow the same practice.

Says a Los Angeles housewife: "I try never to go shopping when I'm hungry."

Many mothers and housewives are making their own breads and cereals, including the wife of a supermarket manager who says her husband comes home to "economy-oriented meals."

A Washington family was invited out to a steak dinner party a few months ago, then was invited back for another dinner party a week ago. On the menu this time: Crepes suzette (homemade of course) with hamburger filling. It was different, delectable, affordable and "we had just as much fun," the family says.

Hamburger meat, in fact, is replacing more expensive cuts time and again in households around the country. Serve it, says a home economist, "with a little imagination, and they'll all come back for more."

One Monitor staffer reports another, more exotic, cost-cutter: Green rice casserole. It's a "combination of spinach, brown rice, cheese, and a smorgasbord of spices;" bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Even the children love it.

Chicken is as popular as it is cheap, reports show. People are buying it whole rather than cut up. Savings vary from 4 cents to 8 cents a pound.

A shipyard rigger in Boston, with hands as tough as the steel he works with, makes his own household repairs, from fixing the washing machine to putting on a new roof. In a little over 20 years he's parlayed a $10,000 cottage into a sizeable, attractive house now pushing $35,000 on the open market. Recently he modernized his bathroom — new tiling, tub, shower, and other fixtures — at a tidy saving of around $1,000.

"Do it yourself; it's the only way," he counseled while showing how to go about paneling a basement.

A Weymouth, Mass., couple tackled the cost of home decorating by doing it themselves. "You develop the ability by doing it," the husband says.

Increasingly, schools and community colleges are offering night courses aimed at turning Mr. "bungle it yourself" Averageman into Mr. Handyman. They are not costly; the savings over the years can reach remarkable proportions. Courses range from carpentry, appliance servicing, through auto repair, wrought-iron work, and upholstery, to cooking and others.

Women apparently are edging into the auto-repair classes.

Home sewing has come into its own. According to the makers of dress patterns a home-sewn dress is one third the cost of its shop-bought equivalent.

One of the many vegetable seed catalogs put out this year says: "Grow your own vegetables. Save $200 to $300 a year." This writer has a relatively small garden that last year produced roughly $100 worth of tomatoes at market price. He never bothered to attach a figure to the beans, onions, carrots, beets, and squash he harvested.

With a little thought and some inconvenience, the survey shows, there's no end of ways to stretch the dollar.

Mrs. Hearst Loses $12,500 Diamond

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Police said Tuesday that Mrs. Randolph A. Hearst, wife of the chairman of the board of the Hearst Corp., reported losing a $12,500 diamond ring in January.

Mrs. Hearst wrote from San Francisco, saying the ring apparently was lost when she was removing her gloves in front of the Biltmore Hotel, police said.

Wallace Treated By Acupuncture

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Gov. George Wallace's office said Tuesday the first acupuncture treatment has caused "no noticeable difference" in the governor's crippled and painful condition.

But Billy Joe Camp, Wallace's news secretary, said further acupuncture treatments are planned on Wallace.

Americans Are Fighting Battle Of The Budget

By PETER TONGE
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

Eat hamburger instead of steak . . . fix that leaky faucet yourself . . . Grow your own vegetables . . . ride a bicycle to work, or walk . . . wear clothes out instead of following fashion . . . pay cash and don't let credit cards run up bills . . . don't buy convenience foods, such as TV dinners . . .

That's what many Americans are doing as they try to beat the high cost of living — a cost that is beginning to change U.S. living habits, a Monitor survey shows.

Monitor bureaus report many people are reaching back 30 years and more for the more frugal approaches their parents and grandparents adopted as a matter of course. In the past five years the consumer price index has risen 27.7 per cent for all items (as of January, 1973).

Says one businessman: "I had the good fortune to grow up during the great depression. The (economizing) ideas my family learned then7coming in handy now."

Economizing, if not exactly enjoyable, is not all that difficult, many are finding. To some the frustrations of making ends meet is even being replaced by the challenge of it all; ingenuity has become the name of the game.

Lesson No. 1, he says, is to pay cash for everything other than water, electricity, etc. That way you don't run into debt. What you cannot afford you simply do not buy. You never make an unnecessary purchase.

One working woman disciplines her buying habits. She makes a list of everything she needs before going out to shop. "This keeps me from buying on impulse," she says. "I go through the supermarket in about three minutes flat. I don't have time to let an attractive wrapping or label lure me into buying."

She is a one-at-a-time buyer, too. "I never replace the cornflakes," she says, "until the box on the pantry shelf is empty."

Another approach: Keep a simple record of all purchases and expenditures. Enter them each day in a notebook.

Says a Boston housewife, who well recalls the rough times of the '30's: "We could never have done without it (the bookkeeping record) during the depression. If things got worse, our little book told us where we should trim some more. If we got a few extra dollars it told us where best to spend them."

She follows the money-in-the-bottle technique. The labels on the screw-top jars read: Food, gas, clothing, entertainment. When a jar is empty, no more is spent on that particular commodity until next pay day comes around.

A Washington, D.C., woman found she cut back considerably on grocery costs by working out the menu for every meal for the week. Only then did she go shopping — for just the items she needed.

An idea like this quickly spreads. Now many housewives in the neighborhood follow the same practice.

Says a Los Angeles housewife: "I try never to go shopping when I'm hungry."

Many mothers and housewives are making their own breads and cereals, including the wife of a supermarket manager who says her husband comes home to "economy-oriented meals."

A Washington family was invited out to a steak dinner party a few months ago, then was invited back for another dinner party a week ago. On the menu this time: Crepes suzette (homemade of course) with hamburger filling. It was different, delectable, affordable and "we had just as much fun," the family says.

Hamburger meat, in fact, is replacing more expensive cuts time and again in households around the country. Serve it, says a home economist, "with a little imagination, and they'll all come back for more."

One Monitor staffer reports another, more exotic, cost-cutter: Green rice casserole. It's a "combination of spinach, brown rice, cheese, and a smorgasbord of spices;" bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Even the children love it.

Chicken is as popular as it is cheap, reports show. People are buying it whole rather than cut up. Savings vary from 4 cents to 8 cents a pound.

A shipyard rigger in Boston, with hands as tough as the steel he works with, makes his own household repairs, from fixing the washing machine to putting on a new roof. In a little over 20 years he's parlayed a $10,000 cottage into a sizeable, attractive house now pushing $35,000 on the open market. Recently he modernized his bathroom — new tiling, tub, shower, and other fixtures — at a tidy saving of around $1,000.

"Do it yourself; it's the only way," he counseled while showing how to go about paneling a basement.

A Weymouth, Mass., couple tackled the cost of home decorating by doing it themselves. "You develop the ability by doing it," the husband says.

Increasingly, schools and community colleges are offering night courses aimed at turning Mr. "bungle it yourself" Averageman into Mr. Handyman. They are not costly; the savings over the years can reach remarkable proportions. Courses range from carpentry, appliance servicing, through auto repair, wrought-iron work, and upholstery, to cooking and others.

Women apparently are edging into the auto-repair classes.

Home sewing has come into its own. According to the makers of dress patterns a homesewn dress is one third the cost of its shop-bought equivalent.

One of the many vegetable seed catalogs put out this year says: "Grow your own vegetables. Save $200 to $300 a year." This writer has a relatively small garden that last year produced roughly $100 worth of tomatoes at market price. He never bothered to attach a figure to the beans, onions, carrots, beets, and squash he harvested.

With a little thought and some inconvenience, the survey shows, there's no end of ways to stretch the dollar.

Mrs. Hearst Loses $12,500 Diamond

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Police said Tuesday that Mrs. Randolph A. Hearst, wife of the chairman of the board of the Hearst Corp., reported losing a $12,500 diamond ring in January.

Mrs. Hearst wrote from San Francisco, saying the ring apparently was lost when she was removing her gloves in front of the Biltmore Hotel, police said.

Wallace Treated By Acupuncture

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Gov. George Wallace's office said Tuesday the first acupuncture treatment has caused "no noticeable difference" in the governor's crippled and painful condition.

But Billy Joe Camp, Wallace's news secretary, said further acupuncture treatments are planned on Wallace.

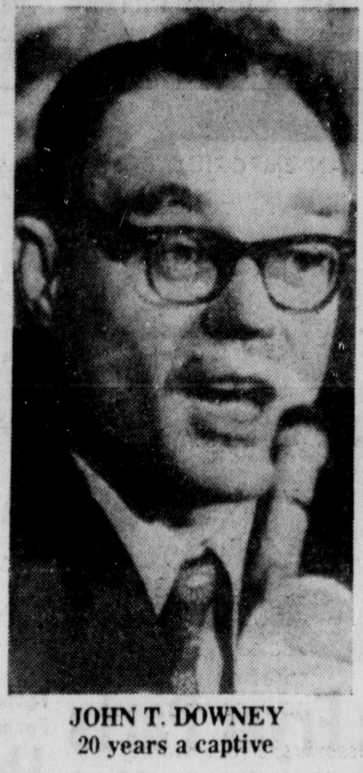
Spy Eyes Return To Normal Life



JOHN T. DOWNEY
20 years a captive

NEW BRITAIN, Conn. (UPI) — With the ordeal of 20 years in a Chinese prison behind him, Korean War spy John T. Downey today began the trip back into the mainstream of American life.

Asked by newsmen if he planned a book about his experiences, he said:

"If you want to put 500 blank pages together, that would be the book."

His mother, Mrs. Mary V. Downey, 75, who started the rapid-fire diplomatic exchange that led to her son's release, was still in critical condition at New Britain General Hospital.

Doctors said her condition, the result of a stroke suffered a week ago, was "very stable," and it was expected that she would remain on the critical list "for some time."

Downey said Tuesday his 20 years behind bars were a waste, "I don't see that it benefited anybody...I wouldn't recommend it for any character building or anything like that."

He admitted that under pressure he told his captors everything he knew.

But the U.S. Department of Defense had no immediate comment on what value Downey's information might have had for the Chinese, who captured him and Richard Fecteau of Lynn, Mass., in 1952.

Downey, who said he was never tortured or beaten while in confinement, is expected to get 20 years of accumulated back pay along with promotions. But he said he doesn't expect to stay with the Central Intelligence Agency which he joined as a college graduate in 1951.

Prison life was a "crashing bore," he said. But "you live from day to day... you would be surprised how much time is taken up by the most picayune tasks,"

Downey said it all has "dropped off me like a coat. I just don't mean to sound like I'm putting you on. It's over, done with. I just feel great."

He was asked if he would do it again.

"No, sir," he replied. "not if I knew the outcome. I doubt many people would..."

Amtrak Is Ordered To Cut Routes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government has decided that only four Amtrak passenger trains should be cut this year and that Amtrak should be given another two years to see if it can make a success of the rest of its system.

The Department of Transportation report on Amtrak to go to Congress Thursday, means that massive cutbacks will not take place as many had feared on July 1 when Amtrak is no longer required by law to continue service on all its original routes.

The recommended service cuts, which are not binding on Amtrak, are:

The Chicago-Florida Floridian, which runs from Chicago through Indianapolis, Louisville, Nashville, Birmingham, Montgomery and Jacksonville, Fla., to Miami and St. Petersburg. 'Chicago-Florida service would then be provided on other existing trains via Richmond, Va.

The New York-Kansas City National Limited, which runs from New York through North Philadelphia, Harrisburg, Pa., Pittsburgh, Columbus, Dayton, Indianapolis and St. Louis to Kansas City.

The Richmond-Newport News, Va. portion of the Chicago-Newport News train, leaving the train running Chicago-Richmond.

The Washington-Parkersburg, W.Va., train, often called the "Harley Staggers Special" or "Harley's Hornet," because House Commerce Committee chairman Harle Staggers, DW.Va., forced Amtrak to put the run on.

C5A Cargo Plane's Cost: $62 Million

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A General Accounting Office (GAO) report said today that the cost of the huge C5A cargo plane has soared to $62 million apiece, the program is two years behind schedule and still operationally not ready.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said in a statement that the GAO report "shows that although the program is almost completed costs are continuing to increase and can be expected to increase further.

"The new increases are due mainly to the cost of correcting the many deficiencies discovered in the C5A."

The total estimated cost of the program is now $4.9 billion compared to the original estimate in 1965 of $3.4 billion. In addition, the number of planes procured was cut from 120 to 81 but two have already been destroyed in accidents.

Proxmire said "the deficiencies in the aircraft have been so significant that serious limitations have had to be placed on the operation of the C5A and it is now estimated that several important operational requirements may never be met.

"The plane is not now capable of flying at low levels or operating from support area fields," he added.

The Pentagon replied bitterly to Proxmire's charges saying the senator "quotes selected portions of the GAO report and excludes those additional portions which indicate that the C5 is performing and improving in the job it was designed to do."

Although Proxmire quoted the report as saying the C5 was able to fly only 42 per cent of the time in the 12 months that ended last June 30, he "omitted the next GAO sentence indicating that that rate had improved to 53.9 per cent. The Air Force expects continued improvement," the Pentagon said.

It said Proxmire was correct that the last C5A would be delivered three months late but added the reason was a strike at the Avco Corp. which delayed shipments of parts.

ONE-WAY STREET CONVERSION

These four side streets in downtown San Rafael — A, B, C and D streets — will be converted to one-way streets on April 1, according to Norris M. Rawles, director of public works. A Street will become one-way northbound from Second Street to Fifth Avenue and C Street one-way northbound from First Street to Fifth Avenue. B Street will become one-way southbound from Fifth Avenue to Second Street, and D Street one-way southbound from Fifth Avenue to First Street.

52 School Workers Get Pay Increases

The Marin County Schools Personnel Commission has reclassified the positions of bus driver and children's center pre-school aide, to move 52 employees 5 per cent up the salary scale.

Thomas Lowry, county schools classified personnel director, said the commission announced the job reclassification at its meeting Monday night. Estimated cost of the move for 33 bus drivers and 19 aides would be approximately $19,000 annually, he said.

The reclassification decision will be reviewed by the Marin County Board of Education, which is already faced with salary increase requests for 1973-74 from teachers and classified personnel ranging from 12 per cent, 10 per cent and 7.5 per cent.

Lowry reported the commission agreed with his recommendation that employees whose work day starts after 3 p.m. should be paid shift differentials, and recommended approval by the board.

The commission also recommended the board consider an across-the-board general increase to schools classified employees, although not suggesting a figure, noting the "erosion of purchasing power of the dollar" said Lowry.

Filings Opened For School Seat

Candidacy filing in the June 5 special election for the Old Adobe School District board, Petaluma, opened yesterday.

The election will fill the seat left vacant last month when Caleton Reinaldo resigned. Filing will close April 6 at 5 p.m.

Nomination papers may be obtained at the Sonoma County Board of Elections office in Santa Rosa.

Candidate's Night Will Be Discussed

The San Rafael Town Meeting Association board will discuss plans for a candidate's night featuring candidates for election to the San Rafael City Council when it meets today at 7:30 p.m. in the San Rafael High School cafeteria.

The association has sechduled the night for 8 p.m. April 11 in city hall, according to Dorothy Breiner, association publicist.

Student Ordered To Stand Trial

A Marin Municipal Court judge yesterday ruled there is enough evidence to try a College of Marin student on a felony charge of breaking into a doctor's office in Corte Madera.

Judge Gary W. Thomas then ordered Paul Fredrick Mehrten, 23, of San Rafael, to appear in Superior Court for a pretrial appearance March 21.

Mehrten was arrested March 5 by Corte Madera officer that responded to a silent alarm in the office of Dr. Harold D. Lyons, 81 Casa Buena Drive. Mehrtens emerged from the office with his hands up when police ordered him out, according to the official report of the incident.

Wallace Extends Kennedy Invite

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Gov. George C. Wallace has invited Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., to share a speakers' platform with him at an Independence Day celebration in Decatur, Ala.

Billy Joe Camp, Wallace's news secretary, said the governor accepted an invitation to attend the event, called the Spirit of America Festival, and extended the invitation to Kennedy at the request of the festival committee.

The committee was awaiting an answer from Kennedy.

POW's Eye Surgery Is 'Painful'

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Air Force Capt. Lynn Guenther of Eugene says his most anxious moments as a prisoner of war were when he underwent eye surgery without sedation.

The surgery came about two weeks after he was shot down while flying a reconnaissance mission over the Ho Chi Minh Trail in Laos on Dec. 26, 1971. Guenther said he was told later by American doctors the surgery probably had saved the eye.

"My eye operation was a type of acupuncture, except I felt a great deal of it. In fact, I felt the whole thing," Guenther said.

"I was not under sedation of any sort when they sewed up my eye. It was a little painful. In fact, I don't think I'd want to go through that much pain again in any way.

"I had a little Vietnamese guard that went with me and when I went in there he said, 'You will have much pain but you must try to suffer quietly and not scream too loud.'

"He says, 'Hold my hand and squeeze when it becomes too painful,' and his hand was white by the time I finished.

"They inserted a needle in the top of my eye and back into the base of the skull to hold the eye still.

"They put in — I believe, if I counted right — seven stitches in my eye and then they also injected some fluid into it.

"The whole operation took, I guess, about 20 minutes but I was damn glad when it was over . . . It was an experience I wouldn't want to go over again."

Tree Lack Ends Lumber Business

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — The Seattle Cedar Lumber Co., once the largest cedar lumber mill operation in the world, no longer has enough trees to continue business.

When the company was founded 74 years ago there were ample supplies of old growth cedar on the Olympic Peninsula and the Cascade foothills. But those stands were not replanted.

Faced with the lack of trees, high log prices and tightening pollution laws, company president William M. Black started cutting back operations last fall. About half of Seattle Cedar's 200 employes were dismissed. The other half went Tuesday at the end of the day shift.

Some Hope Is Offered To Antipoverty Groups

The Marin County Board of Supervisors offered a flicker of hope yesterday to local groups caught in the federal squeeze on antipoverty funds. (Another supervisors story, page 6.)

At the suggestion of chairman Arnold M. Baptiste, supervisors agreed to consider using a portion of the county's $1.2 million revenue sharing grant to help the groups they deem worthwhile.

About 10 groups have applied for federal funding through Community Action Marin, the local arm of the Office of Economic Opportunity, but were told recently no money would be available because of federal cutbacks.

The groups, which include the Novato Human Needs Center and Marin City's Operation Give A Damn, among others, will be considered along with other county needs when the revenue sharing pie is cut in June.

However, supervisors made it clear they have no intention of funding Community Action Marin, since the county would take over the job of overseeing the programs, if funded.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors Also:

TRASNPORTATION — Received a progress report on new balanced transportation studies showing the amount of use various levels of intra-county bus transit would receive. The studies consider the level of usage of 100 to 350 buses on local streets. Specific figures and costs were not included but will be a part of a later report.

BOY SCOUTS — Deferred action on a request from the Marin Council of Boy Scouts of America that it be given free use of the county fairgrounds for a three-day camp out in June. The scouts offered in return to do free gardening work at Civic Center. The request was postponed to next Tuesday for staff review.

CONSUMER — Postponed to April 3 discussion of a proposed consumer protection program at the request of Silvia Seigel, who said her ad hoc committee on consumer protection needs another three weeks to develop its proposal.

SOLICITATION — Directed the county counsel's office to draft an amendment to the county's solicitation ordinance. The amendment, proposed by Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., would regulate telephone solicitation. The proposed amendment was prompted, he said, by a circus's recent overselling of tickets in Marin.

JUVENILE — Delayed for at least a month discussion of the children's treatment center at Juvenile Hall and a status report on the center from the county juvenile justice commission. Discussion was postponed until a report from another group is received.

REZONING — Rejected the request of Blanda Telander that her property near Tamalpais High School in Mill Valley be rezoned to allow six duplex units instead of four.

REPORT — Postponed for one week a report from the county administrator on an organization and position classification study of the district attorney's office. The study recommends reclassifying 10 secretaries to different positions and salaries.

ANNEXATIONS — Told the City of Tiburon it would support state legislation to require annexation of lands to cities before the land is developed.

MORATORIUM — On the advice of the county counsel's office, rejected a request from the City of San Anselmo that a building moratorium be imposed on unincorporated areas around the city.

STORM AFTERMATH — Approved transferring $20,000 from roads department reserves to repair storm-damaged roads not eligible for federal reimbursement. Approved spending $1,155.72 to repair storm-damaged pavement and drainage in the Marin Veterans Memorial Building parking lot. Instructed County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney to defend the county against a $220,000 lawsuit by Thomas D. Ripp over damage to drain facilities on his property at Summit Avenue and San Pedro Road. Hired Harding-Lawson Associates to do preliminary soils study and drainage planning to correct the major landslide on Upper Edgewood Road in Homestead Valley.

PARK PURCHASE — Approved spending $216,100 for three more parcels of the future North Bay Front Park totalling 143.24 acres, from Edward and Gordan K. Smith, from previously budgeted funds. The first parcel, 51.27 ac res, was bought last September.

HOLIDAYS — Voted 4-1 with Baptiste opposing, to close the board's agenda a day early — Thursday noon — when the following Monday is a county holiday. May 28, Sept. 3, Sept. 10 and Oct. 22 will be Monday holidays, County Administrator John F. Barrows reported.

REVENUE SHARING — Filed for discussion at budget time, a request from the county parks, recreation and open space commission for a portion of the county's budget sharing receipts, and a request from the Marinwood Community Services District for use of revenue sharing funds to improve fire protection at Juvenile Hall. Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere urged attention to the Marinwood request, saying the inadequate protection at the hall "scares the heck out of me."

POOL FENCES — Adopted amendments to the county's swimming pool fence ordinance exempting bodies of water in remote areas, or intended for use in boating or fishing, or less than 18 inches deep.

HOLLIS — Granted Virgil S. Hollis, county superintendent of schools, permission to travel to Great Britain June 21 through Aug. 25 to attend educational programs, at Hollis's own expense.

HEALTH BUILDING — Approved transferring $30,000 from reserves to speed planning and remodeling of the county public health building in San Rafael, expected to cost $135,000.

Talks Set By Five Citizens

Five San Rafael citizens active in civic affairs will address the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce when it meets at noon tomorrow at Lin Fa Gardens in the Northgate shopping center.

Speaking to the chamber will be Jerry Russom, open space; Mary Dekker, Marin Heritage; Steven Sachs, San Rafael Town Meeting; Tina Ferria, Save the San Pedro Peninsula, and Ann Batman, League of Woman Voters.

The chamber board of directors will also hear a financial report and review county postal service.

Supervisors Will Look At Tax Equity Structure

Marin County supervisors yesterday agreed to resurrect an old survey on the equity between taxes collected and public services rendered in the cities and unincorporated area of the county.

Mill Valley Mayor Jean S. Barnard asked the board for a breakdown of the cost of services provided by every county department to cities and unincorporated areas, compared to the property tax burden shared by residents of each. She was relaying a request approved by the Marin County Council of Mayors and Councilmen at its meeting last month.

Chairman Arnold M. Baptiste said there also should be a comparison of other revenues to the cities and the county. He argued that it was unreasonable for "San Rafael to get 40 per cent of the sales tax in the county" when so many of Northgate's customers come from other cities or unincorporated areas.

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. said, "It's my opinion personally that cities get the greater benefit" of funds budgeted by the supervisors.

County Administrator John F. Barrows and Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell recalled that a similar study was made by the city managers and administrators' association in the late 1960s.

"After it was all done, there were only a few shifts that could be made" under state law, Mitchell said.

Mrs. Barnard argued that not all county spending benefitted cities, even for such items as welfare payments to city residents.

"Welfare is a reverse benefit," she said. "I see no advantage to a city having a great many recipients of welfare."

Supervisor Michael Wornum opposed the proposed study as costly and time consuming. He said that the association of Bay Area Governments already is making a study of tax equity on a regional basis.

The board, however, agreed unanimously that the county administrator's staff should try to update the old survey.

Tax Shift Bill To Be Discussed

Trustees of the Nicasio School District will discuss the effect of the state's new tax shift-school finance legislation (SB 90) on the district when it meets at 7 p.m. today in Nicasio School.

Joseph Amato, director of business services for the county schools office, will speak to the board on the subject.

U.S. Officials Irked By Signs In Panama

PANAMA CITY (UPI) — U.S. officials expressed irritation today about two huge pro-Panama billboards erected prior to the opening of a special session of the U.N. Security Council, the first such meeting in Latin America.

One of the signs, almost four stories high, covers the facade of the national library building across the street from the building where the U.N. meetings will start Thursday.

The other sign, two blocks away and the same size, covers the front of the old railroad station in the heart of downtown.

Painted in red, white and blue and in the five official languages of the United Nations — Spanish, English, French, Russian and Chinese — the billboards feature excerpts from speeches by Panama strongman Omar Torrijos on U.S. occupation of the Canal Zone and current efforts to work out a new treaty.

The Canal Zone issue is behind Panama's successful bid to have the Security Council hold the special week-long meeting here. The official theme of the meeting is "maintaining and strengthening peace and international security in Latin America."

One of the billboard messages reads in part: "You may rest assured that in our negotiations with the United States of America you will always find us standing on our feet and never on our knees."

Earth fractures from the Mid-Atlantic Ridge cut across Iceland, National Geographic says. The spreading ridge adds nearly an inch a year to the island's width.

Moving Firms Slapped By PUC

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Public Utilities Commission has cracked down on household moving companies that underestimate costs for transporting goods.

The PUC Tuesday issued 10 interim orders, effective April 21, to regulate the some 600 moving firms in the state. The commission will later issue permanent rules.

The toughest rule for a mover which underestimates charges to get business would provide for license suspension or revocation. Company officials could be fined up to $500 and imprisoned for up to three months.

$300,000 Contributed By Nominee

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The price of Luxembourg like everything else, has gone up.

Back in 1948, Harry Truman named Mrs. Perle Mesta—Washington's famed "hostess with the mostest" —U.S. Minister to the tiny European duchy in gratitude for a $50,000 campaign contribution.

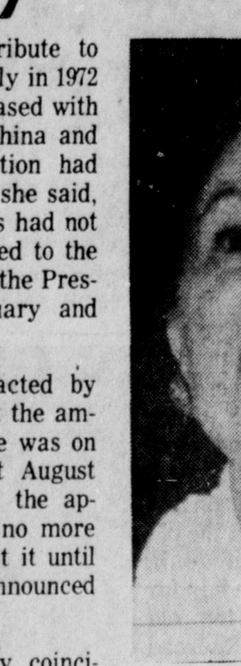
None of the ambassadors who followed were immortalized in hit musical comedies as was Mrs. Mesta in "Call Me Madam," but the post has traditionally been awarded to political contributors rather than career foreign service people.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee was expected to approve today the latest nominee, Dr. Ruth L. Farkas of New York, who topped them all with a donation to President Nixon of $300,000—at least half of which was donated after the election, and some of it after the inauguration.

Mrs. Farkas was asked about this during her confirmation hearing Tuesday.

She and her husband, George, had decided to contribute to Nixon's re-election early in 1972 because they were pleased with his decision to visit China and Russia. The contribution had been committed then, she said, but the final payments had not actually been forwarded to the Committee to Re-elect the President until late January and February of this year.

She had been contacted by the White House about the ambassadorship while she was on a trip to Europe last August and agreed to accept the appointment. She heard no more from Washington about it until the appointment was announced Feb. 27.



DR. RUTH L. FARKAS
Contacted in August

This, presumably by coincidence, was shortly after she and her husband had fulfilled their campaign pledge.

Sen. George Aiken, R-Vt., said he guessed large sums were easier to come by after Christmas was over.

"It wasn't Christmas, it was the stock market which was the problem," she replied.

Mrs. Farkas holds a doctor's degree in education, and submitted two full pages of private and public positions she has held in the business world and in the humanitarian fields. She and her husband own Alexander's, a New York City department store.

She said $300,000 is a lot of money, but only a fraction of the total she and her husband contribute annually to various causes.

The egg came before the chicken. Birds evolved from reptile stock that was laying eggs millions of years before the first prehistoric bird flew, the National Geographic Society says.

Some Hope Is Offered To Antipoverty Groups

The Marin County Board of Supervisors offered a flicker of hope yesterday to local groups caught in the federal squeeze on antipoverty funds. (Another supervisors story, page 6.)

At the suggestion of chairman Arnold M. Baptiste, supervisors agreed to consider using a portion of the county's $1.2 million revenue sharing grant to help the groups they deem worthwhile.

About 10 groups have applied for federal funding through Community Action Marin, the local arm of the Office of Economic Opportunity, but were told recently no money would be available because of federal cutbacks.

The groups, which include the Novato Human Needs Center and Marin City's Operation Give A Damn, among others, will be considered along with other county needs when the revenue sharing pie is cut in June.

However, supervisors made it clear they have no intention of funding Community Action Marin, since the county would take over the job of overseeing the programs, if funded.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors Also:

TRASNPORTATION — Received a progress report on new balanced transportation studies showing the amount of use various levels of intra-county bus transit would receive. The studies consider the level of usage of 100 to 350 buses on local streets. Specific figures and costs were not included but will be a part of a later report.

BOY SCOUTS — Deferred action on a request from the Marin Council of Boy Scouts of America that it be given free use of the county fairgrounds for a three-day camp out in June. The scouts offered in return to do free gardening work at Civic Center. The request was postponed to next Tuesday for staff review.

CONSUMER — Postponed to April 3 discussion of a proposed consumer protection program at the request of Silvia Seigel, who said her ad hoc committee on consumer protection needs another three weeks to develop its proposal.

SOLICITATION — Directed the county counsel's office to draft an amendment to the county's solicitation ordinance. The amendment, proposed by Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., would regulate telephone solicitation. The proposed amendment was prompted, he said, by a circus's recent overselling of tickets in Marin.

JUVENILE — Delayed for at least a month discussion of the children's treatment center at Juvenile Hall and a status report on the center from the county juvenile justice commission. Discussion was postponed until a report from another group is received.

REZONING — Rejected the request of Blanda Telander that her property near Tamalpais High School in Mill Valley be rezoned to allow six duplex units instead of four.

REPORT — Postponed for one week a report from the county administrator on an organization and position classification study of the district attorney's office. The study recommends reclassifying 10 secretaries to different positions and salaries.

ANNEXATIONS — Told the City of Tiburon it would support state legislation to require annexation of lands to cities before the land is developed.

MORATORIUM — On the advice of the county counsel's office, rejected a request from the City of San Anselmo that a building moratorium be imposed on unincorporated areas around the city.

STORM AFTERMATH — Approved transferring $20,000 from roads department reserves to repair storm-damaged roads not eligible for federal reimbursement. Approved spending $1,155.72 to repair storm-damaged pavement and drainage in the Marin Veterans Memorial Building parking lot. Instructed County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney to defend the county against a $220,000 lawsuit by Thomas D. Ripp over damage to drain facilities on his property at Summit Avenue and San Pedro Road. Hired Harding-Lawson Associates to do preliminary soils study and drainage planning to correct the major landslide on Upper Edgewood Road in Homestead Valley.

PARK PURCHASE — Approved spending $216,100 for three more parcels of the future North Bay Front Park totalling 143.24 acres, from Edward and Gordan K. Smith, from previously budgeted funds. The first parcel, 51.27 acres, was bought last September.

HOLIDAYS — Voted 4-1 with Baptiste opposing, to close the board's agenda a day early — Thursday noon — when the following Monday is a county holiday. May 28, Sept. 3, Sept. 10 and Oct. 22 will be Monday holidays, County Administrator John F. Barrows reported.

REVENUE SHARING — Filed for discussion at budget time, a request from the county parks, recreation and open space commission for a portion of the county's budget sharing receipts, and a request from the Marinwood Community Services District for use of revenue sharing funds to improve fire protection at Juvenile Hall. Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere urged attention to the Marinwood request, saying the inadequate protection at the hall "scares the heck out of me."

POOL FENCES — Adopted amendments to the county's swimming pool fence ordinance exempting bodies of water in remote areas, or intended for use in boating or fishing, or less than 18 inches deep.

HOLLIS — Granted Virgil S. Hollis, county superintendent of schools, permission to travel to Great Britain June 21 through Aug. 25 to attend educational programs, at Hollis's own expense.

HEALTH BUILDING — Approved transferring $30,000 from reserves to speed planning and remodeling of the county public health building in San Rafael, expected to cost $135,000.

Talks Set By Five Citizens

Five San Rafael citizens active in civic affairs will address the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce when it meets at noon tomorrow at Lin Fa Gardens in the Northgate shopping center.

Speaking to the chamber will be Jerry Russom, open space; Mary Dekker, Marin Heritage; Steven Sachs, San Rafael Town Meeting; Tina Ferria, Save the San Pedro Peninsula, and Ann Batman, League of Woman Voters.

The chamber board of directors will also hear a financial report and review county postal service.

Supervisors Will Look At Tax Equity Structure

Marin County supervisors yesterday agreed to resurrect an old survey on the equity between taxes collected and public services rendered in the cities and unincorporated area of the county.

Mill Valley Mayor Jean S. Barnard asked the board for a breakdown of the cost of services provided by every county department to cities and unincorporated areas, compared to the property tax burden shared by residents of each. She was relaying a request approved by the Marin County Council of Mayors and Councilmen at its meeting last month.

Chairman Arnold M. Baptiste said there also should be a comparison of other revenues to the cities and the county. He argued that it was unreasonable for "San Rafael to get 40 per cent of the sales tax in the county" when so many of Northgate's customers come from other cities or unincorporated areas.

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. said, "It's my opinion personally that cities get the greater benefit" of funds budgeted by the supervisors.

County Administrator John F. Barrows and Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell recalled that a similar study was made by the city managers and administrators' association in the late 1960s.

"After it was all done, there were only a few shifts that could be made" under state law, Mitchell said.

Mrs. Barnard argued that not all county spending benefitted cities, even for such items as welfare payments to city residents.

"Welfare is a reverse benefit," she said. "I see no advantage to a city having a great many recipients of welfare."

Supervisor Michael Wornum opposed the proposed study as costly and time consuming. He said that the association of Bay Area Governments already is making a study of tax equity on a regional basis.

The board, however, agreed unanimously that the county administrator's staff should try to update the old survey.

Tax Shift Bill To Be Discussed

Trustees of the Nicasio School District will discuss the effect of the state's new tax shift-school finance legislation (SB 90) on the district when it meets at 7 p.m. today in Nicasio School.

Joseph Amato, director of business services for the county schools office, will speak to the board on the subject.

U.S. Officials Irked By Signs In Panama

PANAMA CITY (UPI) — U.S. officials expressed irritation today about two huge pro-Panama billboards erected prior to the opening of a special session of the U.N. Security Council, the first such meeting in Latin America.

One of the signs, almost four stories high, covers the facade of the national library building across the street from the building where the U.N. meetings will start Thursday.

The other sign, two blocks away and the same size, covers the front of the old railroad station in the heart of downtown.

Painted in red, white and blue and in the five official languages of the United Nations — Spanish, English, French, Russian and Chinese — the billboards feature excerpts from speeches by Panama strongman Omar Torrijos on U.S. occupation of the Canal Zone and current efforts to work out a new treaty.

The Canal Zone issue is behind Panama's successful bid to have the Security Council hold the special week-long meeting here. The official theme of the meeting is "maintaining and strengthening peace and international security in Latin America."

One of the billboard messages reads in part: "You may rest assured that in our negotiations with the United States of America you will always find us standing on our feet and never on our knees."

Earth fractures from the Mid-Atlantic Ridge cut across Iceland, National Geographic says. The spreading ridge adds nearly an inch a year to the island's width.

Moving Firms Slapped By PUC

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Public Utilities Commission has cracked down on household moving companies that underestimate costs for transporting goods.

The PUC Tuesday issued 10 interim orders, effective April 21, to regulate the some 600 moving firms in the state. The commission will later issue permanent rules.

The toughest rule for a mover which underestimates charges to get business would provide for license suspension or revocation. Company officials could be fined up to $500 and imprisoned for up to three months.

$300,000 Contributed By Nominee

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The price of Luxembourg like everything else, has gone up.

Back in 1948, Harry Truman named Mrs. Perle Mesta—Washington's famed "hostess with the mostest" —U.S. Minister to the tiny European duchy in gratitude for a $50,000 campaign contribution.

None of the ambassadors who followed were immortalized in hit musical comedies as was Mrs. Mesta in "Call Me Madam," but the post has traditionally been awarded to political contributors rather than career foreign service people.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee was expected to approve today the latest nominee, Dr. Ruth L. Farkas of New York, who topped them all with a donation to President Nixon of $300,000—at least half of which was donated after the election, and some of it after the inauguration.

Mrs. Farkas was asked about this during her confirmation hearing Tuesday.

She and her husband, George, had decided to contribute to Nixon's re-election early in 1972 because they were pleased with his decision to visit China and Russia. The contribution had been committed then, she said, but the final payments had not actually been forwarded to the Committee to Re-elect the President until late January and February of this year.

DR. RUTH L. FARKAS
Contacted in August

She had been contacted by the White House about the ambassadorship while she was on a trip to Europe last August and agreed to accept the appointment. She heard no more from Washington about it until the appointment was announced Feb. 27.

This, presumably by coincidence, was shortly after she and her husband had fulfilled their campaign pledge.

Sen. George Aiken, R-Vt., said he guessed large sums were easier to come by after Christmas was over.

"It wasn't Christmas, it was the stock market which was the problem," she replied.

Mrs. Farkas holds a doctor's degree in education, and submitted two full pages of private and public positions she has held in the business world and in the humanitarian fields. She and her husband own Alexander's, a New York City department store.

She said $300,000 is a lot of money, but only a fraction of the total she and her husband contribute annually to various causes.

The egg came before the chicken. Birds evolved from reptile stock that was laying eggs millions of years before the first prehistoric bird flew, the National Geographic Society says.

Some Hope Is Offered To Antipoverty Groups

The Marin County Board of Supervisors offered a flicker of hope yesterday to local groups caught in the federal squeeze on antipoverty funds. (Another supervisors story, page 6.)

At the suggestion of chairman Arnold M. Baptiste, supervisors agreed to consider using a portion of the county's $1.2 million revenue sharing grant to help the groups they deem worthwhile.

About 10 groups have applied for federal funding through Community Action Marin, the local arm of the Office of Economic Opportunity, but were told recently no money would be available because of federal cutbacks.

The groups, which include the Novato Human Needs Center and Marin City's Operation Give A Damn, among others, will be considered along with other county needs when the revenue sharing pie is cut in June.

However, supervisors made it clear they have no intention of funding Community Action Marin, since the county would take over the job of overseeing the programs, if funded.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors Also:

TRASNPORTATION — Received a progress report on new balanced transportation studies showing the amount of use various levels of intra-county bus transit would receive. The studies consider the level of usage of 100 to 350 buses on local streets. Specific figures and costs were not included but will be a part of a later report.

BOY SCOUTS — Deferred action on a request from the Marin Council of Boy Scouts of America that it be given free use of the county fairgrounds for a three-day camp out in June. The scouts offered in return to do free gardening work at Civic Center. The request was postponed to next Tuesday for staff review.

CONSUMER — Postponed to April 3 discussion of a proposed consumer protection program at the request of Silvia Seigel, who said her ad hoc committee on consumer protection needs another three weeks to develop its proposal.

SOLICITATION — Directed the county counsel's office to draft an amendment to the county's solicitation ordinance. The amendment, proposed by Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., would regulate telephone solicitation. The proposed amendment was prompted, he said, by a circus's recent overselling of tickets in Marin.

JUVENILE — Delayed for at least a month discussion of the children's treatment center at Juvenile Hall and a status report on the center from the county juvenile justice commission. Discussion was postponed until a report from another group is received.

REZONING — Rejected the request of Blanda Telander that her property near Tamalpais High School in Mill Valley be rezoned to allow six duplex units instead of four.

REPORT — Postponed for one week a report from the county administrator on an organization and position classification study of the district attorney's office. The study recommends reclassifying 10 secretaries to different positions and salaries.

ANNEXATIONS — Told the City of Tiburon it would support state legislation to require annexation of lands to cities before the land is developed.

MORATORIUM — On the advice of the county counsel's office, rejected a request from the City of San Anselmo that a building moratorium be imposed on unincorporated areas around the city.

STORM AFTERMATH — Approved transferring $20,000 from roads department reserves to repair storm-damaged roads not eligible for federal reimbursement. Approved spending $1,155.72 to repair storm-damaged pavement and drainage in the Marin Veterans Memorial Building parking lot. Instructed County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney to defend the county against a $220,000 lawsuit by Thomas D. Ripp over damage to drain facilities on his property at Summit Avenue and San Pedro Road. Hired Harding-Lawson Associates to do preliminary soils study and drainage planning to correct the major landslide on Upper Edgewood Road in Homestead Valley.

PARK PURCHASE — Approved spending $216,100 for three more parcels of the future North Bay Front Park totalling 143.24 acres, from Edward and Gordan K. Smith, from previously budgeted funds. The first parcel, 51.27 ac res, was bought last September.

HOLIDAYS — Voted 4-1 with Baptiste opposing, to close the board's agenda a day early — Thursday noon — when the following Monday is a county holiday. May 28, Sept. 3, Sept. 10 and Oct. 22 will be Monday holidays, County Administrator John F. Barrows reported.

REVENUE SHARING — Filed for discussion at budget time, a request from the county parks, recreation and open space commission for a portion of the county's budget sharing receipts, and a request from the Marinwood Community Services District for use of revenue sharing funds to improve fire protection at Juvenile Hall. Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere urged attention to the Marinwood request, saying the inadequate protection at the hall "scares the heck out of me."

POOL FENCES — Adopted amendments to the county's swimming pool fence ordinance exempting bodies of water in remote areas, or intended for use in boating or fishing, or less than 18 inches deep.

HOLLIS — Granted Virgil S. Hollis, county superintendent of schools, permission to travel to Great Britain June 21 through Aug. 25 to attend educational programs, at Hollis's own expense.

HEALTH BUILDING — Approved transferring $30,000 from reserves to speed planning and remodeling of the county public health building in San Rafael, expected to cost $135,000.

Talks Set By Five Citizens

Five San Rafael citizens active in civic affairs will address the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce when it meets at noon tomorrow at Lin Fa Gardens in the Northgate shopping center.

Speaking to the chamber will be Jerry Russom, open space; Mary Dekker, Marin Heritage; Steven Sachs, San Rafael Town Meeting; Tina Ferria, Save the San Pedro Peninsula, and Ann Batman, League of Woman Voters.

The chamber board of directors will also hear a financial report and review county postal service.

Supervisors Will Look At Tax Equity Structure

Marin County supervisors yesterday agreed to resurrect an old survey on the equity between taxes collected and public services rendered in the cities and unincorporated area of the county.

Mill Valley Mayor Jean S. Barnard asked the board for a breakdown of the cost of services provided by every county department to cities and unincorporated areas, compared to the property tax burden shared by residents of each. She was relaying a request approved by the Marin County Council of Mayors and Councilmen at its meeting last month.

Chairman Arnold M. Baptiste said there also should be a comparison of other revenues to the cities and the county. He argued that it was unreasonable for "San Rafael to get 40 per cent of the sales tax in the county" when so many of Northgate's customers come from other cities or unincorporated areas.

Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. said, "It's my opinion personally that cities get the greater benefit" of funds budgeted by the supervisors.

County Administrator John F. Barrows and Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell recalled that a similar study was made by the city managers and administrators' association in the late 1960s.

"After it was all done, there were only a few shifts that could be made" under state law, Mitchell said.

Mrs. Barnard argued that not all county spending benefitted cities, even for such items as welfare payments to city residents.

"Welfare is a reverse benefit," she said. "I see no advantage to a city having a great many recipients of welfare."

Supervisor Michael Wornum opposed the proposed study as costly and time consuming. He said that the association of Bay Area Governments already is making a study of tax equity on a regional basis.

The board, however, agreed unanimously that the county administrator's staff should try to update the old survey.

Tax Shift Bill To Be Discussed

Trustees of the Nicasio School District will discuss the effect of the state's new tax shift-school finance legislation (SB 90) on the district when it meets at 7 p.m. today in Nicasio School.

Joseph Amato, director of business services for the county schools office, will speak to the board on the subject.

Sausalito Eyes June Bond Vote For A Civic Center, Library

The Sausalito City Council indicated last night that it intends to schedule an election on an $870,000 bond issue for June 12 to help launch a long-planned civic center and library near the waterfront.

City Mgr. Albert St. Cyr said at the special meeting that he will be ready at next Tuesday's council meeting with three propositions for a bond election:

To buy for $276,000 from the Sausalito School District the old Central School on Caledonia Street for a city hall, to buy for $250,000 the site of the old Northwestern Pacific Railroad station across from Central, to raise $344,000 for a new city library, with site still being debated.

St. Cyr said the city can make enough money7renting its present downtown city hall to pay off the bonds without raising the tax rate.It also plans, commercial property for the railroad site to help raise revenue.

St. Cyr said he will also present the council an option on buying the now vacant school, for which the council would pay $276,000. The building would be remodeled for use as a city hall.

Mayor Robin Sweeny said that the council is united on the projects and has to get out and sell the public. "If every councilman who wants this gets out and sells his constituents, it will pass," she said.

She said the council will have to act quickly to make the June election date and called a special meeting of a citizens' civic center committee for Monday night to help rouse support for the proposal.

This committee of representatives of city commissions and civic groups will meet with Councilman Evert H. Heynemann to discuss the city's plans in depth.

Heynemann said that the city council has a rough idea of what it wants on the civic center site, but should get citizens' views. He said that besides the library and city hall, plans might include recreation buildings and a small marina.

He urged that the city try to keep Caledonia Street as residential as possible in spite of the new civic buildings that might go up nearby. He suggested allowing more commercial development on Bridgeway near the civic center to take pressure off Caledonia.

The council also received a letter from the Sausalito Citizens Council suggesting the city save money by putting both library and city hall in the school. The council has previously debated putting the library on other city owned property on the waterfront near Central.

The council plans to discuss on Tuesday whether to combine the three propositions for a single vote. St. Cyr said he was confident that all three would pass but advised separating them "just in case."

"They'll pass as long as people understand there will be no rise in property taxes," said Councilman Sally Stanford.

Councilman Heynemann said that if all three lost, the city might try some other method of buying Central School.

Councilmen Earl F. Dunphy and Stephen A. Fraser were absent.

The Sausalito City Council also:

CLOSED MEETING — Held a closed session to discuss possible litigation.

DUPLEX — Waived the requirement of an environmental impact report for a duplex to be built at 67-69 Crescent Avenue by Ken Elkington provided that special soils studies are made.

POLICE REPORTS — Held over to Tuesday a request from the police department asking for permission to withhold from the press the names of victims in residential burglaries.

Needs Group Moves To New Home

The Novato Human Needs Center, a volunteer organization meeting social needs, has moved into its new quarters, an old home at 1523 South Novato Boulevard.

The center moved into the building Monday and will use it for office space, a distribution center for the supplemental food program and as a base for other social agencies.

The building was leased from the City of Novato for one year at $300 a month, according to Diane Ryken, a center director.

The city bought the home last year for eventual extension of Hill Road, but no date has been set for that extension.

The center is operating on $6,000 allocated by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

When the center opened last year, it was temporarily at 1200 Grant Avenue and then it moved to another temporary home at the United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Ryken said hours of operation will be set in a few days.

Site For Ferry Terminal Backed

The Larkspur Chamber of Commerce has endorsed the Corte Madera Creek site for the proposed new ferry terminal after hearing a presentation on Golden Gate Bridge District plans by ferry transit manager Stanley Kowleski.

Chamber president Sue Schaefer said members did not agree with conservationists' proposals to move the ferry terminal to San Quentin Point.

The chamber selected Bert Wheeler, retired lumber yard owner, and John Barry, insurance agent, as its nominees to the Marin County Grand Jury.

It also appointed Shirley Walker as co-chairman to represent Larkspur in the joint Larkspur-Corte Madera Fourth of July celebrations.

Funds Advance For Park Land

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The House of Representatives gave approval Tuesday for spending $5.9 million to begin buying land for the Golden Gate National Recreation Area.

Funds came from other federal park projects and the matter now goes to the Senate.

President Nixon did not include money for the purchases in his 1973-74 budget.

The chamber selected Bert Wheeler, retired lumber yard owner, and John Barry, insurance agent, as its nominees to the Marin County Grand Jury.

It also appointed Shirley Walker as co-chairman to represent Larkspur in the joint Larkspur-Corte Madera Fourth of July celebrations.

Funds Advance For Park Land

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The House of Representatives gave approval Tuesday for spending $5.9 million to begin buying land for the Golden Gate National Recreation Area.

Funds came from other federal park projects and the matter now goes to the Senate.

President Nixon did not include money for the purchases in his 1973-74 budget.

U.S. Officials Irked By Signs In Panama

PANAMA CITY (UPI) — U.S. officials expressed irritation today about two huge pro-Panama billboards erected prior to the opening of a special session of the U.N. Security Council, the first such meeting in Latin America.

One of the signs, almost four stories high, covers the facade of the national library building across the street from the building where the U.N. meetings will start Thursday.

The other sign, two blocks away and the same size, covers the front of the old railroad station in the heart of downtown.

Painted in red, white and blue and in the five official languages of the United Nations — Spanish, English, French, Russian and Chinese — the billboards feature excerpts from speeches by Panama strongman Omar Torrijos on U.S. occupation of the Canal Zone and current efforts to work out a new treaty.

The Canal Zone issue is behind Panama's successful bid to have the Security Council hold the special week-long meeting here. The official theme of the meeting is "maintaining and strengthening peace and international security in Latin America."

One of the billboard messages reads in part: "You may rest assured that in our negotiations with the United States of America you will always find us standing on our feet and never on our knees."

Earth fractures from the Mid-Atlantic Ridge cut across Iceland, National Geographic says. The spreading ridge adds nearly an inch a year to the island's width.

Moving Firms Slapped By PUC

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Public Utilities Commission has cracked down on household moving companies that underestimate costs for transporting goods.

The PUC Tuesday issued 10 interim orders, effective April 21, to regulate the some 600 moving firms in the state. The commission will later issue permanent rules.

The toughest rule for a mover which underestimates charges to get business would provide for license suspension or revocation. Company officials could be fined up to $500 and imprisoned for up to three months.

$300,000 Contributed By Nominee

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The price of Luxembourg like everything else, has gone up.

Back in 1948, Harry Truman named Mrs. Perle Mesta—Washington's famed "hostess with the mostest" —U.S. Minister to the tiny European duchy in gratitude for a $50,000 campaign contribution.

None of the ambassadors who followed were immortalized in hit musical comedies as was Mrs. Mesta in "Call Me Madam," but the post has traditionally been awarded to political contributors rather than career foreign service people.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee was expected to approve today the latest nominee, Dr. Ruth L. Farkas of New York, who topped them all with a donation to President Nixon of $300,000—at least half of which was donated after the election, and some of it after the inauguration.

Mrs. Farkas was asked about this during her confirmation hearing Tuesday.

She and her husband, George, had decided to contribute to Nixon's re-election early in 1972 because they were pleased with his decision to visit China and Russia. The contribution had been committed then, she said, but the final payments had not actually been forwarded to the Committee to Re-elect the President until late January and February of this year.

She had been contacted by the White House about the ambassadorship while she was on a trip to Europe last August and agreed to accept the appointment. She heard no more from Washington about it until the appointment was announced Feb. 27.

This, presumably by coincidence, was shortly after she and her husband had fulfilled their campaign pledge.

Sen. George Aiken, R-Vt., said he guessed large sums were easier to come by after Christmas was over.

"It wasn't Christmas, it was the stock market which was the problem," she replied.

Mrs. Farkas holds a doctor's degree in education, and submitted two full pages of private and public positions she has held in the business world and in the humanitarian fields. She and her husband own Alexander's, a New York City department store.

DR. RUTH L. FARKAS
Contacted in August

She said $300,000 is a lot of money, but only a fraction of the total she and her husband contribute annually to various causes.

The egg came before the chicken. Birds evolved from reptile stock that was laying eggs millions of years before the first prehistoric bird flew, the National Geographic Society says.

Senior Play Adapted From Farce

Tomales High School seniors will present "The Grouch," an adaptation of an ancient Greek farce, at 8 p.m. tomorrow, Friday and Saturday at the school resource center.

The play tells of a tyrannical father who comes between his daughter and her "true love," and is such a grouch he is against love itself.

Nancy Burbank as Valentine, Donald (Red) Kehoe as Pandora Pander and Robert Stahl as The Grouch will be the leading players.

Cast members are Donna Tremari, Wendy Irwin, Brian Wever, Bruce Neal and Eileen Pozzi.

The play is directed by Patrick Woodworth and produced by Kathryn Lawson, both of the English department, and art work will be supervised by J. Dennis Brown of the art department.

Tax Group Revises Guidelines

The Marin County Taxpayers Association has issued a revised version of its 10 basic guidelines for elected officials, to help control public expenditures.

The guidelines include several points on hiring public employees and granting cost-of-living and other salary increases.

The association recommends that the increase in public employees not be permitted to exceed population growth or the ability of public agencies to meet increased payroll requirements without imposing new or increased taxes.

It also suggests that governing bodies of public agencies evaluate the continued need for any position that becomes vacant, rather than automatically hiring a new employee to fill it.

Regarding salary hikes, the taxpayers' group recommends that cost-of-living increases be granted in flat dollar amounts, rather than a percentage of salary, and that other raises be awarded on the basis of performance, determined by a strict employee evaluation program.

Ferry Terminal To Be Show Topic

The proposed $5 million Larkspur ferry terminal will be discussed at 9 a.m. tomorrow on the KTIM "Marin Sounding Board". Panelists are Stephan C. Leonoudakis, president of the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District board of directors; Stanley M. Kowleski, ferry transit manager; Harold E. Gregg, executive director of Marin Conservation League; Robert L. Harrison of Marin County Planning Department and Joan L. Sestack, Larkspur councilman.

Questions phoned in during the broadcast will be answered. The program, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be rebroadcast at 10 a.m. Sunday.

Senior Play Adapted From Farce

Tomales High School seniors will present "The Grouch," an adaptation of an ancient Greek farce, at 8 p.m. tomorrow, Friday and Saturday at the school resource center.

The play tells of a tyrannical father who comes between his daughter and her "true love," and is such a grouch he is against love itself.

Nancy Burbank as Valentine, Donald (Red) Kehoe as Pandora Pander and Robert Stahl as The Grouch will be the leading players.

Cast members are Donna Tremari, Wendy Irwin, Brian Wever, Bruce Neal and Eileen Pozzi.

The play is directed by Patrick Woodworth and produced by Kathryn Lawson, both of the English department, and art work will be supervised by J. Dennis Brown of the art department.

Tax Group Revises Guidelines

The Marin County Taxpayers Association has issued a revised version of its 10 basic guidelines for elected officials, to help control public expenditures.

The guidelines include several points on hiring public employees and granting cost-of-living and other salary increases.

The association recommends that the increase in public employees not be permitted to exceed population growth or the ability of public agencies to meet increased payroll requirements without imposing new or increased taxes.

It also suggests that governing bodies of public agencies evaluate the continued need for any position that becomes vacant, rather than automatically hiring a new employee to fill it.

Regarding salary hikes, the taxpayers' group recommends that cost-of-living increases be granted in flat dollar amounts, rather than a percentage of salary, and that other raises be awarded on the basis of performance, determined by a strict employee evaluation program.

Ferry Terminal To Be Show Topic

The proposed $5 million Larkspur ferry terminal will be discussed at 9 a.m. tomorrow on the KTIM "Marin Sounding Board". Panelists are Stephan C. Leonoudakis, president of the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District board of directors; Stanley M. Kowleski, ferry transit manager; Harold E. Gregg, executive director of Marin Conservation League; Robert L. Harrison of Marin County Planning Department and Joan L. Sestack, Larkspur councilman.

Questions phoned in during the broadcast will be answered. The program, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be rebroadcast at 10 a.m. Sunday.

Sausalito Eyes June Bond Vote For A Civic Center, Library

The Sausalito City Council indicated last night that it intends to schedule an election on an $870,000 bond issue for June 12 to help launch a long-planned civic center and library near the waterfront.

City Mgr. Albert St. Cyr said at the special meeting that he will be ready at next Tuesday's council meeting with three propositions for a bond election:

To buy for $276,000 from the Sausalito School District the old Central School on Caledonia Street for a city hall, to buy for $250,000 the site of the old Northwestern Pacific Railroad station across from Central, to raise $344,000 for a new city library, with site still being debated.

St. Cyr said the city can make enough money7renting its present downtown city hall to pay off the bonds without raising the tax rate.It also plans commercial property for the railroad site to help raise revenue.

St. Cyr said he will also present the council an option on buying the now vacant school, for which the council would pay $276,000. The building would be remodeled for use as a city hall.

Mayor Robin Sweeny said that the council is united on the projects and has to get out and sell the public. "If every councilman who wants this gets out and sells his constituents, it will pass," she said.

She said the council will have to act quickly to make the June election date and called a special meeting of a citizens' civic center committee for Monday night to help rouse support for the proposal.

This committee of representatives of city commissions and civic groups will meet with Councilman Evert H. Heynemann to discuss the city's plans in depth.

Heynemann said that the city council has a rough idea of what it wants on the civic center site, but should get citizens' views. He said that besides the library and city hall, plans might include recreation buildings and a small marina.

He urged that the city try to keep Caledonia Street as residential as possible in spite of the new civic buildings that might go up nearby. He suggested allowing more commercial development on Bridgeway near the civic center to take pressure off Caledonia.

The council also received a letter from the Sausalito Citizens Council suggesting the city save money by putting both library and city hall in the school. The council has previously debated putting the library on other city owned property on the waterfront near Central.

The council plans to discuss on Tuesday whether to combine the three propositions for a single vote. St. Cyr said he was confident that all three would pass but advised separating them "just in case."

"They'll pass as long as people understand there will be no rise in property taxes," said Councilman Sally Stanford.

Councilman Heynemann said that if all three lost, the city might try some other method of buying Central School.

Councilmen Earl F. Dunphy and Stephen A. Fraser were absent.

The Sausalito City Council also:

CLOSED MEETING — Held a closed session to discuss possible litigation.

DUPLEX — Waived the requirement of an environmental impact report for a duplex to be built at 67-69 Crescent Avenue by Ken Elkington provided that special soils studies are made.

POLICE REPORTS — Held over to Tuesday a request from the police department asking for permission to withhold from the press the names of victims in residential burglaries.

Needs Group Moves To New Home

The Novato Human Needs Center, a volunteer organization meeting social needs, has moved into its new quarters, an old home at 1523 South Novato Boulevard.

The center moved into the building Monday and will use it for office space, a distribution center for the supplemental food program and as a base for other social agencies.

The building was leased from the City of Novato for one year at $300 a month, according to Diane Ryken, a center director.

The city bought the home last year for eventual extension of Hill Road, but no date has been set for that extension.

The center is operating on $6,000 allocated by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

When the center opened last year, it was temporarily at 1200 Grant Avenue and then it moved to another temporary home at the United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Ryken said hours of operation will be set in a few days.

Site For Ferry Terminal Backed

The Larkspur Chamber of Commerce has endorsed the Corte Madera Creek site for the proposed new ferry terminal after hearing a presentation on Golden Gate Bridge District plans by ferry transit manager Stanley Kowleski.

Chamber president Sue Schaefer said members did not agree with conservationists' proposals to move the ferry terminal to San Quentin Point.

The chamber selected Bert Wheeler, retired lumber yard owner, and John Barry, insurance agent, as its nominees to the Marin County Grand Jury.

It also appointed Shirley Walker as co-chairman to represent Larkspur in the joint Larkspur-Corte Madera Fourth of July celebrations.

Funds Advance For Park Land

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The House of Representatives gave approval Tuesday for spending $5.9 million to begin buying land for the Golden Gate National Recreation Area.

Funds came from other federal park projects and the matter now goes to the Senate.

President Nixon did not include money for the purchases in his 1973-74 budget.

Magee Continues Claim He Didn't Murder Judge

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Convict Ruchell Magee yesterday gave his version of the last bloody moments in a rental van during the August 1970 Marin Civic Center shoot-out, maintaining he was not the person who killed Judge Harold J. Haley.

Magee told his story under cross-examination by Asst. Atty. Gen. Albert W. Harris Jr., prosecutor in Magee's murder and kidnapping trial in San Francisco Superior Court.

Harris questioned Magee at length about Haley's shooting, which took place in a van in which Magee, two other convicts and an accomplice held five hostages.

"You had the sawed-off shotgun in the van, isn't that a fact?" Harris asked.

"No," Magee replied.

"You took the shotgun and you shot Judge Haley with it?"

"No, I did not shoot him."

"Who did?"

"I don't know."

Magee said the judge was waving out the van window, saying "Don't shoot," and then leaning forward, saying the same thing.

"Then he was knocked up against the wall... and appeared to be dead," Magee testified.

Harris asked Magee if he hadn't wanted to kill the judge.

"Killing someone was not going to help me prove what I'm proving this very day," Magee said, referring to his testimony that he has been illegally imprisoned for years through a "conspiracy" of state agents.

Magee told Harris he took part in the abortive courthouse escape attempt because "I couldn't get out any other way."

He admitted he was armed with two guns during the shoot-out, but he said, "If I hadn't had the weapons, I would never have walked out of there."

Magee also was asked if he was trying to help three others involved in the incident to escape with hostages.

"That's not right," Magee responded. "I was doing what I could to get out of there. I was helping myself."

Candidates Night Set April 17

A candidates night for hopefuls for the San Anselmo School District Board in the April 17 election will be held at 8 p.m. March 21 in the multi-purpose room at Brookside School, Sleepy Hollow.

The event, sponsored by the parent clubs of Brookside, Sleepy Hollow and Hidden Valley schools, will be moderated by a representative of the League of Women Voters.

The candidates' presentations will be preceded by an informative slide presentation on San Anselmo's $500,000 open space bond issue, also slated to go before voters April 17.

Morena's School Contract Renewed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — City Schools Superintendent Steven P. Morena has won a two-year renewal of his contract due to expire July 1.

The Board of Education voted unanimously Tuesday night to retain Morena, resident of Larkspur, at the $42,000-a-year salary for which he was hired on a one-year contract

Fill Permit Is Granted In Larkspur

The Larkspur Planning Commission last night gave Alice Vincilione a fill permit to place 6,000 cubic yards of fill on the flatlands fronting Magnolia Avenue.

The permit also allows the Vincilione company to move another 6,000 cubic yards of fill that's already on the 26-acre site to level it.

Mrs. Vincilione said today she has no specific plans for the land at the moment, but the material will be spread evenly and allowed to settle.

Commissioners granted the permit unanimously without opposition from the public, reported commission secretary Lee Anne Magnus, but required grading of a bicycle path along the edge of Magnolia Avenue as a condition of approval.

The commission was told that the 6,000 yards of fill to be imported will be Pacific Gas and Electric Company spoils, and trucking operations will b restricted to the hours of 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. The permit is good from April 1 to November 1.

The Larkspur Planning Commission also:

MEADOWWOOD — Denied Kendall DeCook setback variances to construct a house at 7 Hawkins Way because it would mean grading a knoll, in contravention of the city's policy when it permitted the Meadowwood subdivision.

FRUIT — Granted Richard Greenwald of San Anselmo a permit to sell fresh fruits and vegetables from a pickup truck in front of the unused Texaco station at 1115 Magnolia Avenue from April 15 through Sept. 15, on condition he gets a lease from Texaco.

SOHNE — Refused Horst Hans a variance allowing the use of unobscured glass in Sohner Plaza, and said that because he hasn't completed required landscaping on the new office project they'll hold up occupancy permits until he does.

LARWIN — Looked unfavorably at landscaping and hard surface plans for the Larwin apartment development on top of Bon Air Hill and decided to leave them to the city's new design review committee.

SAFEWAY — Approved a parking lot sale at the Safeway Store on Bon Air Road from Mar. 27 through Apr. 21.

Hike In Cheese Imports Is Asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Hugh L. Carey, D-N.Y., said Tuesday that he has asked President Nixon to raise the import quota on cheese from 128 million pounds to 250 million pounds to avoid a rise in the price of domestic cheeses.

"Each year, the U.S. consumer purchases all of the cheese products that the manufacturers are able to produce," Carey said. About two billion pounds are produced domestically, he said. The price has remained relatively stable this year he said, but if "we do not lift the quota limitation the excess in demand for cheese over the supply will cause the price to spiral."

Magee Continues Claim He Didn't Murder Judge

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Convict Ruchell Magee yesterday gave his version of the last bloody moments in a rental van during the August 1970 Marin Civic Center shoot-out, maintaining he was not the person who killed Judge Harold J. Haley.

Magee told his story under cross-examination by Asst. Atty. Gen. Albert W. Harris Jr., prosecutor in Magee's murder and kidnapping trial in San Francisco Superior Court.

Harris questioned Magee at length about Haley's shooting, which took place in a van in which Magee, two other convicts and an accomplice held five hostages.

"You had the sawed-off shotgun in the van, isn't that a fact?" Harris asked.

"No," Magee replied.

"You took the shotgun and you shot Judge Haley with it?"

"No, I did not shoot him."

"Who did?"

"I don't know."

Magee said the judge was waving out the van window, saying "Don't shoot," and then leaning forward, saying the same thing.

"Then he was knocked up against the wall. . . and appeared to be dead," Magee testified.

Harris asked Magee if he hadn't wanted to kill the judge.

"Killing someone was not going to help me prove what I'm proving this very day," Magee said, referring to his testimony that he has been illegally imprisoned for years through a "conspiracy" of state agents.

Magee told Harris he took part in the abortive courthouse escape attempt because "I couldn't get out any other way."

He admitted he was armed with two guns during the shoot-out, but he said, "If I hadn't had the weapons, I would never have walked out of there."

Magee also was asked if he was trying to help three others involved in the incident to escape with hostages.

"That's not right," Magee responded. "I was doing what I could to get out of there. I was helping myself."

Candidates Night Set April 17

A candidates night for hopefuls for the San Anselmo School District Board in the April 17 election will be held at 8 p.m. March 21 in the multi-purpose room at Brookside School, Sleepy Hollow.

The event, sponsored by the parent clubs of Brookside, Sleepy Hollow and Hidden Valley schools, will be moderated by a representative of the League of Women Voters.

The candidates' presentations will be preceded by an informative slide presentation on San Anselmo's $500,000 open space bond issue, also slated to go before voters April 17.

Morena's School Contract Renewed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — City Schools Superintendent Steven P. Morena has won a two-year renewal of his contract due to expire July 1.

The Board of Education voted unanimously Tuesday night to retain Morena, resident of Larkspur, at the $42,000-a-year salary for which he was hired on a one-year contract

Fill Permit Is Granted In Larkspur

The Larkspur Planning Commission last night gave Alice Vincilione a fill permit to place 6,000 cubic yards of fill on the flatlands fronting Magnolia Avenue.

The permit also allows the Vincilione company to move another 6,000 cubic yards of fill that's already on the 26-acre site to level it.

Mrs. Vincilione said today she has no specific plans for the land at the moment, but the material will be spread evenly and allowed to settle.

Commissioners granted the permit unanimously without opposition from the public, reported commission secretary Lee Anne Magnus, but required grading of a bicycle path along the edge of Magnolia Avenue as a condition of approval.

The commission was told that the 6,000 yards of fill to be imported will be Pacific Gas and Electric Company spoils, and trucking operations will b restricted to the hours of 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. The permit is good from April 1 to November 1.

The Larkspur Planning Commission also:

MEADOWWOOD — Denied Kendall DeCook setback variances to construct a house at 7 Hawkins Way because it would mean grading a knoll, in contravention of the city's policy when it permitted the Meadowwood subdivision.

FRUIT — Granted Richard Greenwald of San Anselmo a permit to sell fresh fruits and vegetables from a pickup truck in front of the unused Texaco station at 1115 Magnolia Avenue from April 15 through Sept. 15, on condition he gets a lease from Texaco.

SOHNE — Refused Horst Hans a variance allowing the use of unobscured glass in Sohner Plaza, and said that because he hasn't completed required landscaping on the new office project they'll hold up occupancy permits until he does.

LARWIN — Looked unfavorably at landscaping and hard surface plans for the Larwin apartment development on top of Bon Air Hill and decided to leave them to the city's new design review committee.

SAFEWAY — Approved a parking lot sale at the Safeway Store on Bon Air Road from Mar. 27 through Apr. 21.

"Each year, the U.S. consumer purchases all of the cheese products that the manufacturers are able to produce," Carey said. About two billion pounds are produced domestically, he said. Senior Play Adapted From Farce

Tomales High School seniors will present "The Grouch," an adaptation of an ancient Greek farce, at 8 p.m. tomorrow, Friday and Saturday at the school resource center.

The play tells of a tyrannical father who comes between his daughter and her "true love," and is such a grouch he is against love itself.

Nancy Burbank as Valentine, Donald (Red) Kehoe as Pandora Pander and Robert Stahl as The Grouch will be the leading players.

Cast members are Donna Tremari, Wendy Irwin, Brian Wever, Bruce Neal and Eileen Pozzi.

The play is directed by Patrick Woodworth and produced by Kathryn Lawson, both of the English department, and art work will be supervised by J. Dennis Brown of the art department.

Tax Group Revises Guidelines

The Marin County Taxpayers Association has issued a revised version of its 10 basic guidelines for elected officials, to help control public expenditures.

The guidelines include several points on hiring public employees and granting cost-of-living and other salary increases.

The association recommends that the increase in public employees not be permitted to exceed population growth or the ability of public agencies to meet increased payroll requirements without imposing new or increased taxes.

It also suggests that governing bodies of public agencies evaluate the continued need for any position that becomes vacant, rather than automatically hiring a new employee to fill it.

Regarding salary hikes, the taxpayers' group recommends that cost-of-living increases be granted in flat dollar amounts, rather than a percentage of salary, and that other raises be awarded on the basis of performance, determined by a strict employee evaluation program.

Ferry Terminal To Be Show Topic

The proposed $5 million Larkspur ferry terminal will be discussed at 9 a.m. tomorrow on the KTIM "Marin Sounding Board". Panelists are Stephan C. Leonoudakis, president of the Golden Gate Bridge, Highway and Transportation District board of directors; Stanley M. Kowleski, ferry transit manager; Harold E. Gregg, executive director of Marin Conservation League; Robert L. Harrison of Marin County Planning Department and Joan L. Sestack, Larkspur councilman.

Questions phoned in during the broadcast will be answered. The program, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be rebroadcast at 10 a.m. Sunday.

Same Athlete Rules At Schools Ordered

The San Rafael Board of Education, after reviewing the results of a poll of athletes at Terra Linda High School, last night said physical education requirements for athletes at Terra Linda should be the same as those at San Rafael High School. (Another board of education story, page 1)

The board directed Terra Linda principal Frank Stocking "to work out the details" and draw up a plan for bringing requirements at his school in line with those at San Rafael High, according to Supt. John F. Plank.

At issue are differing requirements for athletes at the two high schools. Student athletes at San Rafael High are not required to take physical education classes, while those at Terra Linda must enroll in physical education classes as well as appear for sport practice sessions.

Plank said a poll among athletes at Terra Linda High showed students favored allowing physical education credit for participation in interschool sports by a 4-to-1 margin.

The San Rafael Board of Education Also:

SCHEDULE — Continued to March 27 discussion of a plan to change daily period scheduling at Davidson School.

BUS POLICY — Formally approved a policy that allows all public agencies to rent district school buses at cost. The board has already allowed the City of San Rafael and the Gallinas Village Community Services District to use buses at cost.

ORGANIZATIONS — Said employee organizations will receive staff recommendations on employee policy matters at the same time they are given to the board.

HIRINGS — Hired Lowell Piver as a substitute custodian at $3.40 per hour; Lawrence Porter as a substitute custodian at $3.40 per hour and Ciri Schaffer as an instructional aide at $2.72 per hour.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to a district candidates night set for 8 p.m. Tuesday in the district office. The next regular meeting is 7:30 p.m. March 27.

Bail Hearing Set In Slaying Case

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A bail hearing for Walker L. Moore, 25, of Rohnert Park, accused of murdering a Santa Rosa woman, will be heard tomorrow before Sonoma County Superior Court Judge John Moskowitz.

Walker, of 8775 Lancaster Drive, has been held without bail since his arrest Monday for the shooting of Sue E. Candida, 25.

Land Request In Park Area

Representatives of five Marin County organizations have requested land leases for agricultural uses in the planned Golden Gate National Recreation Area.

In a letter to Rogers C. B. Morton, Secretary of the Interior, the group said that people enjoy seeing livestock so recreation and agriculture can coexist; grazing reduces fire hazards; Marin County will realize revenue from the uses and agriculture helps support the Bay Area economy.

Signing the letter were James L. Spaletta of the Marin County Farm Bureau, Earl L. Lupton of the Marin Coast Chamber of Commerce, Harold E. Gregg of the Marin Conservation League, Jerry Friedman of the Environmental Action Committee of West Marin and Robert W. Giacomini of the Marin Property Owners Association.

Such use is being considered the superintendent of the recreation area has said.

Beckman Slates Campaign Coffees

Three campaign coffees for Coral Kay Beckman, candidate for election to the Dixie School District board, have been scheduled.

Mrs. Beckman will speak at 8 p.m. Monday at the Boyd Wells home, 1 Valleystone Drive, Marinwood; 10 a.m. March 28 at the William Best home, 95 Upper Oak Drive, Mont Marin, and 8 p.m. March 29 at the John Braman home, 1360 Idylberry Road, Upper Lucas Valley.

Wife Beating Leads To Arrest In Stennis Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the three suspects arrested Monday for the Jan. 30 shooting of Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., had been charged with two previous muggings and was arrested in the Stennis case only after being picked up for beating his wife.

Police sources say that Tyrone I. Marshall, 19, had been scheduled to appear in court Tuesday on the earlier charges under which he had been free on bond.

Instead he was arraigned before U. S. Magistrate Jean Dwyer and held under $50,000 bond on federal charges of attempting to assassinate a member of congress.

His brother, John, 21, was held under $25,000 bond and a third youth, Derrick Holloway, 18, was held under $10,000 bond.

Police sources said Tyrone Marshall and his wife, Debra, were both taken to a precinct station Monday afternoon after fighting outside their home.

Same Athlete Rules At Schools Ordered

The San Rafael Board of Education, after reviewing the results of a poll of athletes at Terra Linda High School, last night said physical education requirements for athletes at Terra Linda should be the same as those at San Rafael High School. (Another board of education story, page 1)

The board directed Terra Linda principal Frank Stocking "to work out the details" and draw up a plan for bringing requirements at his school in line with those at San Rafael High, according to Supt. John F. Plank.

At issue are differing requirements for athletes at the two high schools. Student athletes at San Rafael High are not required to take physical education classes, while those at Terra Linda must enroll in physical education classes as well as appear for sport practice sessions.

Plank said a poll among athletes at Terra Linda High showed students favored allowing physical education credit for participation in interschool sports by a 4-to-1 margin.

HIRINGS — Hired Lowell Piver as a substitute custodian at $3.40 per hour; Lawrence Porter as a substitute custodian at $3.40 per hour and Ciri Schaffer as an instructional aide at $2.72 per hour.

Land Request In Park Area

Representatives of five Marin County organizations have requested land leases for agricultural uses in the planned Golden Gate National Recreation Area.

In a letter to Rogers C. B. Morton, Secretary of the Interior, the group said that people enjoy seeing livestock so recreation and agriculture can coexist; grazing reduces fire hazards; Marin County will realize revenue from the uses and agriculture helps support the Bay Area economy.

Signing the letter were James L. Spaletta of the Marin County Farm Bureau, Earl L. Lupton of the Marin Coast Chamber of Commerce, Harold E. Gregg of the Marin Conservation League, Jerry Friedman of the Environmental Action Committee of West Marin and Robert W. Giacomini of the Marin Property Owners Association.

Such use is being considered the superintendent of the recreation area has said.

Wife Beating Leads To Arrest In Stennis Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the three suspects arrested Monday for the Jan. 30 shooting of Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., had been charged with two previous muggings and was arrested in the Stennis case only after being picked up for beating his wife.

Police sources say that Tyrone I. Marshall, 19, had been scheduled to appear in court Tuesday on the earlier charges under which he had been free on bond.

Instead he was arraigned before U. S. Magistrate Jean Dwyer and held under $50,000 bond on federal charges of attempting to assassinate a member of congress.

His brother, John, 21, was held under $25,000 bond and a third youth, Derrick Holloway, 18, was held under $10,000 bond.

Police sources said Tyrone Marshall and his wife, Debra, were both taken to a precinct station Monday afternoon after fighting outside their home.

Magee Continues Claim He Didn't Murder Judge

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Convict Ruchell Magee yesterday gave his version of the last bloody moments in a rental van during the August 1970 Marin Civic Center shoot-out, maintaining he was not the person who killed Judge Harold J. Haley.

Magee told his story under cross-examination by Asst. Atty. Gen. Albert W. Harris Jr., prosecutor in Magee's murder and kidnapping trial in San Francisco Superior Court.

Harris questioned Magee at length about Haley's shooting, which took place in a van in which Magee, two other convicts and an accomplice held five hostages.

"You had the sawed-off shotgun in the van, isn't that a fact?" Harris asked.

"No," Magee replied.

"You took the shotgun and you shot Judge Haley with it?"

"No, I did not shoot him."

"Who did?"

"I don't know."

Magee said the judge was waving out the van window, saying "Don't shoot," and then leaning forward, saying the same thing.

"Then he was knocked up against the wall... and appeared to be dead," Magee testified.

Harris asked Magee if he hadn't wanted to kill the judge.

"Killing someone was not going to help me prove what I'm proving this very day," Magee said, referring to his testimony that he has been illegally imprisoned for years through a "conspiracy" of state agents.

Magee told Harris he took part in the abortive courthouse escape attempt because "I couldn't get out any other way."

He admitted he was armed with two guns during the shoot-out, but he said, "If I hadn't had the weapons, I would never have walked out of there."

Magee also was asked if he was trying to help three others involved in the incident to escape with hostages.

"That's not right," Magee responded. "I was doing what I could to get out of there. I was helping myself."

Candidates Night Set April 17

A candidates night for hopefuls for the San Anselmo School District Board in the April 17 election will be held at 8 p.m. March 21 in the multi-purpose room at Brookside School, Sleepy Hollow.

The event, sponsored by the parent clubs of Brookside, Sleepy Hollow and Hidden Valley schools, will be moderated by a representative of the League of Women Voters.

The candidates' presentations will be preceded by an informative slide presentation on San Anselmo's $500,000 open space bond issue, also slated to go before voters April 17.

Morena's School Contract Renewed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — City Schools Superintendent Steven P. Morena has won a two-year renewal of his contract due to expire July 1.

The Board of Education voted unanimously Tuesday night to retain Morena, resident of Larkspur, at the $42,000-a-year salary for which he was hired on a one-year contract

Fill Permit Is Granted In Larkspur

The Larkspur Planning Commission last night gave Alice Vincilione a fill permit to place 6,000 cubic yards of fill on the flatlands fronting Magnolia Avenue.

The permit also allows the Vincilione company to move another 6,000 cubic yards of fill that's already on the 26-acre site to level it.

Mrs. Vincilione said today she has no specific plans for the land at the moment, but the material will be spread evenly and allowed to settle.

Commissioners granted the permit unanimously without opposition from the public, reported commission secretary Lee Anne Magnus, but required grading of a bicycle path along the edge of Magnolia Avenue as a condition of approval.

The commission was told that the 6,000 yards of fill to be imported will be Pacific Gas and Electric Company spoils, and trucking operations will b restricted to the hours of 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. The permit is good from April 1 to November 1.

The Larkspur Planning Commission also:

MEADOWWOOD — Denied Kendall DeCook setback variances to construct a house at 7 Hawkins Way because it would mean grading a knoll, in contravention of the city's policy when it permitted the Meadowwood subdivision.

FRUIT — Granted Richard Greenwald of San Anselmo a permit to sell fresh fruits and vegetables from a pickup truck in front of the unused Texaco station at 1115 Magnolia Avenue from April 15 through Sept. 15, on condition he gets a lease from Texaco.

SOHNE — Refused Horst Hans a variance allowing the use of unobscured glass in Sohner Plaza, and said that because he hasn't completed required landscaping on the new office project they'll hold up occupancy permits until he does.

LARWIN — Looked unfavorably at landscaping and hard surface plans for the Larwin apartment development on top of Bon Air Hill and decided to leave them to the city's new design review committee.

SAFEWAY — Approved a parking lot sale at the Safeway Store on Bon Air Road from Mar. 27 through Apr. 21.

Hike In Cheese Imports Is Asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Hugh L. Carey, D-N.Y., said Tuesday that he has asked President Nixon to raise the import quota on cheese from 128 million pounds to 250 million pounds to avoid a rise in the price of domestic cheeses.

"Each year, the U.S. consumer purchases all of the cheese products that the manufacturers are able to produce," Carey said. About two billion pounds are produced domestically, he said. The price has remained relatively stable this year he said, but if "we do not lift the quota limitation the excess in demand for cheese over the supply will cause the price to spiral."

Marinite Is Facing Longer Pot Sentence

I-J Special Report

PHILADELPHIA — It appeared today as if a Corte Madera man serving a three-year sentence for marijuana smuggling may get his time increased to five years, a codefendant having suffered that fate yesterday.

The defendants, David Miller, 35, of Corte Madera, and Thomas P. Vallejo, 29, of Langhore, Pa., had earlier pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court to bringing a ton of marijuana valued at $3 million into Pennsylvania from Mexico in 1971.

Yesterday Judge Charles Weiner changed Vallejo's sentence from the original three years he had imposed to five years after hearing arguments by Asst. U.S. Atty. Jeffrey Miller, who held that the five-year term was mandatory.

In May 1971 the narcotics law was changed leaving sentences to the court's discretion. But the crime by Vallejo and Miller had been committed a month earlier, Miller said, and an earlier law prevailed.

Vallejo pleaded in vain yesterday with the judge, saying, "I'm not asking you, I'm begging you," to retain the lesser sentence.

It was believed, sources said, that Miller will suffer the same fate as Vallejo, according to United Press International.

Five men were tied into the case after Leonard Glassberg, also known as Lenny the Lizard, of Novato, pleaded guilty and testified against them. He drew a two-year sentence.

One of the three other defendants was acquitted, another is awaiting trial and the third man was sentenced to five years in prison.

Board Eyes Budget For Schools

The Novato Unified School District board started review last night of a preliminary 1973-74 budget summary, listing expenditures at $11,757,847, up $921,628 from the current year.

Asst. Supt. Paul C. Mobley said $820,374 of the increase is in reserve and board members will decide during budget meetings how it will be allocated.

The preliminary summary included no pay hikes other than annual step increases and no new educational programs, Mobley said.

The district has estimated it will receive a $1,758,633 increase in state aid and will lower the amount to be raised by property taxes by $676,842.

The budget summary contains no estimate of the district tax rate which is $5,705 per $100 assessed valuation this year.

Woman Hurt In Sausalito Car Mishap

A 53-year-old San Francisco woman, said to have driven her car into two parked ones in Sausalito yesterday and then driven away was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital.

A hospital spokesman said Lillian Lucille Johnson was being treated in the cardiac unit for chest pains but was unable to say if the ailment was related to the accident.

Mrs. Johnson was booked in absentia at Marin County Jail on suspicion of drunken and hit-and-run driving. No court date was set.

Sausalito police said an officer was driving on Bridgeway at 9:20 p.m. near Richardson Street when he heard a crash' and looked up to see a station wagon driving south on Bridgeway.

When the car stopped one mile away, the driver, later identified as Mrs. Johnson, complained of chest pains and said she was under a doctor's treatment for heart trouble, police said.

Officers said her car had struck two parked cars, driving one onto the sidewalk. A partly-consumed bottle of vodka was found in her car, they said.

Same Athlete Rules At Schools Ordered

The San Rafael Board of Education, after reviewing the results of a poll of athletes at Terra Linda High School, last night said physical education requirements for athletes at Terra Linda should be the same as those at San Rafael High School. (Another board of education story, page 1)

The board directed Terra Linda principal Frank Stocking "to work out the details" and draw up a plan for bringing requirements at his school in line with those at San Rafael High, according to Supt. John F. Plank.

At issue are differing requirements for athletes at the two high schools. Student athletes at San Rafael High are not required to take physical education classes, while those at Terra Linda must enroll in physical education classes as well as appear for sport practice sessions.

Plank said a poll among athletes at Terra Linda High showed students favored allowing physical education credit for participation in interschool sports by a 4-to-1 margin.

The San Rafael Board of Education Also:

SCHEDULE — Continued to March 27 discussion of a plan to change daily period scheduling at Davidson School.

BUS POLICY — Formally approved a policy that allows all public agencies to rent district school buses at cost. The board has already allowed the City of San Rafael and the Gallinas Village Community Services District to use buses at cost.

ORGANIZATIONS — Said employee organizations will receive staff recommendations on employee policy matters at the same time they are given to the board.

HIRINGS — Hired Lowell Piver as a substitute custodian at $3.40 per hour; Lawrence Porter as a substitute custodian at $3.40 per hour and Ciri Schaffer as an instructional aide at $2.72 per hour.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to a district candidates night set for 8 p.m. Tuesday in the district office. The next regular meeting is 7:30 p.m. March 27.

Land Request In Park Area

Representatives of five Marin County organizations have requested land leases for agricultural uses in the planned Golden Gate National Recreation Area.

In a letter to Rogers C. B. Morton, Secretary of the Interior, the group said that people enjoy seeing livestock so recreation and agriculture can coexist; grazing reduces fire hazards; Marin County will realize revenue from the uses and agriculture helps support the Bay Area economy.

Signing the letter were James L. Spaletta of the Marin County Farm Bureau, Earl L. Lupton of the Marin Coast Chamber of Commerce, Harold E. Gregg of the Marin Conservation League, Jerry Friedman of the Environmental Action Committee of West Marin and Robert W. Giacomini of the Marin Property Owners Association.

Such use is being considered the superintendent of the recreation area has said.

Wife Beating Leads To Arrest In Stennis Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the three suspects arrested Monday for the Jan. 30 shooting of Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., had been charged with two previous muggings and was arrested in the Stennis case only after being picked up for beating his wife.

Police sources say that Tyrone I. Marshall, 19, had been scheduled to appear in court Tuesday on the earlier charges under which he had been free on bond.

Instead he was arraigned before U. S. Magistrate Jean Dwyer and held under $50,000 bond on federal charges of attempting to assassinate a member of congress.

His brother, John, 21, was held under $25,000 bond and a third youth, Derrick Holloway, 18, was held under $10,000 bond.

Police sources said Tyrone Marshall and his wife, Debra, were both taken to a precinct station Monday afternoon after fighting outside their home.

Building Doesn't Please Planners

The San Rafael Planning Commission last night took another look at plans for an office building and parking garage on Courthouse square and were not pleased with some of the details.

The commission had been scheduled only to look at landscaping and plans for the east elevation of the building but commissioners went further in their discussion, according to Charles J. Linthicum, senior planner.

Architect William Schuppel was told by commissioners they are unhappy over a switch from brick walkways originally proposed to exposed aggregate surfacing now shown on the plans, as well as part of the design of the buildings.

Commissioners asked Schuppel to get bids for brick walkways, which he said would be more expensive, as well as for aggregate. Linthicum said commissioners also wanted relief on the face of the building to be more pronounced, and Schuppel said he would make a little model to present later to the commission.

Commissioners said they also wanted some large trees used in the planting instead of all standard nursery stock.

Plans by McKeon Construction Co. for an eight-story office building, a two-story office structure and a multilevel parking garage were approved in general by the commission last September.

In other action last night, the planning commissioners agreed to support expansion of the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District plant before the Association of Bay Area Governments and to ask the county to hold up approval on a proposed development in the Santa Venetia area.

Linthicum said the commission has taken the view that regulation of population growth should not be undertaken by such agencies as sanitary districts but that since this is not at issue with the sewage plant expansion, it should be approved.

The commission was unhappy, though, he said, over an application now before the county planning commission for a 1,000-unit terrace development on 256 acres on a hillside above San Pedro Road, called San Pedro Reserve.

If built, this development would immediately bring population in the San Rafael area to that proposed for 1980 under city plans, Linthicum said.

The commission asked county officials to hold up approval until San Rafael's general plan and the countywide plan are adopted.

The San Rafael Planning Commission Also:

DUPLEXES — Approved a four-lot subdivision and use permit for four duplex units proposed by California Land Title Co. at Grand Avenue and Linden Lane, site of the old Coleman School.

CONDITIONS — Approved extension of a used car lot use permit for George Dexter and Bill Beedle at 519 Francisco Boulevard on the conditions that all signs be brought into conformity with city regulations within 90 days, that the property be cleaned up and that screening on the canal side be provided.

SHOP — Granted a use permit for a one-man barber shop in an office-warehouse building at 76 Mitchell Boulevard.

APARTMENTS — Approved design of a six-unit apartment building at 37 Pacheco Street.

WAREHOUSE — Approved design of a warehouse and office building to be constructed at 155 Larskpur Street.

ADDITION — Approved design of an addition to the Marin County Board of Realtors' office at 255 West End Avenue.

Teacher Gets A Study Leave

Trustees of the Bolinas-Stinson School District last night granted a leave of absence, for the 1973-74 school year to teacher Nancy Sullivan.

Mrs. Sullivan, who teaches fourth, fifth and sixth grades, will spend the time studying schools in England and looking for sites for student trips in Mexico, according to Supt. Lester M. Horning.

In other business, the board accepted the resignation of Tim Stephens as night custodian and voted to hire Christopher Hersey for the $525-a-month post.

Trustees also set a meeting for 8 p.m. March 20 to introduce candidates for the school district board to school operations and funding.

Candidates nights for the Bolinas-Stinson School board will be held in Bolinas April 7 and in Stinson Beach April 11.

Author Of Diet Book Being Sued

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A $1 million class action suit has been filed against the author and publisher of the best-selling book, "Dr. Atkins' Diet Revolution."

Attorney Daniel Roth filed the suit Tuesday in Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court for Robert Zelvy of Beachwood and the more than 10,000 Ohioans Roth estimates have bought the book.

The plaintiff called the diet prescribed in the book "unscientific and potentially dangerous to health" and asked that the sale of the book be banned in Ohio and that those who bought it be reimbursed.

Marinite Is Facing Longer Pot Sentence

I-J Special Report

PHILADELPHIA — It appeared today as if a Corte Madera man serving a three-year sentence for marijuana smuggling may get his time increased to five years, a codefendant having suffered that fate yesterday.

The defendants, David Miller, 35, of Corte Madera, and Thomas P. Vallejo, 29, of Langhore, Pa., had earlier pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court to bringing a ton of marijuana valued at $3 million into Pennsylvania from Mexico in 1971.

Yesterday Judge Charles Weiner changed Vallejo's sentence from the original three years he had imposed to five years after hearing arguments by Asst. U.S. Atty. Jeffrey Miller, who held that the five-year term was mandatory.

In May 1971 the narcotics law was changed leaving sentences to the court's discretion. But the crime by Vallejo and Miller had been committed a month earlier, Miller said, and an earlier law prevailed.

Vallejo pleaded in vain yesterday with the judge, saying, "I'm not asking you, I'm begging you," to retain the lesser sentence.

It was believed, sources said, that Miller will suffer the same fate as Vallejo, according to United Press International.

Five men were tied into the case after Leonard Glassberg, also known as Lenny the Lizard, of Novato, pleaded guilty and testified against them. He drew a two-year sentence.

One of the three other defendants was acquitted, another is awaiting trial and the third man was sentenced to five years in prison.

Board Eyes Budget For Schools

The Novato Unified School District board started review last night of a preliminary 1973-74 budget summary, listing expenditures at $11,757,847, up $921,628 from the current year.

Asst. Supt. Paul C. Mobley said $820,374 of the increase is in reserve and board members will decide during budget meetings how it will be allocated.

The preliminary summary included no pay hikes other than annual step increases and no new educational programs, Mobley said.

The district has estimated it will receive a $1,758,633 increase in state aid and will lower the amount to be raised by property taxes by $676,842.

The budget summary contains no estimate of the district tax rate which is $5,705 per $100 assessed valuation this year.

Woman Hurt In Sausalito Car Mishap

A 53-year-old San Francisco woman, said to have driven her car into two parked ones in Sausalito yesterday and then driven away was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital.

A hospital spokesman said Lillian Lucille Johnson was being treated in the cardiac unit for chest pains but was unable to say if the ailment was related to the accident.

Mrs. Johnson was booked in absentia at Marin County Jail on suspicion of drunken and hit-and-run driving. No court date was set.

Sausalito police said an officer was driving on Bridgeway at 9:20 p.m. near Richardson Street when he heard a crash and looked up to see a station wagon driving south on Bridgeway.

When the car stopped one mile away, the driver, later identified as Mrs. Johnson, complained of chest pains and said she was under a doctor's treatment for heart trouble, police said.

Officers said her car had struck two parked cars, driving one onto the sidewalk. A partly-consumed bottle of vodka was found in her car, they said.

Top Kennedy Aides Agree Pentagon Papers Harmless

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The New Frontier brain trust is unanimous—the Pentagon Papers contained no information that needed to be kept secret.

To the men who counseled President John F. Kennedy as the United States made its crucial commitments to Vietnam, the Pentagon Papers are interesting or boring, tedious or obsolete, historical or bureaucartic verbiage.

Everything but sensitive information that could have harmed the United States.

John Kenneth Galbraith testified Tuesday in the Pentagon Papers trial of Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo, following two other members high in the counsels of Kennedy's New Frontier, McGeorge Bundy and Arthur Schlesinger Jr.

All appeared as defense witnesses to say that making public the contents of the Pentagon Papers in 1969—when Ellsberg admits he took them— would not have harmed the security of the nation, a vital element of the espionage charge that is the most serious of the counts against the defendants.

Asked whether the material jeopordized the nation, Galbraith, former ambassador to India and a World War II intelligence analyst, replied:

"It is inconceivable."

He described one volume as very dull.

"This is rather tedious, pedestrian, administrative information which does not bear appreciably on military, or for that matter diplomatic, matters," he said.

"Anyone who had the patience to read it through would not find it useful."

The volume dealt with relations between the United States and South Vietnam from 1963 to 1967.

On a volume dealing with the strategic hamlet program in 1962-63, Galbraith said the Viet Cong would not have learned anything from it.

"They were in a far better position to see what was happening and know what was happening than the authors of this report," he testified.

Boyle Will Testify In Labor Slay Trial

ERIE, Pa. (UPI) — Former United Mine Workers (UMW) President W. A. "Tony" Boyle, named in court Tuesday as the man who ordered the 1969 Yablonski killings, has been subpoenaed to appear next week as a defense witness in the murder trial of former UMW official William J. Prater.

Boyle, who for 10 years led the nation's mine workers before being unseated in a federal court ordered election, would be subject to cross examination by special Prosecutor Richard A. Sprague.

In Washington, Boyle's attorney Plato Cacheris confirmed that the deposed UMW leader would appear.

Arnold Miller, the UMW president who defeated Boyle in a special election last December, arrived here Tuesday night. Miller was expected to appear at the trial as a prosecution witness although he told newsmen that he was here "on coal business."

Sprague Tuesday called to the stand Paul Gilly who broke a three-year silence to implicate Prater and Albert Pass, a former UMW executive board member, as the men who channeled union funds to a band of assassins he directed.

Billy testified that Prater told him the New Year's Eve slayings of Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski, his wife and daughter were ordered by Boyle "for the welfare of the union."

Cacheris said Boyle, 70, denied any connection with the slayings before a federal grand jury in Pittsburgh last year "and he denies it now."

Pedestrian Hit Five Times Dies

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Louis Williams, 69, a transient, tried to walk across the eightlane Santa Ana Freeway in the darkness just before dawn Tuesday.

He got as far as the second lane when he was hit by a car driven by Mary Lewis, 57, the California Highway Patrol reported. She said she did not see him, because he was wearing dark clothes, and she did not know what her car had hit, but felt an impact and so she left the freeway at the next exit and circled back.

Meanwhile Robert Schiller, 21, of Whittier, sighted Williams struggling in the road. Schiller halted and began laying flares in an effort to keep Williams from being hit again in the steady flow of speeding cars.

Williams got up and tried to stagger off the freeway.

A ca hit him again and drove on.

Williams arose. A third car hit him and vanished down the road.

Williams got up again and a fourth car hit him. It kept going.

Williams stayed down.

The fifth car to hit him thumped over his prone body, despite the flares, and vanished like the others.

Williams was dead.

Mrs. Lewis, who returned to the scene to find out what she had struck, was not cited, the CHP said, but the drivers of the other four cars, if they can be found, will be charged with hit-and-run driving.

Gallery Labels Paintings False

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In 1920 financier Andrew Mellon purchased what were thought to be two paintings by the Dutch master Vermeer —"The Lace Maker" and "The Smiling Girl."

In 1941, they went on display at the National Gallery of Art, which the former treasury secretary founded.

This week, the gallery took the paintings off exhibit. Its spokesman said the paintings had been found to be "unauthentic." It required a three-fourths vote of the gallery's trustees to take the step.

The "Vermeers" have been officially reattributed to an unknown "follower of Jan Vermeer."

Top Kennedy Aides Agree Pentagon Papers Harmless

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The New Frontier brain trust is unanimous—the Pentagon Papers contained no information that needed to be kept secret.

To the men who counseled President John F. Kennedy as the United States made its crucial commitments to Vietnam, the Pentagon Papers are interesting or boring, tedious or obsolete, historical or bureaucartic verbiage.

Everything but sensitive information that could have harmed the United States.

John Kenneth Galbraith testified Tuesday in the Pentagon Papers trial of Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo, following two other members high in the counsels of Kennedy's New Frontier, McGeorge Bundy and Arthur Schlesinger Jr.

All appeared as defense witnesses to say that making public the contents of the Pentagon Papers in 1969—when Ellsberg admits he took them— would not have harmed the security of the nation, a vital element of the espionage charge that is the most serious of the counts against the defendants.

Asked whether the material jeopordized the nation, Galbraith, former ambassador to India and a World War II intelligence analyst, replied:

"It is inconceivable."

He described one volume as very dull.

"This is rather tedious, pedestrian, administrative information which does not bear appreciably on military, or for that matter diplomatic, matters," he said.

"Anyone who had the patience to read it through would not find it useful."

The volume dealt with relations between the United States and South Vietnam from 1963 to 1967.

On a volume dealing with the strategic hamlet program in 1962-63, Galbraith said the Viet Cong would not have learned anything from it.

"They were in a far better position to see what was happening and know what was happening than the authors of this report," he testified.

Boyle Will Testify In Labor Slay Trial

ERIE, Pa. (UPI) — Former United Mine Workers (UMW) President W. A. "Tony" Boyle, named in court Tuesday as the man who ordered the 1969 Yablonski killings, has been subpoenaed to appear next week as a defense witness in the murder trial of former UMW official William J. Prater.

Boyle, who for 10 years led the nation's mine workers before being unseated in a federal court ordered election, would be subject to cross examination by special Prosecutor Richard A. Sprague.

Building Doesn't Please Planners

The San Rafael Planning Commission last night took another look at plans for an office building and parking garage on Courthouse square and were not pleased with some of the details.

The commission had been scheduled only to look at landscaping and plans for the east elevation of the building but commissioners went further in their discussion, according to Charles J. Linthicum, senior planner.

Architect William Schuppel was told by commissioners they are unhappy over a switch from brick walkways originally proposed to exposed aggregate surfacing now shown on the plans, as well as part of the design of the buildings.

Commissioners asked Schuppel to get bids for brick walkways, which he said would be more expensive, as well as for aggregate. Linthicum said commissioners also wanted relief on the face of the building to be more pronounced, and Schuppel said he would make a little model to present later to the commission.

Commissioners said they also wanted some large trees used in the planting instead of all standard nursery stock.

Plans by McKeon Construction Co. for an eight-story office building, a two-story office structure and a multilevel parking garage were approved in general by the commission last September.

In other action last night, the planning commissioners agreed to support expansion of the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District plant before the Association of Bay Area Governments and to ask the county to hold up approval on a proposed development in the Santa Venetia area.

Linthicum said the commission has taken the view that regulation of population growth should not be undertaken by such agencies as sanitary districts but that since this is not at issue with the sewage plant expansion, it should be approved.

The commission was unhappy, though, he said, over an application now before the county planning commission for a 1,000-unit terrace development on 256 acres on a hillside above San Pedro Road, called San Pedro Reserve.

If built, this development would immediately bring population in the San Rafael area to that proposed for 1980 under city plans, Linthicum said.

The commission asked county officials to hold up approval until San Rafael's general plan and the countywide plan are adopted.

The San Rafael Planning Commission Also:

DUPLEXES — Approved a four-lot subdivision and use permit for four duplex units proposed by California Land Title Co. at Grand Avenue and Linden Lane, site of the old Coleman School.

CONDITIONS — Approved extension of a used car lot use permit for George Dexter and Bill Beedle at 519 Francisco Boulevard on the conditions that all signs be brought into conformity with city regulations within 90 days, that the property be cleaned up and that screening on the canal side be provided.

SHOP — Granted a use permit for a one-man barber shop in an office-warehouse building at 76 Mitchell Boulevard.

APARTMENTS — Approved design of a six-unit apartment building at 37 Pacheco Street.

WAREHOUSE — Approved design of a warehouse and office building to be constructed at 155 Larskpur Street.

ADDITION — Approved design of an addition to the Marin County Board of Realtors' office at 255 West End Avenue.

Teacher Gets A Study Leave

Trustees of the Bolinas-Stinson School District last night granted a leave of absence, for the 1973-74 school year to teacher Nancy Sullivan.

Mrs. Sullivan, who teaches fourth, fifth and sixth grades, will spend the time studying schools in England and looking for sites for student trips in Mexico, according to Supt. Lester M. Horning.

In other business, the board accepted the resignation of Tim Stephens as night custodian and voted to hire Christopher Hersey for the $525-a-month post.

Trustees also set a meeting for 8 p.m. March 20 to introduce candidates for the school district board to school operations and funding.

Candidates nights for the Bolinas-Stinson School board will be held in Bolinas April 7 and in Stinson Beach April 11.

Author Of Diet Book Being Sued

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A $1 million class action suit has been filed against the author and publisher of the best-selling book, "Dr. Atkins' Diet Revolution."

Attorney Daniel Roth filed the suit Tuesday in Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court for Robert Zelvy of Beachwood and the more than 10,000 Ohioans Roth estimates have bought the book.

The plaintiff called the diet prescribed in the book "unscientific and potentially dangerous to health" and asked that the sale of the book be banned in Ohio and that those who bought it be reimbursed.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The New Frontier brain trust is unanimous—the Pentagon Papers contained no information that needed to be kept secret.

To the men who counseled President John F. Kennedy as the United States made its crucial commitments to Vietnam, the Pentagon Papers are interesting or boring, tedious or obsolete, historical or bureaucartic verbiage.

Everything but sensitive information that could have harmed the United States.

John Kenneth Galbraith testified Tuesday in the Pentagon Papers trial of Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo, following two other members high in the counsels of Kennedy's New Frontier, McGeorge Bundy and Arthur Schlesinger Jr.

All appeared as defense witnesses to say that making public the contents of the Pentagon Papers in 1969—when Ellsberg admits he took them— would not have harmed the security of the nation, a vital element of the espionage charge that is the most serious of the counts against the defendants.

Asked whether the material jeopordized the nation, Galbraith, former ambassador to India and a World War II intelligence analyst, replied:

"It is inconceivable."

He described one volume as very dull.

"This is rather tedious, pedestrian, administrative information which does not bear appreciably on military, or for that matter diplomatic, matters," he said.

"Anyone who had the patience to read it through would not find it useful."

The volume dealt with relations between the United States and South Vietnam from 1963 to 1967.

On a volume dealing with the strategic hamlet program in 1962-63, Galbraith said the Viet Cong would not have learned anything from it.

"They were in a far better position to see what was happening and know what was happening than the authors of this report," he testified.

Boyle Will Testify In Labor Slay Trial

ERIE, Pa. (UPI) — Former United Mine Workers (UMW) President W. A. "Tony" Boyle, named in court Tuesday as the man who ordered the 1969 Yablonski killings, has been subpoenaed to appear next week as a defense witness in the murder trial of former UMW official William J. Prater.

Boyle, who for 10 years led the nation's mine workers before being unseated in a federal court ordered election, would be subject to cross examination by special Prosecutor Richard A. Sprague.

In Washington, Boyle's attorney Plato Cacheris confirmed that the deposed UMW leader would appear.

Arnold Miller, the UMW president who defeated Boyle in a special election last December, arrived here Tuesday night. Miller was expected to appear at the trial as a prosecution witness although he told newsmen that he was here "on coal business."

Sprague Tuesday called to the stand Paul Gilly who broke a three-year silence to implicate Prater and Albert Pass, a former UMW executive board member, as the men who channeled union funds to a band of assassins he directed.

Billy testified that Prater told him the New Year's Eve slayings of Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski, his wife and daughter were ordered by Boyle "for the welfare of the union."

Cacheris said Boyle, 70, denied any connection with the slayings before a federal grand jury in Pittsburgh last year "and he denies it now."

Pedestrian Hit Five Times Dies

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Louis Williams, 69, a transient, tried to walk across the eightlane Santa Ana Freeway in the darkness just before dawn Tuesday.

He got as far as the second lane when he was hit by a car driven by Mary Lewis, 57, the California Highway Patrol reported. She said she did not see him, because he was wearing dark clothes, and she did not know what her car had hit, but felt an impact and so she left the freeway at the next exit and circled back.

Meanwhile Robert Schiller, 21, of Whittier, sighted Williams struggling in the road. Schiller halted and began laying flares in an effort to keep Williams from being hit again in the steady flow of speeding cars.

Williams got up and tried to stagger off the freeway.

A ca hit him again and drove on.

Williams arose. A third car hit him and vanished down the road.

Williams got up again and a fourth car hit him. It kept going.

Williams stayed down.

The fifth car to hit him thumped over his prone body, despite the flares, and vanished like the others.

Williams was dead.

Mrs. Lewis, who returned to the scene to find out what she had struck, was not cited, the CHP said, but the drivers of the other four cars, if they can be found, will be charged with hit-and-run driving.

Gallery Labels Paintings False

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In 1920 financier Andrew Mellon purchased what were thought to be two paintings by the Dutch master Vermeer —"The Lace Maker" and "The Smiling Girl."

In 1941, they went on display at the National Gallery of Art, which the former treasury secretary founded.

This week, the gallery took the paintings off exhibit. Its spokesman said the paintings had been found to be "unauthentic." It required a three-fourths vote of the gallery's trustees to take the step.

The "Vermeers" have been officially reattributed to an unknown "follower of Jan Vermeer."

TORN PANTS NO REASON TO HOLD PAY

San Anselmo City Engineer Charles R. Leitzell's disagreement with an artist's dog last summer had repercussions last night.

City Councilman Lewis W. Stewart and Mayor Warren R. Perry growled that the disagreement over torn trousers was no reason for the city to stall final $962.36 payment to sculptor Paul Selinger for playground design at the Robson Park Carriage House.

Leitzell's clothing was a casualty when he visited the artist at the project, and the dog snapped at him. The city awarded a $2,120 contract for the work last June 7, but the final payment was not put to council approval until last night.

Parking Lot Plan Wins Council Nod

About 30 audience members applauded last night as the San Anselmo City Council unanimously endorsed plans to turn the city's Creekside property into more of a park than a parking lot.

Planning Commissioner Daniel H. Goltz won council support for his plan for the property. It features mounded landscaping to hide cars from traffic through the Hub, a boardwalk along the creek itself, and only about 36 parking spaces. City plans for the lot had more asphalt, less planting and room for 45 or more autos.

Goltz, still smarting from the recent theft of his auto, justified his plan's park-like aspect by declaring, "cars really brutalize people."

"You can't drive a tree home," retorted one objecting audience member.

Other criticism came from merchants whose stores adjoin the lot. "Why don't you wait until we all go broke and then make a park out of the whole damn thing?" one said.

Defenders of the plan argued that "you sell to people, not cars," and "if you want to shop in grubby little shops with large parking lots covered with asphalt, you can go to San Rafael."

Councilman Martin G. Blinder praised Goltz's plans: "I never thought anybody would make me interested in a parking lot."

The council instructed City Engr. Charles R. Leitzell to obtain bids on preparation of detailed plans and working drawings based on Goltz's proposal, so the council will have construction cost estimates available during upcoming budget discussions.

Plea Made To Charge Of Burglary

An 18-year-old youth police believe was involved in 17 burglaries in Southern Marin has pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court to one felony burglary charge.

Seymour Scott Thurber admitted the violation after Deputy Dist. Atty. John J. Connolly agreed to dismiss two other counts and recommend a maximum of four months in jail.

Judge Peter Allen Smith sent the case to superior court for sentencing. Thurber was ordered to appear March 21.

Mill Valley police arrested him and a 17-year-old escapee from the California Youth Authority Feb. 5 after receiving a tip the juvenile might be in a secluded tree house behind 116 Miller Avenue.

Police said they found coins, a purse, a ring and clothing taken in five burglaries in the tree dwelling. The 17-year-old was delivered to youth authorities for private proceedings.

Maddox Is Hit Twice By Thieves

ATLANTA (UPI) — Lester Maddox addressed a peace officers' meeting Monday night and he was victimized by thieves twice during the evening, the lieutenatn governor said Tuesday.

Burglars broke into his home as he addressed the peace officers, and later that evening, vandals damaged his car which was parked in a church parking lot as Maddox checked on his souvenir shop. Maddox said the footprints indicated that several persons broke into his home, one of them "with feet twice as big as mine."

Services Merger Action Delayed

The theoretical possibilities of merging San Anselmo and Fairfax fire, police or other municipal services last night caused the San Anselmo City Council to postpone to April 24 any decision on takeover of Isabel Cook School as a new civic center.

Councilman Martin G. Blinder reported on his study of the school site, which has 35,000 square feet of building on a 2.2-acre parcel on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

"Cook looks too big and too costly" unless the fire station relocates to the same site, he warned.

City Admin. Alfred C. Kaeppel warned the decision also would hinge on final action on last year's government structure study. In it, a consultant surveyed pros and cons of merging San Anselmo and Fairfax public services in part or in whole.

"We need to put that one to rest," Kaeppel said. Councilmen agreed. They also instructed Kaeppel and City Engr. Charles R. Leitzell to prepare data on how much space the city's public works department could use at the school property, and how much other city functions and a council chamber would require.

The San Anselmo City Council also:

VOLUNTEERS — Heard a plea from Pieter Toal, chairman of the citizens' committee on the city general plan, for recruits to serve on subcommittees dealing with conservation and noise, public safety and geological hazard elements of the plan. Volunteers may submit their names to Leitzell.

COUNTYWIDE — After more than an hour's discussion, endorsed in principle the three goals of the Marin Countywide Plan, with reservations as to population growth limits and economic development. The action was much the same as the council's vote last November 14.

GUARD — Approved spending up to $700 to hire a street crossing guard to protect schoolchildren at the busy intersection of Butterfield Road and Rutherford Avenue for the rest of the school year, as recommended by the mayor's committees on streets and traffic.

PROMOTIONS — Promoted Fire Lt. Marty Marcucci to captain at $1,174 a month and fireman Leroy Bennetts to lieutenant at $1,002 a month, as a result of recent civil service examinations. Two captains positions were vacated by retirements of William Sousa and Joseph De Patta, Fire Chief Francis A. Sousa said. Marcucci was the only candidate to pass the captain exam.

APPEAL — Denied an appeal against planning commission approval of use permits to Richard York of Mill Valley and the J. H. McFarland Corp. for single-family houses at 31 and 21 Elk Horn Way. Planning Commissioner Daniel H. Goltz, the lone opponent of the commission action, had appealed on grounds the homes would be a possible slide hazard, would add to traffic and would have excessive visual impact.

COMPOSTING — Asked City Atty. Hadden W. Roth to draft an amendment to the city ordinance to permit composting of garbage.

SUNNY HILLS — Continued scheduled hearings on rezonings of Sunny Hill and San Anselmo School District parcels to April 24.

SCHENK — Formally declared that the city fire department will not give first-call firefighting service to the 44-unit townhouse development proposed by Max D. Schenk on a 15-acre parcel just outside city limits on Sacramento Avenue. City officials have strongly opposed the development so long as it remains in county jurisdiction. The development plans will be heard by the Marin County Board of Supervisors March 27, Mayor Warren R. Perry said. "We should take a very hard line on this," he added.

FLOOD — Adopted a resolution making San Anselmo homeowners eligible to buy flood insurance; approved applications for federal funds to repair storm damage to city property.

HELP — Due to workload and illness on the public works staff, authorized City Engr. Charles R. Leitzell to negotiate with Hoffman and Albritton engineers to prepare plans for street improvements proposed for fiscal 1973-74 and plans for irrigation of Hub landscaping and parking facilities.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 8 p.m. March 27.

TORN PANTS NO REASON TO HOLD PAY

San Anselmo City Engineer Charles R. Leitzell's disagreement with an artist's dog last summer had repercussions last night.

City Councilman Lewis W. Stewart and Mayor Warren R. Perry growled that the disagreement over torn trousers was no reason for the city to stall final $962.36 payment to sculptor Paul Selinger for playground design at the Robson Park Carriage House.

Leitzell's clothing was a casualty when he visited the artist at the project, and the dog snapped at him. The city awarded a $2,120 contract for the work last June 7, but the final payment was not put to council approval until last night.

Parking Lot Plan Wins Council Nod

About 30 audience members applauded last night as the San Anselmo City Council unanimously endorsed plans to turn the city's Creekside property into more of a park than a parking lot.

Planning Commissioner Daniel H. Goltz won council support for his plan for the property. It features mounded landscaping to hide cars from traffic through the Hub, a boardwalk along the creek itself, and only about 36 parking spaces. City plans for the lot had more asphalt, less planting and room for 45 or more autos.

Goltz, still smarting from the recent theft of his auto, justified his plan's park-like aspect by declaring, "cars really brutalize people."

"You can't drive a tree home," retorted one objecting audience member.

Other criticism came from merchants whose stores adjoin the lot. "Why don't you wait until we all go broke and then make a park out of the whole damn thing?" one said.

Defenders of the plan argued that "you sell to people, not cars," and "if you want to shop in grubby little shops with large parking lots covered with asphalt, you can go to San Rafael."

Councilman Martin G. Blinder praised Goltz's plans: "I never thought anybody would make me interested in a parking lot."

The council instructed City Engr. Charles R. Leitzell to obtain bids on preparation of detailed plans and working drawings based on Goltz's proposal, so the council will have construction cost estimates available during upcoming budget discussions.

Plea Made To Charge Of Burglary

An 18-year-old youth police believe was involved in 17 burglaries in Southern Marin has pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court to one felony burglary charge.

Seymour Scott Thurber admitted the violation after Deputy Dist. Atty. John J. Connolly agreed to dismiss two other counts and recommend a maximum of four months in jail.

Judge Peter Allen Smith sent the case to superior court for sentencing. Thurber was ordered to appear March 21.

Mill Valley police arrested him and a 17-year-old escapee from the California Youth Authority Feb. 5 after receiving a tip the juvenile might be in a secluded tree house behind 116 Miller Avenue.

Police said they found coins, a purse, a ring and clothing taken in five burglaries in the tree dwelling. The 17-year-old was delivered to youth authorities for private proceedings.

Maddox Is Hit Twice By Thieves

ATLANTA (UPI) — Lester Maddox addressed a peace officers' meeting Monday night and he was victimized by thieves twice during the evening, the lieutenatn governor said Tuesday.

Burglars broke into his home as he addressed the peace officers, and later that evening, vandals damaged his car which was parked in a church parking lot as Maddox checked on his souvenir shop. Maddox said the footprints indicated that several persons broke into his home, one of them "with feet twice as big as mine."

Services Merger Action Delayed

The theoretical possibilities of merging San Anselmo and Fairfax fire, police or other municipal services last night caused the San Anselmo City Council to postpone to April 24 any decision on takeover of Isabel Cook School as a new civic center.

Councilman Martin G. Blinder reported on his study of the school site, which has 35,000 square feet of building on a 2.2-acre parcel on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

"Cook looks too big and too costly" unless the fire station relocates to the same site, he warned.

City Admin. Alfred C. Kaeppel warned the decision also would hinge on final action on last year's government structure study. In it, a consultant surveyed pros and cons of merging San Anselmo and Fairfax public services in part or in whole.

"We need to put that one to rest," Kaeppel said. Councilmen agreed. They also instructed Kaeppel and City Engr. Charles R. Leitzell to prepare data on how much space the city's public works department could use at the school property, and how much other city functions and a council chamber would require.

The San Anselmo City Council also:

VOLUNTEERS — Heard a plea from Pieter Toal, chairman of the citizens' committee on the city general plan, for recruits to serve on subcommittees dealing with conservation and noise, public safety and geological hazard elements of the plan. Volunteers may submit their names to Leitzell.

COUNTYWIDE — After more than an hour's discussion, endorsed in principle the three goals of the Marin Countywide Plan, with reservations as to population growth limits and economic development. The action was much the same as the council's vote last November 14.

GUARD — Approved spending up to $700 to hire a street crossing guard to protect schoolchildren at the busy intersection of Butterfield Road and Rutherford Avenue for the rest of the school year, as recommended by the mayor's committees on streets and traffic.

PROMOTIONS — Promoted Fire Lt. Marty Marcucci to captain at $1,174 a month and fireman Leroy Bennetts to lieutenant at $1,002 a month, as a result of recent civil service examinations. Two captains positions were vacated by retirements of William Sousa and Joseph De Patta, Fire Chief Francis A. Sousa said. Marcucci was the only candidate to pass the captain exam.

APPEAL — Denied an appeal against planning commission approval of use permits to Richard York of Mill Valley and the J. H. McFarland Corp. for single-family houses at 31 and 21 Elk Horn Way. Planning Commissioner Daniel H. Goltz, the lone opponent of the commission action, had appealed on grounds the homes would be a possible slide hazard, would add to traffic and would have excessive visual impact.

COMPOSTING — Asked City Atty. Hadden W. Roth to draft an amendment to the city ordinance to permit composting of garbage.

SUNNY HILLS — Continued scheduled hearings on rezonings of Sunny Hill and San Anselmo School District parcels to April 24.

SCHENK — Formally declared that the city fire department will not give first-call firefighting service to the 44-unit townhouse development proposed by Max D. Schenk on a 15-acre parcel just outside city limits on Sacramento Avenue. City officials have strongly opposed the development so long as it remains in county jurisdiction. The development plans will be heard by the Marin County Board of Supervisors March 27, Mayor Warren R. Perry said. "We should take a very hard line on this," he added.

FLOOD — Adopted a resolution making San Anselmo homeowners eligible to buy flood insurance; approved applications for federal funds to repair storm damage to city property.

HELP — Due to workload and illness on the public works staff, authorized City Engr. Charles R. Leitzell to negotiate with Hoffman and Albritton engineers to prepare plans for street improvements proposed for fiscal 1973-74 and plans for irrigation of Hub landscaping and parking facilities.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 8 p.m. March 27.

KTIM Will Split Into Two Units

Radio station KTIM AM and FM will end 10 years of simulcasting and split into two separate stations at midnight Sunday, FM program director Clint Weyrauch announced today.

The split means that listeners will be offered two different radio shows broadcast simultaneously, Weyrauch said, adding that the same program has been offered to both AM and FM audiences in the past.

The split required construction of a new $50,000 stereophonic studio, he said.

KTIM AM, 1510 on the radio dial, will offer "easy-listening" music, news with an emphasis on Marin, and a host of live and recorded talk shows featuring Marin.

KTIM FM, 100.9 on the radio dial, will offer around-the-clock "down-home rock and roll," Weyrauch said.

Expansion and modernization of the radio station has been spearheaded by Robert W. Dinsmore, named KTIM general manager nine months ago.

Council Hopeful Sets Appearance

Leo Tinkler, candidate for election to the San Rafael City Council, will appear at a night of "fun, frivolity, music and singing" in celebration of St. Patrick's Day at 8 p.m. Monday at the Temple Rodef Sholom, 170 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael.

The fund-raising affair, sponsored by a group called Taxpayers for Tinkler, will also feature a guest musician.

Lawmakers Told To Curb Growing School Violence

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — School administrators, police and teachers today called for wide-ranging legislation to combat the growing problem of violence in California public schools.

"We must eliminate the terror of gangs, guns, knives, chains and intrusion of violent outsiders on school campuses," declared Harry A. Fosdick, spokesman for the California Teachers Association (CTA).

Testifying at a special hearing by the Assembly Education Committee, Sidney A. Thompson, principal of Crenshaw High School in Los Angeles, vividly portrayed the problem of violence by telling of roving gangs that "terrorize" his students.

"Knives are passe now," Thompson said. "They don't even raise an eyebrow anymore. Now we're worried about firearms."

He said he has been forced to hire 15 "guns" — armed security policemen — to keep order in his school, which is surrounded by prison-like fences. And he said he still needs about five more guards to make the school safe.

Besides beefed up security forces at school grounds, Thompson urged the legislature to give principals more power to evict troublemakers and loiterers before they start trouble.

"It's frightening for a student to leave the school on Friday and see four squad cars parked outside and a helicopter hovering above," he said. "But when a student body president tells me that the students are afraid of going home because there are people outside who will steal money and jackets, I get concerned."

Fosdick recommended new legislation that would create new teacher in-service training programs to help teachers deal with the violence.

Redwood Exchange Students Share Special Delicacies

Turkish berek, quiche lorraine, brandy snaps and sandtoertchen are some of the international delicacies that will be provided Saturday at an international food fair which is part of the Redwood High School International Student Exchange silent auction and rummage sale.

The rummage sale is scheduled 7 to 10 p.m. Friday, and 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday. The food fair will be presented Saturday only at the school.

Students involved in the student exchange program have planned the fair, and will be preparing their offerings.

Cihat Gercel from Istanbul is staying with the John Ducketts of Tiburon as a member of the American Field Service exchange program, and is attending Redwood this year.

Although he never spends any time in the kitchen at home, his American mother, Jean Duckett, reports that his dexterity in preparing the berek is astonishing. And anyone who has prepared baklava, or worked with the "world's first pastry," fillo or phyllo (available at a very few stores in Marin County) can appreciate the need for dexterity.

MEAT BEREKS
(Recipe from Zekiye Kahraman of San Anselmo)

1 pound of phyllo pastry
1 cube butter melted filling:
1 pound ground beef
3 T. butter or olive oil
2 small onions chopped fine
1 egg
2 T. dill weed
Salt and white pepper to taste

Saute meat and onions till onions are clear and meat is done. Cool and add rest of ingrediants.

Cut phyllo pastry in four parts and stack in one pile. Cover with a towel to prevent drying out. Take one sheet from pile (short side of rectangle toward you), butter with a pastry brush or feather brush, and repeat with two more sheets.

Place one teaspoonful meat filling one inch from the bottom of pastry, just right of the middle. Fold over one-third long length of pastry, brush with butter, then fold over the other third side. Brush the whole length with butter again.

Beginning at the bottom fold up one corner to make a triangle. Continue folding up to the top and you will have a fat little triangle. Place in a buttered pan and bake for 20 minutes at 350 degrees or until golden brown. (Some cooks fry these quickly in hot oil but this takes practice as they can burn very quickly.)

This recipe makes about one hundred. Make them ahead and freeze them, but don't cook them until they're completely thawed. They are perfect hors d'oeuvres.

CAROLINE MANLEY of Tiburon is headed for Redwood's sister school at Blandford, Dorset County, England, next year, and will introduce her English rolled wafers — or brandy snaps — to her schoolmates at the international food fair.

BRANDY SNAPS

½ cup butter
½ cup sugar
⅓ cup dark molasses
¼ tsp. ground ginger
½ tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. orange rind
1 cup whole wheat pastry or bread flour
2 tsp. brandy

Heat first six ingredients together in large saucepan until butter and sugar are melted. Remove from heat and add flour and brandy. Mix well and let stand about 15 minutes.

Lightly grease the back of large, shallow baking pan. Arrange by teaspoonfuls (scant) about 2 inches apart. Bake 13-15 minutes at 375 degrees. Let cool a few minutes and remove one at a time with a spatula and roll around handle of a wooden spoon while still warm. If cookies cool too fast, put back into oven for a minute to soften. Fill with sweetened whipped cream or cream cheese. Use a pastry tube to fill each end.

Another student, Anne Remak of Tiburon who was instrumental in establishing the sister school exchange with Freiburg, Germany, submits her Sandtoertchen.

SANDTOERTCHEN

Beat until soft three-quarter cup butter; blend butter with one and one-half cup sugar until creamy. Beat in one egg yolk and one egg, one tsp. vanilla, one tsp. grated lemon rind; sift three cups flour, (resift with quarter tsp. salt if butter is unsalted). Combine flour and butter mixture.

Chill for several hours. Roll until very thin between waxed paper. Cut into rounds, brush with white of an egg, garnish with blanched split almonds. Bake on greased tin for eight minutes in a 400-degree oven. Remove, put two together, sandwich style, filling with a commercial chocolate frosting, or semi-sweet chocolate melted with butter.

QUICHE LORRAINE

Use an unbaked pie shell. Preheat the oven to 425 degrees. Rub the shell with a tablespoon of butter. Fry 12 bacon slices; save the oil and saute onion rings (one onion) in it. Crumble half the bacon, and put half of this in the bottom of the shell, along with half the onion. Beat four eggs with two cups of half and half; add half teaspoon salt, a pinch of sugar, two turns of a pepper mill.

Grate a quarter pound of Swiss cheese (one cup). Put half of the cheese in the shell, add half of the cream mixture; then add the rest of the bacon and onion and then the cheese and cream mixture. Garnish with the remaining slices of bacon strips and a little grated nutmeg. Bake at 425 degrees for 15 minutes; then at 300 for 40 minutes.

It is best to use a quiche pan, which has a removable side, like a spring form pan, but it can be made in a pie tin.

TURKISH EXCHANGE student Cihat Gercel fills pastry with meat and onion mixture which he has cooked to make Turkish bereks. It is one of the international foods to be offered Saturday at the Redwood High School International Food Fair and Rummage Sale. Hot Dogs Are Trimline Special

Hot dogs are a trimline special, even in comparison with other meats. A top limit of 30 per cent fat is set by meat inspection regulations for all cooked sausage, including wieners, bologna and luncheon meats. The maximum allowable is less than the average fat content of many cuts of beef.

According to the United States Department of Agriculture, sirloin steak which has been cooked and trimmed of visible fat, contains 34 per cent fat; a Porterhouse steak, about 45 per cent fat, and a rump beef roast, considered lean, contains 25 per cent fat.

A Tasty Treat For Purim Festival

With the Festival Purim on Monday, members of the Marin Jewish Community Center are preparing for the festival party they will have at Temple Rodef Sholom in San Rafael Sunday at 4 p.m.

Traditional food includes the pastry Hamentaschen, which is similar to a turnover.

Here two versions for the dough are given, yeast dough which is the more traditional and honey dough. A choice of poppy seed or prune filling is offered to readers.

HAMENTASCHEN YEAST DOUGH

2 cakes or packages yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
¾ cup scalded milk, cooled
5 cups sifted flour
¾ cup sugar
1½ tsp. salt
3 eggs
1 cup melted butter

Soften the yeast in the water for five minutes, then add to the milk. Stir in two cups of the flour, the sugar and the salt. Add one egg at a time, beating after each addition. Beat in the butter and remaining flour.

Knead for a few minutes, then place in a bowl. Cover with a towel and let rise in a warm place until doubled in bulk. Punch down, and knead on a floured board (lightly floured) for five minutes. Divide the dough in half, and roll out to a quarter-inch thickness.

Cut into four-inch squares. Place a heaping tablespoon of filling on each and fold the dough over into a triangle, sealing the edges. Let rise until doubled in bulk, and brush with beaten egg yolk.

Bake in a 375-degree oven 25 minutes, or until browned. Makes about 3½ dozen.

HONEY DOUGH FOR HAMENTASCHEN

4 cups sifted flour
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. baking powder
½ cup shortening, softened
4 eggs
1 cup honey

Sift the flour, salt, and baking powder into a bowl. Make a well in the center and place the shortening, eggs and honey in it. Work together with the hand until a dough is formed. Roll out and cut into four-inch squares. Place a heaping tablespoon of filling on each and fold over into a triangle, sealing the edges.

Bake in a 350-degree oven 20 minutes, or until browned. Makes about three dozen

FILLINGS FOR HAMENTASCHEN

Poppy Seed:
2 cups poppy seeds
1 cup milk
¾ cup honey
1 tsp. grated lemon rind
½ cup seedless raisins

Have the poppy seeds ground or put through a food chopper. Combine with the milk and honey. Cook over low heat, stirring frequently, until thick. Stir in the lemon rind and raisins. Cool and fill the dough.

Prune:
2 cups lackva (prune butter)
½ cup ground almonds
1 tbsp. grated orange rind
Mix ingredients together and fill dough.

Note: Strained baby food prunes may be substituted for prune butter.

MAKING HAMENTASCHEN for the Purim Festival the Marin Jewish Community Center is having Sunday at 4 p.m. at Temple Rodef Sholom in San Rafael are Mmes. Irving Shapiro (left) and Eugene Braunstein. The pastry is filled with poppy seed or prune fillings.

½ tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. orange rind
1 cup whole wheat pastry or bread flour
2 tsp. brandy

Heat first six ingredients together in large saucepan until butter and sugar are melted. Remove from heat and add flour and brandy. Mix well and let stand about 15 minutes.

Lightly grease the back of large, shallow baking pan. Arrange by teaspoonfuls (scant) about 2 inches apart. Bake 13-15 minutes at 375 degrees. Let cool a few minutes and remove one at a time with a spatula and roll around handle of a wooden spoon while still warm. If cookies cool too fast, put back into oven for a minute to soften. Fill with sweetened whipped cream or cream cheese. Use a pastry tube to fill each end.

Another student, Anne Remak of Tiburon who was instrumental in establishing the sister school exchange with Freiburg, Germany, submits her Sandtoertchen.

SANDTOERTCHEN

Beat until soft three-quarter cup butter; blend butter with one and one-half cup sugar until creamy. Beat in one egg yolk and one egg, one tsp. vanilla, one tsp. grated lemon rind; sift three cups flour, (resift with quarter tsp. salt if butter is unsalted). Combine flour and butter mixture.

Chill for several hours. Roll until very thin between waxed paper. Cut into rounds, brush with white of an egg, garnish with blanched split almonds. Bake on greased tin for eight minutes in a 400-degree oven. Remove, put two together, sandwich style, filling with a commercial chocolate frosting, or semi-sweet chocolate melted with butter.

QUICHE LORRAINE

Use an unbaked pie shell. Preheat the oven to 425 degrees. Rub the shell with a tablespoon of butter. Fry 12 bacon slices; save the oil and saute onion rings (one onion) in it. Crumble half the bacon, and put half of this in the bottom of the shell, along with half the onion. Beat four eggs with two cups of half and half; add half teaspoon salt, a pinch of sugar, two turns of a pepper mill.

Grate a quarter pound of Swiss cheese (one cup). Put half of the cheese in the shell, add half of the cream mixture; then add the rest of the bacon and onion and then the cheese and cream mixture. Garnish with the remaining slices of bacon strips and a little grated nutmeg. Bake at 425 degrees for 15 minutes; then at 300 for 40 minutes.

It is best to use a quiche pan, which has a removable side, like a spring form pan, but it can be made in a pie tin.

Hot Dogs Are Trimline Special

Hot dogs are a trimline special, even in comparison with other meats. A top limit of 30 per cent fat is set by meat inspection regulations for all cooked sausage, including wieners, bologna and luncheon meats. The maximum allowable is less than the average fat content of many cuts of beef.

According to the United States Department of Agriculture, sirloin steak which has been cooked and trimmed of visible fat, contains 34 per cent fat; a Porterhouse steak, about 45 per cent fat, and a rump beef roast, considered lean, contains 25 per cent fat.

A Tasty Treat For Purim Festival

With the Festival Purim on Monday, members of the Marin Jewish Community Center are preparing for the festival party they will have at Temple Rodef Sholom in San Rafael Sunday at 4 p.m.

Traditional food includes the pastry Hamentaschen, which is similar to a turnover.

Here two versions for the dough are given, yeast dough which is the more traditional and honey dough. A choice of poppy seed or prune filling is offered to readers.

HAMENTASCHEN YEAST DOUGH

2 cakes or packages yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
¾ cup scalded milk, cooled
5 cups sifted flour
¾ cup sugar
1½ tsp. salt
3 eggs
1 cup melted butter

Soften the yeast in the water for five minutes, then add to the milk. Stir in two cups of the flour, the sugar and the salt. Add one egg at a time, beating after each addition. Beat in the butter and remaining flour.

Knead for a few minutes, then place in a bowl. Cover with a towel and let rise in a warm place until doubled in bulk. Punch down, and knead on a floured board (lightly floured) for five minutes. Divide the dough in half, and roll out to a quarter-inch thickness.

Cut into four-inch squares. Place a heaping tablespoon of filling on each and fold the dough over into a triangle, sealing the edges. Let rise until doubled in bulk, and brush with beaten egg yolk.

Bake in a 375-degree oven 25 minutes, or until browned. Makes about 3½ dozen.

HONEY DOUGH FOR HAMENTASCHEN

4 cups sifted flour
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. baking powder
½ cup shortening, softened
4 eggs
1 cup honey

Sift the flour, salt, and baking powder into a bowl. Make a well in the center and place the shortening, eggs and honey in it. Work together with the hand until a dough is formed. Roll out and cut into four-inch squares. Place a heaping tablespoon of filling on each and fold over into a triangle, sealing the edges.

Bake in a 350-degree oven 20 minutes, or until browned. Makes about three dozen

FILLINGS FOR HAMENTASCHEN

Poppy Seed:

2 cups poppy seeds
1 cup milk
¾ cup honey
1 tsp. grated lemon rind
½ cup seedless raisins

Have the poppy seeds ground or put through a food chopper. Combine with the milk and honey. Cook over low heat, stirring frequently, until thick. Stir in the lemon rind and raisins. Cool and fill the dough.

Prune:

2 cups lackva (prune butter)
½ cup ground almonds
1 tbsp. grated orange rind

Mix ingredients together and fill dough.

Note: Strained baby food prunes may be substituted for prune butter.

MAKING HAMENTASCHEN for the Purim Festival the Marin Jewish Community Center is having Sunday at 4 p.m. at Temple Rodef Sholom in San Rafael are Mmes. Irving Shapiro (left) and Eugene Braunstein. The pastry is filled with poppy seed or prune fillings.

Lawmakers Told To Curb Growing School Violence

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — School administrators, police and teachers today called for wide-ranging legislation to combat the growing problem of violence in California public schools.

"We must eliminate the terror of gangs, guns, knives, chains and intrusion of violent outsiders on school campuses," declared Harry A. Fosdick, spokesman for the California Teachers Association (CTA).

Testifying at a special hearing by the Assembly Education Committee, Sidney A. Thompson, principal of Crenshaw High School in Los Angeles, vividly portrayed the problem of violence by telling of roving gangs that "terrorize" his students.

"Knives are passe now," Thompson said. "They don't even raise an eyebrow anymore. Now we're worried about firearms."

He said he has been forced to hire 15 "guns" — armed security policemen — to keep order in his school, which is surrounded by prison-like fences. And he said he still needs about five more guards to make the school safe.

Besides beefed up security forces at school grounds, Thompson urged the legislature to give principals more power to evict troublemakers and loiterers before they start trouble.

"It's frightening for a student to leave the school on Friday and see four squad cars parked outside and a helicopter hovering above," he said. "But when a student body president tells me that the students are afraid of going home because there are people outside who will steal money and jackets, I get concerned."

Fosdick recommended new legislation that would create new teacher in-service training programs to help teachers deal with the violence.

KTIM Will Split Into Two Units

Radio station KTIM AM and FM will end 10 years of simulcasting and split into two separate stations at midnight Sunday, FM program director Clint Weyrauch announced today.

The split means that listeners will be offered two different radio shows broadcast simultaneously, Weyrauch said, adding that the same program has been offered to both AM and FM audiences in the past.

The split required construction of a new $50,000 stereophonic studio, he said.

KTIM AM, 1510 on the radio dial, will offer "easy-listening" music, news with an emphasis on Marin, and a host of live and recorded talk shows featuring Marin.

KTIM FM, 100.9 on the radio dial, will offer around-the-clock "down-home rock and roll," Weyrauch said.

Expansion and modernization of the radio station has been spearheaded by Robert W. Dinsmore, named KTIM general manager nine months ago.

Council Hopeful Sets Appearance

Leo Tinkler, candidate for election to the San Rafael City Council, will appear at a night of "fun, frivolity, music and singing" in celebration of St. Patrick's Day at 8 p.m. Monday at the Temple Rodef Sholom, 170 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael.

The fund-raising affair, sponsored by a group called Taxpayers for Tinkler, will also feature a guest musician.

Agriculture Department's New Name

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The California Department of Agriculture is now the California Department of Food and Agriculture.

Department Director C. B. Christensen said that the name change, which became effective last Wednesday will point up the fact that the basic function of his department is to assure consumers a reliable supply of wholesome, high quality, safe food and that they get full measure for what they pay.

"Many people don't realize our deep involvement with the consumer and with consumer health and protection," Christensen said.

"Just a few of the things we do, for example, are to inspect weighing and measuring devices to ensure accuracy, and to analyze fruits and vegetables for excess pesticide or herbicide residues — often right at the field as they are being harvested. We also inspect meat and meat products for wholesomeness, and check packaged goods on shelves for weight and content.

"And, these activities are not solely related to food products," he added. "We also check petroleum products for quantity and quality, and establish and enforce standards for all commercial weighing and measuring devices used in the state. Even gasoline pumps and the jockey scales at the race tracks are certified by us."

Christensen pointed out that most of the work of inspection and consumer protection is carried out with the help of county agricultural and weights and measures officials.

"One more advantage to our new name" Christensen added, "is that perhaps now people won't confuse us with the United States Department of Agriculture."

More Dishes For Fighting Meat Prices

Meatless recipes are one way to cut spiralling grocery costs. These recipes will supply the family with enough protein without using meat.

CHEESE CHILI SPANISH STYLE

1 medium onion, thinly sliced
2 tablespoons butter, margarine, or bacon drippings
1 clove garlic, minced
1½ to 2 tablespoons chili powder
2 cups (16 ounces) canned tomatoes, mashed
3 cups cooked pinto beans or red kidney beans
Salt and pepper
1½ cups grated or diced cheese
3 cups hot cooked rice

Cook onion in butter until soft but not brown. Stir in garlic and chili powder. Add tomatoes, beans, and salt and pepper to taste. Simmer 10 minutes to blend flavors. Add cheese and continue heating until cheese melts, stirring constantly. Spoon mixture into soup bowls. Top with a mound of rice (about half cup). Makes six servings.

SPINACH RICE FRITTATA

½ cup finely chopped onions
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1½ cups drained, cooked chopped spinach
1 clove garlic, crushed
3 cups cooked rice
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese
4 eggs, slightly beaten
½ cup milk
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 cup shredded Mozzarella cheese

Saute onions in butter until tender but not brown. Add spinach, garlic, rice, and Parmesan cheese; mix well. Combine eggs, milk and seasonings. Stir into rice mixture.

Turn into a well-buttered shallow two-quart casserole. Top with cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes or until set. Makes six servings.

An Elegant Budget Dish For Dinner

Wrap slices of turkey sandwich meat around cooked fresh asparagus spears and line up in baking dish.

Pour canned cream of shrimp soup thinned with dry vermouth or milk over rolls; sprinkle with chopped almonds; heat in oven.

A Tasty Dessert

Fold mashed banana and roasted slivered almonds into softened vanilla ice cream; fold in stiffly whipped cream. Serve promptly garnished with a sprinkling of almonds.

A Soup Expert Shares A Recipe For Hearty Herb Oxtail Offering

Soup was the subject of Diane MacMillan's Kitchen Time in Marin radio show on KTIM yesterday when her guest was soup cookbook author Coralie Castle of San Rafael. Today they share a recipe for herb oxtail soup.

HERB OXTAIL SOUP

2½ pounds oxtails, cut up
2 tablespoons butter and or rendered beef fat
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon white pepper
1 cup chopped onions
2 minced garlic cloves
2 teaspoons powdered mushroom
3 cups dry red wine
2 cups water

bouquet garni of:
2 sprigs parsley
1 sprig rosemary
1 sprig thyme
2 sprigs oregano
½ cup pearl barley
1 cup sliced carrots
1 cup diced potatoes
2 cans beef broth
1 can vegetable juice (optional)
½ cup Madeira

Brown oxtails in butter and or fat on all sides: sprinkling with salt and pepper as they are cooking. Add onion and garlic the last turn, brown, sprinkle with powdered mushroom and add wine, water and bouquet garni. Cover, bring to boil and cook one to one and one half hours. Cool, chill, remove fat and bring back to boil. Add barley and cook one and one half hours. Remove bouquet garni, add carrots, potatoes, broth and juice. Bring back to boil and cook 15 minutes or until vegetables are tender-crisp. Adjust seasonings. Just before serving add one half cup Madeira or to taste. Serves four to six.

Curried Apples Good With Chicken

Core apples and slice into rings; place in broiler pan and sread with a mixture of soft margarine, brown sugar and curry powder.

Broil about four minutes; sprinkle with chopped almonds and return to broiler for a minute or less to toast. Good with baked chicken, ham or breakfast meats.

A New Twist To Pie Made Of Applesauce

Around Boston, Mass., applesauce pies were popular in the past century. These were made chiefly with applesauce, sugar and eggs. But as the years passed, applesauce pies have changed. One good cook adds golden raisins and a streusel topping.

APPLESAUCE RAISIN CRUMB PIE

1 can (16 ounces) or 1 jar (15 ounces) applesauce
1 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
¼ cup butter
Dash of salt
1 cup golden raisins
4 eggs
Unbaked 10-inch pie shell
¾ cup buttermilk biscuit mix
¼ cup granulated sugar
2 tablespoons butter

Into a 2-quart saucepan turn the applesauce and brown sugar. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer for 20 minutes; remove from heat. Add quarter cup butter and the salt; stir until butter is melted. Stir in raisins. Cool to room temperature.

In a small mixing bowl beat eggs well; add to cooled applesauce mixture and blend well. Pour into pie shell. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven, on rack below center, for 20 minutes.

Meanwhile in a medium mixing bowl stir together the biscuit mix and granulated sugar; with a pastry blender cut in the two tablespoons butter until the size of small peas. After pie has baked for 20 minutes, sprinkle the biscuit-mix mixture evenly over top and continue baking in the 375-degree oven until crust and top are golden brown — 25 more minutes. Place pan on wire rack to cool before cutting.

A Spring Dessert

Roll scoops of vanilla ice cream in roasted sliced almonds; freeze. Cook cut-up rhubarb in water to cover until tender, drain and sweeten to taste with raspberry jam. Spoon over almond-ice cream balls.

Agriculture Department's New Name

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The California Department of Agriculture is now the California Department of Food and Agriculture.

Department Director C. B. Christensen said that the name change, which became effective last Wednesday will point up the fact that the basic function of his department is to assure consumers a reliable supply of wholesome, high quality, safe food and that they get full measure for what they pay.

"Many people don't realize our deep involvement with the consumer and with consumer health and protection," Christensen said.

"Just a few of the things we do, for example, are to inspect weighing and measuring devices to ensure accuracy, and to analyze fruits and vegetables for excess pesticide or herbicide residues — often right at the field as they are being harvested. We also inspect meat and meat products for wholesomeness, and check packaged goods on shelves for weight and content.

"And, these activities are not solely related to food products," he added. "We also check petroleum products for quantity and quality, and establish and enforce standards for all commercial weighing and measuring devices used in the state. Even gasoline pumps and the jockey scales at the race tracks are certified by us."

Christensen pointed out that most of the work of inspection and consumer protection is carried out with the help of county agricultural and weights and measures officials.

"One more advantage to our new name" Christensen added, "is that perhaps now people won't confuse us with the United States Department of Agriculture."

More Dishes For Fighting Meat Prices

Meatless recipes are one way to cut spiralling grocery costs. These recipes will supply the family with enough protein without using meat.

CHEESE CHILI SPANISH STYLE

1 medium onion, thinly sliced
2 tablespoons butter, margarine, or bacon drippings
1 clove garlic, minced
1½ to 2 tablespoons chili powder
2 cups (16 ounces) canned tomatoes, mashed
3 cups cooked pinto beans or red kidney beans
Salt and pepper
1½ cups grated or diced cheese
3 cups hot cooked rice

Cook onion in butter until soft but not brown. Stir in garlic and chili powder. Add tomatoes, beans, and salt and pepper to taste. Simmer 10 minutes to blend flavors. Add cheese and continue heating until cheese melts, stirring constantly. Spoon mixture into soup bowls. Top with a mound of rice (about half cup). Makes six servings.

SPINACH RICE FRITTATA

½ cup finely chopped onions
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1½ cups drained, cooked chopped spinach
1 clove garlic, crushed
3 cups cooked rice
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese
4 eggs, slightly beaten
½ cup milk
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 cup shredded Mozzarella cheese

Saute onions in butter until tender but not brown. Add spinach, garlic, rice, and Parmesan cheese; mix well. Combine eggs, milk and seasonings. Stir into rice mixture.

Turn into a well-buttered shallow two-quart casserole. Top with cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes or until set. Makes six servings.

An Elegant Budget Dish For Dinner

Wrap slices of turkey sandwich meat around cooked fresh asparagus spears and line up in baking dish.

Pour canned cream of shrimp soup thinned with dry vermouth or milk over rolls; sprinkle with chopped almonds; heat in oven.

A Tasty Dessert

Fold mashed banana and roasted slivered almonds into softened vanilla ice cream; fold in stiffly whipped cream. Serve promptly garnished with a sprinkling of almonds.

A Soup Expert Shares A Recipe For Hearty Herb Oxtail Offering

Soup was the subject of Diane MacMillan's Kitchen Time in Marin radio show on KTIM yesterday when her guest was soup cookbook author Coralie Castle of San Rafael. Today they share a recipe for herb oxtail soup.

HERB OXTAIL SOUP

2½ pounds oxtails, cut up
2 tablespoons butter and or rendered beef fat
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon white pepper
1 cup chopped onions
2 minced garlic cloves
2 teaspoons powdered mushroom
3 cups dry red wine
2 cups water

bouquet garni of:

2 sprigs parsley
1 sprig rosemary
1 sprig thyme
2 sprigs oregano
½ cup pearl barley
1 cup sliced carrots
1 cup diced potatoes
2 cans beef broth
1 can vegetable juice (optional)
½ cup Madeira

Brown oxtails in butter and or fat on all sides: sprinkling with salt and pepper as they are cooking. Add onion and garlic the last turn, brown, sprinkle with powdered mushroom and add wine, water and bouquet garni. Cover, bring to boil and cook one to one and one half hours. Cool, chill, remove fat and bring back to boil. Add barley and cook one and one half hours. Remove bouquet garni, add carrots, potatoes, broth and juice. Bring back to boil and cook 15 minutes or until vegetables are tender-crisp. Adjust seasonings. Just before serving add one half cup Madeira or to taste. Serves four to six.

Curried Apples Good With Chicken

Core apples and slice into rings; place in broiler pan and sread with a mixture of soft margarine, brown sugar and curry powder.

Broil about four minutes; sprinkle with chopped almonds and return to broiler for a minute or less to toast. Good with baked chicken, ham or breakfast meats.

A New Twist To Pie Made Of Applesauce

Around Boston, Mass., applesauce pies were popular in the past century. These were made chiefly with applesauce, sugar and eggs. But as the years passed, applesauce pies have changed. One good cook adds golden raisins and a streusel topping.

APPLESAUCE RAISIN CRUMB PIE

1 can (16 ounces) or 1 jar (15 ounces) applesauce
1 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
¼ cup butter
Dash of salt
1 cup golden raisins
4 eggs
Unbaked 10-inch pie shell
¾ cup buttermilk biscuit mix
¼ cup granulated sugar
2 tablespoons butter

Into a 2-quart saucepan turn the applesauce and brown sugar. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer for 20 minutes; remove from heat. Add quarter cup butter and the salt; stir until butter is melted. Stir in raisins. Cool to room temperature.

In a small mixing bowl beat eggs well; add to cooled applesauce mixture and blend well. Pour into pie shell. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven, on rack below center, for 20 minutes.

Meanwhile in a medium mixing bowl stir together the biscuit mix and granulated sugar; with a pastry blender cut in the two tablespoons butter until the size of small peas. After pie has baked for 20 minutes, sprinkle the biscuit-mix mixture evenly over top and continue baking in the 375-degree oven until crust and top are golden brown — 25 more minutes. Place pan on wire rack to cool before cutting.

A Spring Dessert

Roll scoops of vanilla ice cream in roasted sliced almonds; freeze. Cook cut-up rhubarb in water to cover until tender, drain and sweeten to taste with raspberry jam. Spoon over almond-ice cream balls.

TURKISH EXCHANGE student Cihat Gercel fills pastry with meat and onion mixture which he has cooked to make Turkish bereks. It is one of the international foods to be offered Saturday at the Redwood High School International Food Fair and Rummage Sale. Gercel, who is from Istanbul, is an exchange student at Redwood this year.

Redwood Exchange Students Share Special Delicacies

Turkish berek, quiche lorraine, brandy snaps and sandtoertchen are some of the international delicacies that will be provided Saturday at an international food fair which is part of the Redwood High School International Student Exchange silent auction and rummage sale.

The rummage sale is scheduled 7 to 10 p.m. Friday, and 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday. The food fair will be presented Saturday only at the school.

Students involved in the student exchange program have planned the fair, and will be preparing their offerings.

Cihat Gercel from Istanbul is staying with the John Ducketts of Tiburon as a member of the American Field Service exchange program, and is attending Redwood this year.

Although he never spends any time in the kitchen at home, his American mother, Jean Duckett, reports that his dexterity in preparing the berek is astonishing. And anyone who has prepared baklava, or worked with the "world's first pastry," fillo or phyllo (available at a very few stores in Marin County) can appreciate the need for dexterity.

MEAT BEREKS

(Recipe from Zekiye Kahraman of San Anselmo)

1 pound of phyllo pastry
1 cube butter melted filling:
1 pound ground beef
3 T. butter or olive oil
2 small onions chopped fine
1 egg
2 T. dill weed
Salt and white pepper to taste

Saute meat and onions till onions are clear and meat is done. Cool and add rest of ingrediants.

Cut phyllo pastry in four parts and stack in one pile. Cover with a towel to prevent drying out. Take one sheet from pile (short side of rectangle toward you), butter with a pastry brush or feather brush, and repeat with two more sheets.

Place one teaspoonful meat filling one inch from the bottom of pastry, just right of the middle. Fold over one-third long length of pastry, brush with butter, then fold over the other third side. Brush the whole length with butter again.

Beginning at the bottom fold up one corner to make a triangle. Continue folding up to the top and you will have a fat little triangle. Place in a buttered pan and bake for 20 minutes at 350 degrees or until golden brown. (Some cooks fry these quickly in hot oil but this takes practice as they can burn very quickly.)

This recipe makes about one hundred. Make them ahead and freeze them, but don't cook them until they're completely thawed. They are perfect hors d'oeuvres.

CAROLINE MANLEY of Tiburon is headed for Redwood's sister school at Blandford, Dorset County, England, next year, and will introduce her English rolled wafers — or brandy snaps — to her schoolmates at the international food fair.

BRANDY SNAPS

½ cup butter
½ cup sugar
⅓ cup dark molasses
¼ tsp. ground ginger
½ tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. orange rind
1 cup whole wheat pastry or bread flour
2 tsp. brandy

Heat first six ingredients together in large saucepan until butter and sugar are melted. Remove from heat and add flour and brandy. Mix well and let stand about 15 minutes.

Lightly grease the back of large, shallow baking pan. Arrange by teaspoonfuls (scant) about 2 inches apart. Bake 13-15 minutes at 375 degrees. Let cool a few minutes and remove one at a time with a spatula and roll around handle of a wooden spoon while still warm. If cookies cool too fast, put back into oven for a minute to soften. Fill with sweetened whipped cream or cream cheese. Use a pastry tube to fill each end.

Another student, Anne Remak of Tiburon who was instrumental in establishing the sister school exchange with Freiburg, Germany, submits her Sandtoertchen.

SANDTOERTCHEN

Beat until soft three-quarter cup butter; blend butter with one and one-half cup sugar until creamy. Beat in one egg yolk and one egg, one tsp. vanilla, one tsp. grated lemon rind; sift three cups flour, (resift with quarter tsp. salt if butter is unsalted). Combine flour and butter mixture.

Chill for several hours. Roll until very thin between waxed paper. Cut into rounds, brush with white of an egg, garnish with blanched split almonds. Bake on greased tin for eight minutes in a 400-degree oven. Remove, put two together, sandwich style, filling with a commercial chocolate frosting, or semi-sweet chocolate melted with butter.

QUICHE LORRAINE

Use an unbaked pie shell. Preheat the oven to 425 degrees. Rub the shell with a tablespoon of butter. Fry 12 bacon slices; save the oil and saute onion rings (one onion) in it. Crumble half the bacon, and put half of this in the bottom of the shell, along with half the onion. Beat four eggs with two cups of half and half; add half teaspoon salt, a pinch of sugar, two turns of a pepper mill.

Grate a quarter pound of Swiss cheese (one cup). Put half of the cheese in the shell, add half of the cream mixture; then add the rest of the bacon and onion and then the cheese and cream mixture. Garnish with the remaining slices of bacon strips and a little grated nutmeg. Bake at 425 degrees for 15 minutes; then at 300 for 40 minutes.

It is best to use a quiche pan, which has a removable side, like a spring form pan, but it can be made in a pie tin.

Hot Dogs Are Trimline Special

Hot dogs are a trimline special, even in comparison with other meats. A top limit of 30 per cent fat is set by meat inspection regulations for all cooked sausage, including wieners, bologna and luncheon meats. The maximum allowable is less than the average fat content of many cuts of beef.

According to the United States Department of Agriculture, sirloin steak which has been cooked and trimmed of visible fat, contains 34 per cent fat; a Porterhouse steak, about 45 per cent fat, and a rump beef roast, considered lean, contains 25 per cent fat.

A Tasty Treat For Purim Festival

With the Festival Purim on Monday, members of the Marin Jewish Community Center are preparing for the festival party they will have at Temple Rodef Sholom in San Rafael Sunday at 4 p.m.

Traditional food includes the pastry Hamentaschen, which is similar to a turnover.

Here two versions for the dough are given, yeast dough which is the more traditional and honey dough. A choice of poppy seed or prune filling is offered to readers.

HAMENTASCHEN YEAST DOUGH

2 cakes or packages yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
¾ cup scalded milk, cooled
5 cups sifted flour
¾ cup sugar
1½ tsp. salt
3 eggs
1 cup melted butter

Soften the yeast in the water for five minutes, then add to the milk. Stir in two cups of the flour, the sugar and the salt. Add one egg at a time, beating after each addition. Beat in the butter and remaining flour.

Knead for a few minutes, then place in a bowl. Cover with a towel and let rise in a warm place until doubled in bulk. Punch down, and knead on a floured board (lightly floured) for five minutes. Divide the dough in half, and roll out to a quarter-inch thickness.

Cut into four-inch squares. Place a heaping tablespoon of filling on each and fold the dough over into a triangle, sealing the edges. Let rise until doubled in bulk, and brush with beaten egg yolk.

Bake in a 375-degree oven 25 minutes, or until browned. Makes about 3½ dozen.

HONEY DOUGH FOR HAMENTASCHEN

4 cups sifted flour
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. baking powder
½ cup shortening, softened
4 eggs
1 cup honey

Sift the flour, salt, and baking powder into a bowl. Make a well in the center and place the shortening, eggs and honey in it. Work together with the hand until a dough is formed. Roll out and cut into four-inch squares. Place a heaping tablespoon of filling on each and fold over into a triangle, sealing the edges.

Bake in a 350-degree oven 20 minutes, or until browned. Makes about three dozen

FILLINGS FOR HAMENTASCHEN

Poppy Seed:

2 cups poppy seeds
1 cup milk
¾ cup honey
1 tsp. grated lemon rind
½ cup seedless raisins

Have the poppy seeds ground or put through a food chopper. Combine with the milk and honey. Cook over low heat, stirring frequently, until thick. Stir in the lemon rind and raisins. Cool and fill the dough.

Prune:

2 cups lackva (prune butter)
½ cup ground almonds
1 tbsp. grated orange rind

Mix ingredients together and fill dough.

Note: Strained baby food prunes may be substituted for prune butter.

MAKING HAMENTASCHEN for the Purim Festival the Marin Jewish Community Center is having Sunday at 4 p.m. at Temple Rodef Sholom in San Rafael are Mmes. Irving Shapiro (left) and Eugene Braunstein. The pastry is filled with poppy seed or prune fillings.

Top Vocalist Sees No Wrong Speaking Of God As Woman

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Helen Reddy, the award-winning vocalist, sees nothing earthshaking about her reference to God as a woman.

"Why not?", she said. "We speak of Mother Nature, of Mother Earth. Actually my personal version of God doesn't include gender. I see God as a spiritual being without sex."

Miss Reddy's album titled "I Am Woman" won her this year's Grammy for the best female pop, rock and folk vocal performance. The Grammy is the music world's version of the movie Oscar.

Capitol Records which recorded the music said the album now had reached the "gold" status—it already has sold more than $1 million. Some of that gold may come from women's liberationists—they've picked "I Am Woman" as a theme song.

AT THE GRAMMY presentation in Nashville, Tenn., Miss Reddy accepted the award with the comment, "I would like to thank God for She makes everything possible."

Reached by telephone at her home in Hollywood, Miss Reddy discussed the comment as one which had stirred reaction from friends but not (yet anyway) from fans.

She said she was neither pro nor con on the liberation movement—the whole matter was up to the individual.

"Just," she said, "as religion is a personal matter...you go about and find your own answers...through discussion, prayer and meditation.

"Just as individual is whether you go to church every Sunday ... fine for some, but again up to the person."

Miss Reddy said she had not come from a family of strong religious convictions. Her parents are show people. Her father, Max Reddy, was a wellknown writer, producer and actor in their native Australia. Stella Lamond, her mother, is a prominent actress.

HELEN REDDY, this year's Grammy winner for the best female pop, rock and folk vocal performance, sees nothing earthshaking about her reference to God as a woman. She won the award for an album titled "I Am Woman." (UPI photo)

MISS REDDY not only sang with them as a child but also appeared with them on their long-running radio show, playing almost every female part a radio writer could create.

The rough edges were smothed over, meanwhile, by two years at an Australian boarding school with a solid British background. But at 15, Miss Reddy started to work fulltime as an actress-singer and at the same time resolved "to get to America one way or another."

She made it in 1966 by winning a talent contest staged by an Australian television station. "I had two things going for me," she has said. "I sang in tune and I had a tremendous ego." One of the prizes was a trip to New York.

Capitol, she said, signed her in 1970 on the basis of tapes she'd done.

Her first big hit was "I Don't Know How to Love Him". The rather surprised recording company then let her record an album and Miss Reddy recalls that, "After singing professionally for 25 years, I finally had an album of my own. I took a copy home and slept with it under my pillow."

TODAY, MISS Reddy makes her home high in the Hollywood Hills, with her husband Jeff Wald, and two children, a daughter of 10 years (by a previous marriage) and a son 12 weeks.

Wald undoubtedly has done a great deal to establish the Reddy stardom. She met him at a party; at the time, he was a young agent with William Morris. Today he's full-time partner and personal manager.

Miss Reddy still is a little chary of stardom. As she says, "People are beginning to recognize me. My life is not now entirely mine and Jeff's, but I think you always lose a little for every gain. It's part of the price."

Japanese Wary Of Pregnancy

LONDON (UPI) — Britain and the world have a lot to learn from the Japanese way of birth control, the medical journal World Medicine said.

The Japanese have found that many unwanted pregnancies occur in winter because it is too cold to get out of bed to fetch a contraceptive.

So, World Medicine said, Japanese wives are advised to sew a special pocket in their pillow for contraceptives or to put one in their husband's nightgown pocket each night.

The Japanese also have made an art of packaging contraceptive aids, with the biggest company marketing 150 brands, the journal said.

"Some packages look like chocolate boxes, others like biscuits or cigarette cartons, others are unlabeled — a sales technique that saves embarrassment at the point of purchase but can confuse children in the home," it said.

In addition, many sales are made directly to housewives by door-to-door saleslady teams.

Top Vocalist Sees No Wrong Speaking Of God As Woman

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Helen Reddy, the award-winning vocalist, sees nothing earthshaking about her reference to God as a woman.

"Why not?", she said. "We speak of Mother Nature, of Mother Earth. Actually my personal version of God doesn't include gender. I see God as a spiritual being without sex."

Miss Reddy's album titled "I Am Woman" won her this year's Grammy for the best female pop, rock and folk vocal performance. The Grammy is the music world's version of the movie Oscar.

Capitol Records which recorded the music said the album now had reached the "gold" status—it already has sold more than $1 million. Some of that gold may come from women's liberationists—they've picked "I Am Woman" as a theme song.

AT THE GRAMMY presentation in Nashville, Tenn., Miss Reddy accepted the award with the comment, "I would like to thank God for She makes everything possible."

Reached by telephone at her home in Hollywood, Miss Reddy discussed the comment as one which had stirred reaction from friends but not (yet anyway) from fans.

She said she was neither pro nor con on the liberation movement—the whole matter was up to the individual.

"Just," she said, "as religion is a personal matter...you go about and find your own answers...through discussion, prayer and meditation.

"Just as individual is whether you go to church every Sunday ... fine for some, but again up to the person."

Miss Reddy said she had not come from a family of strong religious convictions. Her parents are show people. Her father, Max Reddy, was a wellknown writer, producer and actor in their native Australia. Stella Lamond, her mother, is a prominent actress.

Agriculture Department's New Name

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The California Department of Agriculture is now the California Department of Food and Agriculture.

Department Director C. B. Christensen said that the name change, which became effective last Wednesday will point up the fact that the basic function of his department is to assure consumers a reliable supply of wholesome, high quality, safe food and that they get full measure for what they pay.

"Many people don't realize our deep involvement with the consumer and with consumer health and protection," Christensen said.

"Just a few of the things we do, for example, are to inspect weighing and measuring devices to ensure accuracy, and to analyze fruits and vegetables for excess pesticide or herbicide residues — often right at the field as they are being harvested. We also inspect meat and meat products for wholesomeness, and check packaged goods on shelves for weight and content.

"And, these activities are not solely related to food products," he added. "We also check petroleum products for quantity and quality, and establish and enforce standards for all commercial weighing and measuring devices used in the state. Even gasoline pumps and the jockey scales at the race tracks are certified by us."

Christensen pointed out that most of the work of inspection and consumer protection is carried out with the help of county agricultural and weights and measures officials.

"One more advantage to our new name" Christensen added, "is that perhaps now people won't confuse us with the United States Department of Agriculture."

More Dishes For Fighting Meat Prices

Meatless recipes are one way to cut spiralling grocery costs. These recipes will supply the family with enough protein without using meat.

CHEESE CHILI SPANISH STYLE

1 medium onion, thinly sliced
2 tablespoons butter, margarine, or bacon drippings
1 clove garlic, minced
1½ to 2 tablespoons chili powder
2 cups (16 ounces) canned tomatoes, mashed
3 cups cooked pinto beans or red kidney beans
Salt and pepper
1½ cups grated or diced cheese
3 cups hot cooked rice

Cook onion in butter until soft but not brown. Stir in garlic and chili powder. Add tomatoes, beans, and salt and pepper to taste. Simmer 10 minutes to blend flavors. Add cheese and continue heating until cheese melts, stirring constantly. Spoon mixture into soup bowls. Top with a mound of rice (about half cup). Makes six servings.

SPINACH RICE FRITTATA

½ cup finely chopped onions
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1½ cups drained, cooked chopped spinach
1 clove garlic, crushed
3 cups cooked rice
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese
4 eggs, slightly beaten
½ cup milk
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 cup shredded Mozzarella cheese

Saute onions in butter until tender but not brown. Add spinach, garlic, rice, and Parmesan cheese; mix well. Combine eggs, milk and seasonings. Stir into rice mixture.

Turn into a well-buttered shallow two-quart casserole. Top with cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes or until set. Makes six servings.

An Elegant Budget Dish For Dinner

Wrap slices of turkey sandwich meat around cooked fresh asparagus spears and line up in baking dish.

Pour canned cream of shrimp soup thinned with dry vermouth or milk over rolls; sprinkle with chopped almonds; heat in oven.

A Tasty Dessert

Fold mashed banana and roasted slivered almonds into softened vanilla ice cream; fold in stiffly whipped cream. Serve promptly garnished with a sprinkling of almonds.

½ cup pearl barley
1 cup sliced carrots
1 cup diced potatoes
2 cans beef broth
1 can vegetable juice (optional)
½ cup Madeira

Brown oxtails in butter and or fat on all sides: sprinkling with salt and pepper as they are cooking. Add onion and garlic the last turn, brown, sprinkle with powdered mushroom and add wine, water and bouquet garni. Cover, bring to boil and cook one to one and one half hours. Cool, chill, remove fat and bring back to boil. Add barley and cook one and one half hours. Remove bouquet garni, add carrots, potatoes, broth and juice. Bring back to boil and cook 15 minutes or until vegetables are tender-crisp. Adjust seasonings. Just before serving add one half cup Madeira or to taste. Serves four to six.

Curried Apples Good With Chicken

Core apples and slice into rings; place in broiler pan and sread with a mixture of soft margarine, brown sugar and curry powder.

Broil about four minutes; sprinkle with chopped almonds and return to broiler for a minute or less to toast. Good with baked chicken, ham or breakfast meats.

A New Twist To Pie Made Of Applesauce

Around Boston, Mass., applesauce pies were popular in the past century. These were made chiefly with applesauce, sugar and eggs. But as the years passed, applesauce pies have changed. One good cook adds golden raisins and a streusel topping.

APPLESAUCE RAISIN CRUMB PIE

1 can (16 ounces) or 1 jar (15 ounces) applesauce
1 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
¼ cup butter
Dash of salt
1 cup golden raisins
4 eggs
Unbaked 10-inch pie shell
¾ cup buttermilk biscuit mix
¼ cup granulated sugar
2 tablespoons butter

Into a 2-quart saucepan turn the applesauce and brown sugar. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer for 20 minutes; remove from heat. Add quarter cup butter and the salt; stir until butter is melted. Stir in raisins. Cool to room temperature.

In a small mixing bowl beat eggs well; add to cooled applesauce mixture and blend well. Pour into pie shell. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven, on rack below center, for 20 minutes.

Meanwhile in a medium mixing bowl stir together the biscuit mix and granulated sugar; with a pastry blender cut in the two tablespoons butter until the size of small peas. After pie has baked for 20 minutes, sprinkle the biscuit-mix mixture evenly over top and continue baking in the 375-degree oven until crust and top are golden brown — 25 more minutes. Place pan on wire rack to cool before cutting.

A Spring Dessert

Roll scoops of vanilla ice cream in roasted sliced almonds; freeze. Cook cut-up rhubarb in water to cover until tender, drain and sweeten to taste with raspberry jam. Spoon over almond-ice cream balls.

She Wonders If She's A Fool About A Borrowing Boyfriend

DEAR HELEN:

I am in love wtih a man and I don't know whether I'm a fool or not.

He has been borrowing money and promising to pay me back, but he never does. Last time it was $200 — against his income tax refund. But the refund came and went — right past me.

There's another problem. I live at home with my mother and baby, though I'm 26. Mainly because it's cheaper and less lonely for all of us and we get along well. But he says I'm "too dependent" just because I call home when I'm going to be out late, to check on the baby and keep Mom from worrying. He says a woman my age should have an apartment of her own.

I was used once before. Am I letting love blind me again? — DOUBTFUL

DEAR DOUBTFUL:

Probably.

A man who calls his girl "too dependent" while he depends on her handouts, is the same kind of scrounger who would move into the apartment he insisted she rent — as a non-paying guest.

Take your money (what's left) and run! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I hear about the centerfolds for Playboy and Cosmopolitan. Well, by gosh, I got an ambition: I'm going to apply as a model for the first centerfold in "Harvest Years." — FOXY GRANDPA

DEAR FOXY:

Get 'em, Tiger! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My wife-to-be wants a double-ring ceremony, but I don't go for wearing rings. Please tell me what a wedding ring does for a man. — AGAINST

DEAR AGAINST:

Well, (supposedly) it stops circulation. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Women claim they are discriminated against. What about the divorce courts? I know a few nice guys who thought they should split the uranium mine: She got the uranium, and he got the shaft!

In one case, the woman won the house and made a nice profit, then skipped the state with two children and a boyfriend. But she still demands and gets a big wad of child support from her ex-husband — which means he is supporting the boyfriend.

I know another guy who puts out nearly half his salary to support his kids, even though his former wife draws down a good salary herself. He can't afford to get married again, but she can, because he's stuck with child support until the children are 21, whether she takes a new husband or not.

Let's hope the Equal Rights Amendment will stop some of this inequity! — CONCERNED FOR MY FRIENDS

DEAR CMFM:

Possibly that's why some of the anti-NOW gals are against ERA. — H.

Got a problem? An adult subject for discussion? A fun idea? You can talk it over in her column if you write to Helen Bottel, care of the Independent-Journal.

Aiding Others Is The Goal Of Divorce Advisory Group

A group of persons who has completed divorce adjustment counseling at the Family Service Agency of Marin has formed a divorce advisory group.

Members of the group want to help others who are in a critical state following a divorce or separation. They meet every other Wednesday at the agency's office in San Rafael and are in the process of developing a program, according to divorce adjustment counselors Susan Harrow and Mel Krantzler.

Mrs. Harrow and Krantzler organized the group then stepped out of the picture, except on a call in basis.

"It started because the people wanted to go beyond the 10 counseling sessions. Some areas were unfinished because at the time they are going through counseling we were treating the immediate crisis, taking care of the initial hurt," Krantzler said. "They are taking the next step toward personal autonomy."

Members have offered to help facilitate current groups at the agency. They will check new singles groups and serve as resource persons reporting on interesting places to go, according to Krantzler.

At their meetings the men and women will discuss post divoce problems such as living together arrangements, sexuality and the problems of being a single parent, according to Krantzler.

Insomnia Common After You're 40

(I-J Special Report)

BETHESDA, Md. (MW) — If you're a woman past 40 who isn't sleeping as well as you once did — consider your health, your age and your emotional state.

That's the advice of gynecologist Donald Levitt, who says insomnia is a common complaint of middleaged women. "You've got to inquire into the state of their health," he says. "Very frequently the failure to sleep might be the first sign of either emotional or somatic illness."

Dr. Levitt has also found insomnia can be related to the hormonal imbalance that often marks the menopause. "Insomnia is as common a symptom as anxiety, and in some studies, as common as flushes and sweats," he says.

In a study, Dr. Levitt treated menopausal women with estrogens to estore the balance. He reports "hot flushes and sweats subsided," and of those who complained of insomnia, "a significant number responded favorably to hormone therapy."

But Dr. Levitt adds that middle-aged insomnia is not always linked to an estrogen deficiency, and may not be due to a health problem at all. Age itself is an important factor, and research indicates we just don't sleep as long, or as soundly as we get older. Cat naps often replace a solid night of undisturbed rest.

Emotional worries can also keep you up nights. Ordinary tension, or "a real trauma," such as impending bankruptcy or the breakup of a marriage obviously rob you of needed sleep, said Dr. Levitt.

But if you figure out what's keeping you awake, you'll know how to fight it, according to the doctor. "We try to find out what's changed to make them not sleep. Did they have an argument, a frustration, a change in nighttime habits — a new bed?"

If the problem itself can't be solved, you can work at not worrying about it. Traditional tactics such as a glass of hot milk or a warm bath before bed really do help. So does establishing nightly rituals that will help you wind down your day.

Aiding Others Is The Goal Of Divorce Advisory Group

A group of persons who has completed divorce adjustment counseling at the Family Service Agency of Marin has formed a divorce advisory group.

Members of the group want to help others who are in a critical state following a divorce or separation. They meet every other Wednesday at the agency's office in San Rafael and are in the process of developing a program, according to divorce adjustment counselors Susan Harrow and Mel Krantzler.

Mrs. Harrow and Krantzler organized the group then stepped out of the picture, except on a call in basis.

"It started because the people wanted to go beyond the 10 counseling sessions. Some areas were unfinished because at the time they are going through counseling we were treating the immediate crisis, taking care of the initial hurt," Krantzler said. "They are taking the next step toward personal autonomy."

Members have offered to help facilitate current groups at the agency. They will check new singles groups and serve as resource persons reporting on interesting places to go, according to Krantzler.

At their meetings the men and women will discuss post divoce problems such as living together arrangements, sexuality and the problems of being a single parent, according to Krantzler.

Insomnia Common After You're 40

(I-J Special Report)

BETHESDA, Md. (MW) — If you're a woman past 40 who isn't sleeping as well as you once did — consider your health, your age and your emotional state.

That's the advice of gynecologist Donald Levitt, who says insomnia is a common complaint of middleaged women. "You've got to inquire into the state of their health," he says. "Very frequently the failure to sleep might be the first sign of either emotional or somatic illness."

Dr. Levitt has also found insomnia can be related to the hormonal imbalance that often marks the menopause. "Insomnia is as common a symptom as anxiety, and in some studies, as common as flushes and sweats," he says.

In a study, Dr. Levitt treated menopausal women with estrogens to estore the balance. He reports "hot flushes and sweats subsided," and of those who complained of insomnia, "a significant number responded favorably to hormone therapy."

But Dr. Levitt adds that middle-aged insomnia is not always linked to an estrogen deficiency, and may not be due to a health problem at all. Age itself is an important factor, and research indicates we just don't sleep as long, or as soundly as we get older. Cat naps often replace a solid night of undisturbed rest.

Emotional worries can also keep you up nights. Ordinary tension, or "a real trauma," such as impending bankruptcy or the breakup of a marriage obviously rob you of needed sleep, said Dr. Levitt.

But if you figure out what's keeping you awake, you'll know how to fight it, according to the doctor. "We try to find out what's changed to make them not sleep. Did they have an argument, a frustration, a change in nighttime habits — a new bed?"

If the problem itself can't be solved, you can work at not worrying about it. Traditional tactics such as a glass of hot milk or a warm bath before bed really do help. So does establishing nightly rituals that will help you wind down your day.

Top Vocalist Sees No Wrong Speaking Of God As Woman

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Helen Reddy, the award-winning vocalist, sees nothing earthshaking about her reference to God as a woman.

"Why not?", she said. "We speak of Mother Nature, of Mother Earth. Actually my personal version of God doesn't include gender. I see God as a spiritual being without sex."

Miss Reddy's album titled "I Am Woman" won her this year's Grammy for the best female pop, rock and folk vocal performance. The Grammy is the music world's version of the movie Oscar.

Capitol Records which recorded the music said the album now had reached the "gold" status—it already has sold more than $1 million. Some of that gold may come from women's liberationists—they've picked "I Am Woman" as a theme song.

AT THE GRAMMY presentation in Nashville, Tenn., Miss Reddy accepted the award with the comment, "I would like to thank God for She makes everything possible."

Reached by telephone at her home in Hollywood, Miss Reddy discussed the comment as one which had stirred reaction from friends but not (yet anyway) from fans.

She said she was neither pro nor con on the liberation movement—the whole matter was up to the individual.

"Just," she said, "as religion is a personal matter...you go about and find your own answers...through discussion, prayer and meditation.

"Just as individual is whether you go to church every Sunday ... fine for some, but again up to the person."

Miss Reddy said she had not come from a family of strong religious convictions. Her parents are show people. Her father, Max Reddy, was a wellknown writer, producer and actor in their native Australia. Stella Lamond, her mother, is a prominent actress.

HELEN REDDY, this year's Grammy winner for the best female pop, rock and folk vocal performance, sees nothing earthshaking about her reference to God as a woman. She won the award for an album titled "I Am Woman." (UPI photo)

MISS REDDY not only sang with them as a child but also appeared with them on their long-running radio show, playing almost every female part a radio writer could create.

The rough edges were smothed over, meanwhile, by two years at an Australian boarding school with a solid British background. But at 15, Miss Reddy started to work fulltime as an actress-singer and at the same time resolved "to get to America one way or another."

She made it in 1966 by winning a talent contest staged by an Australian television station. "I had two things going for me," she has said. "I sang in tune and I had a tremendous ego." One of the prizes was a trip to New York.

Capitol, she said, signed her in 1970 on the basis of tapes she'd done.

Her first big hit was "I Don't Know How to Love Him". The rather surprised recording company then let her record an album and Miss Reddy recalls that, "After singing professionally for 25 years, I finally had an album of my own. I took a copy home and slept with it under my pillow."

TODAY, MISS Reddy makes her home high in the Hollywood Hills, with her husband Jeff Wald, and two children, a daughter of 10 years (by a previous marriage) and a son 12 weeks.

Wald undoubtedly has done a great deal to establish the Reddy stardom. She met him at a party; at the time, he was a young agent with William Morris. Today he's full-time partner and personal manager.

Miss Reddy still is a little chary of stardom. As she says, "People are beginning to recognize me. My life is not now entirely mine and Jeff's, but I think you always lose a little for every gain. It's part of the price."

Japanese Wary Of Pregnancy

LONDON (UPI) — Britain and the world have a lot to learn from the Japanese way of birth control, the medical journal World Medicine said.

The Japanese have found that many unwanted pregnancies occur in winter because it is too cold to get out of bed to fetch a contraceptive.

So, World Medicine said, Japanese wives are advised to sew a special pocket in their pillow for contraceptives or to put one in their husband's nightgown pocket each night.

The Japanese also have made an art of packaging contraceptive aids, with the biggest company marketing 150 brands, the journal said.

"Some packages look like chocolate boxes, others like biscuits or cigarette cartons, others are unlabeled — a sales technique that saves embarrassment at the point of purchase but can confuse children in the home," it said.

In addition, many sales are made directly to housewives by door-to-door saleslady teams.

American Indians Tell Their Story

By PHYLLIS FELDKAMP
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Some Europeans are better versed in the heritage of American Indian tribes or nations than are citizens of the United States.

In the Netherlands and West Germany, American Indian cultists fill clubrooms for regular powwows. In France, "les peaux rouges" and "le Far Ouest" entered the language back in the 19th Century and have continued as sources of romantic fascination.

Even so, acquaintance with Indian culture, customs, and clothing universally tends to be sketchy and second-hand, stemming from the novels of James Fenimore Cooper or from stereotypes portrayed in cowboy Westerns.

But lately the Indians themselves are bringing about change by providing their own information. One new departure is the "American Indian Cultural Program," a show that educates largely through the medium of fashion.

STAGED BY the Fashion Group of New York and prepared with the working support of Washington's Smithsonian Institution and New York's Museum of the American Indian, the program avoids all the common misrepresentations.

Early in April a troupe of 14 — nearly all American Indians — will take the show on the international road by going on tour abroad under the auspices of the exhibits division of the U.S. Information Agency (USIA). The show, a multimedia presentation featuring old and new fashions interspersed with slides, is the first large-scale fashion venture to have Indian participation and, one could add, Indian approval.

A few years ago free adaptations of Indian fringed leathers, furs, and feather headgear by some American designers aroused vociferous disapproval from American Indian activists. They misinterpreted the good intentions of Giorgio de Sant'Angelo and Jacques Kaplan.

More than a year in the making, the current cultural program was not put together without some slings and arrows from militants. Many slides illustrating the history and arts of the more than 250 tribes in the United States that were to be used in the show were destroyed during the November occupation of the Bureau of Indian Affairs in Washington and had to be replaced.

The traveling group includes nine models, all of whom belong to Narragansett, Shinnecock, Creek, Winnebago, Sioux, or other tribes, and some of whose surnames are Deer, Choctaw, or Little Eagle.

SINCE INTEREST was first evidenced by U.S. Ambassador to Great Britain Walter H. Annenberg and Mrs. Annenberg in having the show in London, the itinerary has been expanded into a five-nation tour. It will visit Stockholm, Berlin, Strasbourg, Amsterdam (and possibly Leiden as well). The traveling show is described by the USIA's exhibits project officer, Barbara Witt, as "the most ambitious live presentation we've sent overseas."

The primary purpose of the program is to alter attitudes through information, by way of authentic music and dances, slides of arts and crafts, commentary from Indian scholars, and historic and contemporary fashions.

The moving spirits behind the program have a corollary aim: to expose the first-rate fashions currently being produced by numerous American Indian cooperatives, mostly in the Midwest and Southwest, to a broader audience.

Although since 1963 the Association on American Indian Affairs has provided a limited market for master Indian and Eskimo painters, sculptors, and craftsmen, their work has not included any wearing apparel. A single exception is the handmade silver jewelry available at the nonprofit American Indian Arts Center in New York.

The newly established co-op ventures are turning out high-style contemporary Seminole patchwork skirts, Seneca calico smocks, and Navajo tie-dye clothes, among other desirable pieces of merchandise.

The principle on which the ventures are based is similar to that which has worked effectively in West Virginia, where the talents of economically deprived women have been developed through the patchwork designs the women execute for Mountain Artisans.

SIMILAR WORK is done in New York City's crime and poverty-ridden Bedford-Stuyvestant district, where a textile crafts center is bringing benefits to a depressed area.

The American Indian cooperatives utilize the skills and inheritance of design and crafts of Indians in urban regions and in schools, besides those on the various reservations.

Credit for the genesis of the show goes to Doris Antun, an associate fashion editor of Mademoiselle, who became immersed in all things Indian after producing a special issue on the American Indian for her magazine.

With Clydia Nahwooksy, director of Indian Awareness at the Smithsonian, and Dr. Delbert MacBride, curator of the State Capitol Museum, Olympia, Wash., she will serve as commentator during the European trip, carrying the Indian message overseas.

She and others concerned with the program urge interested private customers and retailers to deal directly with the Indian people. A list of the cooperatives and other information on available merchandise may be obtained from the Indian Arts and Crafts Board, Room 4004, U.S. Department of the Interior, Washington, D.C. 20240.

American Indians Tell Their Story

By PHYLLIS FELDKAMP
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Some Europeans are better versed in the heritage of American Indian tribes or nations than are citizens of the United States.

In the Netherlands and West Germany, American Indian cultists fill clubrooms for regular powwows. In France, "les peaux rouges" and "le Far Ouest" entered the language back in the 19th Century and have continued as sources of romantic fascination.

Even so, acquaintance with Indian culture, customs, and clothing universally tends to be sketchy and second-hand, stemming from the novels of James Fenimore Cooper or from stereotypes portrayed in cowboy Westerns.

But lately the Indians themselves are bringing about change by providing their own information. One new departure is the "American Indian Cultural Program," a show that educates largely through the medium of fashion.

STAGED BY the Fashion Group of New York and prepared with the working support of Washington's Smithsonian Institution and New York's Museum of the American Indian, the program avoids all the common misrepresentations.

Early in April a troupe of 14 — nearly all American Indians — will take the show on the international road by going on tour abroad under the auspices of the exhibits division of the U.S. Information Agency (USIA). The show, a multimedia presentation featuring old and new fashions interspersed with slides, is the first large-scale fashion venture to have Indian participation and, one could add, Indian approval.

A few years ago free adaptations of Indian fringed leathers, furs, and feather headgear by some American designers aroused vociferous disapproval from American Indian activists. They misinterpreted the good intentions of Giorgio de Sant'Angelo and Jacques Kaplan.

More than a year in the making, the current cultural program was not put together without some slings and arrows from militants. Many slides illustrating the history and arts of the more than 250 tribes in the United States that were to be used in the show were destroyed during the November occupation of the Bureau of Indian Affairs in Washington and had to be replaced.

The traveling group includes nine models, all of whom belong to Narragansett, Shinnecock, Creek, Winnebago, Sioux, or other tribes, and some of whose surnames are Deer, Choctaw, or Little Eagle.

SINCE INTEREST was first evidenced by U.S. Ambassador to Great Britain Walter H. Annenberg and Mrs. Annenberg in having the show in London, the itinerary has been expanded into a five-nation tour. It will visit Stockholm, Berlin, Strasbourg, Amsterdam (and possibly Leiden as well). The traveling show is described by the USIA's exhibits project officer, Barbara Witt, as "the most ambitious live presentation we've sent overseas."

The primary purpose of the program is to alter attitudes through information, by way of authentic music and dances, slides of arts and crafts, commentary from Indian scholars, and historic and contemporary fashions.

The moving spirits behind the program have a corollary aim: to expose the first-rate fashions currently being produced by numerous American Indian cooperatives, mostly in the Midwest and Southwest, to a broader audience.

Although since 1963 the Association on American Indian Affairs has provided a limited market for master Indian and Eskimo painters, sculptors, and craftsmen, their work has not included any wearing apparel. A single exception is the handmade silver jewelry available at the nonprofit American Indian Arts Center in New York.

The newly established co-op ventures are turning out high-style contemporary Seminole patchwork skirts, Seneca calico smocks, and Navajo tie-dye clothes, among other desirable pieces of merchandise.

The principle on which the ventures are based is similar to that which has worked effectively in West Virginia, where the talents of economically deprived women have been developed through the patchwork designs the women execute for Mountain Artisans.

SIMILAR WORK is done in New York City's crime and poverty-ridden Bedford-Stuyvestant district, where a textile crafts center is bringing benefits to a depressed area.

The American Indian cooperatives utilize the skills and inheritance of design and crafts of Indians in urban regions and in schools, besides those on the various reservations.

Credit for the genesis of the show goes to Doris Antun, an associate fashion editor of Mademoiselle, who became immersed in all things Indian after producing a special issue on the American Indian for her magazine.

With Clydia Nahwooksy, director of Indian Awareness at the Smithsonian, and Dr. Delbert MacBride, curator of the State Capitol Museum, Olympia, Wash., she will serve as commentator during the European trip, carrying the Indian message overseas.

She and others concerned with the program urge interested private customers and retailers to deal directly with the Indian people. A list of the cooperatives and other information on available merchandise may be obtained from the Indian Arts and Crafts Board, Room 4004, U.S. Department of the Interior, Washington, D.C. 20240.

ONE OF the Indian styles for a new international tour under U.S. Information Service sponsorship is the ribbon-trim fringed skirt (left) from Wana-Tauk, a Sauk and Fox cooperative in Oklahoma City, Okla. The silver and conch belt and silver necklace are traditional Navajo designs. The embroidered and beaded 1825 Potawatami outfit at right is from an American Cultural Program show.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

She Wonders If She's A Fool About A Borrowing Boyfriend

DEAR HELEN:

I am in love wtih a man and I don't know whether I'm a fool or not.

He has been borrowing money and promising to pay me back, but he never does. Last time it was $200 — against his income tax refund. But the refund came and went — right past me.

There's another problem. I live at home with my mother and baby, though I'm 26. Mainly because it's cheaper and less lonely for all of us and we get along well. But he says I'm "too dependent" just because I call home when I'm going to be out late, to check on the baby and keep Mom from worrying. He says a woman my age should have an apartment of her own.

I was used once before. Am I letting love blind me again? — DOUBTFUL

DEAR DOUBTFUL:

Probably.

A man who calls his girl "too dependent" while he depends on her handouts, is the same kind of scrounger who would move into the apartment he insisted she rent — as a non-paying guest.

Take your money (what's left) and run! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I hear about the centerfolds for Playboy and Cosmopolitan. Well, by gosh, I got an ambition: I'm going to apply as a model for the first centerfold in "Harvest Years." — FOXY GRANDPA

DEAR FOXY:

Get 'em, Tiger! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My wife-to-be wants a double-ring ceremony, but I don't go for wearing rings. Please tell me what a wedding ring does for a man. — AGAINST

DEAR AGAINST:

Well, (supposedly) it stops circulation. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Women claim they are discriminated against. What about the divorce courts? I know a few nice guys who thought they should split the uranium mine: She got the uranium, and he got the shaft!

In one case, the woman won the house and made a nice profit, then skipped the state with two children and a boyfriend. But she still demands and gets a big wad of child support from her ex-husband — which means he is supporting the boyfriend.

I know another guy who puts out nearly half his salary to support his kids, even though his former wife draws down a good salary herself. He can't afford to get married again, but she can, because he's stuck with child support until the children are 21, whether she takes a new husband or not.

Let's hope the Equal Rights Amendment will stop some of this inequity! — CONCERNED FOR MY FRIENDS

DEAR CMFM:

Possibly that's why some of the anti-NOW gals are against ERA. — H.

Got a problem? An adult subject for discussion? A fun idea? You can talk it over in her column if you write to Helen Bottel, care of the Independent-Journal.

Judy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Art V. Carlton of Taft. She was graduated from Taft Union High School and Bakersfield College, attended the University of California at Riverside and is a student at California State University, San Francisco. She is the sister of Mrs. Max Rushing of Taft and Jim Carlton of Riverside.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Morgan of Petaluma. He was graduated from Desert High School in Edwards and attended Bakersfield College. David is also the brother of Betty Morgan of Petaluma. He is employed by Schlienger, Inc., in San Rafael.

Aiding Others Is The Goal Of Divorce Advisory Group

A group of persons who has completed divorce adjustment counseling at the Family Service Agency of Marin has formed a divorce advisory group.

Members of the group want to help others who are in a critical state following a divorce or separation. They meet every other Wednesday at the agency's office in San Rafael and are in the process of developing a program, according to divorce adjustment counselors Susan Harrow and Mel Krantzler.

Mrs. Harrow and Krantzler organized the group then stepped out of the picture, except on a call in basis.

"It started because the people wanted to go beyond the 10 counseling sessions. Some areas were unfinished because at the time they are going through counseling we were treating the immediate crisis, taking care of the initial hurt," Krantzler said. "They are taking the next step toward personal autonomy."

Members have offered to help facilitate current groups at the agency. They will check new singles groups and serve as resource persons reporting on interesting places to go, according to Krantzler.

At their meetings the men and women will discuss post divoce problems such as living together arrangements, sexuality and the problems of being a single parent, according to Krantzler.

Insomnia Common After You're 40

(I-J Special Report)

BETHESDA, Md. (MW) — If you're a woman past 40 who isn't sleeping as well as you once did — consider your health, your age and your emotional state.

That's the advice of gynecologist Donald Levitt, who says insomnia is a common complaint of middleaged women. "You've got to inquire into the state of their health," he says. "Very frequently the failure to sleep might be the first sign of either emotional or somatic illness."

Dr. Levitt has also found insomnia can be related to the hormonal imbalance that often marks the menopause. "Insomnia is as common a symptom as anxiety, and in some studies, as common as flushes and sweats," he says.

In a study, Dr. Levitt treated menopausal women with estrogens to estore the balance. He reports "hot flushes and sweats subsided," and of those who complained of insomnia, "a significant number responded favorably to hormone therapy."

But Dr. Levitt adds that middle-aged insomnia is not always linked to an estrogen deficiency, and may not be due to a health problem at all. Age itself is an important factor, and research indicates we just don't sleep as long, or as soundly as we get older. Cat naps often replace a solid night of undisturbed rest.

Emotional worries can also keep you up nights. Ordinary tension, or "a real trauma," such as impending bankruptcy or the breakup of a marriage obviously rob you of needed sleep, said Dr. Levitt.

But if you figure out what's keeping you awake, you'll know how to fight it, according to the doctor. "We try to find out what's changed to make them not sleep. Did they have an argument, a frustration, a change in nighttime habits — a new bed?"

If the problem itself can't be solved, you can work at not worrying about it. Traditional tactics such as a glass of hot milk or a warm bath before bed really do help. So does establishing nightly rituals that will help you wind down your day.

Installed president

Patricia Marsh of Glen Ellen has been installed as the new president of the Auxiliary of Sonoma State Hospital.

A member of the three-year-old auxiliary for two years, Mrs. Marsh has also served as first vice president.

The purpose of the auxiliary, she said, is to raise funds and carry out other projects to support the general needs of the patients at Sonoma State Hospital and showing no individual ward partiality.

Activities for the year include a spring golf-a-thon, trap shoot, a special fund raiser to aid the animal farm at the hospital, sale of Sonoma County recreation booklets, the annual merry market bazaar and the grand opening in May of the merry-go-round the auxiliary purchased for the hospital.

A three year resident of Sonoma County, Mrs. Marsh is also involved as secretary of the Eta Xi Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha. A native of Manitowoc, Wis., she was graduated from the University of Wisconsin in Milwaukee.

Mrs. Marsh lists her hobbies as gardening, crafts, dried weed arrangements, golfing, bowling, hiking, bicycling and sewing.

Officers to serve with Mrs. Marsh include Mmes. Edward Cardoza of Petaluma, first vice president (ways and means); Stewart Frederickson of Kenwood, second vice president (membership) Melvin Warenback of San Rafael, third vice president (publicity); Jerome Schuman of Fairfax, recording secretary; Maurice Umphenous, corresponding secretary and Fred Ruegg of Novato, treasurer.

U.S. Auto Accident Rate Is Low

By COLIN JONES
London Financial Times-UPI

LONDON — Comparisons of highway casualty rates, as grimly fascinating as they are, do little to help solve the problems of automotive safety. We come closer to formulating answers when we measure a rate against the amount of driving done in that country.

Such a measurement demonstrates convincingly that the greater a country's familiarity with vehicles and driving, the lower the accident rates connected with them. The risk is greatest where vehicles are relatively few in number and experience with traffic is the least.

At the top end of the scale, for example, Chile has 1,265 accidents for every 100 million vehicle-kilometers driven (100 million kilometers is 62.5 million miles). At the other end comes the United States with 78 accidents and Sweden with 50. The conclusion seems obvious: road safety can be improved through experience and education of the driving and nondriving public alike.

Any consideration of how best to educate and control the world's drivers should take into account different national "personalities" — and the driving characteristics they produce. Much is said, especially in jest, about the Latin characteristic known as "machismo." Translated into automotive terms, it means driving on the offensive, and it can be anything but a laughing matter.

The South American, for example, loves the power of his car and loves to pass other vehicles — be he on the right or the left and regardless of whether, after passing, he will stop at the next corner. In Spanish-speaking countries, the practitioner of such aggressiveness is called a "pajaro bravo," which translates as "brave bird" but usually means "wise guy."

Machismo involves breaking traffic laws whenever you can get away with it — typified by driving through red lights, a vice with which New York City taxi drivers are also afflicted. Coupled with machismo is speed. Venezuela, for example, is a newly-rich oil country with lots of big cars; the big car has speed, and machismo dictates speed. Statistically, 48 per cent of all Venezuelan accidents are attributed to excessive speed.

The Latin driver in Europe — particularly the Spanish and Italian — also insists on driving at high speeds under all conditions. The Italian driver rarely uses a safety belt; it is seen as an insult to the "virility cult", which is a feature of the Latin driving style.

To be sure, some of the same characteristics are to be found among other peoples. Surprisingly, Russian drivers fall into the Latin category. They tend to be extremely aggressive, and to shout at other drivers and pedestrians. They seldom yield the right of way.

There are aggressive Anglo-Saxon drivers, too. One can meet them anywhere in North America, Europe, and Australia, especially among the younger generation of drivers. And one can certainly find evidence of machismo in Africa and Asia.

Moroccan drivers, for example, will scoot through red lights and stop signs if they think for a second that they can scrape through. When they are cought — which sometimes happens — there is an interminable argument that can block traffic for hours. And to get around jams, Moroccans have no compunction about making detours along the pavement.

In Japan truck drivers are a group to steer well clear of. They appear to believe that the sheer size and weight of their vehicles entitles them to edge out of the way any smaller vehicle or to challenge any oncoming auto for command of the entire roadway. Kamikaze-minded cabbies are another danger. They dart through traffic at such speeds that the overseas visitor who hires one abandons hope of survival.

No-Fault Insurance Bill Is Introduced

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A no-fault auto insurance bill backed by the California Trial Lawyers Association was proposed yesterday by Senate President Pro Tem James R. Mills, D-San Diego.

The legislation was aimed at countering another no-fault bill by Assemblyman Jack R. Fenton of Montebello, Democratic floor leader.

Fenton's bill (AB50) is supported by Gov. Ronald Reagan and vociferously opposed by the trial lawyers group.

Mills charged that no "private consumer group" has supported the Fenton bill in testimony before legislative committees. Fenton's proposal is now before the full Assembly.

Mills said his plan "should lower premiums because it will reduce lawsuits, avoid duplicated coverage, eliminate the requirement of purchasing unneeded insurance and encourage prompt payment of both first and third party claims."

Under no-fault, a motorist would be paid for his accident costs by his own insurance company regardless of who causes a crash.

One of the major differences between Fenton's bill and Mills' is that Fenton's guarantees a onetime 12 per cent premium reduction for personal injury coverage while the senator's does not.

Mills, however, presented a table which showed that a motorist would pay $50.10 less a year under his bill than under Fenton's for certain insurance coverage.

Fenton's also bars accident victims from suing until their medical expenses exceed $1,000. There is no such "threshold" under the Mills bill. Instead Mills said it would "reduce the motivation" for lawsuits by eliminating the right of the motorist to recover in court benefits he has already been paid by his insurance company.

"The American system of justice does not require an arbitrary medical threshold that treats people as numbers, rathern than as people," Mills declared.

His bill would also provide up to $5,000 in full wage and medical benefits to motorists and passengers regardless of who was at fault in the accident.

Fenton's legislation provides for payment of medical treatment up to $50,000, 85 per cent of lost wages up to $750 a month with a maximum of $5,000 and funeral expenses up to $1,000.

Mills said his measure was drafted "in cooperation" with the trial lawyers and was patterned in part after the no-fault plan in Delaware.

Model Schools Protest Topic For Conference

Educators from five counties will gather at Sonoma State College April 6 and 7 for a conference on the model schools project.

Teachers, administrators and school board members from Marin, Sonoma, Lake, Mendocino and Napa counties will attend the conference, sponsored by the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

The conference will explain how 30 secondary schools across the country are involved in the project to experiment in making school schedules more flexible and teaching more individualized.

Dr. William Georgiades, education professor at University of Southern California, will be conference director. Dr. J. Lloyd Trump, association president, will present a tele-lecture from his office in Washington D.C.

Persons interested in attending may contact the superintendent of schools office in either Marin or Sonoma counties.

Streptococcus Infections Lead

With 112 cases reported last week, streptococcus infections was the most prevalent communicable disease in Marin County, according to Dr. Carolyn Albrecht, Marin County health officer.

There were 38 cases of gonorrhea, three of syphilis and two of infectious hepatitis reported.

American Indians Tell Their Story

By PHYLLIS FELDKAMP
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Some Europeans are better versed in the heritage of American Indian tribes or nations than are citizens of the United States.

In the Netherlands and West Germany, American Indian cultists fill clubrooms for regular powwows. In France, "les peaux rouges" and "le Far Ouest" entered the language back in the 19th Century and have continued as sources of romantic fascination.

Even so, acquaintance with Indian culture, customs, and clothing universally tends to be sketchy and second-hand, stemming from the novels of James Fenimore Cooper or from stereotypes portrayed in cowboy Westerns.

But lately the Indians themselves are bringing about change by providing their own information. One new departure is the "American Indian Cultural Program," a show that educates largely through the medium of fashion.

STAGED BY the Fashion Group of New York and prepared with the working support of Washington's Smithsonian Institution and New York's Museum of the American Indian, the program avoids all the common misrepresentations.

Early in April a troupe of 14 — nearly all American Indians — will take the show on the international road by going on tour abroad under the auspices of the exhibits division of the U.S. Information Agency (USIA). The show, a multimedia presentation featuring old and new fashions interspersed with slides, is the first large-scale fashion venture to have Indian participation and, one could add, Indian approval.

A few years ago free adaptations of Indian fringed leathers, furs, and feather headgear by some American designers aroused vociferous disapproval from American Indian activists. They misinterpreted the good intentions of Giorgio de Sant'Angelo and Jacques Kaplan.

More than a year in the making, the current cultural program was not put together without some slings and arrows from militants. Many slides illustrating the history and arts of the more than 250 tribes in the United States that were to be used in the show were destroyed during the November occupation of the Bureau of Indian Affairs in Washington and had to be replaced.

The traveling group includes nine models, all of whom belong to Narragansett, Shinnecock, Creek, Winnebago, Sioux, or other tribes, and some of whose surnames are Deer, Choctaw, or Little Eagle.

SINCE INTEREST was first evidenced by U.S. Ambassador to Great Britain Walter H. Annenberg and Mrs. Annenberg in having the show in London, the itinerary has been expanded into a five-nation tour. It will visit Stockholm, Berlin, Strasbourg, Amsterdam (and possibly Leiden as well). The traveling show is described by the USIA's exhibits project officer, Barbara Witt, as "the most ambitious live presentation we've sent overseas."

The primary purpose of the program is to alter attitudes through information, by way of authentic music and dances, slides of arts and crafts, commentary from Indian scholars, and historic and contemporary fashions.

The moving spirits behind the program have a corollary aim: to expose the first-rate fashions currently being produced by numerous American Indian cooperatives, mostly in the Midwest and Southwest, to a broader audience.

Although since 1963 the Association on American Indian Affairs has provided a limited market for master Indian and Eskimo painters, sculptors, and craftsmen, their work has not included any wearing apparel. A single exception is the handmade silver jewelry available at the nonprofit American Indian Arts Center in New York.

The newly established co-op ventures are turning out high-style contemporary Seminole patchwork skirts, Seneca calico smocks, and Navajo tie-dye clothes, among other desirable pieces of merchandise.

The principle on which the ventures are based is similar to that which has worked effectively in West Virginia, where the talents of economically deprived women have been developed through the patchwork designs the women execute for Mountain Artisans.

SIMILAR WORK is done in New York City's crime and poverty-ridden Bedford-Stuyvestant district, where a textile crafts center is bringing benefits to a depressed area.

The American Indian cooperatives utilize the skills and inheritance of design and crafts of Indians in urban regions and in schools, besides those on the various reservations.

Credit for the genesis of the show goes to Doris Antun, an associate fashion editor of Mademoiselle, who became immersed in all things Indian after producing a special issue on the American Indian for her magazine.

With Clydia Nahwooksy, director of Indian Awareness at the Smithsonian, and Dr. Delbert MacBride, curator of the State Capitol Museum, Olympia, Wash., she will serve as commentator during the European trip, carrying the Indian message overseas.

She and others concerned with the program urge interested private customers and retailers to deal directly with the Indian people. A list of the cooperatives and other information on available merchandise may be obtained from the Indian Arts and Crafts Board, Room 4004, U.S. Department of the Interior, Washington, D.C. 20240.

Disc Jockey Fans In His Big Chance

KSFO disc jockey Gene Nelson had his chance at stardom on the baseball field and he blew it. He struck out. He fanned on three pitches. The Sausalito resident had his big chance in the big leagues and if he had hit a home run who knows, he might have been offered a contract by Giants' manager Charlie Fox.

Nelson went to Casa Grande, Ariz., then Phoenix, in hopes of getting a chance to play for the Giants against the Chicago Cubs in the teams' exhibition season opener. National League President Chub Feeney put out the no-no sign because of something about insurance and what if Nelson gets one on the head, etc.

A man who doesn't give up easily, Nelson talked Fox into letting him play an inning in an intrasquad game.

"I'll always be able to say that one day I pinch-hit for Bobby Bonds and batted against the man who was traded to the Giants for Willie Mays," laughed Nelson. That man was Charlie Williams, and, said Nelson, apparently nobody told Williams that the batter at the plate wasn't really a raw rookie trying to win a job with the Giants. Williams was dead serious.

Nelson, who played a little baseball in high school oh so many semesters ago in New Jersey, and then some service ball in the Navy, took the first one for a called strike, fouled back the second pitch and swung and missed the third one.

"When I fouled that one pitch I considered that a moral victory," laughed Nelson. And he got a chance to play right field for Bonds for one inning. "I did a great job of backing people up," said Nelson who didn't get a chance to field the ball.

The disc jockey trying his hand at becoming a new George Plimpton said he practiced with the batting machine and was "treated like any other rookie" by Giants' coach Hank Sauer. But for Nelson, who was given his baseball shirt, No. 18, to take back home to Sausalito, it was a life-long dream come true. He had his chance to play big league baseball. . . sort of.

IF YOU WANT to see some little kids and some big kids swimming for money, wander over to either San Rafael, Terra Linda or Redwood High School's pool this evening beween 5 and 7 o'clock. Marin Aquatic Club swimmers, young age-groupers and masters in their 30s and 40s, will be participating in a swimathon to raise money. Persons have pledged a penny or two, or more, per 25-yard lap and some of these kids will swimm a full 200 laps during that two-hour stretch.

To watch those little 7 and 8-year-olds is really something. And even Marin A.C. coach Don Swartz will be doing some swimming to raise money, the bulk of which will go to the club. After it's all collected, 75 per cent will go to the Marin A.C., 20 per cent to the International Swimming Hall of Fame in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and 5 per cent to the Amateur Athletic Union International Travel Fund. Astros' Durocher Won't Pay Fine

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Leo Durocher, for whom fines have been a way of life, isn't going along this time.

Durocher, the volatile manager of the Houston Astros, has drawn more than his share of fines during a stormy career and he drew another Tuesday from National League president Chub Feeney for interfering with a players association meeting Monday. The only difference this time is that Durocher claims he won't pay the $250.

The incident for which Durocher was fined occurred Monday in Pompano Beach, Fla., when the 66-year-old manager interrupted a meeting between players' association executive director Marvin Miller and the Astros. Durocher claimed the meeting was extending into scheduled practice time.

"I said, 'pardon me, Mr. Miller, it's time for us to do our hitting,' " Durocher said he told the players' representative Monday. "It's 11:30 and we hit at 11:40."

Durocher, extremely upset about the fine, said, "it really did surprise me to get a wire without a call. Chub's never failed to give me a call to explain the situation. I didn't hear a word from him. If I was wrong I would pay the $250. Never once have I argued a fine if I'm wrong. This time I know I'm not wrong.

"I understand Mr. Miller has asked for an apology from the Houston ballclub," Durocher said. "There's no way he'll get an apology from me. I would resign first as manager of the Houston baseball club and I would take Mr. Feeney to court."

Spec Richardson, general manager of the Astros, said he talked with Miller by phone Tuesday and confirmed that Miller requested an apology from the Houston Club.

Richardson said, however, that "38 ballplayers have said they didn't want to meet with Marvin Miller. That's a hell of a blow to him. That's never happened before to him. I think Miller's pride is hurt. I think Durocher is the only manager in baseball who would do this and I think he was right."

Several Astro players were questioned about the incident but declined to be named. All of them confirmed their wishes not to attend the meeting and suggested Miller could have come to Cocoa to arrange a much more convenient meeting. The main objection to the meeting by the players was that the timing meant getting up at 5 a.m. to leave Cocoa at 6:30 a.m. in order to arrive in Pompano at 10:30 a.m.

Elsewhere in the training camps, Dick Allen, the highest salaried player in baseball history, made his 1973 debut for Chicago as the White Sox lost to the New York Yankees 2-1. Allen had a single and grounded into a double play with two on in the eighth.

Pinch-hitter Joe Ferguson's grand-slam homer with two out in the ninth gave the Los Angeles Dodgers a 5-2 victory over the New York Mets and the Chicago Cubs beat the Oakland A's 7-5.

Rookie third baseman Jerry Terrell had two singles and drove in two runs off Denny McLain as the Minnesota Twins beat the Atlanta Braves 5-0 and Charlie Spikes' sacrifice fly and a two-run single by Jack Brohamer lifted the Cleveland Indians to a 3-0 victory over the California Angels in a rain-shortened game. A Playoff Spot For Warriors

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The Golden State Warriors simultaneously were eliminated from any chance of either first place or third place in the NBA Pacific Division today.

They downed a determined Portland team 109-101 Tuesday night, yet it was the fact that Los Angeles won and Phoenix lost that cemented them mathematically in the runner-up spot.

With nine regular games to play, the playoff-bound Warriors are 10 back of the Lakers and 11 ½ ahead of the Suns.

The Warriors led Portland 59-53 at the half and enlarged the margin to 12 on several occasions Tuesday, but Geoff Petrie and Sidney Wicks sparked a Portland comeback which brought the Blazers within one, 78-77, with 2:26 to go in the third stanza.

But Golden State went on an 11-2 romp to open things up although Portland closed to three at 96-93 with three minutes to go. Rick Barry, who led all scorers with 34, added eight points in the final six minutes to ice the win.

Nate Thurmond had 14 points and 21 rebounds while Jim Barnett added 18 for Golden State. Petrie hit 33 and Wicks added 21 points and 16 rebounds for the losers.

The Warriors were outgunned from the field 43 field goals to 40, but hit 29 of 36 from the foul line while Portland had 15 of 19.

Houston comes to the Oakland Arena to face the Warriors Thursday.

Blue Wants To Become Free Agent

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI) — Vida Blue of the Oakland A's wants to know if he can become a free agent at the end of the season.

He says he'll contact players representative Marvin Miller to determine whether such a move would be legal.

Blue and catcher Dave Duncan so far have refused to sign their contracts. A's owner Charles O. Finley has notified both that he had exercised his options on them and stipulated their salaries—$51,000 for the pitcher and $40,000 for the catcher.

"I could be a test case," says Blue. "Like a pro football player I can play out my option. No one ever has tried it. Ted Simmons (St. Louis Cardinals) played half of last season without signing, but eventually he signed."

Blue said he and Finley have no date to confer about negotiations.

"What's to talk about?" he asked. "We have expressed ourselves and there is a stalemate. I am not inclined to move from my salary figure."

Meanwhile, on the field, the Chicago Cubs rallied for five runs in the sixth inning with the aid of two errors to down the A's 7-5 in a game played much of the way in a drizzle.

Ferguson Jenkins, the Cubs' six-time 20-game winner, hurled three scoreless innings in an impressive show.

Meanwhile, the Cubs tagged the A's 1972 ace, Catfish Hunter, for the loss.

Joe Rudi, one of the A's World Series heroes, suffered an ankle injury running to first base in the opening inning. He had to leave the contest, but preliminary reports indicated he was not badly hurt.

There were eight errors in the contest and five of the runs were unearned. The A's also had a five-run inning but couldn't score otherwise. Billy Conigliaro was the only A with two hits.

Marin '9' In 6-3 Victory

College of Marin blasted seven extra base hits, including home runs by Tom Olson and Bill Sherbert, en route to a 6-3 victory over Contra Costa College of San Pablo yesterday in a baseball game in Kentfield.

Marin, now 2-0 in the Camino Norte Conference, scored three runs in the first inning and three more in the third to pave the way for winning pitcher Don Bianchini, the right-hander who hurled a no-hitzr Friday against West Valley in Campbell.

Olson and Sherbert hit back-to-back solo homers leading off the third, Olson's about 340 feet and Sherbert's (on the first pitch) about 375, according to Marin coach Vic Petreshene.

The other run that inning came home on a long double by John Billings. Dom Pomilia's double in the first drove home a pair of runs, and Pete Arbios scored the other on a wild pitch.

Petreshene praised reliever Tim Bryan, who pitched the final two innings and was credited with a save.

Terra Linda won a singles match and three doubles in a 4-4 tie at Montgomery, with Joel Garrett, Clarke Harding-Ken Chew, Pete Holzgang-Curtis Wong and Bob Vauten-Steve Niccolai getting the wins.

Marin Catholic Tips Rancho, 5-3

Marin Catholic High School may have lost 12 of the 13 players off last year's baseball team, but the underclassmen who took heir places played like veterans in a clutch situation yesterday.

Freshman Terry Ryan scored the winning run in the ninth inning on a double by sophomore Jeff Knotts as the Wildcats defeated Rancho Cotate, 5-3, in a non-league game in Rohnert Park.

In other games involving Marin teams, Terra Linda beat Oakland Tech, 4-0; Novato drubbed Santa Rosa, 12-5; Redwood lost to South San Francisco, 3-1; Tamalpais fell to Sonoma, 6-1; and San Rafael was defeated by Berkeley, 3-2.

Right-hander Tom Cronin of Marin Catholic (2-2) pitched 2⅔ innings in relief, allowed only one hit and got the victory when pinch-runner Ryan scored from second on Knotts' hit, and then Knotts scored on the front end of a double steal in the ninth.

After Rancho took a 3-0 lead in the first inning, the Wildcats responded with a three-run rally of their own in the third, two runs coming home on a double by Rich Lopez, the only returnee from last year.

Novato (3-0) has scored 20 runs on 19 hits in its last two games, and got a five-RBI performance from Jeff Pond yesterday. Pond went three for four with a one-run double and two two-run singles. Pitcher Chris DeRecat went all the way, striking out 10 in six innings.

Terra Linda (2-2) right-handers Steve Farrington and Mark Collischonn combined for a five-hit shutout of Oakland Tech. The Trojans broke the game open early with three tallies in the first inning, with Greg Watroba doubling his two runs and the third scoring on Dana Beck's infield grounder.

San Rafael (1-2) carried a one-run lead into the sixth inning, but Berkeley's two-run single with two out doomed the Bulldogs. Their bid to pull the game out in the ninth died when Craig Saunders' drive to deep center at Albert Field with two runners on and two out was caught.

Tamalpais (2-1) was victimized by a five-run rally in the sixth inning in losing for the first time after two victories, while Redwood (2-2) made five errors behind pitchers Ed Anderson and Gene Frey, who limited South City to two hits.

Track War: Coach Quits

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The latest spat between the Amateur Athletic Union and the National Collegiate Athletic Association has resulted in University of Pittsburgh track coach Jim Banner resigning as coach of the AAU track squad that will meet the Russians in a meet here Friday night.

Banner resigned as coach of the U.S. men's team Tuesday at the urging of Pittsburgh athletic director Cass Myslinski.

THREATS

Banner's move came in the wake of NCAA threats that its member institutions involved in the meet would be subject to probation and any undergraduates entered could lose their eligibility.

Meanwhile, efforts to break the deadlock between the two organizations fell apart Tuesday night because of the "unyielding, arbitrary" attitudes of the groups, said Rep. Peter Peyser, R-N.Y.

"I'm burned up with both these organizations," Peyser said in Washington. "They're both trying to build power bases on their own."

At issue is NCAA certification of the meet. The AAU has not requested certification, saying it is not necessary, while the NCAA says unless meet officials request NCAA sanction, its member schools and athletes face stiff penalties.

WON'T BUDGE

Both sides have refused to budge from their positions. The AAU claims certification isn't necessary because of the international nature or the meet. The meet was not certified by the NCAA last year but no penalties were levied.

"We had no inkling this was going to happen, but my AD thinks it best for me to come home," Banner said. "I'm very disappointed."

Also affected are eight U.S. team members, including Olympic gold medalists Rod Milburn of Southern University and Randy Williams of Southern California.

TCU Coach Injured In Crash

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Texas Christian University head football coach Billy Tohill was critically injured today in the high-speed crash of his automobile on Interstate 35W.

Fort Worth patrolman M. F. Pendergraft who investigated the accident said the speedometer on Tohill's car rested on 90 miles an hour, and that the car was probably traveling faster than that just before the crash.

Attendants at John Peter Smith Hospital in Fort Worth where Tohill was taken said he had head and multiple injuries and was in critical condition.

"From what I understand, he is in pretty bad condition," Pendergraft said when reached at the hospial's emergency room. "He has at least one compound fracture and possible internal injuries."

Pendergraft said contrary to early reports, Tohill was not trying to avoid another accident on the freeway, but merely lost control at high speed.

Astros' Durocher Won't Pay Fine

"I said, 'pardon me, Mr. Miller, it's time for us to do our hitting,' " Durocher said he told the players' representative Monday. "It's 11:30 and we hit at 11:40."

Durocher, extremely upset about the fine, said, "it really did surprise me to get a wire without a call. Chub's never failed to give me a call to explain the situation. I didn't hear a word from him. If I was wrong I would pay the $250. Never once have I argued a fine if I'm wrong. This time I know I'm not wrong.

"I understand Mr. Miller has asked for an apology from the Houston ballclub," Durocher said. "There's no way he'll get an apology from me. I would resign first as manager of the Houston baseball club and I would take Mr. Feeney to court."

Spec Richardson, general manager of the Astros, said he talked with Miller by phone Tuesday and confirmed that Miller requested an apology from the Houston Club.

Richardson said, however, that "38 ballplayers have said they didn't want to meet with Marvin Miller. That's a hell of a blow to him. That's never happened before to him. I think Miller's pride is hurt. I think Durocher is the only manager in baseball who would do this and I think he was right."

Several Astro players were questioned about the incident but declined to be named. All of them confirmed their wishes not to attend the meeting and suggested Miller could have come to Cocoa to arrange a much more convenient meeting. The main objection to the meeting by the players was that the timing meant getting up at 5 a.m. to leave Cocoa at 6:30 a.m. in order to arrive in Pompano at 10:30 a.m.

Elsewhere in the training camps, Dick Allen, the highest salaried player in baseball history, made his 1973 debut for Chicago as the White Sox lost to the New York Yankees 2-1. Allen had a single and grounded into a double play with two on in the eighth.

Pinch-hitter Joe Ferguson's grand-slam homer with two out in the ninth gave the Los Angeles Dodgers a 5-2 victory over the New York Mets and the Chicago Cubs beat the Oakland A's 7-5.

Rookie third baseman Jerry Terrell had two singles and drove in two runs off Denny McLain as the Minnesota Twins beat the Atlanta Braves 5-0 and Charlie Spikes' sacrifice fly and a two-run single by Jack Brohamer lifted the Cleveland Indians to a 3-0 victory over the California Angels in a rain-shortened game. Blue Wants To Become Free Agent

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI) — Vida Blue of the Oakland A's wants to know if he can become a free agent at the end of the season.

He says he'll contact players representative Marvin Miller to determine whether such a move would be legal.

Blue and catcher Dave Duncan so far have refused to sign their contracts. A's owner Charles O. Finley has notified both that he had exercised his options on them and stipulated their salaries—$51,000 for the pitcher and $40,000 for the catcher.

"I could be a test case," says Blue. "Like a pro football player I can play out my option. No one ever has tried it. Ted Simmons (St. Louis Cardinals) played half of last season without signing, but eventually he signed."

Blue said he and Finley have no date to confer about negotiations.

"What's to talk about?" he asked. "We have expressed ourselves and there is a stalemate. I am not inclined to move from my salary figure."

Meanwhile, on the field, the Chicago Cubs rallied for five runs in the sixth inning with the aid of two errors to down the A's 7-5 in a game played much of the way in a drizzle.

Ferguson Jenkins, the Cubs' six-time 20-game winner, hurled three scoreless innings in an impressive show.

Meanwhile, the Cubs tagged the A's 1972 ace, Catfish Hunter, for the loss.

Joe Rudi, one of the A's World Series heroes, suffered an ankle injury running to first base in the opening inning. He had to leave the contest, but preliminary reports indicated he was not badly hurt.

There were eight errors in the contest and five of the runs were unearned. The A's also had a five-run inning but couldn't score otherwise. Billy Conigliaro was the only A with two hits.

Marin '9' In 6-3 Victory

College of Marin blasted seven extra base hits, including home runs by Tom Olson and Bill Sherbert, en route to a 6-3 victory over Contra Costa College of San Pablo yesterday in a baseball game in Kentfield.

Marin, now 2-0 in the Camino Norte Conference, scored three runs in the first inning and three more in the third to pave the way for winning pitcher Don Bianchini, the right-hander who hurled a no-hitzr Friday against West Valley in Campbell.

Olson and Sherbert hit back-to-back solo homers leading off the third, Olson's about 340 feet and Sherbert's (on the first pitch) about 375, according to Marin coach Vic Petreshene.

The other run that inning came home on a long double by John Billings. Dom Pomilia's double in the first drove home a pair of runs, and Pete Arbios scored the other on a wild pitch.

Petreshene praised reliever Tim Bryan, who pitched the final two innings and was credited with a save.

Drake's 5-2 victory at Petaluma was paced by singles winners Jean Lachelt, Mark Van Pelt and John Prando and doubles victors Mike Leach-Keith Alber and Pete Van Pelt-Greg Hall.

Terra Linda won a singles match and three doubles in a 4-4 tie at Montgomery, with Joel Garrett, Clarke Harding-Ken Chew, Pete Holzgang-Curtis Wong and Bob Vauten-Steve Niccolai getting the wins.

Novato's 3-2 loss at Sonoma came despite victories by Todd Telford and Randy McElroy-Ladd Schulman.

PREP BASEBALL

Marin Catholic Tips Rancho, 5-3

Marin Catholic High School may have lost 12 of the 13 players off last year's baseball team, but the underclassmen who took heir places played like veterans in a clutch situation yesterday.

Freshman Terry Ryan scored the winning run in the ninth inning on a double by sophomore Jeff Knotts as the Wildcats defeated Rancho Cotate, 5-3, in a non-league game in Rohnert Park.

In other games involving Marin teams, Terra Linda beat Oakland Tech, 4-0; Novato drubbed Santa Rosa, 12-5; Redwood lost to South San Francisco, 3-1; Tamalpais fell to Sonoma, 6-1; and San Rafael was defeated by Berkeley, 3-2.

Right-hander Tom Cronin of Marin Catholic (2-2) pitched 2⅔ innings in relief, allowed only one hit and got the victory when pinch-runner Ryan scored from second on Knotts' hit, and then Knotts scored on the front end of a double steal in the ninth.

After Rancho took a 3-0 lead in the first inning, the Wildcats responded with a three-run rally of their own in the third, two runs coming home on a double by Rich Lopez, the only returnee from last year.

Novato (3-0) has scored 20 runs on 19 hits in its last two games, and got a five-RBI performance from Jeff Pond yesterday. Pond went three for four with a one-run double and two two-run singles. Pitcher Chris DeRecat went all the way, striking out 10 in six innings.

Terra Linda (2-2) right-handers Steve Farrington and Mark Collischonn combined for a five-hit shutout of Oakland Tech. The Trojans broke the game open early with three tallies in the first inning, with Greg Watroba doubling his two runs and the third scoring on Dana Beck's infield grounder.

San Rafael (1-2) carried a one-run lead into the sixth inning, but Berkeley's two-run single with two out doomed the Bulldogs. Their bid to pull the game out in the ninth died when Craig Saunders' drive to deep center at Albert Field with two runners on and two out was caught.

Tamalpais (2-1) was victimized by a five-run rally in the sixth inning in losing for the first time after two victories, while Redwood (2-2) made five errors behind pitchers Ed Anderson and Gene Frey, who limited South City to two hits.

NO PEACE

Track War: Coach Quits

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The latest spat between the Amateur Athletic Union and the National Collegiate Athletic Association has resulted in University of Pittsburgh track coach Jim Banner resigning as coach of the AAU track squad that will meet the Russians in a meet here Friday night.

Banner resigned as coach of the U.S. men's team Tuesday at the urging of Pittsburgh athletic director Cass Myslinski.

THREATS

Banner's move came in the wake of NCAA threats that its member institutions involved in the meet would be subject to probation and any undergraduates entered could lose their eligibility.

Meanwhile, efforts to break the deadlock between the two organizations fell apart Tuesday night because of the "unyielding, arbitrary" attitudes of the groups, said Rep. Peter Peyser, R-N.Y.

"I'm burned up with both these organizations," Peyser said in Washington. "They're both trying to build power bases on their own."

At issue is NCAA certification of the meet. The AAU has not requested certification, saying it is not necessary, while the NCAA says unless meet officials request NCAA sanction, its member schools and athletes face stiff penalties.

WON'T BUDGE

Both sides have refused to budge from their positions. The AAU claims certification isn't necessary because of the international nature or the meet. The meet was not certified by the NCAA last year but no penalties were levied.

"We had no inkling this was going to happen, but my AD thinks it best for me to come home," Banner said. "I'm very disappointed."

Also affected are eight U.S. team members, including Olympic gold medalists Rod Milburn of Southern University and Randy Williams of Southern California.

TCU Coach Injured In Crash

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Texas Christian University head football coach Billy Tohill was critically injured today in the high-speed crash of his automobile on Interstate 35W.

Fort Worth patrolman M. F. Pendergraft who investigated the accident said the speedometer on Tohill's car rested on 90 miles an hour, and that the car was probably traveling faster than that just before the crash.

Attendants at John Peter Smith Hospital in Fort Worth where Tohill was taken said he had head and multiple injuries and was in critical condition.

"From what I understand, he is in pretty bad condition," Pendergraft said when reached at the hospial's emergency room. "He has at least one compound fracture and possible internal injuries."

Pendergraft said contrary to early reports, Tohill was not trying to avoid another accident on the freeway, but merely lost control at high speed.

U.S. Auto Accident Rate Is Low

By COLIN JONES
London Financial Times-UPI

LONDON — Comparisons of highway casualty rates, as grimly fascinating as they are, do little to help solve the problems of automotive safety. We come closer to formulating answers when we measure a rate against the amount of driving done in that country.

Such a measurement demonstrates convincingly that the greater a country's familiarity with vehicles and driving, the lower the accident rates connected with them. The risk is greatest where vehicles are relatively few in number and experience with traffic is the least.

At the top end of the scale, for example, Chile has 1,265 accidents for every 100 million vehicle-kilometers driven (100 million kilometers is 62.5 million miles). At the other end comes the United States with 78 accidents and Sweden with 50. The conclusion seems obvious: road safety can be improved through experience and education of the driving and nondriving public alike.

Any consideration of how best to educate and control the world's drivers should take into account different national "personalities" — and the driving characteristics they produce. Much is said, especially in jest, about the Latin characteristic known as "machismo." Translated into automotive terms, it means driving on the offensive, and it can be anything but a laughing matter.

The South American, for example, loves the power of his car and loves to pass other vehicles — be he on the right or the left and regardless of whether, after passing, he will stop at the next corner. In Spanish-speaking countries, the practitioner of such aggressiveness is called a "pajaro bravo," which translates as "brave bird" but usually means "wise guy."

Machismo involves breaking traffic laws whenever you can get away with it — typified by driving through red lights, a vice with which New York City taxi drivers are also afflicted. Coupled with machismo is speed. Venezuela, for example, is a newly-rich oil country with lots of big cars; the big car has speed, and machismo dictates speed. Statistically, 48 per cent of all Venezuelan accidents are attributed to excessive speed.

The Latin driver in Europe — particularly the Spanish and Italian — also insists on driving at high speeds under all conditions. The Italian driver rarely uses a safety belt; it is seen as an insult to the "virility cult", which is a feature of the Latin driving style.

To be sure, some of the same characteristics are to be found among other peoples. Surprisingly, Russian drivers fall into the Latin category. They tend to be extremely aggressive, and to shout at other drivers and pedestrians. They seldom yield the right of way.

There are aggressive Anglo-Saxon drivers, too. One can meet them anywhere in North America, Europe, and Australia, especially among the younger generation of drivers. And one can certainly find evidence of machismo in Africa and Asia.

Moroccan drivers, for example, will scoot through red lights and stop signs if they think for a second that they can scrape through. When they are cought — which sometimes happens — there is an interminable argument that can block traffic for hours. And to get around jams, Moroccans have no compunction about making detours along the pavement.

In Japan truck drivers are a group to steer well clear of. They appear to believe that the sheer size and weight of their vehicles entitles them to edge out of the way any smaller vehicle or to challenge any oncoming auto for command of the entire roadway. Kamikaze-minded cabbies are another danger. They dart through traffic at such speeds that the overseas visitor who hires one abandons hope of survival.

No-Fault Insurance Bill Is Introduced

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A no-fault auto insurance bill backed by the California Trial Lawyers Association was proposed yesterday by Senate President Pro Tem James R. Mills, D-San Diego.

The legislation was aimed at countering another no-fault bill by Assemblyman Jack R. Fenton of Montebello, Democratic floor leader.

Fenton's bill (AB50) is supported by Gov. Ronald Reagan and vociferously opposed by the trial lawyers group.

Mills charged that no "private consumer group" has supported the Fenton bill in testimony before legislative committees. Fenton's proposal is now before the full Assembly.

Mills said his plan "should lower premiums because it will reduce lawsuits, avoid duplicated coverage, eliminate the requirement of purchasing unneeded insurance and encourage prompt payment of both first and third party claims."

Under no-fault, a motorist would be paid for his accident costs by his own insurance company regardless of who causes a crash.

One of the major differences between Fenton's bill and Mills' is that Fenton's guarantees a onetime 12 per cent premium reduction for personal injury coverage while the senator's does not.

Mills, however, presented a table which showed that a motorist would pay $50.10 less a year under his bill than under Fenton's for certain insurance coverage.

Fenton's also bars accident victims from suing until their medical expenses exceed $1,000. There is no such "threshold" under the Mills bill. Instead Mills said it would "reduce the motivation" for lawsuits by eliminating the right of the motorist to recover in court benefits he has already been paid by his insurance company.

"The American system of justice does not require an arbitrary medical threshold that treats people as numbers, rathern than as people," Mills declared.

His bill would also provide up to $5,000 in full wage and medical benefits to motorists and passengers regardless of who was at fault in the accident.

Fenton's legislation provides for payment of medical treatment up to $50,000, 85 per cent of lost wages up to $750 a month with a maximum of $5,000 and funeral expenses up to $1,000.

Mills said his measure was drafted "in cooperation" with the trial lawyers and was patterned in part after the no-fault plan in Delaware.

Model Schools Protest Topic For Conference

Educators from five counties will gather at Sonoma State College April 6 and 7 for a conference on the model schools project.

Teachers, administrators and school board members from Marin, Sonoma, Lake, Mendocino and Napa counties will attend the conference, sponsored by the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

The conference will explain how 30 secondary schools across the country are involved in the project to experiment in making school schedules more flexible and teaching more individualized.

Dr. William Georgiades, education professor at University of Southern California, will be conference director. Dr. J. Lloyd Trump, association president, will present a tele-lecture from his office in Washington D.C.

Persons interested in attending may contact the superintendent of schools office in either Marin or Sonoma counties.

A STANFORD SURPRISE

McKay Receives Ovation

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Football coach John McKay of the USC Trojans, who last fall was quoted as saying he wished his Trojans would beat Stanford "by 2,000 points," received a standing ovation Tuesday night at Stanford's athletic banquuet.

"I'd like to get back to the era of football," he said, "when after a game the two teams met and had dinner. When it's over, I'd really prefer it if every youngster went to the youngsters of the other team and shook their hands, and said 'it's just a game.'"

McKay's football team last fall had a 12-0 record, won the Rose Bowl, and was UPI's top team in the nation.

There were rumors some players would boycott the event, but instead his speech was warmly received and the feud between the two schools seemed over—at least until next fall.

In other remarks, McKay insisted he did not think winning was everything, although he later added it's "important."

He said football's role as a character builder was somewhat overrated since "I believe character is built in the home and church long before I have the pleasure of talking to a youngster."

McKay also said he never had a rule about long hair or facial hair on athletes. "And I never will. It just doesn't bother me."

Walton Gets Most Votes On UPI All-America Team

NEW YORK (UPI) — Three returnees from last year's squad, led by top vote-getter Bill Walton of UCLA, highlight the 1972-73 United Press International All-America team.

Walton, a 6-foot-11 senior, joins 6-6 senior Ed Ratleff of Long Beach State and 6-1 senior Dwight Lamar of Southwestern Louisiana as holdovers from last year's All-America team. Rounding out the first five are 6-4 sophomore David Thompson of North Carolina State and 6-5 senior Doug Collins of Illinois State.

Walton, the player most responsible for the Bruins going undefeated in regular season play for a second straight year, missed by only one point of being a unanimous choice for the team. The big redhead got 389 points out of a possible 390 in balloting conducted of 195 sports writers and sportscasters from across the nation.

Voters were asked to select a first and a second team with two points being awarded to a player named to the first unit and one point given for second team mention.

Keith Wilkes of UCLA heads the second team and is joined by Tom McMillen of Maryland, Jim Brewer of Minnesota, Ernie DiGregorio of Providence and Kevin Joyce of South Carolina.

The third team consists of Allan Hornyak of Ohio State, Tom Burleson of North Carolina State, Bill Schaeffer of St. John's (NY), Ron Behagen of Minnesota and Marvin Barnes of Providenne.

Walton, the top pro prospect in college circles even though he still has a year of eligibility remaining, averaged 19.8 points and 17 rebounds per game this year while leading the Bruins through a 26-0 campaign. He was most devastating on defense, though, as his tremendous agility and shot-blocking ability completely took away opponents' inside game.

Honorable mention (10 or more points) —Averitt, Pepperdine; Bantom, St. Joseph's; Biles, Tulsa; Bradley, Northern Illinois; Brown, Missouri; Cosic, Brigham Young; Downing, Indiana; Farmer, UCLA; Finch, Memphis St.; Fuqua, Oral Roberts.

Hollyfield, UCLA; Hudson, Alabama; Ingelsby, Villanova; Jones, Houston; Karl, North Carolina; Lewis, Los Angeles St.; McNeill, Marquette; Parkhill, Virginia; Washington, American U.; Weatherspoon, Illinois; Williams. Austin Peay; Wilmore, Michigan.

NHL ROUNDUP

Bruins Top Islanders; 'Big Win'

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Boston Bruins only beat the last-place New York Islanders last night but they still felt it was "a big win."

"It was a big win for us," said Boston goaltender Ed Johnston. "We're only trailing the New York Rangers by two points. I think we can catch them."

"We can beat anybody when we're playing like this," said Bruins Coach Bep Guidolin after his team displayed a fine defense in beating the Isladers 3-0 on goals by Wayne Cashman, Ken Hodge and Fred O'Donnell.

Cashman opened the scoring at 6:12 of the first period when he tipped in a centering pass by Hodge from behind the net. Hodge made it 2-0 at 10:51 as he beat Islanders' goalie Billy Smith on a power play. O'Donnell's goal came on a breakaway with less than five minutes left to play.

In other National Hockey League action last night, St. Louis blanked Buffalo 2-0 and Minnesota and Los Angeles played to a 2-2 tie.

Phil Roberto and Floyd Thomson scored the Blues goals to extend the Sabres winless streak to five games. Roberto scored his 18th goal of the season at 19:22 of the second period. Thomson added the insurance goal at 14:18 of the third.

Drake High School, with two sophomores and a freshman shooting 40, defeated Novato yesterday in a non-league golf match on the Hornets' course at Indian Valley.

Sophomores Bob Evans and Mike Kelly and frosh Greg Kardas shot the 40s in the 208-215 upset. "Novato didn't play some of their best people, but we shot well, and it's the first time I can remember beating them," said Drake coach Verne Lull.

In other matches, Terra Linda defeated Vacaville, 182-200, with five players shooting below 40 and Rich Purtle earning medalist honors with a 34, and San Rafael beat San Marin at Indian Valley, 216-230, with John Fahrner and Steve Taylor co-medalists at 40.

NBA ROUNDUP

Wilt Leads Laker Victory

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Wilt Chamberlain will add his 11th rebounding title to a new category in the National Basketball Association record books-first player to achieve a .700 field goal percentage for a season.

The 7-1 Chamberlain, in his 14th NBA season, started off the week with a .712 shooting mark and an 18.5 rebound average. He hit 10 of his 12 shots against Buffalo Tuesday night and collected 23 rebounds as the Los Angeles Lakers defeated the Braves, 121-112, to clinch the Pacific Division title.

Chamberlain also led the Lakers in scoring with 25 points. Jerry West tallied 23 for Los Angeles and Jim McMillian added 23. Bob Kauffman of Buffalo netted a game-high 28 points.

Wilt, who owns more than 25 NBA records, scored 18 points and grabbed 12 rebounds in the first half.

In other action, New York downed Phoenix, 115-111; Cleveland suprised Atlanta, 115-107; Baltimore beat Kansas City-Omaha, 103-99; Chicago clipped Seattle, 104-89, and Golden State whipped Portland, 109-101.

Willis Reed and Walt Frazier scored 28 points each as New York subdued a stubborn Phoenix team that rallied from a 16-point deficit only to lose in the final two minutes. Charlie Scott led the Suns with 33 points before fouling out at the seven-minute mark of the fourth quarter. The defeat mathematically eliminated Phoenix from the playoffs.

Two foul shots by Lenny Wilkens with 7:24 remaining gave Cleveland command in the game with Atlanta. Bobby Smith and Jimmy Cleamons scored 21 of the Cavs' 36 points in the final period to help beat the Hawks. Austin Carr led Cleveland with 28 points and Pete Maravich's 31 topped Atlanta marksmen.

Nate Archibald, the NBA's leading scorer, hit for 42 points, but it wasn't enough as Baltimore's balanced attack beat KC-Omaha. Phil Chenier led the Bullets with 24 points and Mike Riordan had 21, including the six of the last eight Baltimore points in the game.

Chicago received little opportunity for foul shooting, getting only five tries, but the Bulls dominated field goal production, 51-37, in routing Seattle. Jim King, hitting six of his first seven shots, led Chicago with 20 points. Spencer Haywood of the Sonics had 31.

A STANFORD SURPRISE

McKay Receives Ovation

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Football coach John McKay of the USC Trojans, who last fall was quoted as saying he wished his Trojans would beat Stanford "by 2,000 points," received a standing ovation Tuesday night at Stanford's athletic banquuet.

"I'd like to get back to the era of football," he said, "when after a game the two teams met and had dinner. When it's over, I'd really prefer it if every youngster went to the youngsters of the other team and shook their hands, and said 'it's just a game.'"

McKay's football team last fall had a 12-0 record, won the Rose Bowl, and was UPI's top team in the nation.

There were rumors some players would boycott the event, but instead his speech was warmly received and the feud between the two schools seemed over—at least until next fall.

In other remarks, McKay insisted he did not think winning was everything, although he later added it's "important."

He said football's role as a character builder was somewhat overrated since "I believe character is built in the home and church long before I have the pleasure of talking to a youngster."

McKay also said he never had a rule about long hair or facial hair on athletes. "And I never will. It just doesn't bother me."

Walton Gets Most Votes On UPI All-America Team

NEW YORK (UPI) — Three returnees from last year's squad, led by top vote-getter Bill Walton of UCLA, highlight the 1972-73 United Press International All-America team.

Walton, a 6-foot-11 senior, joins 6-6 senior Ed Ratleff of Long Beach State and 6-1 senior Dwight Lamar of Southwestern Louisiana as holdovers from last year's All-America team. Rounding out the first five are 6-4 sophomore David Thompson of North Carolina State and 6-5 senior Doug Collins of Illinois State.

Walton, the player most responsible for the Bruins going undefeated in regular season play for a second straight year, missed by only one point of being a unanimous choice for the team. The big redhead got 389 points out of a possible 390 in balloting conducted of 195 sports writers and sportscasters from across the nation.

Voters were asked to select a first and a second team with two points being awarded to a player named to the first unit and one point given for second team mention.

Keith Wilkes of UCLA heads the second team and is joined by Tom McMillen of Maryland, Jim Brewer of Minnesota, Ernie DiGregorio of Providence and Kevin Joyce of South Carolina.

The third team consists of Allan Hornyak of Ohio State, Tom Burleson of North Carolina State, Bill Schaeffer of St. John's (NY), Ron Behagen of Minnesota and Marvin Barnes of Providenne.

Walton, the top pro prospect in college circles even though he still has a year of eligibility remaining, averaged 19.8 points and 17 rebounds per game this year while leading the Bruins through a 26-0 campaign. He was most devastating on defense, though, as his tremendous agility and shot-blocking ability completely took away opponents' inside game.

Honorable mention (10 or more points) —Averitt, Pepperdine; Bantom, St. Joseph's; Biles, Tulsa; Bradley, Northern Illinois; Brown, Missouri; Cosic, Brigham Young; Downing, Indiana; Farmer, UCLA; Finch, Memphis St.; Fuqua, Oral Roberts.

Hollyfield, UCLA; Hudson, Alabama; Ingelsby, Villanova; Jones, Houston; Karl, North Carolina; Lewis, Los Angeles St.; McNeill, Marquette; Parkhill, Virginia; Washington, American U.; Weatherspoon, Illinois; Williams, Austin Peay; Wilmore, Michigan.

NHL ROUNDUP

Bruins Top Islanders; 'Big Win'

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Boston Bruins only beat the last-place New York Islanders last night but they still felt it was "a big win."

"It was a big win for us," said Boston goaltender Ed Johnston. "We're only trailing the New York Rangers by two points. I think we can catch them."

"We can beat anybody when we're playing like this," said Bruins Coach Bep Guidolin after his team displayed a fine defense in beating the Isladers 3-0 on goals by Wayne Cashman, Ken Hodge and Fred O'Donnell.

Cashman opened the scoring at 6:12 of the first period when he tipped in a centering pass by Hodge from behind the net. Hodge made it 2-0 at 10:51 as he beat Islanders' goalie Billy Smith on a power play. O'Donnell's goal came on a breakaway with less than five minutes left to play.

In other National Hockey League action last night, St. Louis blanked Buffalo 2-0 and Minnesota and Los Angeles played to a 2-2 tie.

Phil Roberto and Floyd Thomson scored the Blues goals to extend the Sabres winless streak to five games. Roberto scored his 18th goal of the season at 19:22 of the second period. Thomson added the insurance goal at 14:18 of the third.

Drake Golfers Surprise Novato

Drake High School, with two sophomores and a freshman shooting 40, defeated Novato yesterday in a non-league golf match on the Hornets' course at Indian Valley.

Sophomores Bob Evans and Mike Kelly and frosh Greg Kardas shot the 40s in the 208-215 upset. "Novato didn't play some of their best people, but we shot well, and it's the first time I can remember beating them," said Drake coach Verne Lull.

In other matches, Terra Linda defeated Vacaville, 182-200, with five players shooting below 40 and Rich Purtle earning medalist honors with a 34, and San Rafael beat San Marin at Indian Valley, 216-230, with John Fahrner and Steve Taylor co-medalists at 40.

NBA ROUNDUP

Wilt Leads Laker Victory

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Wilt Chamberlain will add his 11th rebounding title to a new category in the National Basketball Association record books-first player to achieve a .700 field goal percentage for a season.

The 7-1 Chamberlain, in his 14th NBA season, started off the week with a .712 shooting mark and an 18.5 rebound average. He hit 10 of his 12 shots against Buffalo Tuesday night and collected 23 rebounds as the Los Angeles Lakers defeated the Braves, 121-112, to clinch the Pacific Division title.

Chamberlain also led the Lakers in scoring with 25 points. Jerry West tallied 23 for Los Angeles and Jim McMillian added 23. Bob Kauffman of Buffalo netted a game-high 28 points.

Wilt, who owns more than 25 NBA records, scored 18 points and grabbed 12 rebounds in the first half.

In other action, New York downed Phoenix, 115-111; Cleveland suprised Atlanta, 115-107; Baltimore beat Kansas City-Omaha, 103-99; Chicago clipped Seattle, 104-89, and Golden State whipped Portland, 109-101.

Willis Reed and Walt Frazier scored 28 points each as New York subdued a stubborn Phoenix team that rallied from a 16-point deficit only to lose in the final two minutes. Charlie Scott led the Suns with 33 points before fouling out at the seven-minute mark of the fourth quarter. The defeat mathematically eliminated Phoenix from the playoffs.

Two foul shots by Lenny Wilkens with 7:24 remaining gave Cleveland command in the game with Atlanta. Bobby Smith and Jimmy Cleamons scored 21 of the Cavs' 36 points in the final period to help beat the Hawks. Austin Carr led Cleveland with 28 points and Pete Maravich's 31 topped Atlanta marksmen.

Nate Archibald, the NBA's leading scorer, hit for 42 points, but it wasn't enough as Baltimore's balanced attack beat KC-Omaha. Phil Chenier led the Bullets with 24 points and Mike Riordan had 21, including the six of the last eight Baltimore points in the game.

Chicago received little opportunity for foul shooting, getting only five tries, but the Bulls dominated field goal production, 51-37, in routing Seattle. Jim King, hitting six of his first seven shots, led Chicago with 20 points. Spencer Haywood of the Sonics had 31.

Disc Jockey Fans In His Big Chance

KSFO disc jockey Gene Nelson had his chance at stardom on the baseball field and he blew it. He struck out. He fanned on three pitches. The Sausalito resident had his big chance in the big leagues and if he had hit a home run who knows, he might have been offered a contract by Giants' manager Charlie Fox.

Nelson went to Casa Grande, Ariz., then Phoenix, in hopes of getting a chance to play for the Giants against the Chicago Cubs in the teams' exhibition season opener. National League President Chub Feeney put out the no-no sign because of something about insurance and what if Nelson gets one on the head, etc.

A man who doesn't give up easily, Nelson talked Fox into letting him play an inning in an intra-squad game.

"I'll always be able to say that one day I pinch-hit for Bobby Bonds and batted against the man who was traded to the Giants for Willie Mays," laughed Nelson. That man was Charlie Williams, and, said Nelson, apparently nobody told Williams that the batter at the plate wasn't really a raw rookie trying to win a job with the Giants. Williams was dead serious.

Nelson, who played a little baseball in high school oh so many semesters ago in New Jersey, and then some service ball in the Navy, took the first one for a called strike, fouled back the second pitch and swung and missed the third one.

"When I fouled that one pitch I considered that a moral victory," laughed Nelson. And he got a chance to play right field for Bonds for one inning. "I did a great job of backing people up," said Nelson who didn't get a chance to field the ball.

The disc jockey trying his hand at becoming a new George Plimpton said he practiced with the batting machine and was "treated like any other rookie" by Giants' coach Hank Sauer. But for Nelson, who was given his baseball shirt, No. 18, to take back home to Sausalito, it was a life-long dream come true. He had his chance to play big league baseball. . . sort of.

IF YOU WANT to see some little kids and some big kids swimming for money, wander over to either San Rafael, Terra Linda or Redwood High School's pool this evening beween 5 and 7 o'clock. Marin Aquatic Club swimmers, young age-groupers and masters in their 30s and 40s, will be participating in a swimathon to raise money. Persons have pledged a penny or two, or more, per 25-yard lap and some of these kids will swimm a full 200 laps during that two-hour stretch.

To watch those little 7 and 8-year-olds is really something. And even Marin A.C. coach Don Swartz will be doing some swimming to raise money, the bulk of which will go to the club. After it's all collected, 75 per cent will go to the Marin A.C., 20 per cent to the International Swimming Hall of Fame in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and 5 per cent to the Amateur Athletic Union International Travel Fund. (That's the fund which paid for Marin's Robin Backhaus' recent trip to Germany for an invitational meet.)

Astros' Durocher Won't Pay Fine

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Leo Durocher, for whom fines have been a way of life, isn't going along this time.

Durocher, the volatile manager of the Houston Astros, has drawn more than his share of fines during a stormy career and he drew another Tuesday from National League president Chub Feeney for interfering with a players association meeting Monday. The only difference this time is that Durocher claims he won't pay the $250.

The incident for which Durocher was fined occurred Monday in Pompano Beach, Fla., when the 66-year-old manager interrupted a meeting between players' association executive director Marvin Miller and the Astros. Durocher claimed the meeting was extending into scheduled practice time.

"I said, 'pardon me, Mr. Miller, it's time for us to do our hitting,' " Durocher said he told the players' representative Monday. "It's 11:30 and we hit at 11:40."

Durocher, extremely upset about the fine, said, "it really did surprise me to get a wire without a call. Chub's never failed to give me a call to explain the situation. I didn't hear a word from him. If I was wrong I would pay the $250. Never once have I argued a fine if I'm wrong. This time I know I'm not wrong.

"I understand Mr. Miller has asked for an apology from the Houston ballclub," Durocher said. "There's no way he'll get an apology from me. I would resign first as manager of the Houston baseball club and I would take Mr. Feeney to court."

Spec Richardson, general manager of the Astros, said he talked with Miller by phone Tuesday and confirmed that Miller requested an apology from the Houston Club.

Richardson said, however, that "38 ballplayers have said they didn't want to meet with Marvin Miller. That's a hell of a blow to him. That's never happened before to him. I think Miller's pride is hurt. I think Durocher is the only manager in baseball who would do this and I think he was right."

Several Astro players were questioned about the incident but declined to be named. All of them confirmed their wishes not to attend the meeting and suggested Miller could have come to Cocoa to arrange a much more convenient meeting. The main objection to the meeting by the players was that the timing meant getting up at 5 a.m. to leave Cocoa at 6:30 a.m. in order to arrive in Pompano at 10:30 a.m.

Elsewhere in the training camps, Dick Allen, the highest salaried player in baseball history, made his 1973 debut for Chicago as the White Sox lost to the New York Yankees 2-1. Allen had a single and grounded into a double play with two on in the eighth.

Pinch-hitter Joe Ferguson's grand-slam homer with two out in the ninth gave the Los Angeles Dodgers a 5-2 victory over the New York Mets and the Chicago Cubs beat the Oakland A's 7-5.

Rookie third baseman Jerry Terrell had two singles and drove in two runs off Denny McLain as the Minnesota Twins beat the Atlanta Braves 5-0 and Charlie Spikes' sacrifice fly and a two-run single by Jack Brohamer lifted the Cleveland Indians to a 3-0 victory over the California Angels in a rain-shortened game. A Playoff Spot For Warriors

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The Golden State Warriors simultaneously were eliminated from any chance of either first place or third place in the NBA Pacific Division today.

They downed a determined Portland team 109-101 Tuesday night, yet it was the fact that Los Angeles won and Phoenix lost that cemented them mathematically in the runner-up spot.

With nine regular games to play, the playoff-bound Warriors are 10 back of the Lakers and 11 ½ ahead of the Suns.

The Warriors led Portland 59-53 at the half and enlarged the margin to 12 on several occasions Tuesday, but Geoff Petrie and Sidney Wicks sparked a Portland comeback which brought the Blazers within one, 78-77, with 2:26 to go in the third stanza.

But Golden State went on an 11-2 romp to open things up although Portland closed to three at 96-93 with three minutes to go. Rick Barry, who led all scorers with 34, added eight points in the final six minutes to ice the win.

Nate Thurmond had 14 points and 21 rebounds while Jim Barnett added 18 for Golden State. Petrie hit 33 and Wicks added 21 points and 16 rebounds for the losers.

The Warriors were outgunned from the field 43 field goals to 40, but hit 29 of 36 from the foul line while Portland had 15 of 19.

Houston comes to the Oakland Arena to face the Warriors Thursday.

Blue Wants To Become Free Agent

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI) — Vida Blue of the Oakland A's wants to know if he can become a free agent at the end of the season.

He says he'll contact players representative Marvin Miller to determine whether such a move would be legal.

Blue and catcher Dave Duncan so far have refused to sign their contracts. A's owner Charles O. Finley has notified both that he had exercised his options on them and stipulated their salaries—$51,000 for the pitcher and $40,000 for the catcher.

"I could be a test case," says Blue. "Like a pro football player I can play out my option. No one ever has tried it. Ted Simmons (St. Louis Cardinals) played half of last season without signing, but eventually he signed."

Blue said he and Finley have no date to confer about negotiations.

"What's to talk about?" he asked. "We have expressed ourselves and there is a stalemate. I am not inclined to move from my salary figure."

Meanwhile, on the field, the Chicago Cubs rallied for five runs in the sixth inning with the aid of two errors to down the A's 7-5 in a game played much of the way in a drizzle.

Ferguson Jenkins, the Cubs' six-time 20-game winner, hurled three scoreless innings in an impressive show.

Meanwhile, the Cubs tagged the A's 1972 ace, Catfish Hunter, for the loss.

Joe Rudi, one of the A's World Series heroes, suffered an ankle injury running to first base in the opening inning. He had to leave the contest, but preliminary reports indicated he was not badly hurt.

There were eight errors in the contest and five of the runs were unearned. The A's also had a five-run inning but couldn't score otherwise. Billy Conigliaro was the only A with two hits.

Cleveland calls on Oakland at Mesa today.

Marin '9' In 6-3 Victory

College of Marin blasted seven extra base hits, including home runs by Tom Olson and Bill Sherbert, en route to a 6-3 victory over Contra Costa College of San Pablo yesterday in a baseball game in Kentfield.

Marin, now 2-0 in the Camino Norte Conference, scored three runs in the first inning and three more in the third to pave the way for winning pitcher Don Bianchini, the right-hander who hurled a no-hitzr Friday against West Valley in Campbell.

Olson and Sherbert hit back-to-back solo homers leading off the third, Olson's about 340 feet and Sherbert's (on the first pitch) about 375, according to Marin coach Vic Petreshene.

The other run that inning came home on a long double by John Billings. Dom Pomilia's double in the first drove home a pair of runs, and Pete Arbios scored the other on a wild pitch.

Petreshene praised reliever Tim Bryan, who pitched the final two innings and was credited with a save.

Drake's 5-2 victory at Petaluma was paced by singles winners Jean Lachelt, Mark Van Pelt and John Prando and doubles victors Mike Leach-Keith Alber and Pete Van Pelt-Greg Hall.

Terra Linda won a singles match and three doubles in a 4-4 tie at Montgomery, with Joel Garrett, Clarke Harding-Ken Chew, Pete Holzgang-Curtis Wong and Bob Vauten-Steve Nicolai getting the wins.

Novato's 3-2 loss at Sonoma came despite victories by Todd Telford and Randy McElroy-Ladd Schulman.

Marin Catholic Tips Rancho, 5-3

Marin Catholic High School may have lost 12 of the 13 players off last year's baseball team, but the underclassmen who took heir places played like veterans in a clutch situation yesterday.

Freshman Terry Ryan scored the winning run in the ninth inning on a double by sophomore Jeff Knotts as the Wildcats defeated Rancho Cotate, 5-3, in a non-league game in Rohnert Park.

In other games involving Marin teams, Terra Linda beat Oakland Tech, 4-0; Novato drubbed Santa Rosa, 12-5; Redwood lost to South San Francisco, 3-1; Tamalpais fell to Sonoma, 6-1; and San Rafael was defeated by Berkeley, 3-2.

Right-hander Tom Cronin of Marin Catholic (2-2) pitched 2⅔ innings in relief, allowed only one hit and got the victory when pinch-runner Ryan scored from second on Knotts' hit, and then Knotts scored on the front end of a double steal in the ninth.

After Rancho took a 3-0 lead in the first inning, the Wildcats responded with a three-run rally of their own in the third, two runs coming home on a double by Rich Lopez, the only returnee from last year.

Novato (3-0) has scored 20 runs on 19 hits in its last two games, and got a five-RBI performance from Jeff Pond yesterday. Pond went three for four with a one-run double and two two-run singles. Pitcher Chris DeRecat went all the way, striking out 10 in six innings.

Terra Linda (2-2) right-handers Steve Farrington and Mark Collischonn combined for a five-hit shutout of Oakland Tech. The Trojans broke the game open early with three tallies in the first inning, with Greg Watroba doubling his two runs and the third scoring on Dana Beck's infield grounder.

San Rafael (1-2) carried a one-run lead into the sixth inning, but Berkeley's two-run single with two out doomed the Bulldogs. Their bid to pull the game out in the ninth died when Craig Saunders' drive to deep center at Albert Field with two runners on and two out was caught.

Tamalpais (2-1) was victimized by a five-run rally in the sixth inning in losing for the first time after two victories, while Redwood (2-2) made five errors behind pitchers Ed Anderson and Gene Frey, who limited South City to two hits.

Banner resigned as coach of the U.S. men's team Tuesday at the urging of Pittsburgh athletic director Cass Myslinski.

THREATS

Banner's move came in the wake of NCAA threats that its member institutions involved in the meet would be subject to probation and any undergraduates entered could lose their eligibility.

Meanwhile, efforts to break the deadlock between the two organizations fell apart Tuesday night because of the "unyielding, arbitrary" attitudes of the groups, said Rep. Peter Peyser, R-N.Y.

"I'm burned up with both these organizations," Peyser said in Washington. "They're both trying to build power bases on their own."

At issue is NCAA certification of the meet. The AAU has not requested certification, saying it is not necessary, while the NCAA says unless meet officials request NCAA sanction, its member schools and athletes face stiff penalties.

WON'T BUDGE

Both sides have refused to budge from their positions. The AAU claims certification isn't necessary because of the international nature or the meet. The meet was not certified by the NCAA last year but no penalties were levied.

"We had no inkling this was going to happen, but my AD thinks it best for me to come home," Banner said. "I'm very disappointed."

Also affected are eight U.S. team members, including Olympic gold medalists Rod Milburn of Southern University and Randy Williams of Southern California.

TCU Coach Injured In Crash

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Texas Christian University head football coach Billy Tohill was critically injured today in the high-speed crash of his automobile on Interstate 35W.

Fort Worth patrolman M. F. Pendergraft who investigated the accident said the speedometer on Tohill's car rested on 90 miles an hour, and that the car was probably traveling faster than that just before the crash.

Attendants at John Peter Smith Hospital in Fort Worth where Tohill was taken said he had head and multiple injuries and was in critical condition.

"From what I understand, he is in pretty bad condition," Pendergraft said when reached at the hospial's emergency room. "He has at least one compound fracture and possible internal injuries."

Pendergraft said contrary to early reports, Tohill was not trying to avoid another accident on the freeway, but merely lost control at high speed.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

High Standards In Boating

Boating industry statistics show that expenditures on boating in 1972 at the retail level reached $3.9 billion. It was up 8.03 per cent from 1971. Boating supports one of the truly giant "consumer" industries of this mechanical age.

Yet boating has never been afflicted with "consumerism" after the fashion of Ralph Nader's assault on the auto industry. It would be naive to think that this is because all boat, engine and marine accessory makers are pure altruists and make nothing but perfect products. Obviously bad products are made.

It's probably because boating has always had better industry watchdog organizations and the industry itself is oriented to safety. But a significant factor is that boatmen themselves quickly become relatively expert in operating the gadgetry of boating. They become very aware of what works well and what doesn't.

One organization that has done much to set high standards for boating equipment, particularly some of the gadgetry likely to be understood least by the consumer — such things as stoves, gas and other heating appliances, instruments, engines and engine accessories is the Marine Department of Underwriters' Laboratories.

This organization was formerly called the Yacht Safety Bureau and has been in existence since 1947. Any product carrying the YSB or UL label can be trusted.

Another organization is the American Boat and Yacht Council which is the technical societyof the entire boating industry. It has formulated and is constantly upgrading a code of safety standards and recommended practices for designing, constructing and equipping pleasure craft.

Starting this year there will be more regulations instituted by the Coast Guard concerning standards for boating equipment. This will be in the area of life jackets and other "personal flotation devices," and in boat capacities.

These new rules are being formulated with the advice of the industry and boating organizations through the Boating Advisory Safety Council.

So when one goes into a boat showroom or a marine store and is confronted by the usual unbelievable array of choices, remember that no matter what the choice, somebody, somewhere, has tried to make whatever you buy as safe as possible.

The magnitude of this problem, getting value, and buying safety, is hinted at in some of the questions we are asked:

Q. My dealer wouldn't stand behind the warranty on my motor. He said I had abused it. How good are warranties?

A. The warranty on a boat or engine is only as good as the care you give them. Remember the warranty on your car is only valid if you give it specified "preventive maintenance." Most people just neglect this maintenance on their boat motors. Write for a pamphlet "Keep it Shipshape" from the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers, 537 Steamboat Road, Greenwich, Conn. 06830.

Q. The old boat I traded in on a new one had a small plate on it saying how much it should carry. The new boat — a trihedral hull — doesn't have one. Why?

A. It has taken some time to work out the safety standards for the new hull shapes — gull wing, cathedral, trihedral, and others — but boats in these shapes being produced now will carry the plates. The idea of the plate is to prevent accidents from overpowering or overloading small boats.

Q. I bought fine abrasive cloth to polish my scratched windshield. It scratched it even⅛ore. I know there is a polishing material for plastic, where can I get it?

A. Write Micro-Surface Inc., 821 South Glendale Ave., Glendale Calif., 91205.

Q. I exchanged the gas engine in my cruiser for a diesel early last summer. Than I discovered six months later that the insurance on diesel power is lower. But the company would not give me a refund . . . Why?

A. All marine insurance companies I contacted said you reported the change six months too late. A couple said they might have considered some kind of concession. There's a lesson here for others. Any major change on a boat should be mentioned to one's insurance man.

Seals To Host Canucks Tonight

OAKLAND (UPI) — The California Golden seals hope that a little magic still remains when Vancouver comes to call tonight in National Hockey League action between the two teams going nowhere.

In their last meeting here Jan. 3, the Seals set all kinds of club records in an 11-3 romp over the Canucks. Since the Seals have scored only 168 goals in compiling an 11-43-15 mark, the total was about one-fifteenth of the season's offense.

Pete Laframboise had a hat trick and Ivan Boldirev and Craig Patrick two goals apiece in that fondly-remembered contest.

A STANFORD SURPRISE

McKay Receives Ovation

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Football coach John McKay of the USC Trojans, who last fall was quoted as saying he wished his Trojans would beat Stanford "by 2,000 points," received a standing ovation Tuesday night at Stanford's athletic banquet.

"I'd like to get back to the era of football," he said, "when after a game the two teams met and had dinner. When it's over, I'd really prefer it if every youngster went to the youngsters of the other team and shook their hands, and said 'it's just a game.'"

McKay's football team last fall had a 12-0 record, won the Rose Bowl, and was UPI's top team in the nation.

There were rumors some players would boycott the event, but instead his speech was warmly received and the feud between the two schools seemed over—at least until next fall.

In other remarks, McKay insisted he did not think winning was everything, although he later added it's "important."

He said football's role as a character builder was somewhat overrated since "I believe character is built in the home and church long before I have the pleasure of talking to a youngster."

McKay also said he never had a rule about long hair or facial hair on athletes. "And I never will. It just doesn't bother me."

Walton Gets Most Votes On UPI All-America Team

NEW YORK (UPI) — Three returnees from last year's squad, led by top vote-getter Bill Walton of UCLA, highlight the 1972-73 United Press International All-America team.

Walton, a 6-foot-11 senior, joins 6-6 senior Ed Ratleff of Long Beach State and 6-1 senior Dwight Lamar of Southwestern Louisiana as holdovers from last year's All-America team. Rounding out the first five are 6-4 sophomore David Thompson of North Carolina State and 6-5 senior Doug Collins of Illinois State.

Walton, the player most responsible for the Bruins going undefeated in regular season play for a second straight year, missed by only one point of being a unanimous choice for the team. The big redhead got 389 points out of a possible 390 in balloting conducted of 195 sports writers and sportscasters from across the nation.

Voters were asked to select a first and a second team with two points being awarded to a player named to the first unit and one point given for second team mention.

Keith Wilkes of UCLA heads the second team and is joined by Tom McMillen of Maryland, Jim Brewer of Minnesota, Ernie DiGregorio of Providence and Kevin Joyce of South Carolina.

The third team consists of Allan Hornyak of Ohio State, Tom Burleson of North Carolina State, Bill Schaeffer of St. John's (NY), Ron Behagen of Minnesota and Marvin Barnes of Providenne.

Walton, the top pro prospect in college circles even though he still has a year of eligibility remaining, averaged 19.8 points and 17 rebounds per game this year while leading the Bruins through a 26-0 campaign. He was most devastating on defense, though, as his tremendous agility and shot-blocking ability completely took away opponents' inside game.

Honorable mention (10 or more points) —Averitt, Pepperdine; Bantom, St. Joseph's; Biles, Tulsa; Bradley, Northern Illinois; Brown, Missouri; Cosic, Brigham Young; Downing, Indiana; Farmer, UCLA; Finch, Memphis St.; Fuqua, Oral Roberts.

Hollyfield, UCLA; Hudson, Alabama; Ingelsby, Villanova; Jones, Houston; Karl, North Carolina; Lewis, Los Angeles St.; McNeill, Marquette; Parkhill, Virginia; Washington, American U.; Weatherspoon, Illinois; Williams. Austin Peay; Wilmore, Michigan.

NHL ROUNDUP

Bruins Top Islanders; 'Big Win'

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Boston Bruins only beat the last-place New York Islanders last night but they still felt it was "a big win."

"It was a big win for us," said Boston goaltender Ed Johnston. "We're only trailing the New York Rangers by two points. I think we can catch them."

"We can beat anybody when we're playing like this," said Bruins Coach Bep Guidolin after his team displayed a fine defense in beating the Isladers 3-0 on goals by Wayne Cashman, Ken Hodge and Fred O'Donnell.

Cashman opened the scoring at 6:12 of the first period when he tipped in a centering pass by Hodge from behind the net. Hodge made it 2-0 at 10:51 as he beat Islanders' goalie Billy Smith on a power play. O'Donnell's goal came on a breakaway with less than five minutes left to play.

In other National Hockey League action last night, St. Louis blanked Buffalo 2-0 and Minnesota and Los Angeles played to a 2-2 tie.

Phil Roberto and Floyd Thomson scored the Blues goals to extend the Sabres winless streak to five games. Roberto scored his 18th goal of the season at 19:22 of the second period. Thomson added the insurance goal at 14:18 of the third.

Drake Golfers Surprise Novato

Drake High School, with two sophomores and a freshman shooting 40, defeated Novato yesterday in a non-league golf match on the Hornets' course at Indian Valley.

Sophomores Bob Evans and Mike Kelly and frosh Greg Kardas shot the 40s in the 208-215 upset. "Novato didn't play some of their best people, but we shot well, and it's the first time I can remember beating them," said Drake coach Verne Lull.

In other matches, Terra Linda defeated Vacaville, 182-200, with five players shooting below 40 and Rich Purtle earning medalist honors with a 34, and San Rafael beat San Marin at Indian Valley, 216-230, with John Fahrner and Steve Taylor co-medalists at 40.

NBA ROUNDUP

Wilt Leads Laker Victory

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Wilt Chamberlain will add his 11th rebounding title to a new category in the National Basketball Association record books-first player to achieve a .700 field goal percentage for a season.

The 7-1 Chamberlain, in his 14th NBA season, started off the week with a .712 shooting mark and an 18.5 rebound average. He hit 10 of his 12 shots against Buffalo Tuesday night and collected 23 rebounds as the Los Angeles Lakers defeated the Braves, 121-112, to clinch the Pacific Division title.

Chamberlain also led the Lakers in scoring with 25 points. Jerry West tallied 23 for Los Angeles and Jim McMillian added 23. Bob Kauffman of Buffalo netted a game-high 28 points.

Wilt, who owns more than 25 NBA records, scored 18 points and grabbed 12 rebounds in the first half.

In other action, New York downed Phoenix, 115-111; Cleveland suprised Atlanta, 115-107; Baltimore beat Kansas City-Omaha, 103-99; Chicago clipped Seattle, 104-89, and Golden State whipped Portland, 109-101.

Willis Reed and Walt Frazier scored 28 points each as New York subdued a stubborn Phoenix team that rallied from a 16-point deficit only to lose in the final two minutes. Charlie Scott led the Suns with 33 points before fouling out at the seven-minute mark of the fourth quarter. The defeat mathematically eliminated Phoenix from the playoffs.

Two foul shots by Lenny Wilkens with 7:24 remaining gave Cleveland command in the game with Atlanta. Bobby Smith and Jimmy Cleamons scored 21 of the Cavs' 36 points in the final period to help beat the Hawks. Austin Carr led Cleveland with 28 points and Pete Maravich's 31 topped Atlanta marksmen.

Nate Archibald, the NBA's leading scorer, hit for 42 points, but it wasn't enough as Baltimore's balanced attack beat KC-Omaha. Phil Chenier led the Bullets with 24 points and Mike Riordan had 21, including the six of the last eight Baltimore points in the game.

Chicago received little opportunity for foul shooting, getting only five tries, but the Bulls dominated field goal production, 51-37, in routing Seattle. Jim King, hitting six of his first seven shots, led Chicago with 20 points. Spencer Haywood of the Sonics had 31.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

California's New Tax Law Is Linked To 1972 Withholding

The State of California's new tax law has many items that will affect your 1972 taxes.

Also, California income tax was withheld from your paychecks starting in January.

This is probably a good thing for the wage-earner as it will get his tax paid for him as he earns it with no effort on his part.

Also, it is a good thing for the government because they can keep taking more and more taxes away from us without our ever feeling it.

It is a very bad thing for the employer because it makes him a tax collector and increases his cost of doing business which, in effect, is another tax on him, and he will have no alternative but to add that to his cost of doing business and pass it on to his customers and that means that the cost of living has gone up again.

The personal income tax rates were increased to a maximum of 11 per cent instead of 10 per cent. This 11 per cent bracket starts at $15,500 of taxable income for single persons and $16,500 for head of household and $31,000 for married persons filing jointly.

The individual tax increase applies starting Jan. 1, 1973.

A minimum tax of 2.5 per cent on tax preference items started Jan. 1, 1971.

The items of tax preference are about the same as the federal law.

Starting Jan. 1, 1972, the exclusion for long term capital gains for individual taxpayers will be: no exclusion if the asset is held less than one year; a 35 per cent exclusion if held for more than one year, but not more than five years; a 50 per cent exclusion if held over five years.

In other words, 100 per cent of your capital gains are taxed for the first year, 65 per cent of your capital gain is taxed if held more than one year, but not more than five years, and only half of the capital gain is taxed if held for over five years. This is quite a bit different from the federal law.

You will have to pay your state income tax quarterly in advance on an estimated basis unless state income tax is withheld from wages.

This applies to individuals or marrie persons filing jointly whose gross income other than wages subject to withholding can reasonably be expected to exceed $1,000 and to result in a tax due of $100 or more.

Inheritance taxes are due nine months after death and there is no longer a 5 per cent prompt payment discount.

Capital Gains. Only half of the net long term loss incurred after Dec. 31, 1970, can be offset against ordinary income. On a separate return of married persons the loss deduction is limited to $500. On joint returns of married persons, the loss is limited to $1,000.

California law now conforms to the federal law as respects practically all other of the provisions of the 1969 Federal Tax Reform Act.

Prices On Mixed Side At Closing

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices were mixed in another dull session today on the New York Stock Exchange.

The market has moved narrowly in slow trading through several recent sessions, with little in the news to inspire buying. Also, many investors awaited a resumption of trading on official European currency exchanges next Monday before positioning themselves in the stock market, analysts said.

Prices headed lower in slow trading on the American Stock Exchange.

GIC Investment moved higher on the Big Board. A financial newspaper carried a story outlining the company's success.

Trading lower were Tidwater Marine, Santa Fe Intrnational, J. Ray McDermott and Halliburton.

Postal Contracts

NEW YORK (BW) — A British subsidiary of International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. Has received two contracts from the British Post Office with a total value of approximately $17 million.

A Place To Solve Payment Solutions

If bills keep piling up and you cannot meet your monthly payments, there is a new office in San Rafael to help you work out a payment solution.

Called the Consumer Credit Counselors of Marin, it is located in the Crocker Bank Building at 1203 Fourth Street. Its mailing address is Post Office Box 628. Frederic S. Perley of Greenbrae is manager of the office, and R. E. Corrick, vice president and manager of the Bank of America office in San Rafael, is chairman of the advisory committee.

Consumer Credit Counselors is a nationwide, non-profit community service organization which is financially supported by and has the cooperation of banks, finance companies, retail merchants, and professional people to assist those who find themselves overburdened with debts.

The job of Consumer Credit Counselors is to work out a plan which will reduce monthly payments for a debt-ridden family and get creditors to agree to the plan. "Most creditors are willing to accept a payment plan recommended by us," said Perley. "It's this cooperation we have with those who issue credit that makes our service so valuable."

He said those who need help should write or telephone his office for an appointment. The applicant will be mailed an application form, which is needed at the time of the interview. Information on the applications are kept confidential.

There are no charges for interviews and counseling. If Consumer Credit Counselors administers a debt payment plan, it takes a nominal fee of five per cent of the money paid to creditors monthly or $10 per month, whichever is less.

INVESTING

Pamida Is Having Trouble

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. What is your estimate of Pamida, Inc. (NYSE)? Is a dividend possible in the near future? — L.C.

A. Shares have dropped 38 per cent in price since the first of the year, reflecting market weakness particularly severe among secondary growth stocks. A similar price decline occurred in one day's trading, when the company announced that fiscal 1972 results were not expected to increase significantly year-to-year. Several large stores opened later than scheduled, thereby missing part of the important Christmas selling season.

Pamida increased its selling space 36.5 per cent last year, adding 22 new locations. This year 20 plus units are scheduled for opening which would up selling capacity more than 25 per cent and bring total stores to 190. Earnings projections, based on Pamida's previous experience, of 65 cents a share, appear possible for the year to end next Jan.However, a dividend in the near future is, in my opinion, unlikely. Although price reaction has amply discounted any disappointment in 1972 fiscal earnings, recovery will be slow. Sell on any upturn.

Q. I own 500 Liggett & Myers (NYSE) at $55. Your opinion would be appreciated as to whether I should hold or sell. — S.G.

A. At the present time LM yielding 6.4 per cent is attractive primarily as an income investment. Although earnings dropped from $4.22 per share to $3.49 in 1972, the dividend appears secure. The primary factor which pushed profits lower was the time lag between increases in commodity prices to the company and the passing of these higher costs on to customers. Price increases in pet foods, tobacco products and food lines have since corrected this situation. Furthermore, two deficit operations were closed out in the final 1972 quarter.

No major earnings turnaround is looked for this year, although some headway should be forthcoming. Nontobacco products accounted for 62 per cent of income and 59 per cent of sales last year. Gains from this area are expected to compensate for any lag in cigarette sales.

Red Carpet Realtors Will Open Office Saturday In San Rafael

Red Carpet Realtors, a franchise realty firm with headquarters in Walnut Creek, will open its first Marin County office this Saturday at the former Greyhound Bus Depot in San Rafael, 701 Third Street.

The owner-broker in charge of the San Rafael office is Mrs. Karen Dahlin of Novato, who was sales manager for La Master Realty in Corte Madera for the past year. A resident of Marin since 1951, Mrs. Dahlin has been a member of the Marin County Board of Realtors since 1968.

The old bus depot building was remodeled by Odd Jobs of Marin, operated by Tony Bayer, and Remodeling Services, owned by Richard Beedle, both of Novato.

Mrs. Dahlin's new realty office is one of four Red Carpet offices to open this weekend in Marin. The other three, which will become Red Carpet franchises, are as follows:

James Harvey Hendrick Realtors at 928 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield. Partners are Hendrick and Ralph McClurg.

Associated Developers, owned by Virginia Russell, at 957 Front Street, Novato.

Red Carpet Realtors has more than 300 franchise offices, each independently operated, in California, Arizona, Oregon and Nevada.

CHARLES H. WOLTER of San Rafael has been named operations officer in Wells Fargo Bank's international division operations group, San Francisco.

A past director and treasurer of the Marin County Board of Realtors and a former director of the California Real Estate Association, he currently serves as a commissioner on the Marin County Housing Authority.

FRANK SAUNDERS of San Rafael has been named San Francisco district's man-of-the-year for 1972 by Brown & Bigelow, calendar producer and specialty advertising firm in San Francisco. Saunders has been a sales representative for the company since 1941.

Selection of the man-of-the-year is based on overall sales performance, service to accounts, and participation in civic affairs. For his 1972 achievements, Saunders was honored as a member of the company's Century Club.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

California's New Tax Law Is Linked To 1972 Withholding

The State of California's new tax law has many items that will affect your 1972 taxes.

Also, California income tax was withheld from your paychecks starting in January.

This is probably a good thing for the wage-earner as it will get his tax paid for him as he earns it with no effort on his part.

Also, it is a good thing for the government because they can keep taking more and more taxes away from us without our ever feeling it.

It is a very bad thing for the employer because it makes him a tax collector and increases his cost of doing business which, in effect, is another tax on him, and he will have no alternative but to add that to his cost of doing business and pass it on to his customers and that means that the cost of living has gone up again.

The personal income tax rates were increased to a maximum of 11 per cent instead of 10 per cent. This 11 per cent bracket starts at $15,500 of taxable income for single persons and $16,500 for head of household and $31,000 for married persons filing jointly.

The individual tax increase applies starting Jan. 1, 1973.

A minimum tax of 2.5 per cent on tax preference items started Jan. 1, 1971.

The items of tax preference are about the same as the federal law.

Starting Jan. 1, 1972, the exclusion for long term capital gains for individual taxpayers will be: no exclusion if the asset is held less than one year; a 35 per cent exclusion if held for more than one year, but not more than five years; a 50 per cent exclusion if held over five years.

In other words, 100 per cent of your capital gains are taxed for the first year, 65 per cent of your capital gain is taxed if held more than one year, but not more than five years, and only half of the capital gain is taxed if held for over five years. This is quite a bit different from the federal law.

You will have to pay your state income tax quarterly in advance on an estimated basis unless state income tax is withheld from wages.

This applies to individuals or marrie persons filing jointly whose gross income other than wages subject to withholding can reasonably be expected to exceed $1,000 and to result in a tax due of $100 or more.

Inheritance taxes are due nine months after death and there is no longer a 5 per cent prompt payment discount.

Capital Gains. Only half of the net long term loss incurred after Dec. 31, 1970, can be offset against ordinary income. On a separate return of married persons the loss deduction is limited to $500. On joint returns of married persons, the loss is limited to $1,000.

California law now conforms to the federal law as respects practically all other of the provisions of the 1969 Federal Tax Reform Act.

INVESTING

Pamida Is Having Trouble

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. What is your estimate of Pamida, Inc. (NYSE)? Is a dividend possible in the near future? — L.C.

A. Shares have dropped 38 per cent in price since the first of the year, reflecting market weakness particularly severe among secondary growth stocks. A similar price decline occurred in one day's trading, when the company announced that fiscal 1972 results were not expected to increase significantly year-to-year. Several large stores opened later than scheduled, thereby missing part of the important Christmas selling season.

Pamida increased its selling space 36.5 per cent last year, adding 22 new locations. This year 20 plus units are scheduled for opening which would up selling capacity more than 25 per cent and bring total stores to 190. Earnings projections, based on Pamida's previous experience, of 65 cents a share, appear possible for the year to end next Jan.However, a dividend in the near future is, in my opinion, unlikely. Although price reaction has amply discounted any disappointment in 1972 fiscal earnings, recovery will be slow. Sell on any upturn.

Q. I own 500 Liggett & Myers (NYSE) at $55. Your opinion would be appreciated as to whether I should hold or sell. — S.G.

A. At the present time LM yielding 6.4 per cent is attractive primarily as an income investment. Although earnings dropped from $4.22 per share to $3.49 in 1972, the dividend appears secure. The primary factor which pushed profits lower was the time lag between increases in commodity prices to the company and the passing of these higher costs on to customers. Price increases in pet foods, tobacco products and food lines have since corrected this situation. Furthermore, two deficit operations were closed out in the final 1972 quarter.

No major earnings turnaround is looked for this year, although some headway should be forthcoming. Nontobacco products accounted for 62 per cent of income and 59 per cent of sales last year. Gains from this area are expected to compensate for any lag in cigarette sales.

Red Carpet Realtors Will Open Office Saturday In San Rafael

Red Carpet Realtors, a franchise realty firm with headquarters in Walnut Creek, will open its first Marin County office this Saturday at the former Greyhound Bus Depot in San Rafael, 701 Third Street.

The owner-broker in charge of the San Rafael office is Mrs. Karen Dahlin of Novato, who was sales manager for La Master Realty in Corte Madera for the past year. A resident of Marin since 1951, Mrs. Dahlin has been a member of the Marin County Board of Realtors since 1968.

The old bus depot building was remodeled by Odd Jobs of Marin, operated by Tony Bayer, and Remodeling Services, owned by Richard Beedle, both of Novato.

Mrs. Dahlin's new realty office is one of four Red Carpet offices to open this weekend in Marin. The other three, which will become Red Carpet franchises, are as follows:

Prices On Mixed Side At Closing

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices were mixed in another dull session today on the New York Stock Exchange.

The market has moved narrowly in slow trading through several recent sessions, with little in the news to inspire buying. Also, many investors awaited a resumption of trading on official European currency exchanges next Monday before positioning themselves in the stock market, analysts said.

Prices headed lower in slow trading on the American Stock Exchange.

GIC Investment moved higher on the Big Board. A financial newspaper carried a story outlining the company's success.

Trading lower were Tidwater Marine, Santa Fe Intrnational, J. Ray McDermott and Halliburton.

Postal Contracts

NEW YORK (BW) — A British subsidiary of International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. Has received two contracts from the British Post Office with a total value of approximately $17 million.

A Place To Solve Payment Solutions

If bills keep piling up and you cannot meet your monthly payments, there is a new office in San Rafael to help you work out a payment solution.

Called the Consumer Credit Counselors of Marin, it is located in the Crocker Bank Building at 1203 Fourth Street. Its mailing address is Post Office Box 628. Frederic S. Perley of Greenbrae is manager of the office, and R. E. Corrick, vice president and manager of the Bank of America office in San Rafael, is chairman of the advisory committee.

Consumer Credit Counselors is a nationwide, non-profit community service organization which is financially supported by and has the cooperation of banks, finance companies, retail merchants, and professional people to assist those who find themselves overburdened with debts.

The job of Consumer Credit Counselors is to work out a plan which will reduce monthly payments for a debt-ridden family and get creditors to agree to the plan. "Most creditors are willing to accept a payment plan recommended by us," said Perley. "It's this cooperation we have with those who issue credit that makes our service so valuable."

He said those who need help should write or telephone his office for an appointment. The applicant will be mailed an application form, which is needed at the time of the interview. Information on the applications are kept confidential.

There are no charges for interviews and counseling. If Consumer Credit Counselors administers a debt payment plan, it takes a nominal fee of five per cent of the money paid to creditors monthly or $10 per month, whichever is less.

Sportscoach Corp. Has Good Year

CHATSWORTH (BW) — Sportscoach Corp., a leading manufacturer of luxury class motor homes, has reported that net income before extraordinary credit was $990,221 for the year ended Dec. 31 up 745 per cent from $117,195 for fiscal 1971.

Earnings per share before extraordinary credit was 64 cents for fiscal 1972, up 700 per cent from eight cents earned in 1971.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

High Standards In Boating

Boating industry statistics show that expenditures on boating in 1972 at the retail level reached $3.9 billion. It was up 8.03 per cent from 1971. Boating supports one of the truly giant "consumer" industries of this mechanical age.

Yet boating has never been afflicted with "consumerism" after the fashion of Ralph Nader's assault on the auto industry. It would be naive to think that this is because all boat, engine and marine accessory makers are pure altruists and make nothing but perfect products. Obviously bad products are made.

It's probably because boating has always had better industry watchdog organizations and the industry itself is oriented to safety. But a significant factor is that boatmen themselves quickly become relatively expert in operating the gadgetry of boating. They become very aware of what works well and what doesn't.

One organization that has done much to set high standards for boating equipment, particularly some of the gadgetry likely to be understood least by the consumer — such things as stoves, gas and other heating appliances, instruments, engines and engine accessories is the Marine Department of Underwriters' Laboratories.

This organization was formerly called the Yacht Safety Bureau and has been in existence since 1947. Any product carrying the YSB or UL label can be trusted.

Another organization is the American Boat and Yacht Council which is the technical societyof the entire boating industry. It has formulated and is constantly upgrading a code of safety standards and recommended practices for designing, constructing and equipping pleasure craft.

Starting this year there will be more regulations instituted by the Coast Guard concerning standards for boating equipment. This will be in the area of life jackets and other "personal flotation devices," and in boat capacities.

These new rules are being formulated with the advice of the industry and boating organizations through the Boating Advisory Safety Council.

So when one goes into a boat showroom or a marine store and is confronted by the usual unbelievable array of choices, remember that no matter what the choice, somebody, somewhere, has tried to make whatever you buy as safe as possible.

The magnitude of this problem, getting value, and buying safety, is hinted at in some of the questions we are asked:

Q. My dealer wouldn't stand behind the warranty on my motor. He said I had abused it. How good are warranties?

A. The warranty on a boat or engine is only as good as the care you give them. Remember the warranty on your car is only valid if you give it specified "preventive maintenance." Most people just neglect this maintenance on their boat motors. Write for a pamphlet "Keep it Shipshape" from the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers, 537 Steamboat Road, Greenwich, Conn. 06830.

Q. The old boat I traded in on a new one had a small plate on it saying how much it should carry. The new boat — a trihedral hull — doesn't have one. Why?

A. It has taken some time to work out the safety standards for the new hull shapes — gull wing, cathedral, trihedral, and others — but boats in these shapes being produced now will carry the plates. The idea of the plate is to prevent accidents from overpowering or overloading small boats.

Q. I bought fine abrasive cloth to polish my scratched windshield. It scratched it even⅛ore. I know there is a polishing material for plastic, where can I get it?

A. Write Micro-Surface Inc., 821 South Glendale Ave., Glendale Calif., 91205.

Q. I exchanged the gas engine in my cruiser for a diesel early last summer. Than I discovered six months later that the insurance on diesel power is lower. But the company would not give me a refund . . . Why?

A. All marine insurance companies I contacted said you reported the change six months too late. A couple said they might have considered some kind of concession. There's a lesson here for others. Any major change on a boat should be mentioned to one's insurance man.

Seals To Host Canucks Tonight

OAKLAND (UPI) — The California Golden seals hope that a little magic still remains when Vancouver comes to call tonight in National Hockey League action between the two teams going nowhere.

In their last meeting here Jan. 3, the Seals set all kinds of club records in an 11-3 romp over the Canucks. Since the Seals have scored only 168 goals in compiling an 11-43-15 mark, the total was about one-fifteenth of the season's offense.

Pete Laframboise had a hat trick and Ivan Boldirev and Craig Patrick two goals apiece in that fondly-remembered contest.

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

The column of heights gives the elevation in feet of each tide above or below the plane of Coast Survey chart soundings. The depths are always additive to the chart depths unless preceded by a (-), when the numbers are subtracted from the depth given in the chart. Lightface type indicates a.m. times; bold-face type indicates p.m. times.

Award winner Gaylord Perry pitched five scoreless innings for the Indians.

Back-to-back homers by Willie Montanez and Mike Schmidt helped the Philadelphia Phillies beat the Kansas City Royals 6-2 and Lou Brock had two singles and a double in the St. Louis Cardinals' 6-0 triumph over the Baltimore Orioles. Pinch-hitter Ed Armbrister singled home Dave Concepcion with two out in the 10th inning to give the Cincinnati Reds a 5-4 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates and Cesar Cedeno hit a two-run homer to carry the Astros to a 4-3 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Designated hitter Orlando Cepeda had two hits and three RBIs for Boston.

Terra Linda Wins In Track

Terra Linda High School yesterday drubbed El Molino, 90-40, in a non-league track and field meet in Forestville, while Tamalpais finished behind Lincoln of San Francisco but ahead of Aragon of San Mateo in a triangular meet in San Francisco.

Pat Thornton won the 440 and 880-yard runs, Steve Johnson took the 100 and 220 dashes and Mark Lowey won the high jump and triple jump for the Trojans. Thornton was on the winning mile relay team and Johnson on the winning 440 relay team.

Sonoma Defeated By Pacific '9'

STOCKTON — Sonoma State College was limited to two hits by the University of the Pacific yesterday to lose a 1-0 non-league baseball game. The Cossacks are now 1-4 this season.

Pacific pitcher Ron Bovee, who hurled all nine innings, scored the winning run in the bottom of the seventh. He led off with a single, was wild pitched to second, advanced to third on an outfield fly and scored on an error by the first baseman.

U.S. Action Said Money Reform Key

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Agence Europe, a small news agency which often reflects thinking within the European Common Market, said today the success of short-term monetary reforms will depend on what the United States will do to help.

The dollar continued to gain strength in unofficial trading on European money markets. It went up in London, Paris, Zurich and Brussels and hit 2.835 marks in Frankfurt —its high point since the official markets closed March 2.

"We shall be able to be more optimistic when we know what the United States' answer is," Agence Europe said. "The whole credibility of the system depends, in fact, on the answer of the United States."

Agence Europe referred to the meeting in Paris Friday of finance ministers from the nine Common Market nations, the United States, Canada, Japan, Sweden and Switzerland. The meeting is to set out the methods, pending long-range monetary reforms, for control of speculation and the periodic crises which have defigured money markets in recent years.

Common Market finance ministers took the first step Sunday when they set up a "joint float" by six Market currencies — Britain, Italy and Ireland stayed out —against the U.S. dollar.

The Market has asked the United States to return the favor by taking measures of its own, such as renewed support of the dollar on money markets, controls on the outflow of dollars, a tight money policy and a return to convertibility of the dollar.

The ministers' deputies were meeting Thursday in Paris to lay final plans for the Friday session. The deputies met Monday in Brussels and, according to sources here, reached broad agreement on what should be done.

The ministers have said they hope to have the short-range reforms in place by next Monday, when the official money markets reopen.

Market critics said meanwhile they were not entirely happy with the six nation float.

Most of the criticism was not against the idea of the float itself—only that it did not go far enough.

Six of the nine European Common Market nations decided Sunday to "float" —that is, to free their currencies from fixed prices against the dollar. They include West Germany, France, Belgium, Denmark, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. Italy, Britain and Ireland did not join the float since their own currencies already were floating.

Finance Minister Giovanni Malagodi of Italy called the joint float "more rigid and less practical" than an Italian plan, which would have had all nine Common Market currencies floating independently at first, then moving gradually into a joint float.

Other critics said flatly that the day of fixed exchange rates, a cornerstone of the world monetary system since 1944, is over. They said the future lies with permanent and independent floats by each country and that any attempt to maintain fixed rates, even among closely allied nations like the Common Market, is doomed.

Draft Resister Beats Charge, Ends Up Drafted

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — A draft resister who came home from Sweden to "get it over" won a court victory Tuesday—and was promptly drafted again.

U.S. District Judge Robert Peckham dismissed draft evasion charges against Kenneth Rutledge, 26, because the government couldn't prove he had ever received induction papers mailed to him in Sweden.

But Rutledge, who returned to the United States shortly after the Vietnam cease-fire, was handed a new induction order before leaving court. It ordered him to report for duty in the Army on March 21.

Coffees For Board Candidate Slated

Two coffees have been set this week for Dr. Martin Griffin, candidate for the Division 4 seat on the Marin Municipal Water District board in the April 17 election.

Dr. Griffin will speak tomorrow at the home of Mrs. F. S. Strauss, 147 Sycamore Avenue, and at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Roger Panek home, 220 Julia Avenue, both Mill Valley.

Army Ends Viet Role Tomorrow

SAIGON (UPI) — The United States today resumed its military withdrawal from South Vietnam after a two-day halt caused by Communist slowness in releasing prisoners of war, and the U.S. Army announced it will officially end its role in Vietnam tomorrow.

In closing its command the army winds up almost eight years of a command that once controlled thousands of GIs throughout the country. The standdown will leave the 6,800 American troops still in Vietnam under the Military Assistance Command in Vietnam (MACV).

The United States also sent home 300 more soldiers today, ending a freeze on withdrawals which started before the Communists announced the release of the current group of American prisoners.

A U.S. spokesman said about 700 more GIs would be sent home Friday after the Viet Cong release 32 more American pows in Hanoi. The North Vietnamese released 108 American POWs in Hanoi today and they were flown to Clark Air Base in the Philippines..

The spokesman said the remaining 6,000 soldiers will not be sent home until the Communists announce the names, date and place of release of the last 146 American prisoners.

In other developments:

U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and two American aid officials met for 75 minutes with President Nguyen Van Thieu, apparently to discuss postwar help for South Vietnam.

Canadian External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp is scheduled to arrive in Saigon Thursday for a two-day visit to determine his country's future as a member of the International Commission for Control and Supervision (ICCS).

The United States today handed out bills for services rendered during the first month of the Vietnam peace. The North Vietnamese were charged $421,000, South Vietnam was billed $178,000 and the Viet Cong was tabbed $48,000. The bills cover services such as the use of helicopters and airplanes, cars and trucks, housing and meals.

The North Vietnamese bill is higher because they used C130s extensively for daily shuttle flights to Hanoi in the early days of the cease-fire.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

California's New Tax Law Is Linked To 1972 Withholding

The State of California's new tax law has many items that will affect your 1972 taxes.

Also, California income tax was withheld from your paychecks starting in January.

This is probably a good thing for the wage-earner as it will get his tax paid for him as he earns it with no effort on his part.

Also, it is a good thing for the government because they can keep taking more and more taxes away from us without our ever feeling it.

It is a very bad thing for the employer because it makes him a tax collector and increases his cost of doing business which, in effect, is another tax on him, and he will have no alternative but to add that to his cost of doing business and pass it on to his customers and that means that the cost of living has gone up again.

The personal income tax rates were increased to a maximum of 11 per cent instead of 10 per cent. This 11 per cent bracket starts at $15,500 of taxable income for single persons and $16,500 for head of household and $31,000 for married persons filing jointly.

The individual tax increase applies starting Jan. 1, 1973.

A minimum tax of 2.5 per cent on tax preference items started Jan. 1, 1971.

The items of tax preference are about the same as the federal law.

Starting Jan. 1, 1972, the exclusion for long term capital gains for individual taxpayers will be: no exclusion if the asset is held less than one year; a 35 per cent exclusion if held for more than one year, but not more than five years; a 50 per cent exclusion if held over five years.

In other words, 100 per cent of your capital gains are taxed for the first year, 65 per cent of your capital gain is taxed if held more than one year, but not more than five years, and only half of the capital gain is taxed if held for over five years. This is quite a bit different from the federal law.

You will have to pay your state income tax quarterly in advance on an estimated basis unless state income tax is withheld from wages.

This applies to individuals or marrie persons filing jointly whose gross income other than wages subject to withholding can reasonably be expected to exceed $1,000 and to result in a tax due of $100 or more.

Inheritance taxes are due nine months after death and there is no longer a 5 per cent prompt payment discount.

Capital Gains. Only half of the net long term loss incurred after Dec. 31, 1970, can be offset against ordinary income. On a separate return of married persons the loss deduction is limited to $500. On joint returns of married persons, the loss is limited to $1,000.

California law now conforms to the federal law as respects practically all other of the provisions of the 1969 Federal Tax Reform Act.

Prices On Mixed Side At Closing

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices were mixed in another dull session today on the New York Stock Exchange.

The market has moved narrowly in slow trading through several recent sessions, with little in the news to inspire buying. Also, many investors awaited a resumption of trading on official European currency exchanges next Monday before positioning themselves in the stock market, analysts said.

Prices headed lower in slow trading on the American Stock Exchange.

GIC Investment moved higher on the Big Board. A financial newspaper carried a story outlining the company's success.

Trading lower were Tidwater Marine, Santa Fe Intrnational, J. Ray McDermott and Halliburton.

Postal Contracts

NEW YORK (BW) — A British subsidiary of International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. Has received two contracts from the British Post Office with a total value of approximately $17 million.

A Place To Solve Payment Solutions

If bills keep piling up and you cannot meet your monthly payments, there is a new office in San Rafael to help you work out a payment solution.

Called the Consumer Credit Counselors of Marin, it is located in the Crocker Bank Building at 1203 Fourth Street. Its mailing address is Post Office Box 628. Frederic S. Perley of Greenbrae is manager of the office, and R. E. Corrick, vice president and manager of the Bank of America office in San Rafael, is chairman of the advisory committee.

Consumer Credit Counselors is a nationwide, non-profit community service organization which is financially supported by and has the cooperation of banks, finance companies, retail merchants, and professional people to assist those who find themselves overburdened with debts.

The job of Consumer Credit Counselors is to work out a plan which will reduce monthly payments for a debt-ridden family and get creditors to agree to the plan. "Most creditors are willing to accept a payment plan recommended by us," said Perley. "It's this cooperation we have with those who issue credit that makes our service so valuable."

He said those who need help should write or telephone his office for an appointment. The applicant will be mailed an application form, which is needed at the time of the interview. Information on the applications are kept confidential.

There are no charges for interviews and counseling. If Consumer Credit Counselors administers a debt payment plan, it takes a nominal fee of five per cent of the money paid to creditors monthly or $10 per month, whichever is less.

Sportscoach Corp. Has Good Year

CHATSWORTH (BW) — Sportscoach Corp., a leading manufacturer of luxury class motor homes, has reported that net income before extraordinary credit was $990,221 for the year ended Dec. 31 up 745 per cent from $117,195 for fiscal 1971.

Earnings per share before extraordinary credit was 64 cents for fiscal 1972, up 700 per cent from eight cents earned in 1971.

POTTERY SHOW

INVESTING

Pamida Is Having Trouble

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. What is your estimate of Pamida, Inc. (NYSE)? Is a dividend possible in the near future? — L.C.

A. Shares have dropped 38 per cent in price since the first of the year, reflecting market weakness particularly severe among secondary growth stocks. A similar price decline occurred in one day's trading, when the company announced that fiscal 1972 results were not expected to increase significantly year-to-year. Several large stores opened later than scheduled, thereby missing part of the important Christmas selling season.

Pamida increased its selling space 36.5 per cent last year, adding 22 new locations. This year 20 plus units are scheduled for opening which would up selling capacity more than 25 per cent and bring total stores to 190. Earnings projections, based on Pamida's previous experience, of 65 cents a share, appear possible for the year to end next Jan.However, a dividend in the near future is, in my opinion, unlikely. Although price reaction has amply discounted any disappointment in 1972 fiscal earnings, recovery will be slow. Sell on any upturn.

Q. I own 500 Liggett & Myers (NYSE) at $55. Your opinion would be appreciated as to whether I should hold or sell. — S.G.

A. At the present time LM yielding 6.4 per cent is attractive primarily as an income investment. Although earnings dropped from $4.22 per share to $3.49 in 1972, the dividend appears secure. The primary factor which pushed profits lower was the time lag between increases in commodity prices to the company and the passing of these higher costs on to customers. Price increases in pet foods, tobacco products and food lines have since corrected this situation. Furthermore, two deficit operations were closed out in the final 1972 quarter.

No major earnings turnaround is looked for this year, although some headway should be forthcoming. Nontobacco products accounted for 62 per cent of income and 59 per cent of sales last year. Gains from this area are expected to compensate for any lag in cigarette sales.

Are We Governed By Laws Or Men?

We are often told (usually by members of the legal profession) that we have in the United States a government of laws and not of men.

Do we, really?

LAST NOVEMBER, the people of California, by an overwhelming vote, wrote into the state constitution a provision specifically restoring the death penalty wherever it is provided by statute.

"The death penalty provided for under these statutes," declares this voter-approved constitutional amendment, "shall not be deemed to be, or to constitute, the infliction of cruel or unusual punishments within the meaning of Article 1, Section 6."

That was the article that had been cited by the California Supreme Court in ruling that — despite explicit constitutional provision for it elsewhere — the death penalty was unconstitutional.

By approving the ballot proposition in November, the people of California overrode the court and put the death penalty back into the state constitution. Yet in the five months since then, no felon has been returned to Death Row, no death penalty commuted because of the state supreme court's decision has been re-imposed, no one has been put to death, and no one has been sentenced to death.

The death penalty is the law. The people saw to that by writing it into the constitution. But it is ignored — because six men in Sacramento who happen to be judges earlier said the constitution didn't really mean what it said.

LAST NOVEMBER by an overwhelming vote, the people of California wrote into the Education Code this provision:

"No public school student shall, because of his race, creed or color, be assigned to or be required to attend a particular school."

However, in many California school districts, pupils continue five months later to be bussed to schools far from their homes, for the express purpose of providing what some school officials deem a proper quota of each race in the classrooms.

Nearly 20 years ago the United States Supreme Court said a child could not be forced to attend a school across town because of race. Today, that court decision is used as an excuse for bussing thousands of children across dozens of towns because of race.

The people of California passed a law to end that in this state. They did so by approving Proposition 21 last November, writing into the code the prohibition quoted above.

But that law might as well not be on the books. No notice is taken of it — because the state superintendent of public instruction, who is charged with seeing that the school districts obey the law, doesn't care to see this particular law enforced.

WE HAVE a government of laws and not of men?

Not so you'd notice it.

'Little Guy' Hits Back At Autocratic Bureau

By RUS WALTON

Bob Bennett operates a liquor store in Lodi, Calif.

What's a liquor store doing in a column on state affairs? Well, Bennett is in a battle with the State Board of Equalization and his experience indicates the federal Internal Revenue Service has no monopoly on arrogance — or power.

START BACK at the beginning of the Bennett battle.

He is one of those thousands of California merchants forced into involuntary servitude by the state. Not the people, the state.

By that I mean, did you ever inform your local merchant that he must be your slave, or go out of business? On what day did you ever give such power to your elected representative? What he does he does in your name. He passes your laws.

And the laws say that in order to stay in business, merchants must be bookkeepers, collection agents and wet-nurses for the Board of Equalization. This they must do under the threat of losing their "right" to be in business; this they must do without compensation.

SEVEN MONTHS AGO Bob Bennett said "to hell with all that".

He's one of those fellas who takes the Constitution at face value. And the Constitution says that involuntary servitude is a no-no. Bennett decided to see whether the Constitution was still the law of this land of the free.

He started deducting a 3 per cent service charge from his sales tax receipts before he sent them to Babylon. He figured 3 per cent would just about cover his time and costs for fooling around with the 160 tax forms and other duties he performs for the state tax boys.

Bennett admits he took his lead from Florida. Down there the state permits a businessman to deduct 3 per cent of sales tax receipts as payment for services rendered.

Well, the Board of Equalization bureaucrats didn't go along with Bennett's reasoning, or actions. I mean, who ever heard of a little guy challenging the system. Down, boy!

FIRST THING, the state tax agents went to the West Lodi Bank of America and forced the branch manager to tell them how much money Bennett had in his checking account. No court order, no warrant. They just scared the manager spitless and made him go along with their demands.

Next, the agents seized Bennett's bank account and informed him he could try to get his money back. No warrant. Just an executive decree from the board calling him a judgment debtor. But, no judge had ever so declared.

The form notifying Bennett that his money had been seized cited Sec. 690.4 of the Civil Code, relating to attachments, liens, and garnishments of wages and property.

Bennett pads down to a local law library and finds that it is illegal to take a man's tools of his trade. That, the courts say, would deprive him of his livelihood.

As far as Bob Bennett is concerned, money is a tool of his trade. Without it he cannot replenish the stock in his store. The state said "baloney," money's no tool of a trade.

LAST WEEK in Stockton, in superior court, Bob Bennett stated his case and the judge agreed. He gave the state 10 days to show cause why he shouldn't order it to release Mr. Bennett's bank account.

All of which has yet to really join the central issue of involuntary servitude. But, Bennett will get his chance.

The state will be back. They'll find something else. Like I say, you can't have these little guys tromping around spouting the Fourth, Fifth or 13th Amendment all the time. What if everybody got it into their heads that the Constitution was "viable"?

Well, I'll tell you something. If more little businessmen and just plain taxpayers had as much guts as Bob Bennett, those bureaucrats would run for the hills and the politicians would stop passing laws that violate civil liberties, and start repealing those that do.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Don't Buy Motorcycle; Support Committee

I noted with interest your report that our county supervisors voted to authorize purchase of a motorcycle to control off-road vehicle use. It would be a lot more productive if they would expend their efforts and our money toward supporting their appointed off-road vehicle ad hoc committee. These dedicated people have been working hard at great odds to accomplish the direction of the board in locating a mechanical park for off-road vehicle use.

If the supervisors are really serious in their stated goals and created such a park, there would be no need to buy a motorcycle, the use of which can only possibly result in citation of a few more easily caught children on minibikes. The county receives federal land and water conservation funds for purchase of lands for recreation uses such as this.

Tighten Rules, Then Hold Schools Responsible

Are the schools legally obligated to educate children to certain standards? As a corollary, can or should legal sanctions be imposed upon the schools for malfeasance of duty? What constitutes such malfeasance?

To use some analogies from other professions, a doctor is not responsible if a patient does not take his medicine, a lawyer is not responsible if a client disregards his advice, etc. Yet, your editorial implies that teachers have an absolute responsibility if the child is of normal intelligence.

Because of compulsory education, the schools must take and try their best to educate all the children that come. There is no obligation for them and their parents to use their educational opportunities to the best advantage. Let those who use the schools pay more directly for its advantages. Let them pay for their books, paper, and pencils. Let parents pay a small tuition charge for each child. In addition to this, tighten up the schools' behavioral and academic standards. In short, create those conditions where teachers can do the best possible job and hold them accountable for doing it.

Does 'Ms,' Stand For 'Missing Something'?

There is all this music in my soul, to be composed and played out by a happening called — life; with a partner called — woman. So, in due respect to Women's Lib and the new identity of little Ms., as to distinguish from Miss or Mrs., it personally flashes on me as Missing Something. Well, where women are concerned, I don't want to be missed and I am something — a man.

Only together will we find all the pieces. Walk with God in your seeking.

Suggests Reviewer Didn't Read Program

Strongly suggest your reviewer Vera Olmsted visit a hearing specialist. Miss Marian Marsh's performance in the Vaughn Williams Dona Nobis last Wednesday was perfection itself.

Perhaps Mrs. Olmsted did not understand that Miss Marsh alone was singing in Latin?

The majority of the audience, I am sure, would have perceived this by reading their programs.

Women Voters League Backs Countywide Plan

There has been much discussion recently regarding the proposed countywide plan. The League of Women Voters of Central Marin has made a thorough study of the plan and its ramifications and would like to present the following observations.

The State of California requires all cities and counties to prepare general plans. These plans must be completed by mid-1973. The state further requires implementation of these plans through zoning once the plans are adopted. We are past the point in time when we can draw up a pretty plan and let it rest on the shelf while the market dictates zoning and growth policies.

Marin County is a part of the San Francisco metropolitan area. As such we must comply with certain regional plans. Any plans for the county must relate to the area as a whole. The same is true of the 11 cities in the county. . .Unless we properly plan for expanded growth we will wind up with urban sprawl throughout the county and all the related problems of providing the necessary services at a great cost to all taxpayers.

The countywide plan is exactly that. A plan which has been developed by all the cities and the county through the City-County Planning Council. Staff input has come from the cities as well as the county. . .Within the framework of the countywide guidelines, each city may then move forth in more detailed plans for their own entities. For each city to start with an independent plan and then try to fit the pieces together into a whole would result in chaos.. . .

The implementation of the plan will be done to a great extent by the cities. They will absorb future growth and must provide the necessary services. The proposed countywide review agency will allow the cities to continue working together in a way which is beneficial to all. . .

. . .If we cannot work together to plan for our future then some agency higher up will step in to do it for us. We all relate to our own communities. We must also learn to relate to our total region if we wish to retain the unique qualities of our cities, towns and rural areas that make Marin.

Only Administration Is Unaware Of Phase 3's Miserable Failure

WASHINGTON — Phase 3 is a miserable failure.

Essentially, the administration explains the two-month-old relaxation of economic control by saying it is too complicated for the general public to understand — we should keep the faith but not complain too much. As Herbert Stein, the President's chief economic adviser, put it, "Phase 3 has its amgibuities. People who like clear and fixed lines may find it unsatisfactory. But the ambiguities of Phase 3 stem from the ambiguities of the real world."

In contradiction, I submit that it is the general public rather than administration economists which inhabits the real world, and that there the current price situation is understood very well. The only ambiguous part is the administration's explanation. The effect of Phase 3 is depressingly clear: It does not work, and should be scrapped promptly for a return to the wage-and-price controls of Phase 2.

THE DETAILED differences between Phases 1, 2 and 3 are less important to evaluating them than the layman's first-hand experience with each. They began suddenly in August, 1971, when Mr. Nixon departed overnight from his oft-stated belief that economic controls would violate the good old American theory of private enterprise. Mr. Nixon, whose flexibility has turned out to be one of his greatest assets as President, told us then:

"Inflation robs every American, every one of you. The 20 million who are retired and living on fixed incomes — they are particularly hard hit. Homemakers find it harder than ever to balance the family budget. And 80 million American wage earners have been on a treadmill . . . The time has come for decisive action — action that will break the vicious circle of spiraling prices and costs."

So he favored us with Phase 1 and then with Phase 2, and less than 18 months after he ordered that tough intervention those programs succeeded in bringing prices and wages into a reasonable percentage bracket. But once Phase 2 seemed to be working, he dropped it for Phase 3.

SINCE PHASE 3, wholesale industrial prices have leapt upward more drastically than at any time in the past 22 years. The exact effect of that leap is something the economists will divine for us, as they have been busy assessing the dollar's gyrations abroad. We can be sure only that it is bad news.

But nobody has to interpret for us the wild climb of retail prices, which have flown up in the past two months as if they were spring-loaded.

In the suburban shopping centers around Washington, housewives are picketing supermarkets, calling for boycotts. Specifically, they ask all shoppers to protest zooming prices by not buying from the meat and produce counters this week. Elsewhere across the nation, their signs speak of different dates, but the same objective.

Rent raises were slapped on hundreds of thousands of tenants before the ink on Mr. Nixon's Phase 3 announcement was dry. Locally, they averaged 6 per cent to 15 per cent, but ranged up past 35 per cent. One suburban county has passed a rent-control ordinance to do what the federal government has stopped doing.

Asked about this, the President responded with his familiar bit about I-could-do-the-political-thing-but-I'm-going-to-rise-above-it. Specifically, "Rent controls have an enormous appeal, particularly when you see some of the gouging that goes on in individual cases . . . (but) No, I do not think that rent control is the right answer. I think the answer to the problem of rents is the production of housing which will deal with it."

THAT IS VINTAGE, pre-Phase 1 Nixon, reminiscent of his 1968 campaign, when he declared: "The imposition of price-and-wage controls during peacetime is an abdication of fiscal responsibility . . . Experience has indicated that they do not work, can never be administered equitably, and are not compatible with a free economy."

To hear that kind of uncompromising language, standing alone, is enough to send any wage-earner, rent-payer, meat-eater into despair. Except for one thing — the President's demonstrated ability to face resolutely in one direction today, and 180 degrees opposite tomorrow. He has done it on China, on Russia and in the reversals of economic policy documented above.

Our principal hope as prices continue upward is that he will stick courageously to his principle of flexibility, and do his flip-flop sooner instead of later.

U.S. Must Take Tougher Stand In New Round Of SALT Talks

WASHINGTON — The next phase of the U.S.-Soviet nuclear arms talks, which resumed at Geneva this week, will be slow, uncertain — and very sticky.

If the United States presses for agreement for agreement's sake, we face the prospect of a dangerous imbalance in nuclear strength which would be felt in every part of the world.

There is reason to believe that President Nixon is increasingly sensitive to this danger and is likely to take a tougher stance in the renewed SALT negotiations than during the talks which produced first-stage agreements on defensive weapons. This should become evident if and when Mr. Nixon meets with Leonid Brezhnev this year.

THE PRESIDENT has assured Congress that the United States is not risking its basic security. But some supporters of the Phase I SALT agreements admit that the wisdom of these agreements will depend in part on what comes of SALT II.

This is what is most worrying members of Congress who have special responsibility for monitoring the negotiations.

Their principal spokesman is Democratic Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, whom Mr. Nixon wanted to have as his secretary of defense.

As chairman of the subcommittee on national security and international operations, Senator Jackson is developing some pretty impressive testimony which parallels his own view that as a result of the Moscow agreements "we went from superiority to inferiority."

It is for this reason that Senator Jackson is urging the Nixon administration to restudy the lessons of SALT I and make sure that its negotiating positions aim clearly at establishing "equality in SALT II."

HE CITES FOUR lessons from the negotiations thus far. They reflect testimony before his committee from Dr. William Van Cleave, who was a special assistant to the office of the secretary of defense from 1969 and who now teaches at the University of Southern California.

The lessons they draw for the new negotiations are these:

1—U.S. failure to formulate in advance of negotiations a guiding, coherent position based on clearly defined objectives.

2—Failure to stand firm on essential matters, resulting in the drastic deterioration of the American negotiating position over the course of SALT I — while the Russians continued the rapid buildup of their strategic forces.

3—Creation of an atmosphere of exaggerated urgency and the announcement of self-imposed deadlines for concluding the accords, thereby undercutting the U.S. bargaining position.

4—The practice of making negotiability the central criterion for evaluating U.S. proposals and of discarding meritorious U.S. positions, thereby abandoning the effort to influence.

PRESIDENT NIXON and Senator Jackson may be very close on their approach to SALT II. Jackson got a strong Senate resolution supporting his view on the need to establish U.S.-Soviet strategic equality and the White House did not oppose it.

Temptations to seek agreement for its own sake have nearly vanished. The Vietnamese war is over. The presidential election is over. Relations with the People's Republic of China are well established. The Soviets are seeking more from us —in trade, agriculture and technology —than we are seeking from them.

Some think that Russia's grain crisis and weakened economy will cause the Kremlin to be more amenable in SALT II, more flexible than before. This seems wishful because the Kremlin has always put its military strength above all other national considerations.

The Soviets will continue to be tough negotiators. Why shouldn't they be? They won't be looking after our best interests. We'll have to do that.

Are We Governed By Laws Or Men?

We are often told (usually by members of the legal profession) that we have in the United States a government of laws and not of men.

Do we, really?

LAST NOVEMBER, the people of California, by an overwhelming vote, wrote into the state constitution a provision specifically restoring the death penalty wherever it is provided by statute.

"The death penalty provided for under these statutes," declares this voter-approved constitutional amendment, "shall not be deemed to be, or to constitute, the infliction of cruel or unusual punishments within the meaning of Article 1, Section 6."

That was the article that had been cited by the California Supreme Court in ruling that — despite explicit constitutional provision for it elsewhere — the death penalty was unconstitutional.

By approving the ballot proposition in November, the people of California overrode the court and put the death penalty back into the state constitution. Yet in the five months since then, no felon has been returned to Death Row, no death penalty commuted because of the state supreme court's decision has been re-imposed, no one has been put to death, and no one has been sentenced to death.

The death penalty is the law. The people saw to that by writing it into the constitution. But it is ignored — because six men in Sacramento who happen to be judges earlier said the constitution didn't really mean what it said.

LAST NOVEMBER by an overwhelming vote, the people of California wrote into the Education Code this provision:

"No public school student shall, because of his race, creed or color, be assigned to or be required to attend a particular school."

However, in many California school districts, pupils continue five months later to be bussed to schools far from their homes, for the express purpose of providing what some school officials deem a proper quota of each race in the classrooms.

Nearly 20 years ago the United States Supreme Court said a child could not be forced to attend a school across town because of race. Today, that court decision is used as an excuse for bussing thousands of children across dozens of towns because of race.

The people of California passed a law to end that in this state. They did so by approving Proposition 21 last November, writing into the code the prohibition quoted above.

But that law might as well not be on the books. No notice is taken of it — because the state superintendent of public instruction, who is charged with seeing that the school districts obey the law, doesn't care to see this particular law enforced.

WE HAVE a government of laws and not of men?

Not so you'd notice it.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

'Little Guy' Hits Back At Autocratic Bureau

By RUS WALTON

Bob Bennett operates a liquor store in Lodi, Calif.

What's a liquor store doing in a column on state affairs? Well, Bennett is in a battle with the State Board of Equalization and his experience indicates the federal Internal Revenue Service has no monopoly on arrogance — or power.

START BACK at the beginning of the Bennett battle.

He is one of those thousands of California merchants forced into involuntary servitude by the state. Not the people, the state.

By that I mean, did you ever inform your local merchant that he must be your slave, or go out of business? On what day did you ever give such power to your elected representative? What he does he does in your name. He passes your laws.

And the laws say that in order to stay in business, merchants must be bookkeepers, collection agents and wet-nurses for the Board of Equalization. This they must do under the threat of losing their "right" to be in business; this they must do without compensation.

SEVEN MONTHS AGO Bob Bennett said "to hell with all that".

He's one of those fellas who takes the Constitution at face value. And the Constitution says that involuntary servitude is a no-no. Bennett decided to see whether the Constitution was still the law of this land of the free.

He started deducting a 3 per cent service charge from his sales tax receipts before he sent them to Babylon. He figured 3 per cent would just about cover his time and costs for fooling around with the 160 tax forms and other duties he performs for the state tax boys.

Bennett admits he took his lead from Florida. Down there the state permits a businessman to deduct 3 per cent of sales tax receipts as payment for services rendered.

Well, the Board of Equalization bureaucrats didn't go along with Bennett's reasoning, or actions. I mean, who ever heard of a little guy challenging the system. Down, boy!

FIRST THING, the state tax agents went to the West Lodi Bank of America and forced the branch manager to tell them how much money Bennett had in his checking account. No court order, no warrant. They just scared the manager spitless and made him go along with their demands.

Next, the agents seized Bennett's bank account and informed him he could try to get his money back. No warrant. Just an executive decree from the board calling him a judgment debtor. But, no judge had ever so declared.

The form notifying Bennett that his money had been seized cited Sec. 690.4 of the Civil Code, relating to attachments, liens, and garnishments of wages and property.

Bennett pads down to a local law library and finds that it is illegal to take a man's tools of his trade. That, the courts say, would deprive him of his livelihood.

As far as Bob Bennett is concerned, money is a tool of his trade. Without it he cannot replenish the stock in his store. The state said "baloney," money's no tool of a trade.

LAST WEEK in Stockton, in superior court, Bob Bennett stated his case and the judge agreed. He gave the state 10 days to show cause why he shouldn't order it to release Mr. Bennett's bank account.

All of which has yet to really join the central issue of involuntary servitude. But, Bennett will get his chance.

The state will be back. They'll find something else. Like I say, you can't have these little guys tromping around spouting the Fourth, Fifth or 13th Amendment all the time. What if everybody got it into their heads that the Constitution was "viable"?

Well, I'll tell you something. If more little businessmen and just plain taxpayers had as much guts as Bob Bennett, those bureaucrats would run for the hills and the politicians would stop passing laws that violate civil liberties, and start repealing those that do.

Don't Buy Motorcycle; Support Committee

I noted with interest your report that our county supervisors voted to authorize purchase of a motorcycle to control off-road vehicle use. It would be a lot more productive if they would expend their efforts and our money toward supporting their appointed off-road vehicle ad hoc committee. These dedicated people have been working hard at great odds to accomplish the direction of the board in locating a mechanical park for off-road vehicle use.

If the supervisors are really serious in their stated goals and created such a park, there would be no need to buy a motorcycle, the use of which can only possibly result in citation of a few more easily caught children on minibikes. The county receives federal land and water conservation funds for purchase of lands for recreation uses such as this.

Tighten Rules, Then Hold Schools Responsible

Are the schools legally obligated to educate children to certain standards? As a corollary, can or should legal sanctions be imposed upon the schools for malfeasance of duty? What constitutes such malfeasance?

To use some analogies from other professions, a doctor is not responsible if a patient does not take his medicine, a lawyer is not responsible if a client disregards his advice, etc. Yet, your editorial implies that teachers have an absolute responsibility if the child is of normal intelligence.

Because of compulsory education, the schools must take and try their best to educate all the children that come. There is no obligation for them and their parents to use their educational opportunities to the best advantage. Let those who use the schools pay more directly for its advantages. Let them pay for their books, paper, and pencils. Let parents pay a small tuition charge for each child. In addition to this, tighten up the schools' behavioral and academic standards. In short, create those conditions where teachers can do the best possible job and hold them accountable for doing it.

U.S. Action Said Money Reform Key

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Agence Europe, a small news agency which often reflects thinking within the European Common Market, said today the success of short-term monetary reforms will depend on what the United States will do to help.

The dollar continued to gain strength in unofficial trading on European money markets. It went up in London, Paris, Zurich and Brussels and hit 2.835 marks in Frankfurt —its high point since the official markets closed March 2.

"We shall be able to be more optimistic when we know what the United States' answer is," Agence Europe said. "The whole credibility of the system depends, in fact, on the answer of the United States."

Agence Europe referred to the meeting in Paris Friday of finance ministers from the nine Common Market nations, the United States, Canada, Japan, Sweden and Switzerland. The meeting is to set out the methods, pending long-range monetary reforms, for control of speculation and the periodic crises which have defigured money markets in recent years.

Common Market finance ministers took the first step Sunday when they set up a "joint float" by six Market currencies — Britain, Italy and Ireland stayed out —against the U.S. dollar.

The Market has asked the United States to return the favor by taking measures of its own, such as renewed support of the dollar on money markets, controls on the outflow of dollars, a tight money policy and a return to convertibility of the dollar.

The ministers' deputies were meeting Thursday in Paris to lay final plans for the Friday session. The deputies met Monday in Brussels and, according to sources here, reached broad agreement on what should be done.

The ministers have said they hope to have the short-range reforms in place by next Monday, when the official money markets reopen.

Market critics said meanwhile they were not entirely happy with the six nation float.

Most of the criticism was not against the idea of the float itself—only that it did not go far enough.

Six of the nine European Common Market nations decided Sunday to "float" —that is, to free their currencies from fixed prices against the dollar. They include West Germany, France, Belgium, Denmark, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. Italy, Britain and Ireland did not join the float since their own currencies already were floating.

Finance Minister Giovanni Malagodi of Italy called the joint float "more rigid and less practical" than an Italian plan, which would have had all nine Common Market currencies floating independently at first, then moving gradually into a joint float.

Other critics said flatly that the day of fixed exchange rates, a cornerstone of the world monetary system since 1944, is over. They said the future lies with permanent and independent floats by each country and that any attempt to maintain fixed rates, even among closely allied nations like the Common Market, is doomed.

Draft Resister Beats Charge, Ends Up Drafted

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — A draft resister who came home from Sweden to "get it over" won a court victory Tuesday—and was promptly drafted again.

U.S. District Judge Robert Peckham dismissed draft evasion charges against Kenneth Rutledge, 26, because the government couldn't prove he had ever received induction papers mailed to him in Sweden.

But Rutledge, who returned to the United States shortly after the Vietnam cease-fire, was handed a new induction order before leaving court. It ordered him to report for duty in the Army on March 21.

Coffees For Board Candidate Slated

Two coffees have been set this week for Dr. Martin Griffin, candidate for the Division 4 seat on the Marin Municipal Water District board in the April 17 election.

Dr. Griffin will speak tomorrow at the home of Mrs. F. S. Strauss, 147 Sycamore Avenue, and at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Roger Panek home, 220 Julia Avenue, both Mill Valley.

Army Ends Viet Role Tomorrow

SAIGON (UPI) — The United States today resumed its military withdrawal from South Vietnam after a two-day halt caused by Communist slowness in releasing prisoners of war, and the U.S. Army announced it will officially end its role in Vietnam tomorrow.

In closing its command the army winds up almost eight years of a command that once controlled thousands of GIs throughout the country. The standdown will leave the 6,800 American troops still in Vietnam under the Military Assistance Command in Vietnam (MACV).

The United States also sent home 300 more soldiers today, ending a freeze on withdrawals which started before the Communists announced the release of the current group of American prisoners.

A U.S. spokesman said about 700 more GIs would be sent home Friday after the Viet Cong release 32 more American pows in Hanoi. The North Vietnamese released 108 American POWs in Hanoi today and they were flown to Clark Air Base in the Philippines..

The spokesman said the remaining 6,000 soldiers will not be sent home until the Communists announce the names, date and place of release of the last 146 American prisoners.

In other developments:

U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and two American aid officials met for 75 minutes with President Nguyen Van Thieu, apparently to discuss postwar help for South Vietnam.

Canadian External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp is scheduled to arrive in Saigon Thursday for a two-day visit to determine his country's future as a member of the International Commission for Control and Supervision (ICCS).

The United States today handed out bills for services rendered during the first month of the Vietnam peace. The North Vietnamese were charged $421,000, South Vietnam was billed $178,000 and the Viet Cong was tabbed $48,000. The bills cover services such as the use of helicopters and airplanes, cars and trucks, housing and meals.

The North Vietnamese bill is higher because they used C130s extensively for daily shuttle flights to Hanoi in the early days of the cease-fire.

'Rodriguez' Will Soon Take Place Of 'Serrano'

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Sometime this spring, the name Serrano will vanish from discussions of school financing, and Rodriguez will take its place.

Serrano" refers to a case challenging the constitutionality of financing public schools primarily from property taxes. It draws its name from Joseph Serrano, the first of a list of plaintiffs when the suit was filed in Los Angeles County Superior Court.

In August, 1971, the California Supreme Court ordered that the case be tried, and in doing so virtually dictated what the trial decision should be. "We have determined," said the majority opinion written by Justice Raymond Sullivan, "that this funding scheme invidiously discriminates against the poor because it makes the quality of a child's education a function of the wealth of his parents and neighbors." This, said the six-justice majority, violates the 14th Amendment guarantee of equal protection of the laws.

"RODRIGUEZ" draws its name from Demetrios P. Rodriguez, the first of a list of plaintiffs in an almost-identical suit filed in federal court in San Antonio, Tex., in the spring of 1968. On Dec. 23, 1971, a three-judge federal court in Texas made the same finding as did the California Supreme Court in the Serrano case. But the State of Texas appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Last October, the top court heard arguments in the Rodriguez case. Sometime before recessing for the summer, it will hand down its decision. If it should agree with the lower federal court and with the California Supreme Court, the systems of school finance would have to be overhauled in every state except Hawaii.

Some interesting questions were posed by the Supreme Court justices during the arguments.

CHARLES A. WRIGHT, lawyer for the State of Texas, said he was willing to concede "that there is a constitutional minimum that could be required" in the amount spent per pupil on the public schools. But he was interrupted by Justice William H. Rehnquist, who demanded: "Do you know of any case in this court which has ever held that it would be unconstitutional for a state simply to get out of the business of public education bag and baggage?" Wright admitted that he knew of no such case.

Arthur Gotchman, attorney for Rodriguez et al, presented the usual argument — the same used in the Serrano case — that depending on the property tax means poor people must pay higher school taxes yet have less spent on their schools.

He was interrupted by two justices who pointed out that there are school districts with low per capita income but with high assessed valuation (the case, incidentally, with the highest spending districts in California).

The justices also directed at Gotchman a key question: If the equal protection provision of the Constitution requires that equal amounts be spent for schools in all localities, does it not follow that equal amounts must be spent also for police and fire protection and public health? Gotchman replied that education is different because "it affects matters guaranteed by the Bill of Rights. It is preservative of other rights."

BASING SCHOOL support on the property tax has been challenged previously before the U.S. Supreme Court. That court disposed of it once, in a case known as McInnis vs. Ogilvie, refusing to review a district court finding that there is no unconstitutionality in the school support system of illinois (which is basically the same as those of all the other states except Hawaii). After reviewing briefs submitted by both sides and by about a dozen "friends of the court," the Supreme Court in 1969 refused to hear arguments on the McInnis decision, holding that no constitutional issue was raised.

It is due largely to the Neighborhood Legal Assistance Foundation, an Office of Economic Opportunity agency, that the McInnis ruling filed to lay the issue to rest. OEO lawyers filed a series of school finance challenges in various courts across the country, all based on the same premise. And they found some courts who agreed with them.

Burglary Charge Is Dismissed

A felony charge of attempted robbery by a Marin City youth was dismissed yesterday because the victim has disappeared.

Municipal Court Judge Peter Allen Smith dismissed the count against 20-year-old Donald Wade Jones after Deputy Dist. Atty. Girard R. Courteau asked for a fourth continuance of the preliminary hearing so the witness could be found.

Corteau said afterward the charge will be refiled if police can find Raymond M. Healy, 21, of Kappas Yacht Harbor, who told police three men tried to rob him at gunpoint Jan. 30.

The men gave him a ride, but pulled a gun and demanded money, police said. He jumped from the car as it slowed to turn from Sausalito into Marin City and gave a description of the Cadillac to police.

-Jones was arrested later in Fairfax.

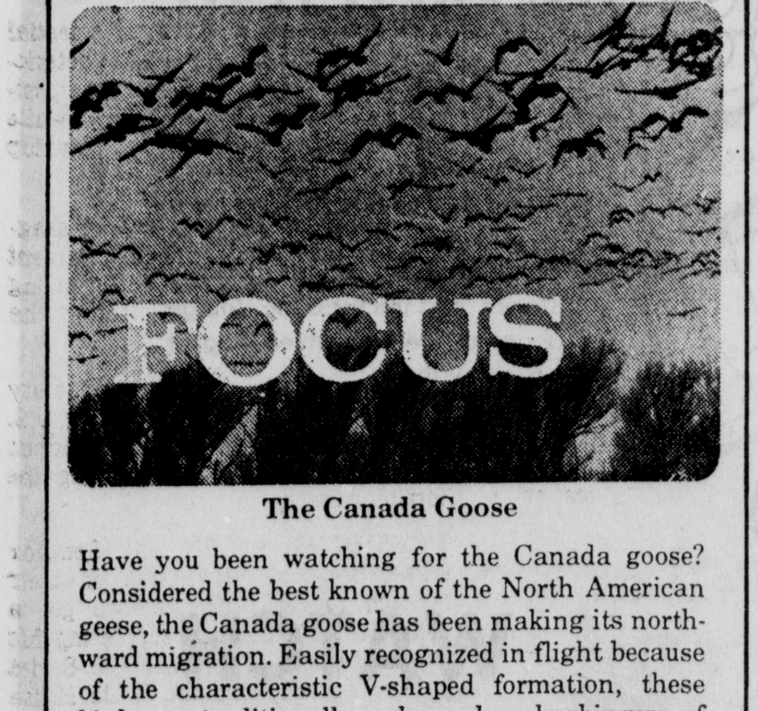
Change Is Made In Assault Plea

A 21-year-old San Rafael man, who had pleaded guilty to assault with a deadly weapon, has decided he is innocent after all.

Due to be sentenced Monday, Wendell Lynn Smith asked to withdraw his guilty plea and stand trial on the original charge of assault with intent to rob. Superior Court Judge David Menary Jr. agreed to end the plea bargain and set trial for sometime next week.

Smith was arrested Nov. 12 on a warrant charging him with beating a man in San Rafael, then taking his sleeping bag and tools.

The alleged victim, according to Smith, started a scuffle by taking a sixpack of beer, then swinging at Smith when he tried to retrieve it.



The Canada Goose

Have you been watching for the Canada goose? Considered the best known of the North American geese, the Canada goose has been making its northward migration. Easily recognized in flight because of the characteristic V-shaped formation, these birds are traditionally welcomed as harbingers of spring. They also identify themselves and herald the end of winter with their loud, rhythmic honking, a call familiar to most hunters. The Canada goose breeds all across the northern half of the continent and winters anywhere from Illinois to as far south as Mexico and the Gulf Coast. The Mississippi flyway is one of its favorite migratory routes and is trafficked by more than 250,000 birds a season.

DO YOU KNOW — Is the Canada goose threatened with extinction?

Jail Term On Theft Of Watch

Lonnie Lawder Rivas, 27, of San Rafael has been ordered to serve 90 days in jail for his part in the theft of an expensive watch from two teen-agers at a San Rafael market last August.

Following the terms of a plea bargain with Rivas and the district attorney, Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court also placed Rivas on probation for two years and ordered him to undergo drug testing when requested by his probation officer.

Rivas had pleaded guilty in January to felony grand theft on condition he would receive no more than three months in jail.

Rivas, Herman Sanchez, 27, and Larry Paul Slager, 25, both of San Rafael, all were originally charged with robbery in connection with the theft Aug. 14 following a request by the two boys to buy beer for them.

In each case the charge was reduced. Slager served 11 days in jail for battery, Sanchez is now serving eight months in jail for grand theft.

Menary said he would have given Rivas at least a year in jail if the two victims had been minding their own business.

Development's Density Is Set

Novato City Council, revising its General Plan, has approved a density range of 401 to 942 units for the 325-acre Anderson Rowe property between South Novato Boulevard and Ignacio village.

Senior planner Mark Westfall said the density set Monday night by the council is higher than the 600-718 units recommended by the planning commission but lower than the 1,500 units requested by developers.

Under the existing general plan a density range of 1,244 to 2,570 units would be permitted.

The council also designated Hill nd Canyon residential for the 33-acre Corkland-O'Donohue property, north of Canyon Road.

Councilmen will continue general plan review at 8 p.m. Monday at the Novato Community House, covering property in the Mount Burdell area.

First Aid Course Set In Petaluma

A Red Cross standard first aid course will begin March 29 in Petaluma.

Classes will be held on Thursdays from 7 to 9:30 p.m. at Petaluma Senior High School through April 19. Donald Barella of Petaluma will be the instructor. Registration should be made in advance by calling the Petaluma Red Cross office.

Sebastopol Driver Gets Jail, Fine

Wilfred Henry Wiseman, 53, of Sebastopol has been ordered to serve six months in jail and pay a $500 fine for felony drunken driving during an injury auto accident last October.

Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court also placed Wiseman on probation for three years, ordered him to quit drinking, undergo therapy for his alcohol problem and attend a school about drunken driving.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Vernon F. Smith sought a year in jail for Wiseman. "He doesn't understand the danger he is posing on the highway," Smith said.

Wiseman, who had stopped at several bars on his way home from his truck driving job, was arrested Oct. 27 by the California Highway Patrol after his car hit a stalled auto on the shoulder of Highway 101 near San Rafael. Two passengers were injured.

The arrest was his third for drunken driving.

Art Display

Paintings by Fairfax resident Nina E. Gable, a retired administrator for the California Division of Highways, will be on display during March and through April 14 at Marin General Hospital.

Novatan Gets Jail For Liquor Theft

A 20-year-old Novatan has been ordered to serve 60 days in jail for breaking into a Novato liquor store and stealing bottles.

Superior Court Judge David Menary Jr. also placed Rodney David Jerve on probation for two years and told him to quit drinking. The youth reportedly was drunk when he broke into Warden's Liquor Store Oct. 29.

Jerve's probation officer said he was undergoing the "pain of emancipation and using alcohol to see him through." Jerve works for a Black Point roofing company and recently moved out of the family home, the officer said.

The sentencing Monday had been delayed a week by the last minute revelation March 5 that Jerve had a petty theft arrest at about the same time as the burglary arrest. Because of it, Menary said he was giving Jerve 60 days instead of 30.

Marin Hike For Help April 29

The second annual Marin Hike for Help, a 20-mile walk to raise money for Marin youth agencies and Project Hope, will be held April 29, hike coordinator Eleanor Mosden of Ross has announced.

Proceeds will be divided equally among hike sponsors, the People-to-People Health Foundation's Project Hope and the Marin Charitable Foundation, which will donate its share to local youth-oriented agencies, Mrs. Mosden said.

Hikers will be asking for pledges that will be multiplied by the total number of miles walked. There have been requests for more than 1,000 pledge cards.

Last year, the foundation contributed $11,000 to nine local youth groups.

Teen Sentenced For Auto Theft

Adam Jesse James, 19, of Waldo Point has been sentenced in Marin Superior Court to 47 days in jail on a reduced misdemeanor charge of auto theft.

James pleaded guilty Monday after Judge David Menary Jr. and Deputy Dist. Atty. Jerry R. Herman agreed to reduce the charge from a felony and give him time he had served while awaiting sentencing.

The judge also placed James on probation for one year.

The teen-ager was arrested Dec. 17 after residents at 450 East Strawberry Drive, Strawberry, detained him as a possible prowler.

Sheriff's deputies, who were called to investigate, discovered the car James was driving had been reported stolen by Vito Migale of San Francisco.

After reviewing briefs submitted by both sides and by about a dozen "friends of the court," the Supreme Court in 1969 refused to hear arguments on the McInnis decision, holding that no constitutional issue was raised.

It is due largely to the Neighborhood Legal Assistance Foundation, an Office of Economic Opportunity agency, that the McInnis ruling filed to lay the issue to rest. OEO lawyers filed a series of school finance challenges in various courts across the country, all based on the same premise. And they found some courts who agreed with them.

Burglary Charge Is Dismissed

A felony charge of attempted robbery by a Marin City youth was dismissed yesterday because the victim has disappeared.

Municipal Court Judge Peter Allen Smith dismissed the count against 20-year-old Donald Wade Jones after Deputy Dist. Atty. Girard R. Courteau asked for a fourth continuance of the preliminary hearing so the witness could be found.

Corteau said afterward the charge will be refiled if police can find Raymond M. Healy, 21, of Kappas Yacht Harbor, who told police three men tried to rob him at gunpoint Jan. 30.

The men gave him a ride, but pulled a gun and demanded money, police said. He jumped from the car as it slowed to turn from Sausalito into Marin City and gave a description of the Cadillac to police.

-Jones was arrested later in Fairfax.

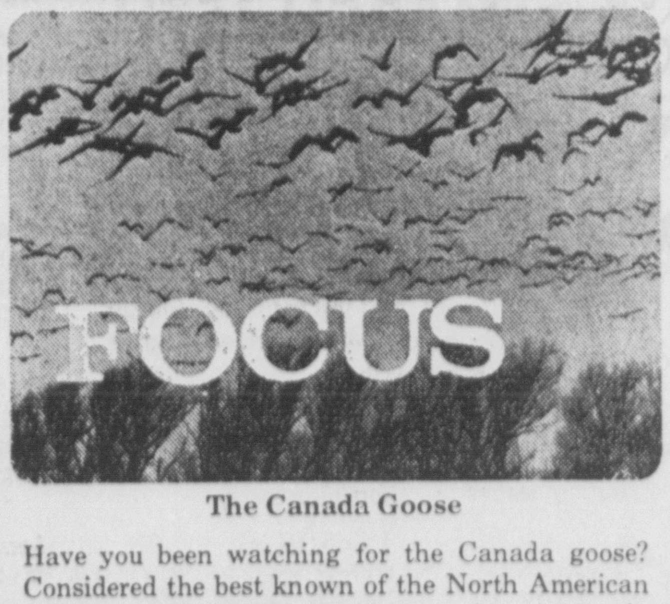
Change Is Made In Assault Plea

A 21-year-old San Rafael man, who had pleaded guilty to assault with a deadly weapon, has decided he is innocent after all.

Due to be sentenced Monday, Wendell Lynn Smith asked to withdraw his guilty plea and stand trial on the original charge of assault with intent to rob. Superior Court Judge David Menary Jr. agreed to end the plea bargain and set trial for sometime next week.

Smith was arrested Nov. 12 on a warrant charging him with beating a man in San Rafael, then taking his sleeping bag and tools.

The alleged victim, according to Smith, started a scuffle by taking a sixpack of beer, then swinging at Smith when he tried to retrieve it.



The Canada Goose

Have you been watching for the Canada goose? Considered the best known of the North American geese, the Canada goose has been making its northward migration. Easily recognized in flight because of the characteristic V-shaped formation, these birds are traditionally welcomed as harbingers of spring. They also identify themselves and herald the end of winter with their loud, rhythmic honking, a call familiar to most hunters. The Canada goose breeds all across the northern half of the continent and winters anywhere from Illinois to as far south as Mexico and the Gulf Coast. The Mississippi flyway is one of its favorite migratory routes and is trafficked by more than 250,000 birds a season.

DO YOU KNOW — Is the Canada goose threatened with extinction?

Jail Term On Theft Of Watch

Lonnie Lawder Rivas, 27, of San Rafael has been ordered to serve 90 days in jail for his part in the theft of an expensive watch from two teen-agers at a San Rafael market last August.

Following the terms of a plea bargain with Rivas and the district attorney, Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court also placed Rivas on probation for two years and ordered him to undergo drug testing when requested by his probation officer.

Rivas had pleaded guilty in January to felony grand theft on condition he would receive no more than three months in jail.

Rivas, Herman Sanchez, 27, and Larry Paul Slager, 25, both of San Rafael, all were originally charged with robbery in connection with the theft Aug. 14 following a request by the two boys to buy beer for them.

In each case the charge was reduced. Slager served 11 days in jail for battery, Sanchez is now serving eight months in jail for grand theft.

Menary said he would have given Rivas at least a year in jail if the two victims had been minding their own business.

Development's Density Is Set

Novato City Council, revising its General Plan, has approved a density range of 401 to 942 units for the 325-acre Anderson Rowe property between South Novato Boulevard and Ignacio village.

Senior planner Mark Westfall said the density set Monday night by the council is higher than the 600-718 units recommended by the planning commission but lower than the 1,500 units requested by developers.

Under the existing general plan a density range of 1,244 to 2,570 units would be permitted.

The council also designated Hill nd Canyon residential for the 33-acre Corkland-O'Donohue property, north of Canyon Road.

Councilmen will continue general plan review at 8 p.m. Monday at the Novato Community House, covering property in the Mount Burdell area.

First Aid Course Set In Petaluma

A Red Cross standard first aid course will begin March 29 in Petaluma.

Classes will be held on Thursdays from 7 to 9:30 p.m. at Petaluma Senior High School through April 19. Donald Barella of Petaluma will be the instructor. Registration should be made in advance by calling the Petaluma Red Cross office.

Sebastopol Driver Gets Jail, Fine

Wilfred Henry Wiseman, 53, of Sebastopol has been ordered to serve six months in jail and pay a $500 fine for felony drunken driving during an injury auto accident last October.

Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court also placed Wiseman on probation for three years, ordered him to quit drinking, undergo therapy for his alcohol problem and attend a school about drunken driving.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Vernon F. Smith sought a year in jail for Wiseman. "He doesn't understand the danger he is posing on the highway," Smith said.

Wiseman, who had stopped at several bars on his way home from his truck driving job, was arrested Oct. 27 by the California Highway Patrol after his car hit a stalled auto on the shoulder of Highway 101 near San Rafael. Two passengers were injured.

The arrest was his third for drunken driving.

Art Display

Paintings by Fairfax resident Nina E. Gable, a retired administrator for the California Division of Highways, will be on display during March and through April 14 at Marin General Hospital.

Novatan Gets Jail For Liquor Theft

A 20-year-old Novatan has been ordered to serve 60 days in jail for breaking into a Novato liquor store and stealing bottles.

Superior Court Judge David Menary Jr. also placed Rodney David Jerve on probation for two years and told him to quit drinking. The youth reportedly was drunk when he broke into Warden's Liquor Store Oct. 29.

Jerve's probation officer said he was undergoing the "pain of emancipation and using alcohol to see him through." Jerve works for a Black Point roofing company and recently moved out of the family home, the officer said.

The sentencing Monday had been delayed a week by the last minute revelation March 5 that Jerve had a petty theft arrest at about the same time as the burglary arrest. Because of it, Menary said he was giving Jerve 60 days instead of 30.

Marin Hike For Help April 29

The second annual Marin Hike for Help, a 20-mile walk to raise money for Marin youth agencies and Project Hope, will be held April 29, hike coordinator Eleanor Mosden of Ross has announced.

Proceeds will be divided equally among hike sponsors, the People-to-People Health Foundation's Project Hope and the Marin Charitable Foundation, which will donate its share to local youth-oriented agencies, Mrs. Mosden said.

Hikers will be asking for pledges that will be multiplied by the total number of miles walked. There have been requests for more than 1,000 pledge cards.

Last year, the foundation contributed $11,000 to nine local youth groups.

Teen Sentenced For Auto Theft

Adam Jesse James, 19, of Waldo Point has been sentenced in Marin Superior Court to 47 days in jail on a reduced misdemeanor charge of auto theft.

James pleaded guilty Monday after Judge David Menary Jr. and Deputy Dist. Atty. Jerry R. Herman agreed to reduce the charge from a felony and give him time he had served while awaiting sentencing.

The judge also placed James on probation for one year.

The teen-ager was arrested Dec. 17 after residents at 450 East Strawberry Drive, Strawberry, detained him as a possible prowler.

Sheriff's deputies, who were called to investigate, discovered the car James was driving had been reported stolen by Vito Migale of San Francisco.

Are We Governed By Laws Or Men?

We are often told (usually by members of the legal profession) that we have in the United States a government of laws and not of men.

Do we, really?

LAST NOVEMBER, the people of California, by an overwhelming vote, wrote into the state constitution a provision specifically restoring the death penalty wherever it is provided by statute.

"The death penalty provided for under these statutes," declares this voter-approved constitutional amendment, "shall not be deemed to be, or to constitute, the infliction of cruel or unusual punishments within the meaning of Article 1, Section 6."

That was the article that had been cited by the California Supreme Court in ruling that — despite explicit constitutional provision for it elsewhere — the death penalty was unconstitutional.

By approving the ballot proposition in November, the people of California overrode the court and put the death penalty back into the state constitution. Yet in the five months since then, no felon has been returned to Death Row, no death penalty commuted because of the state supreme court's decision has been re-imposed, no one has been put to death, and no one has been sentenced to death.

The death penalty is the law. The people saw to that by writing it into the constitution. But it is ignored — because six men in Sacramento who happen to be judges earlier said the constitution didn't really mean what it said.

LAST NOVEMBER by an overwhelming vote, the people of California wrote into the Education Code this provision:

"No public school student shall, because of his race, creed or color, be assigned to or be required to attend a particular school."

However, in many California school districts, pupils continue five months later to be bussed to schools far from their homes, for the express purpose of providing what some school officials deem a proper quota of each race in the classrooms.

Nearly 20 years ago the United States Supreme Court said a child could not be forced to attend a school across town because of race. Today, that court decision is used as an excuse for bussing thousands of children across dozens of towns because of race.

The people of California passed a law to end that in this state. They did so by approving Proposition 21 last November, writing into the code the prohibition quoted above.

But that law might as well not be on the books. No notice is taken of it — because the state superintendent of public instruction, who is charged with seeing that the school districts obey the law, doesn't care to see this particular law enforced.

WE HAVE a government of laws and not of men?

Not so you'd notice it.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

'Little Guy' Hits Back At Autocratic Bureau

By RUS WALTON

Bob Bennett operates a liquor store in Lodi, Calif.

What's a liquor store doing in a column on state affairs? Well, Bennett is in a battle with the State Board of Equalization and his experience indicates the federal Internal Revenue Service has no monopoly on arrogance — or power.

START BACK at the beginning of the Bennett battle.

He is one of those thousands of California merchants forced into involuntary servitude by the state. Not the people, the state.

By that I mean, did you ever inform your local merchant that he must be your slave, or go out of business? On what day did you ever give such power to your elected representative? What he does he does in your name. He passes your laws.

And the laws say that in order to stay in business, merchants must be bookkeepers, collection agents and wet-nurses for the Board of Equalization. This they must do under the threat of losing their "right" to be in business; this they must do without compensation.

SEVEN MONTHS AGO Bob Bennett said "to hell with all that".

He's one of those fellas who takes the Constitution at face value. And the Constitution says that involuntary servitude is a no-no. Bennett decided to see whether the Constitution was still the law of this land of the free.

He started deducting a 3 per cent service charge from his sales tax receipts before he sent them to Babylon. He figured 3 per cent would just about cover his time and costs for fooling around with the 160 tax forms and other duties he performs for the state tax boys.

Bennett admits he took his lead from Florida. Down there the state permits a businessman to deduct 3 per cent of sales tax receipts as payment for services rendered.

Well, the Board of Equalization bureaucrats didn't go along with Bennett's reasoning, or actions. I mean, who ever heard of a little guy challenging the system. Down, boy!

FIRST THING, the state tax agents went to the West Lodi Bank of America and forced the branch manager to tell them how much money Bennett had in his checking account. No court order, no warrant. They just scared the manager spitless and made him go along with their demands.

Next, the agents seized Bennett's bank account and informed him he could try to get his money back. No warrant. Just an executive decree from the board calling him a judgment debtor. But, no judge had ever so declared.

The form notifying Bennett that his money had been seized cited Sec. 690.4 of the Civil Code, relating to attachments, liens, and garnishments of wages and property.

Bennett pads down to a local law library and finds that it is illegal to take a man's tools of his trade. That, the courts say, would deprive him of his livelihood.

As far as Bob Bennett is concerned, money is a tool of his trade. Without it he cannot replenish the stock in his store. The state said "baloney," money's no tool of a trade.

LAST WEEK in Stockton, in superior court, Bob Bennett stated his case and the judge agreed. He gave the state 10 days to show cause why he shouldn't order it to release Mr. Bennett's bank account.

All of which has yet to really join the central issue of involuntary servitude. But, Bennett will get his chance.

The state will be back. They'll find something else. Like I say, you can't have these little guys tromping around spouting the Fourth, Fifth or 13th Amendment all the time. What if everybody got it into their heads that the Constitution was "viable"?

Well, I'll tell you something. If more little businessmen and just plain taxpayers had as much guts as Bob Bennett, those bureaucrats would run for the hills and the politicians would stop passing laws that violate civil liberties, and start repealing those that do.

Don't Buy Motorcycle; Support Committee

I noted with interest your report that our county supervisors voted to authorize purchase of a motorcycle to control off-road vehicle use. It would be a lot more productive if they would expend their efforts and our money toward supporting their appointed off-road vehicle ad hoc committee. These dedicated people have been working hard at great odds to accomplish the direction of the board in locating a mechanical park for off-road vehicle use.

If the supervisors are really serious in their stated goals and created such a park, there would be no need to buy a motorcycle, the use of which can only possibly result in citation of a few more easily caught children on minibikes. The county receives federal land and water conservation funds for purchase of lands for recreation uses such as this.

Tighten Rules, Then Hold Schools Responsible

Are the schools legally obligated to educate children to certain standards? As a corollary, can or should legal sanctions be imposed upon the schools for malfeasance of duty? What constitutes such malfeasance?

To use some analogies from other professions, a doctor is not responsible if a patient does not take his medicine, a lawyer is not responsible if a client disregards his advice, etc. Yet, your editorial implies that teachers have an absolute responsibility if the child is of normal intelligence.

Because of compulsory education, the schools must take and try their best to educate all the children that come. There is no obligation for them and their parents to use their educational opportunities to the best advantage. Let those who use the schools pay more directly for its advantages. Let them pay for their books, paper, and pencils. Let parents pay a small tuition charge for each child. In addition to this, tighten up the schools' behavioral and academic standards. In short, create those conditions where teachers can do the best possible job and hold them accountable for doing it.

There is all this music in my soul, to be composed and played out by a happening called — life; with a partner called — woman. So, in due respect to Women's Lib and the new identity of little Ms., as to distinguish from Miss or Mrs., it personally flashes on me as Missing Something. Women Voters League Backs Countywide Plan

There has been much discussion recently regarding the proposed countywide plan. The League of Women Voters of Central Marin has made a thorough study of the plan and its ramifications and would like to present the following observations.

The State of California requires all cities and counties to prepare general plans. These plans must be completed by mid-1973. The state further requires implementation of these plans through zoning once the plans are adopted. We are past the point in time when we can draw up a pretty plan and let it rest on the shelf while the market dictates zoning and growth policies.

Marin County is a part of the San Francisco metropolitan area. As such we must comply with certain regional plans. Any plans for the county must relate to the area as a whole. The same is true of the 11 cities in the county. . .Unless we properly plan for expanded growth we will wind up with urban sprawl throughout the county and all the related problems of providing the necessary services at a great cost to all taxpayers.

The countywide plan is exactly that. A plan which has been developed by all the cities and the county through the City-County Planning Council. Staff input has come from the cities as well as the county. . .Within the framework of the countywide guidelines, each city may then move forth in more detailed plans for their own entities. For each city to start with an independent plan and then try to fit the pieces together into a whole would result in chaos.. . .

The implementation of the plan will be done to a great extent by the cities. They will absorb future growth and must provide the necessary services. The proposed countywide review agency will allow the cities to continue working together in a way which is beneficial to all. . .

. . .If we cannot work together to plan for our future then some agency higher up will step in to do it for us. We all relate to our own communities. We must also learn to relate to our total region if we wish to retain the unique qualities of our cities, towns and rural areas that make Marin.

Out in California they have everything, including a professor of divorce and another guy who teaches collegians how to catch and clean fish.

The divorce prof lectures at three institutions of higher learning; and the most popular course at San Bruno college is Larry Green's fishing class.

If those students didn't spend so much time fishing maybe their wives wouldn't have to divorce 'em.

On the other hand, if folks want to be happy though divorced perhaps they should take up fishing.

As every collegian knows, there's more than one way to catch a fish or lose a spouse.

Only Administration Is Unaware Of Phase 3's Miserable Failure

WASHINGTON — Phase 3 is a miserable failure.

Essentially, the administration explains the two-month-old relaxation of economic control by saying it is too complicated for the general public to understand — we should keep the faith but not complain too much. As Herbert Stein, the President's chief economic adviser, put it, "Phase 3 has its amgibuities. People who like clear and fixed lines may find it unsatisfactory. But the ambiguities of Phase 3 stem from the ambiguities of the real world."

In contradiction, I submit that it is the general public rather than administration economists which inhabits the real world, and that there the current price situation is understood very well. The only ambiguous part is the administration's explanation. The effect of Phase 3 is depressingly clear: It does not work, and should be scrapped promptly for a return to the wage-and-price controls of Phase 2.

THE DETAILED differences between Phases 1, 2 and 3 are less important to evaluating them than the layman's first-hand experience with each. They began suddenly in August, 1971, when Mr. Nixon departed overnight from his oft-stated belief that economic controls would violate the good old American theory of private enterprise. Mr. Nixon, whose flexibility has turned out to be one of his greatest assets as President, told us then:

"Inflation robs every American, every one of you. The 20 million who are retired and living on fixed incomes — they are particularly hard hit. Homemakers find it harder than ever to balance the family budget. And 80 million American wage earners have been on a treadmill . . . The time has come for decisive action — action that will break the vicious circle of spiraling prices and costs."

So he favored us with Phase 1 and then with Phase 2, and less than 18 months after he ordered that tough intervention those programs succeeded in bringing prices and wages into a reasonable percentage bracket. But once Phase 2 seemed to be working, he dropped it for Phase 3.

SINCE PHASE 3, wholesale industrial prices have leapt upward more drastically than at any time in the past 22 years. The exact effect of that leap is something the economists will divine for us, as they have been busy assessing the dollar's gyrations abroad. We can be sure only that it is bad news.

But nobody has to interpret for us the wild climb of retail prices, which have flown up in the past two months as if they were spring-loaded.

In the suburban shopping centers around Washington, housewives are picketing supermarkets, calling for boycotts. Specifically, they ask all shoppers to protest zooming prices by not buying from the meat and produce counters this week. Elsewhere across the nation, their signs speak of different dates, but the same objective.

Rent raises were slapped on hundreds of thousands of tenants before the ink on Mr. Nixon's Phase 3 announcement was dry. Locally, they averaged 6 per cent to 15 per cent, but ranged up past 35 per cent. One suburban county has passed a rent-control ordinance to do what the federal government has stopped doing.

Asked about this, the President responded with his familiar bit about I-could-do-the-political-thing-but-I'm-going-to-rise-above-it. Specifically, "Rent controls have an enormous appeal, particularly when you see some of the gouging that goes on in individual cases . . . (but) No, I do not think that rent control is the right answer. I think the answer to the problem of rents is the production of housing which will deal with it."

THAT IS VINTAGE, pre-Phase 1 Nixon, reminiscent of his 1968 campaign, when he declared: "The imposition of price-and-wage controls during peacetime is an abdication of fiscal responsibility . . . Experience has indicated that they do not work, can never be administered equitably, and are not compatible with a free economy."

To hear that kind of uncompromising language, standing alone, is enough to send any wage-earner, rent-payer, meat-eater into despair. Except for one thing — the President's demonstrated ability to face resolutely in one direction today, and 180 degrees opposite tomorrow. He has done it on China, on Russia and in the reversals of economic policy documented above.

Our principal hope as prices continue upward is that he will stick courageously to his principle of flexibility, and do his flip-flop sooner instead of later.

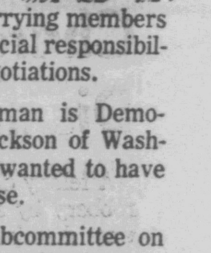
ROSCOE DRUMMOND



U.S. Must Take Tougher Stand In New Round Of SALT Talks

WASHINGTON — The next phase of the U.S.-Soviet nuclear arms talks, which resumed at Geneva this week, will be slow, uncertain — and very sticky.

If the United States presses for agreement for agreement's sake, we face the prospect of a dangerous imbalance in nuclear strength which would be felt in every part of the world.

There is reason to believe that President Nixon is increasingly sensitive to this danger and is likely to take a tougher stance in the renewed SALT negotiations than during the talks which produced first-stage agreements on defensive weapons. This should become evident if and when Mr. Nixon meets with Leonid Brezhnev this year.

THE PRESIDENT has assured Congress that the United States is not risking its basic security. But some supporters of the Phase I SALT agreements admit that the wisdom of these agreements will depend in part on what comes of SALT II.

This is what is most worrying members of Congress who have special responsibility for monitoring the negotiations.

Their principal spokesman is Democratic Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, whom Mr. Nixon wanted to have as his secretary of defense.

As chairman of the subcommittee on national security and international operations, Senator Jackson is developing some pretty impressive testimony which parallels his own view that as a result of the Moscow agreements "we went from superiority to inferiority."

It is for this reason that Senator Jackson is urging the Nixon administration to restudy the lessons of SALT I and make sure that its negotiating positions aim clearly at establishing "equality in SALT II."

HE CITES FOUR lessons from the negotiations thus far. They reflect testimony before his committee from Dr. William Van Cleave, who was a special assistant to the office of the secretary of defense from 1969 and who now teaches at the University of Southern California.

The lessons they draw for the new negotiations are these:

1—U.S. failure to formulate in advance of negotiations a guiding, coherent position based on clearly defined objectives.

2—Failure to stand firm on essential matters, resulting in the drastic deterioration of the American negotiating position over the course of SALT I — while the Russians continued the rapid buildup of their strategic forces.

3—Creation of an atmosphere of exaggerated urgency and the announcement of self-imposed deadlines for concluding the accords, thereby undercutting the U.S. bargaining position.

4—The practice of making negotiability the central criterion for evaluating U.S. proposals and of discarding meritorious U.S. positions, thereby abandoning the effort to influence.

PRESIDENT NIXON and Senator Jackson may be very close on their approach to SALT II. Jackson got a strong Senate resolution supporting his view on the need to establish U.S.-Soviet strategic equality and the White House did not oppose it.

Temptations to seek agreement for its own sake have nearly vanished. The Vietnamese war is over. The presidential election is over. Relations with the People's Republic of China are well established. The Soviets are seeking more from us —in trade, agriculture and technology —than we are seeking from them.

Some think that Russia's grain crisis and weakened economy will cause the Kremlin to be more amenable in SALT II, more flexible than before. This seems wishful because the Kremlin has always put its military strength above all other national considerations.

The Soviets will continue to be tough negotiators. Why shouldn't they be? They won't be looking after our best interests. We'll have to do that.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

March 14, 1963

Fire destroyed Brown's Hall in Mill Valley.

Chairman Hugh M. Burns, D-Fresno, of the California Senate Rules Committee, said the committee's mail was running 3-to-1 against confirmation of the reappointment of Thomas W. Braden to the state board of education.

20 YEARS AGO

March 14, 1953

Tornadoes roared through north Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas, killing at least 17 persons and causing millions of dollars of property damage.

A 496-page California Senate committee interim report, prepared by Earl G. Waters of the committee's staff, charged that funds needed to educate children had been siphoned into adult classes through expansion of the state's adult education system.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Board of Education voted Tuesday to integrate all 14 grades of the San Francisco public school system by September of 1974.

Since September of 1971, grades one through six have been integrated.

Job Discrimination Complaints Filed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Four civil rights groups yesterday filed a complaint against California's 28 largest city police and fire departments for alleged job discrimination against blacks and the Spanish-surnamed.

They said that blacks and Spanish-surnamed comprise 27 per cent of the total population of the cities. But they make up only 9 per cent of police personnel and just 5 per cent of fire department employes. They asked the state Fair Employment Practices Commission to order population parity in employment by 1977 and to halt use of irrelevant job tests.

In Los Angeles, the complaint said, the city employs only one black fireman for every 10,300 black residents and one black police officer for every 10,400 blacks. But there is one white fireman for every 603 white residents and one white policeman for every 289.

The discrimination, it was alleged, is carried out in large part by tests of knowledge and ability which are not related to the job. Arbitrary height requirements have a similar effect on some racial groups, the plaintiffs said.

Some xamples of questions not related to job ability were cited from the San Francisco Fire Department tests, where prospective firemen were asked "Who is Van Gogh?" and "What is a rubber in bridge?"

The FEPC was asked to investigate the 28 cities and to issue an order requiring population parity in employment by 1977. The proposed order also would eliminate testing not related to requirements of the jobs.

The results of such an order would be to provide about 8,000 job opportunities for blacks and Chicanos, the plaintiffs said.

The complaint was filed by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the League of United Latin American Citizens, the American GI Forum and the Mexican-American Political Association.

The cities cited were Los Angeles, San Diego, San Francisco, San Jose, Oakland, Long Beach, Sacramento, Anaheim, Fresno, Santa Ana, Riverside, Torrance, Glendale, Huntington Beach, Garden Grove, Berkeley, Stockton, Pasadena, San Bernardino, Fremont, Sunnyvale, Hayward, Norwalk, Santa Clara, Inglewood, Pomona, Richmond and Bakersfield.

Abandonment Of Rail Line Set

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Abandonment of the last rail line south of Larkspur has been approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The only protest filed was by the United Transportation Union, which protests every application for abandonment on the ground it diminishes work for its members who work on railroads.

The latest abandonment by Northwestern Pacific Railroad is a 1.3-mile stretch east of Highway 101 in Corte Madera between Lucky Drive and Meadowsweet.

The Golden Gate Bridge District has applied to the federal government for a loan to buy the right-of-way for future transit use.

The railroad, which has abandoned service in Marin piece by piece, has said that it has "no plans at this time for any further abandonments on the line" after the one approved Friday by the ICC.

Stinson Beach Office Robbed

A burglar broke into a safe in the office of the state Department of Parks and Beaches at Stinson Beach between March 6 and 9:30 a.m. Sunday, the Marin County sheriff's department said yesterday.

Missing was about $200 in bills and coins, deputies said.

The burglar apparently climbed to the third story of the building, kicked in a louvered aluminum window. The safe was opened without force, deputies said.

Nine School Buses Are Found Unsafe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nine of 112 new and used school buses checked in a national survey leaked carbon monoxide at dangerous levels.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration cited the statistic Tuesday in alerting operators of the nation's 290,000 school buses to tighten inspection procedures for carbon monoxide leaks.

Job Discrimination Complaints Filed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Four civil rights groups yesterday filed a complaint against California's 28 largest city police and fire departments for alleged job discrimination against blacks and the Spanish-surnamed.

They said that blacks and Spanish-surnamed comprise 27 per cent of the total population of the cities. But they make up only 9 per cent of police personnel and just 5 per cent of fire department employes. They asked the state Fair Employment Practices Commission to order population parity in employment by 1977 and to halt use of irrelevant job tests.

In Los Angeles, the complaint said, the city employs only one black fireman for every 10,300 black residents and one black police officer for every 10,400 blacks. But there is one white fireman for every 603 white residents and one white policeman for every 289.

The discrimination, it was alleged, is carried out in large part by tests of knowledge and ability which are not related to the job. Arbitrary height requirements have a similar effect on some racial groups, the plaintiffs said.

Some xamples of questions not related to job ability were cited from the San Francisco Fire Department tests, where prospective firemen were asked "Who is Van Gogh?" and "What is a rubber in bridge?"

The FEPC was asked to investigate the 28 cities and to issue an order requiring population parity in employment by 1977. The proposed order also would eliminate testing not related to requirements of the jobs.

The results of such an order would be to provide about 8,000 job opportunities for blacks and Chicanos, the plaintiffs said.

The complaint was filed by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the League of United Latin American Citizens, the American GI Forum and the Mexican-American Political Association.

The cities cited were Los Angeles, San Diego, San Francisco, San Jose, Oakland, Long Beach, Sacramento, Anaheim, Fresno, Santa Ana, Riverside, Torrance, Glendale, Huntington Beach, Garden Grove, Berkeley, Stockton, Pasadena, San Bernardino, Fremont, Sunnyvale, Hayward, Norwalk, Santa Clara, Inglewood, Pomona, Richmond and Bakersfield.

Abandonment Of Rail Line Set

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Abandonment of the last rail line south of Larkspur has been approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The only protest filed was by the United Transportation Union, which protests every application for abandonment on the ground it diminishes work for its members who work on railroads.

The latest abandonment by Northwestern Pacific Railroad is a 1.3-mile stretch east of Highway 101 in Corte Madera between Lucky Drive and Meadowsweet.

The Golden Gate Bridge District has applied to the federal government for a loan to buy the right-of-way for future transit use.

The railroad, which has abandoned service in Marin piece by piece, has said that it has "no plans at this time for any further abandonments on the line" after the one approved Friday by the ICC.

Stinson Beach Office Robbed

A burglar broke into a safe in the office of the state Department of Parks and Beaches at Stinson Beach between March 6 and 9:30 a.m. Sunday, the Marin County sheriff's department said yesterday.

Missing was about $200 in bills and coins, deputies said.

The burglar apparently climbed to the third story of the building, kicked in a louvered aluminum window. The safe was opened without force, deputies said.

Nine School Buses Are Found Unsafe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nine of 112 new and used school buses checked in a national survey leaked carbon monoxide at dangerous levels.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration cited the statistic Tuesday in alerting operators of the nation's 290,000 school buses to tighten inspection procedures for carbon monoxide leaks.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

'Rodriguez' Will Soon Take Place Of 'Serrano'

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Sometime this spring, the name Serrano will vanish from discussions of school financing, and Rodriguez will take its place.

Serrano" refers to a case challenging the constitutionality of financing public schools primarily from property taxes. It draws its name from Joseph Serrano, the first of a list of plaintiffs when the suit was filed in Los Angeles County Superior Court.

In August, 1971, the California Supreme Court ordered that the case be tried, and in doing so virtually dictated what the trial decision should be. "We have determined," said the majority opinion written by Justice Raymond Sullivan, "that this funding scheme invidiously discriminates against the poor because it makes the quality of a child's education a function of the wealth of his parents and neighbors." This, said the six-justice majority, violates the 14th Amendment guarantee of equal protection of the laws.

"RODRIGUEZ" draws its name from Demetrios P. Rodriguez, the first of a list of plaintiffs in an almost-identical suit filed in federal court in San Antonio, Tex., in the spring of 1968. On Dec. 23, 1971, a three-judge federal court in Texas made the same finding as did the California Supreme Court in the Serrano case. But the State of Texas appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Last October, the top court heard arguments in the Rodriguez case. Sometime before recessing for the summer, it will hand down its decision. If it should agree with the lower federal court and with the California Supreme Court, the systems of school finance would have to be overhauled in every state except Hawaii.

Some interesting questions were posed by the Supreme Court justices during the arguments.

CHARLES A. WRIGHT, lawyer for the State of Texas, said he was willing to concede "that there is a constitutional minimum that could be required" in the amount spent per pupil on the public schools. But he was interrupted by Justice William H. Rehnquist, who demanded: "Do you know of any case in this court which has ever held that it would be unconstitutional for a state simply to get out of the business of public education bag and baggage?" Wright admitted that he knew of no such case.

Arthur Gotchman, attorney for Rodriguez et al, presented the usual argument — the same used in the Serrano case — that depending on the property tax means poor people must pay higher school taxes yet have less spent on their schools.

He was interrupted by two justices who pointed out that there are school districts with low per capita income but with high assessed valuation (the case, incidentally, with the highest spending districts in California).

The justices also directed at Gotchman a key question: If the equal protection provision of the Constitution requires that equal amounts be spent for schools in all localities, does it not follow that equal amounts must be spent also for police and fire protection and public health? Gotchman replied that education is different because "it affects matters guaranteed by the Bill of Rights. It is preservative of other rights."

BASING SCHOOL support on the property tax has been challenged previously before the U.S. Supreme Court. That court disposed of it once, in a case known as McInnis vs. Ogilvie, refusing to review a district court finding that there is no unconstitutionality in the school support system of illinois (which is basically the same as those of all the other states except Hawaii). After reviewing briefs submitted by both sides and by about a dozen "friends of the court," the Supreme Court in 1969 refused to hear arguments on the McInnis decision, holding that no constitutional issue was raised.

It is due largely to the Neighborhood Legal Assistance Foundation, an Office of Economic Opportunity agency, that the McInnis ruling filed to lay the issue to rest. OEO lawyers filed a series of school finance challenges in various courts across the country, all based on the same premise. And they found some courts who agreed with them.

Burglary Charge Is Dismissed

A felony charge of attempted robbery by a Marin City youth was dismissed yesterday because the victim has disappeared.

Municipal Court Judge Peter Allen Smith dismissed the count against 20-year-old Donald Wade Jones after Deputy Dist. Atty. Girard R. Courteau asked for a fourth continuance of the preliminary hearing so the witness could be found.

Corteau said afterward the charge will be refiled if police can find Raymond M. Healy, 21, of Kappas Yacht Harbor, who told police three men tried to rob him at gunpoint Jan. 30.

The men gave him a ride, but pulled a gun and demanded money, police said. He jumped from the car as it slowed to turn from Sausalito into Marin City and gave a description of the Cadillac to police.

-Jones was arrested later in Fairfax.

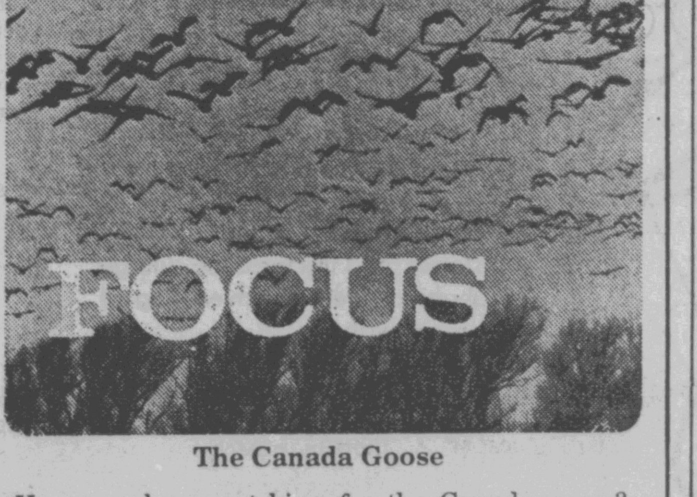
Change Is Made In Assault Plea

A 21-year-old San Rafael man, who had pleaded guilty to assault with a deadly weapon, has decided he is innocent after all.

Due to be sentenced Monday, Wendell Lynn Smith asked to withdraw his guilty plea and stand trial on the original charge of assault with intent to rob. Superior Court Judge David Menary Jr. agreed to end the plea bargain and set trial for sometime next week.

Smith was arrested Nov. 12 on a warrant charging him with beating a man in San Rafael, then taking his sleeping bag and tools.

The alleged victim, according to Smith, started a scuffle by taking a sixpack of beer, then swinging at Smith when he tried to retrieve it.



The Canada Goose

Have you been watching for the Canada goose? Considered the best known of the North American geese, the Canada goose has been making its northward migration. Easily recognized in flight because of the characteristic V-shaped formation, these birds are traditionally welcomed as harbingers of spring. They also identify themselves and herald the end of winter with their loud, rhythmic honking, a call familiar to most hunters. The Canada goose breeds all across the northern half of the continent and winters anywhere from Illinois to as far south as Mexico and the Gulf Coast. The Mississippi flyway is one of its favorite migratory routes and is trafficked by more than 250,000 birds a season.

DO YOU KNOW — Is the Canada goose threatened with extinction?

Jail Term On Theft Of Watch

Lonnie Lawder Rivas, 27, of San Rafael has been ordered to serve 90 days in jail for his part in the theft of an expensive watch from two teen-agers at a San Rafael market last August.

Following the terms of a plea bargain with Rivas and the district attorney, Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court also placed Rivas on probation for two years and ordered him to undergo drug testing when requested by his probation officer.

Rivas had pleaded guilty in January to felony grand theft on condition he would receive no more than three months in jail.

Rivas, Herman Sanchez, 27, and Larry Paul Slager, 25, both of San Rafael, all were originally charged with robbery in connection with the theft Aug. 14 following a request by the two boys to buy beer for them.

In each case the charge was reduced. Slager served 11 days in jail for battery, Sanchez is now serving eight months in jail for grand theft.

Menary said he would have given Rivas at least a year in jail if the two victims had been minding their own business.

Development's Density Is Set

Novato City Council, revising its General Plan, has approved a density range of 401 to 942 units for the 325-acre Anderson Rowe property between South Novato Boulevard and Ignacio village.

Senior planner Mark Westfall said the density set Monday night by the council is higher than the 600-718 units recommended by the planning commission but lower than the 1,500 units requested by developers.

Under the existing general plan a density range of 1,244 to 2,570 units would be permitted.

The council also designated Hill nd Canyon residential for the 33-acre Corkland-O'Donohue property, north of Canyon Road.

Councilmen will continue general plan review at 8 p.m. Monday at the Novato Community House, covering property in the Mount Burdell area.

First Aid Course Set In Petaluma

A Red Cross standard first aid course will begin March 29 in Petaluma.

Classes will be held on Thursdays from 7 to 9:30 p.m. at Petaluma Senior High School through April 19. Donald Barella of Petaluma will be the instructor. Registration should be made in advance by calling the Petaluma Red Cross office.

Sebastopol Driver Gets Jail, Fine

Wilfred Henry Wiseman, 53, of Sebastopol has been ordered to serve six months in jail and pay a $500 fine for felony drunken driving during an injury auto accident last October.

Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court also placed Wiseman on probation for three years, ordered him to quit drinking, undergo therapy for his alcohol problem and attend a school about drunken driving.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Vernon F. Smith sought a year in jail for Wiseman. "He doesn't understand the danger he is posing on the highway," Smith said.

Wiseman, who had stopped at several bars on his way home from his truck driving job, was arrested Oct. 27 by the California Highway Patrol after his car hit a stalled auto on the shoulder of Highway 101 near San Rafael. Two passengers were injured.

The arrest was his third for drunken driving.

Art Display

Paintings by Fairfax resident Nina E. Gable, a retired administrator for the California Division of Highways, will be on display during March and through April 14 at Marin General Hospital.

Novatan Gets Jail For Liquor Theft

A 20-year-old Novatan has been ordered to serve 60 days in jail for breaking into a Novato liquor store and stealing bottles.

Superior Court Judge David Menary Jr. also placed Rodney David Jerve on probation for two years and told him to quit drinking. The youth reportedly was drunk when he broke into Warden's Liquor Store Oct. 29.

Jerve's probation officer said he was undergoing the "pain of emancipation and using alcohol to see him through." Jerve works for a Black Point roofing company and recently moved out of the family home, the officer said.

The sentencing Monday had been delayed a week by the last minute revelation March 5 that Jerve had a petty theft arrest at about the same time as the burglary arrest. Because of it, Menary said he was giving Jerve 60 days instead of 30.

Marin Hike For Help April 29

The second annual Marin Hike for Help, a 20-mile walk to raise money for Marin youth agencies and Project Hope, will be held April 29, hike coordinator Eleanor Mosden of Ross has announced.

Proceeds will be divided equally among hike sponsors, the People-to-People Health Foundation's Project Hope and the Marin Charitable Foundation, which will donate its share to local youth-oriented agencies, Mrs. Mosden said.

Hikers will be asking for pledges that will be multiplied by the total number of miles walked. There have been requests for more than 1,000 pledge cards.

Last year, the foundation contributed $11,000 to nine local youth groups.

Teen Sentenced For Auto Theft

Adam Jesse James, 19, of Waldo Point has been sentenced in Marin Superior Court to 47 days in jail on a reduced misdemeanor charge of auto theft.

James pleaded guilty Monday after Judge David Menary Jr. and Deputy Dist. Atty. Jerry R. Herman agreed to reduce the charge from a felony and give him time he had served while awaiting sentencing.

The judge also placed James on probation for one year.

The teen-ager was arrested Dec. 17 after residents at 450 East Strawberry Drive, Strawberry, detained him as a possible prowler.

Sheriff's deputies, who were called to investigate, discovered the car James was driving had been reported stolen by Vito Migale of San Francisco.

Job Discrimination Complaints Filed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Four civil rights groups yesterday filed a complaint against California's 28 largest city police and fire departments for alleged job discrimination against blacks and the Spanish-surnamed.

They said that blacks and Spanish-surnamed comprise 27 per cent of the total population of the cities. But they make up only 9 per cent of police personnel and just 5 per cent of fire department employes. They asked the state Fair Employment Practices Commission to order population parity in employment by 1977 and to halt use of irrelevant job tests.

In Los Angeles, the complaint said, the city employs only one black fireman for every 10,300 black residents and one black police officer for every 10,400 blacks. But there is one white fireman for every 603 white residents and one white policeman for every 289.

The discrimination, it was alleged, is carried out in large part by tests of knowledge and ability which are not related to the job. Arbitrary height requirements have a similar effect on some racial groups, the plaintiffs said.

Some xamples of questions not related to job ability were cited from the San Francisco Fire Department tests, where prospective firemen were asked "Who is Van Gogh?" and "What is a rubber in bridge?"

The FEPC was asked to investigate the 28 cities and to issue an order requiring population parity in employment by 1977. The proposed order also would eliminate testing not related to requirements of the jobs.

The results of such an order would be to provide about 8,000 job opportunities for blacks and Chicanos, the plaintiffs said.

The complaint was filed by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the League of United Latin American Citizens, the American GI Forum and the Mexican-American Political Association.

The cities cited were Los Angeles, San Diego, San Francisco, San Jose, Oakland, Long Beach, Sacramento, Anaheim, Fresno, Santa Ana, Riverside, Torrance, Glendale, Huntington Beach, Garden Grove, Berkeley, Stockton, Pasadena, San Bernardino, Fremont, Sunnyvale, Hayward, Norwalk, Santa Clara, Inglewood, Pomona, Richmond and Bakersfield.

Abandonment Of Rail Line Set

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Abandonment of the last rail line south of Larkspur has been approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The only protest filed was by the United Transportation Union, which protests every application for abandonment on the ground it diminishes work for its members who work on railroads.

The latest abandonment by Northwestern Pacific Railroad is a 1.3-mile stretch east of Highway 101 in Corte Madera between Lucky Drive and Meadowsweet.

The Golden Gate Bridge District has applied to the federal government for a loan to buy the right-of-way for future transit use.

The railroad, which has abandoned service in Marin piece by piece, has said that it has "no plans at this time for any further abandonments on the line" after the one approved Friday by the ICC.

Stinson Beach Office Robbed

A burglar broke into a safe in the office of the state Department of Parks and Beaches at Stinson Beach between March 6 and 9:30 a.m. Sunday, the Marin County sheriff's department said yesterday.

Missing was about $200 in bills and coins, deputies said.

The burglar apparently climbed to the third story of the building, kicked in a louvered aluminum window. The safe was opened without force, deputies said.

Nine School Buses Are Found Unsafe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nine of 112 new and used school buses checked in a national survey leaked carbon monoxide at dangerous levels.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration cited the statistic Tuesday in alerting operators of the nation's 290,000 school buses to tighten inspection procedures for carbon monoxide leaks.

South's Chance To Lose Trick Brings Home A Heart Contract

Diamonds occupied the center of the stage in the play of today's hand. They gave declarer his best chance to win an important trick, and then a convenient way to lose a trick. South's chance to win a trick didn't work, but his chance to lose a trick brought the contract home.

WINS WITH ACE

West opened the jack of spades, and South won with the ace. Declarer drew trumps with the ace and king, after which he led a spade to dummy's king.

The stage was now set for the first play in diamonds. Before we see that first play, let's examine declarer's problem. He runs the risk of losing a diamond and three clubs.

In tackling the diamonds, declarer led the three from dummy. East played low, and South finessed with the ten from his own hand. He didn't expect to win this finesse, but he did want to duck the trick into the West hand.

DIAMOND RETURNED

West won with the queen of diamonds and saw the danger of returning either a spade or a club. After some thought, West returned a low diamond.

South won with the ace of diamonds and led his last diamond to dummy's king. If the suit broke 3-3, dummy's last diamond would be good for a trick. As it happened, East discarded a spade on the third diamond, and it was clear that dummy's last diamond was not high.

LAST DIAMOND

That last diamond was, however, far from worthless. Declarer led it and discarded a club from his own hand, allowing West to win the trick. Now West was caught. If he led a spade, dummy would ruff while South threw a club; and if West led a club, South would win a trick with the king.

You hold:
♠- K 6
♥- Q 10 9 5
♦- K 6 4 3
♣- 6 4 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one no-trump. With eight points in high cards you can clearly afford to respond, but you cannot bid a suit of your own and lack the length in spades you would need to raise partner's suit. The response in notrump is the only remaining possibility.

4-H Field Day Scheduled Saturday

About 250 youths are expected to participate in the Marin County 4-H Council's annaul countywide field day at 10 a.m. Saturday at Hill Junior High School, Novato.

Demonstrations and speeches will be held until noon, and a "share the fun show" at 1 p.m., ending with presentation of awards.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Tongue twisters! The name of the game is to match each birthday celebrant with what he said. Choose who's who?

1. MICHAEL CAINE or RICHARD CHAMBERLAIN is the English-born actor, 40 today, now co-starring with Sir Laurence Olivier in the film, "Sleuth." Asked whether he saw the hit play on stage, in order to learn from its success, he said: "Seeing the play idn't influence me at all because screen acting is so different. I don't think a film actor can learn from watching someone on the stage."

2. CHARLES SCHULZ or HANK KETCHAM created the popular cartoon panel, "Dennis, the Menace." Born in Seattle, Wash., he attended the University of Washington, majoring in art and drama. Asked how he succeeds with Dennis and his other creation, "Half Hitch," he says: "Cartooning is show business. It demands dialogue, staging of scenes, placing of players, and direction of the overall production." Spank this dad 53 times today!

3. LES BROWN or ARTIE SHAW had the famous "Band of Renown." He cuts a cake with 61 candles today, active still in Hollywood, especially when Bob Hope organizes a TV special or takes a troupe overseas. Although the camera has focused on him time and again, this mild-mannered band leader just grins and says, "Gulp!"

4. ALBERT EINSTEIN or ROBERT OPPENHEIMER, world famous physicist, was noted for his genius, startling the scientific community with theories which led to the development of the A-bomb and atomic power. After coming to America, he summed up reaction to his theory of relativity, saying, "In Germany I am hailed as a man of science, and in England I am pleasantly represented as a foreign Jew. But if ever my theories are repudiated, the Germans will condemn me as a foreign Jew and the English dismiss me as a German."

ANSWERS: 1 — Michael Caine; 2 — Hank Ketcham; 3 — Les Brown; 4 — Albert Einstein.

MOOD PIECE — This collage, "Ancient and New" by Edgar Frank, captures a kind of archeological atmosphere as human forms work their way in and out of spaces as mysterious as any in a freshly opened ancient tomb. It's part of his work on display at the Corte Madera Library.

Man Given 90 Days On Burglary Charge

A would-be female impersonator has been ordered to serve 90 days in jail for a burglary he told police he committed to obtain hormone pills.

Judge David Menary Jr. also placed Michael Anthony Divodi, 21, of Mill Valley, on probation for two years and ordered him to submit to periodic drug use tests and therapy programs.

Deputy probation officer Georgia Sells said Divodi had an interview for a job at the Finocchio club in San Francisco, then drank heavily and took LSD while hitchhiking home before his arrest Jan. 6.

She called the burglary of Lockwood's Pharmacy in Mill Valley "the offense of a disturbed young man, who has had a serious drug problem." He reportedly had been drunk every day for six months after giving up amphetamines and LSD, according to the probation officer.

Divodi was arrested inside the pharmacy after a druggist told police he heard someone prying off a ventilator of the building at 12 Miller Avenue. He told police he needed hormones to help him obtain the impersonating job at the San Francisco nightclub.

He was unemployed when arrested.

Mayor Hopeful Is Disqualified

WARWICK, N.Y. (UPI) — George Q. Palmer, a candidate for mayor of this Orange County village, was ruled off the ballot Tuesday because of one word written on his nominating petition.

Palmer circulated a petition and obtained more than a hundred names. The village clerk's office received the petition and certified he had obtained the required number of 90 valid signatures for nomination.

The petition, however, was invalidated when it was discovered that the word "none" had been entered where the office being sought should have been inserted.

Palmer said he would run as a write-in candidate.

ART REVIEW

Frank Painting Exhibit Shows Warmth, Fantasy, Sensuousness

By ADA GARFINKEL

Edgar Frank's exhibit of paintings at the Corte Madera Library is a progression from personally evolved, sensuous landscapes, to geometricized, Bauhaus-type abstractions.

The paintings are vividly colorful. Several exude palpable temperature radiation through Frank's use of deep, warm blues, hot orange, and purples in full chromatic saturation. Others, such as "Capricio," weave fantasy colors with playful design — a spray of balloons — against contrasting textural variation.

The sun as a pictorial element is such a cliche, that unless it is fully integrated as a design element, it can completely mar an otherwise good painting, as it does in "South Sea."

In the more geometric works, one knows that these are mountains and landmasses, suns and moons, although we see them as solids, pyramids, and cubes. The association is made by placement, color, and horizon plane. "Landscape with Red Sun," bisected and faceted, is Frank's best painting.

There is a DeChirico kind of unreality in Frank's strictly constructivist works, although Frank's circles, triangles, and cubes which make up his architectural structures, are frontal, rather than in perspective distance.

Included in the exhibit are two collages that make one wish the artist had shown more. Both collages are of people — or, perhaps, personifications.

"Family of Man" presents shadowy, furtive figures, elongated and silhouetted, some ringed with whimsically scribbled flowers.

And in "Ancient and New," a tiny, three-dimensional portrait sculpture of an Egyptian deity or ruler keynotes fashion contrasts spanning several millennia. Painted burlap, gold foil, and torn pieces of bubbly-textured plastic add to the archaeological ambience.

Also on display (in the exhibit case) are weavings by Donna Bell of San Anselmo.

The weavings combine yarns, moss, driftwood, and feathers. Those that are free-standing are quite sculptural in appearance.

Both exhibits will continue through March 31, and may be seen from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday and Saturday. The library is located at 707 Meadowsweet Drive, Corte Madera.

Church Plans Concert Sunday

The Santa Venetia Presbyterian Church has announced it will present an afternoon of chamber music at 3 p.m. March 18 at the church, 635 Adrian Way.

The program will include selections by Brahms, C.P.E. Bach, Beethoven and Villa-Lobos.

It will feature soprano Joan Smith and eight musicians plus a 10-member cello symphony conducted by Roy Oakley Jr. The concert is open to the public.

Suharto Accepts Nomination

JAKARTA (UPI) — President Suharto today accepted nomination to serve as president for a second term and agreed to the nomination of the Sultan of Jogjakarta, Hamengkubuwono, as his running mate.

This is the first time the 51-year-old president has openly accepted suggestions and nominations from various political groups asking him to accept a second five-year term beginning later this month.

MOOD PIECE — This collage, "Ancient and New" by Edgar Frank, captures a kind of archeological atmosphere as human forms work their way in and out of spaces as mysterious as any in a freshly opened ancient tomb. It's part of his work on display at the Corte Madera Library.

ART REVIEW

Frank Painting Exhibit Shows Warmth, Fantasy, Sensuousness

By ADA GARFINKEL

Edgar Frank's exhibit of paintings at the Corte Madera Library is a progression from personally evolved, sensuous landscapes, to geometricized, Bauhaus-type abstractions.

The paintings are vividly colorful. Several exude palpable temperature radiation through Frank's use of deep, warm blues, hot orange, and purples in full chromatic saturation. Others, such as "Capricio," weave fantasy colors with playful design — a spray of balloons — against contrasting textural variation.

The sun as a pictorial element is such a cliche, that unless it is fully integrated as a design element, it can completely mar an otherwise good painting, as it does in "South Sea."

In the more geometric works, one knows that these are mountains and landmasses, suns and moons, although we see them as solids, pyramids, and cubes. The association is made by placement, color, and horizon plane. "Landscape with Red Sun," bisected and faceted, is Frank's best painting.

There is a DeChirico kind of unreality in Frank's strictly constructivist works, although Frank's circles, triangles, and cubes which make up his architectural structures, are frontal, rather than in perspective distance.

Included in the exhibit are two collages that make one wish the artist had shown more. Both collages are of people — or, perhaps, personifications.

"Family of Man" presents shadowy, furtive figures, elongated and silhouetted, some ringed with whimsically scribbled flowers.

And in "Ancient and New," a tiny, three-dimensional portrait sculpture of an Egyptian deity or ruler keynotes fashion contrasts spanning several millennia. Painted burlap, gold foil, and torn pieces of bubbly-textured plastic add to the archaeological ambience.

Also on display (in the exhibit case) are weavings by Donna Bell of San Anselmo.

The weavings combine yarns, moss, driftwood, and feathers. Those that are free-standing are quite sculptural in appearance.

Both exhibits will continue through March 31, and may be seen from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday and Saturday. The library is located at 707 Meadowsweet Drive, Corte Madera.

Church Plans Concert Sunday

The Santa Venetia Presbyterian Church has announced it will present an afternoon of chamber music at 3 p.m. March 18 at the church, 635 Adrian Way.

The program will include selections by Brahms, C.P.E. Bach, Beethoven and Villa-Lobos.

It will feature soprano Joan Smith and eight musicians plus a 10-member cello symphony conducted by Roy Oakley Jr. The concert is open to the public.

Suharto Accepts Nomination

JAKARTA (UPI) — President Suharto today accepted nomination to serve as president for a second term and agreed to the nomination of the Sultan of Jogjakarta, Hamengkubuwono, as his running mate.

This is the first time the 51-year-old president has openly accepted suggestions and nominations from various political groups asking him to accept a second five-year term beginning later this month.

Man Given 90 Days On Burglary Charge

A would-be female impersonator has been ordered to serve 90 days in jail for a burglary he told police he committed to obtain hormone pills.

Judge David Menary Jr. also placed Michael Anthony Divodi, 21, of Mill Valley, on probation for two years and ordered him to submit to periodic drug use tests and therapy programs.

Deputy probation officer Georgia Sells said Divodi had an interview for a job at the Finocchio club in San Francisco, then drank heavily and took LSD while hitchhiking home before his arrest Jan. 6.

She called the burglary of Lockwood's Pharmacy in Mill Valley "the offense of a disturbed young man, who has had a serious drug problem." He reportedly had been drunk every day for six months after giving up amphetamines and LSD, according to the probation officer.

Divodi was arrested inside the pharmacy after a druggist told police he heard someone prying off a ventilator of the building at 12 Miller Avenue. He told police he needed hormones to help him obtain the impersonating job at the San Francisco nightclub.

He was unemployed when arrested.

Mayor Hopeful Is Disqualified

WARWICK, N.Y. (UPI) — George Q. Palmer, a candidate for mayor of this Orange County village, was ruled off the ballot Tuesday because of one word written on his nominating petition.

Palmer circulated a petition and obtained more than a hundred names. The village clerk's office received the petition and certified he had obtained the required number of 90 valid signatures for nomination.

The petition, however, was invalidated when it was discovered that the word "none" had been entered where the office being sought should have been inserted.

Palmer said he would run as a write-in candidate.

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

South's Chance To Lose Trick Brings Home A Heart Contract

Diamonds occupied the center of the stage in the play of today's hand. They gave declarer his best chance to win an important trick, and then a convenient way to lose a trick. South's chance to win a trick didn't work, but his chance to lose a trick brought the contract home.

WINS WITH ACE

West opened the jack of spades, and South won with the ace. Declarer drew trumps with the ace and king, after which he led a spade to dummy's king.

The stage was now set for the first play in diamonds. Before we see that first play, let's examine declarer's problem. He runs the risk of losing a diamond and three clubs.

In tackling the diamonds, declarer led the three from dummy. East played low, and South finessed with the ten from his own hand. He didn't expect to win this finesse, but he did want to duck the trick into the West hand.

DIAMOND RETURNED

West won with the queen of diamonds and saw the danger of returning either a spade or a club. After some thought, West returned a low diamond.

South won with the ace of diamonds and led his last diamond to dummy's king. If the suit broke 3-3, dummy's last diamond would be good for a trick. As it happened, East discarded a spade on the third diamond, and it was clear that dummy's last diamond was not high.

LAST DIAMOND

That last diamond was, however, far from worthless. Declarer led it and discarded a club from his own hand, allowing West to win the trick. Now West was caught. If he led a spade, dummy would ruff while South threw a club; and if West led a club, South would win a trick with the king.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner deals and bids one spade.

The next player passes.

You hold:
♠- K 6
♥- Q 10 9 5
♦- K 6 4 3
♣- 6 4 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one no-trump. With eight points in high cards you can clearly afford to respond, but you cannot bid a suit of your own and lack the length in spades you would need to raise partner's suit. The response in notrump is the only remaining possibility.

4-H Field Day Scheduled Saturday

About 250 youths are expected to participate in the Marin County 4-H Council's annaul countywide field day at 10 a.m. Saturday at Hill Junior High School, Novato.

Demonstrations and speeches will be held until noon, and a "share the fun show" at 1 p.m., ending with presentation of awards.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Tongue twisters! The name of the game is to match each birthday celebrant with what he said. Choose who's who?

1. MICHAEL CAINE or RICHARD CHAMBERLAIN is the English-born actor, 40 today, now co-starring with Sir Laurence Olivier in the film, "Sleuth." Asked whether he saw the hit play on stage, in order to learn from its success, he said: "Seeing the play idn't influence me at all because screen acting is so different. I don't think a film actor can learn from watching someone on the stage."

2. CHARLES SCHULZ or HANK KETCHAM created the popular cartoon panel, "Dennis, the Menace." Born in Seattle, Wash., he attended the University of Washington, majoring in art and drama. Asked how he succeeds with Dennis and his other creation, "Half Hitch," he says: "Cartooning is show business. It demands dialogue, staging of scenes, placing of players, and direction of the overall production." Spank this dad 53 times today!

3. LES BROWN or ARTIE SHAW had the famous "Band of Renown." He cuts a cake with 61 candles today, active still in Hollywood, especially when Bob Hope organizes a TV special or takes a troupe overseas. Although the camera has focused on him time and again, this mild-mannered band leader just grins and says, "Gulp!"

4. ALBERT EINSTEIN or ROBERT OPPENHEIMER, world famous physicist, was noted for his genius, startling the scientific community with theories which led to the development of the A-bomb and atomic power. After coming to America, he summed up reaction to his theory of relativity, saying, "In Germany I am hailed as a man of science, and in England I am pleasantly represented as a foreign Jew. But if ever my theories are repudiated, the Germans will condemn me as a foreign Jew and the English dismiss me as a German."

ANSWERS: 1 — Michael Caine; 2 — Hank Ketcham; 3 — Les Brown; 4 — Albert Einstein.

MOOD PIECE — This collage, "Ancient and New" by Edgar Frank, captures a kind of archeological atmosphere as human forms work their way in and out of spaces as mysterious as any in a freshly opened ancient tomb. It's part of his work on display at the Corte Madera Library.

ART REVIEW

Frank Painting Exhibit Shows Warmth, Fantasy, Sensuousness

By ADA GARFINKEL

Edgar Frank's exhibit of paintings at the Corte Madera Library is a progression from personally evolved, sensuous landscapes, to geometricized, Bauhaus-type abstractions.

The paintings are vividly colorful. Several exude palpable temperature radiation through Frank's use of deep, warm blues, hot orange, and purples in full chromatic saturation. Others, such as "Capricio," weave fantasy colors with playful design — a spray of balloons — against contrasting textural variation.

The sun as a pictorial element is such a cliche, that unless it is fully integrated as a design element, it can completely mar an otherwise good painting, as it does in "South Sea."

In the more geometric works, one knows that these are mountains and landmasses, suns and moons, although we see them as solids, pyramids, and cubes. The association is made by placement, color, and horizon plane. "Landscape with Red Sun," bisected and faceted, is Frank's best painting.

There is a DeChirico kind of unreality in Frank's strictly constructivist works, although Frank's circles, triangles, and cubes which make up his architectural structures, are frontal, rather than in perspective distance.

Included in the exhibit are two collages that make one wish the artist had shown more. Both collages are of people — or, perhaps, personifications.

"Family of Man" presents shadowy, furtive figures, elongated and silhouetted, some ringed with whimsically scribbled flowers.

And in "Ancient and New," a tiny, three-dimensional portrait sculpture of an Egyptian deity or ruler keynotes fashion contrasts spanning several millennia. Painted burlap, gold foil, and torn pieces of bubbly-textured plastic add to the archaeological ambience.

Also on display (in the exhibit case) are weavings by Donna Bell of San Anselmo.

The weavings combine yarns, moss, driftwood, and feathers. Those that are free-standing are quite sculptural in appearance.

Both exhibits will continue through March 31, and may be seen from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday and Saturday. The library is located at 707 Meadowsweet Drive, Corte Madera.

Church Plans Concert Sunday

The Santa Venetia Presbyterian Church has announced it will present an afternoon of chamber music at 3 p.m. March 18 at the church, 635 Adrian Way.

The program will include selections by Brahms, C.P.E. Bach, Beethoven and Villa-Lobos.

It will feature soprano Joan Smith and eight musicians plus a 10-member cello symphony conducted by Roy Oakley Jr. The concert is open to the public.

Suharto Accepts Nomination

JAKARTA (UPI) — President Suharto today accepted nomination to serve as president for a second term and agreed to the nomination of the Sultan of Jogjakarta, Hamengkubuwono, as his running mate.

This is the first time the 51-year-old president has openly accepted suggestions and nominations from various political groups asking him to accept a second five-year term beginning later this month.

Man Given 90 Days On Burglary Charge

A would-be female impersonator has been ordered to serve 90 days in jail for a burglary he told police he committed to obtain hormone pills.

Judge David Menary Jr. also placed Michael Anthony Divodi, 21, of Mill Valley, on probation for two years and ordered him to submit to periodic drug use tests and therapy programs.

Deputy probation officer Georgia Sells said Divodi had an interview for a job at the Finocchio club in San Francisco, then drank heavily and took LSD while hitchhiking home before his arrest Jan. 6.

She called the burglary of Lockwood's Pharmacy in Mill Valley "the offense of a disturbed young man, who has had a serious drug problem." He reportedly had been drunk every day for six months after giving up amphetamines and LSD, according to the probation officer.

Divodi was arrested inside the pharmacy after a druggist told police he heard someone prying off a ventilator of the building at 12 Miller Avenue. He told police he needed hormones to help him obtain the impersonating job at the San Francisco nightclub.

He was unemployed when arrested.

Mayor Hopeful Is Disqualified

WARWICK, N.Y. (UPI) — George Q. Palmer, a candidate for mayor of this Orange County village, was ruled off the ballot Tuesday because of one word written on his nominating petition.

Palmer circulated a petition and obtained more than a hundred names. The village clerk's office received the petition and certified he had obtained the required number of 90 valid signatures for nomination.

The petition, however, was invalidated when it was discovered that the word "none" had been entered where the office being sought should have been inserted.

Palmer said he would run as a write-in candidate.

ALMANAC

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Wednesday, March 14, the 73rd day of 1973 with 292 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Mercury. The evening star is Saturn.

German-American scientist Albert Einstein was born March 14, 1879.

On this day in history:

In 1743, the first town meeting in America was held in Boston.

In 1812, the U.S. government authorized the issue of the first war bonds, floated to buy military equipment for use against the British.

In 1947, military and naval bases in the Philippines were leased to the United States for 99 years.

In 1964, Jack Ruby was found guilty of killing assassin Lee Harvey Oswald, slayer of President John F. Kennedy. Ruby was sentenced to death but the conviction was overturned and he died while awaiting a new trial.

A thought for the day: President Harry Truman said, "The responsibility of the great state is to serve and not to dominate the world."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Polio Cases Are Rarity Today But Some Are Still Reported

The incidence of polio has declined markedly since the introduction of the oral (Sabin) vaccine. But there are still a dozen or more cases reported annually to the health department. These cases are not as newsworthy as they used to be. Before the vaccine, a daily score was kept much as we now do with traffic fatalities on holiday week-ends.

LAST YEAR 11 teen-agers from a private Eastern school developed the disease. This confirms the presence of polio viruses and shows us why complete immunization is necessary. And protection is simple, because the vaccine is taken orally. The marked decline in polio stems from the widespread vaccination of infants as they are born. Failure to protect these children could result in the buildup of a susceptible population, among whom an epidemic could spread like wildfire.

The oral vaccine may be ineffective, unless the complete series is given. There are three types of polio viruses and modern vaccines protect against one (monovalent) or all three (trivalent). Nowadays, the trivalent product is most popular. Three doses starting at 2 months of age are recommended. The second and third doses are given at 6-to-8-week intervals. A fourth dose is also recommended when the child is 12 to 15 months old.

A SINGLE DOSE of trivalent vaccine is also thought to be desirable when the child starts school. This is recommended mainly to fill in any lapses in the immunization schedule. Families move from one community to another and one of the scheduled doses may have been omitted. Children who have not had oral polio vaccine should be given the complete series.

Since polio viruses enter the body via the mouth, the oral vaccine simulates the natural infection. In addition to producing antibodies, the vaccine induces the intestinal tract to become relatively resistant to reinfection. Protection lasts for years. The vaccine contains live, but weakened, viruses and rapidly induces infection and immunity. Its safety and effectiveness is substantiated by the fact that it has been used successfully by more than 350 million persons.

VIRAL HEPATITIS

A reader writes: How long after recovering from viral hepatitis is it safe to take a cocktail?

REPLY

In my opinion, six months. Some physicians suggest one year; others approve when all liver function tests are normal and the individual is judged to be healthy.

RAW JUICES

N. M. writes: What do you think of raw juice therapy?

REPLY

Not much — either as a treat or a treatment. There is no harm in drinking raw vegetable juices, but personally, I prefer carrots, celery, and cabbage raw or cooked, rather than put through a blender.

HYPERTENSION

G. P. writes: Is there any use in treating high blood pressure?

REPLY

Yes. Early treatment of hypertension in younger persons prevents or lessens the severity of complications. It is not always necessary to treat elderly people who have slight to moderate elevations in pressure. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on high blood pressure.

GRAPES NO CURE

A reader writes: I have lung cancer and a friend told me that a grape diet will kill the sick cells, leaving the healthy cells to survive. Do you know of any cure along this line?

REPLY

No, and it is rather unlikely that grapes would have this strange power. This is an old quack remedy. Lung cancer is too serious a disease to treat with home remedies and the advice of well-meaning friends.

BOLTS HIS MEALS

W. D. writes: I know that food should be chewed well and dinner especially ought to be eaten slowly. However, my father eats in 10 minutes flat. Is this a healthful practice?

REPLY

No harm, if the stomach can take it. I believe in ordinary chewing — just enough to break up the food particles. Soft items require little mastication whereas tough meat requires more. The old idea of fletcherizing — chewing every mouthful 20 times — is passe. In contrast, most animals bolt their food and so do many healthy people. However, most persons feel better when they eat in a relaxed and leisurely manner.

ALMANAC

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Wednesday, March 14, the 73rd day of 1973 with 292 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Mercury. The evening star is Saturn.

German-American scientist Albert Einstein was born March 14, 1879.

On this day in history:

In 1743, the first town meeting in America was held in Boston.

In 1812, the U.S. government authorized the issue of the first war bonds, floated to buy military equipment for use against the British.

In 1947, military and naval bases in the Philippines were leased to the United States for 99 years.

In 1964, Jack Ruby was found guilty of killing assassin Lee Harvey Oswald, slayer of President John F. Kennedy. Ruby was sentenced to death but the conviction was overturned and he died while awaiting a new trial.

A thought for the day: President Harry Truman said, "The responsibility of the great state is to serve and not to dominate the world."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, clean air.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Polio Cases Are Rarity Today But Some Are Still Reported

The incidence of polio has declined markedly since the introduction of the oral (Sabin) vaccine. But there are still a dozen or more cases reported annually to the health department. These cases are not as newsworthy as they used to be. Before the vaccine, a daily score was kept much as we now do with traffic fatalities on holiday week-ends.

LAST YEAR 11 teen-agers from a private Eastern school developed the disease. This confirms the presence of polio viruses and shows us why complete immunization is necessary. And protection is simple, because the vaccine is taken orally. The marked decline in polio stems from the widespread vaccination of infants as they are born. Failure to protect these children could result in the buildup of a susceptible population, among whom an epidemic could spread like wildfire.

The oral vaccine may be ineffective, unless the complete series is given. There are three types of polio viruses and modern vaccines protect against one (monovalent) or all three (trivalent). Nowadays, the trivalent product is most popular. Three doses starting at 2 months of age are recommended. The second and third doses are given at 6-to-8-week intervals. A fourth dose is also recommended when the child is 12 to 15 months old.

A SINGLE DOSE of trivalent vaccine is also thought to be desirable when the child starts school. This is recommended mainly to fill in any lapses in the immunization schedule. Families move from one community to another and one of the scheduled doses may have been omitted. Children who have not had oral polio vaccine should be given the complete series.

Since polio viruses enter the body via the mouth, the oral vaccine simulates the natural infection. In addition to producing antibodies, the vaccine induces the intestinal tract to become relatively resistant to reinfection. Protection lasts for years. The vaccine contains live, but weakened, viruses and rapidly induces infection and immunity. Its safety and effectiveness is substantiated by the fact that it has been used successfully by more than 350 million persons.

VIRAL HEPATITIS

A reader writes: How long after recovering from viral hepatitis is it safe to take a cocktail?

REPLY

In my opinion, six months. Some physicians suggest one year; others approve when all liver function tests are normal and the individual is judged to be healthy.

RAW JUICES

N. M. writes: What do you think of raw juice therapy?

REPLY

Not much — either as a treat or a treatment. There is no harm in drinking raw vegetable juices, but personally, I prefer carrots, celery, and cabbage raw or cooked, rather than put through a blender.

HYPERTENSION

G. P. writes: Is there any use in treating high blood pressure?

REPLY

Yes. Early treatment of hypertension in younger persons prevents or lessens the severity of complications. It is not always necessary to treat elderly people who have slight to moderate elevations in pressure. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on high blood pressure.

GRAPES NO CURE

A reader writes: I have lung cancer and a friend told me that a grape diet will kill the sick cells, leaving the healthy cells to survive. Do you know of any cure along this line?

REPLY

No, and it is rather unlikely that grapes would have this strange power. This is an old quack remedy. Lung cancer is too serious a disease to treat with home remedies and the advice of well-meaning friends.

BOLTS HIS MEALS

W. D. writes: I know that food should be chewed well and dinner especially ought to be eaten slowly. However, my father eats in 10 minutes flat. Is this a healthful practice?

REPLY

No harm, if the stomach can take it. I believe in ordinary chewing — just enough to break up the food particles. Soft items require little mastication whereas tough meat requires more. The old idea of fletcherizing — chewing every mouthful 20 times — is passe. In contrast, most animals bolt their food and so do many healthy people. However, most persons feel better when they eat in a relaxed and leisurely manner.

HAPPY TUNE — Marta Cecilia Ketzelman, 13, and her brother, George, 10, practice a duet together at their Lucas Valley Home. Born in Argentina, they and a third Ketzelman child, George's twin sister, Sandra, became American citizens last month in naturalization procedures in U.S. District Court in San Francisco.

Three Santa Venetia Children Take Oath Of U.S. Citizenship

Thirteen-year-old Marta Cecilia Ketzelman of Santa Venetia plays clarinet in her junior high school band, a simple pleasure she said she might not have had in her native Argentina.

She and her brother and sister, 10-year-old twins George and Sandra, became American citizens last month in U.S. District Court in San Francisco.

Their father, Jose Ketzelman, an electrical engineer for a San Francisco construction company, became a citizen in 1971. And their mother, Marta, plans to begin naturalization procedures next year.

"I don't feel any different," said Marta Cecilia, who came to the U.S. in 1966 when she was 6. "But I'm glad to be a citizen."

She is a seventh grader at Miller Creek Junior High School, a good student her father says, and plans "to stay in school a long time."

Her sister and brother attend Oak View School in San Rafael.

"There is a more tranquil situation in living here than in Argentina said Ketzelman. "There they have many problems, political and economic, that don't make life easy."

The Ketzelmans who live at 12 Golf Avenue, came from Buenos Aires, where he was employed by an American construction firm.

He came to the U.S. in 1965, settling first in Chicago, and the rest of the family followed a year later. They have been living in Marin County since 1968.

Other Marin and Southern Sonoma residents who became American citizens in naturalization procedures in February in the United States District Court in San Francisco are:

BELVEDERE — Pamela A. Bagshaw, 35 West Shore Road.

CORTE MADERA — Lily Iona Soucie, 801 Meadowsweet Drive, Apt. C; Donna M. Roberts, 653 Redwood Avenue.

FAIRFAX — Amelia Angela Ferretti, 58 Sequoia Road, and Grehal Franzen, 303 Bolinas Avenue.

GREENBRAE — Hind Tanel, 81 Corte Encanto.

MILL VALLEY — Moss Galante, 147 Elm Avenue; Svetlana Kaleys, 377 Marin Avenue; Myrth Alicia Lord, 301 Ross Drive.

NOVATO — Robin Carmichael Greig, 80 Montego Key; Daniela B. Husa, 297 Montego Key; Petra and William C. Long, both of 88 Bonnie Brae Drive; Kiyo Getchell, 105 Palmer Drive; Yolanda Leandro, 886 McClay Road; Karl Joseph Zueger, 9 Shon Court.

PETALUMA — Angelo F. Ibleto, 2700 Old Adobe Road.

SAN RAFAEL — Wolfgang P. Neuendorf, 16 Portola Avenue; Stephen Thomas Cairney, 269 Flagstone Terrace; Dorothea L. White, 736 Bamboo Terrace; Charles McBride and Etta Minnie Claire McBride, both of 365 Ironstone Court.

SAUSALITO — Knud D. Dyby, 314 Caledonia.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Reagan Backs Remap Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Carrying the blessing of Gov. Ronald Reagan, a Republican lawmaker pressed forward today with a bipartisan Senate reapportionment plan aimed at protecting senators who expect to seek reelection.

In an unusual move, Reagan yesterday told newsmen he would sign the bill (SB195) if it reaches his desk unchanged from its present form.

The governor normally refuses to say—before legislation reaches his desk—whether he will sign a bill or veto it.

A closed-door meeting of the entire Senate was scheduled for today to consider the redistricting measure.

The proposal—by Sens. John L. Harmer of Glendale, GOP caucus chairman, and George zenovich, D-Fresno — would abolish the district of Sen. Alan Short, D-Stockton.

The bill would create a new district in Southern California which would include parts of Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties. It is also designed to preserve the 20-20 split between the GOP and Democrats in the Senate.

In a letter to Harmer and circulated to all senators, Reagan said he hoped his declaration he would sign the bill would be "instrumental in resolving the entire question of reapportionment in California."

However, if the measure wins Senate approval, Zenovich says it faces a dubious future in the Assembly.

The author of a rival redistricting bill, Sen. Mervyn M. Dymally, D-Los Angeles, immediately released a statement accusing Reagan of "blatant hypocrisy by slamming the door in the face of the state's Mexican-Americans."

Dymally, Democratic caucus chairman, said the Zenovich-Harmer bill would not insure the election of a Chicano to the Senate while his would. Dymally's measure (SB62) would also preserve Short's district.

Dymally's allegation of hypocrisy stemmed from Reagan's purported statement that he would not sign a bill which fragments the Chicano community.

Harmer sought the private meeting of the Senate to resolve the question of the future of his bill.

He asserted that Dymally, chairman of the Reapportionment Committee, is stalling a committee vote on the Reagan-backed bill and is pushing his own instead.

Reagan said that while Harmer's bill is a "great improvement over any yet developed, it still does not meet some of the criteria I had hoped might be achieved."

Harmer said the criteria included creation of a Chicano district and preservation of Short's district.

The problem Harmer's bill faces in the Assembly was created last week when Democrats shelved their reapportionment plan. Zenovich said the Assembly is not likely to pass a Senate bill unless it also passes one of its own.

CHILD CARE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An $11 million bill backed by Gov. Ronald Reagan that would assure state support of child care services in the face of threatened Nixon administration cutbacks is now before the Senate.

The measure (AB387) by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, was approved by the Senate Finance Committee Tuesday on a 10-0 vote.

Under federal regulatins tentatively scheduled to take effect April 1, federal funds for such things as child care centers for low income working mothers would be abolished.

The proposed standards would affect about 30,000 California youngsters.

NEEDLES WORK

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A Chinese acupuncturist kept a state assemblyman on the job Tuesday by jabbing two long stainless steel needles into the lawmaker's hand and foot.

Assemblyman Lawrence Kapiloff, a Democrat from San Diego, came to work with a bad sinus headache and was about to take the day off.

"I told my secretary I felt so lousy I thought I'd go home," Kapiloff said.

He then dropped in on an acupuncture lecture being conducted near his office in the state Capitol and volunteered along with four other persons to be treated by the ancient technique of inserting needles into the body to cure pain.

"It's out of sight. It's hard to explain how it felt, but my headache is gone," Kapiloff said after the two-minute treatment.

LOBBYING

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. and the chairman of the Legislature's subcommittee on lobbyists have publically reconciled their dispute on reporting of lobbyist's spending.

But Brown and Assemblyman John P. Quimby, D-San Bernardino, issued differing statements on what exactly they resolved during a meeting Tuesday.

Brown said he was assured all lobbyists' expense reports are now available for public inspection.

"In addition," Brown said, "Mr. Quimby told me he has directed the subcommittee staff to make sure that the practice of deleting names from lobbyists records is immediately stopped."

Brown had earlier charged the committee with "illegally" striking from lobbyist's fiscal reports the names of lawmakers who received election campaign contributions from legislative advocates.

On the other hand, Quimby, chairman of the subcommittee on legislative advocate registration, made no mention of any agreed change in his panel's policy.

He previously denied that the reports were altered and insisted the law doesn't require lobbyists to identify by name the recipient of a campaign contribution.

POOR SHOWING

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Roughly 11 per cent of the persons in Gov. Ronald Reagan's work-for-welfare program have refused to participate and have been disqualified, the state reports.

Figures issued by the state Department of Human Resources Development Tuesday showed that 8,655 employable recipients in 10 counties were required to join the program from its beginning last July 1 through Jan. 31.

Of that number, the department said, 958 were taken off welfare for refusing to participate.

Under the experimental program, able-bodied recipients must be working, training for a job or performing non-paying community service tasks in exchange for their welfare grants.

Overall, the department said, 31 per cent of the employable recipients in the program, or 2,699 persons, have left the welfare rolls either by finding jobs or no longer qualifying for assistance.

SUPPORTS PLAN

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan has agreed to support legislation blocking the transfer of medical licensing boards from the Department of Consumer Affairs to the Department of Health.

The transfer is part of Reagan's 1970 government reorganization plans and is scheduled to be implemented June 1. But it has stirred bitter controversy between the two departments and health care professionals who would be affected.

At a meeting of his cabinet yesterday, Reagan, on the advice of Dr. Earl Brian, secretary of health and welfare, agreed to support the bill by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

An administration spokesman said the cabinet also decided to review the issue again in January and decide whether the medical licensing boards should remain in the Department of Consumer Affairs permanently.

More Precise Labels Proposed For Foods

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Is a potato chip "traditional" or processed? Is a frozen onion ring really a ring? Does an orange drink really have any orange juice in it?

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) is about to or has already answered those questions and others like them as part of a new campaign designed to let consumers know more exactly what they're buying in prepared and packaged foods.

At the same time it has taken new steps to make sure frozen dinners and packaged main dishes have what it takes to help maintain a nutritious diet, and to let the buyer know if there's something missing.

Some extensive changes in the labels and names by which many foods are known should result.

The FDA published several proposed and final rules in the area Tuesday, including one under which the agency, the industry and consumer groups are being invited to suggest common or usual names, in addition to brand names, for products in order to do away with fanciful titles.

Effective immediately under that rule any non-carbonated orange drink with less than 100 per cent real orange juice must now be labeled "diluted orange juice beverage" or similar descriptive name, followed by the exact orange juice content to the nearest 5 per cent.

Seafood cocktail must now state what kind of seafood is involved and what percentage; Greenland turbot may no longer be referred to as halibut; certain crabmeats may be referred to only as King, Korean or Snow; and bonito, a tuna-like fish, may be marketed only under the name bonito.

Peter B. Hutt, FDA general counsel, said the agency would soon order other foods to carry more exact descriptions. He mentioned potato chips—some of which are "traditional" or actual slices of potatoes, others of which are made from a batter, and frozen onion rings, some of which are actual onion loops, others of which are chopped onions formed into rings.

But Hutt said by far the most far reaching rule the FDA put forth Tuesday involved voluntary guidelines for the nutritional quality of various classes of food. Though the guidelines are voluntary, he added, competitive pressure should force their adoption.

"It doesn't do much good to have nutritional labeling if we have poor nutritional quality built into the food supply itself," Hutt said, referring to the nutrient label rules the FDA put out in January.

One guideline, for instance, involves frozen heat-and-serve dinners. It specifies how much protein, vegetable and potato or cereal products such a dinner must have to be nutritious. Along with that the agency proposed that frozen dinners be made to list on their labels what else has to be consumed —such as salad, bread or beverage—to make the meal truly a balanced "dinner."

HAPPY TUNE — Marta Cecilia Ketzelman, 13, and her brother, George, 10, practice a duet together at their Lucas Valley Home. Three Santa Venetia Children Take Oath Of U.S. Citizenship

Thirteen-year-old Marta Cecilia Ketzelman of Santa Venetia plays clarinet in her junior high school band, a simple pleasure she said she might not have had in her native Argentina.

She and her brother and sister, 10-year-old twins George and Sandra, became American citizens last month in U.S. District Court in San Francisco.

Their father, Jose Ketzelman, an electrical engineer for a San Francisco construction company, became a citizen in 1971. And their mother, Marta, plans to begin naturalization procedures next year.

"I don't feel any different," said Marta Cecilia, who came to the U.S. in 1966 when she was 6. "But I'm glad to be a citizen."

She is a seventh grader at Miller Creek Junior High School, a good student her father says, and plans "to stay in school a long time."

Her sister and brother attend Oak View School in San Rafael.

"There is a more tranquil situation in living here than in Argentina said Ketzelman. "There they have many problems, political and economic, that don't make life easy."

The Ketzelmans who live at 12 Golf Avenue, came from Buenos Aires, where he was employed by an American construction firm.

He came to the U.S. in 1965, settling first in Chicago, and the rest of the family followed a year later. They have been living in Marin County since 1968.

Other Marin and Southern Sonoma residents who became American citizens in naturalization procedures in February in the United States District Court in San Francisco are:

BELVEDERE — Pamela A. Bagshaw, 35 West Shore Road.

CORTE MADERA — Lily Iona Soucie, 801 Meadowsweet Drive, Apt. C; Donna M. Roberts, 653 Redwood Avenue.

FAIRFAX — Amelia Angela Ferretti, 58 Sequoia Road, and Grehal Franzen, 303 Bolinas Avenue.

GREENBRAE — Hind Tanel, 81 Corte Encanto.

MILL VALLEY — Moss Galante, 147 Elm Avenue; Svetlana Kaleys, 377 Marin Avenue; Myrth Alicia Lord, 301 Ross Drive.

YMCA Drive For Members Falls Short

A campaign for sustaining members for the Marin Young Men's Christian Association has fallen short of its goal, according to James Looney, YMCA executive director.

To date the campaign has raised $10,050 toward a goal of $13,200, he said. Looney said he hoped to reach the goal with a mail campaign under way this week.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Reagan Backs Remap Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Carrying the blessing of Gov. Ronald Reagan, a Republican lawmaker pressed forward today with a bipartisan Senate reapportionment plan aimed at protecting senators who expect to seek reelection.

In an unusual move, Reagan yesterday told newsmen he would sign the bill (SB195) if it reaches his desk unchanged from its present form.

The governor normally refuses to say—before legislation reaches his desk—whether he will sign a bill or veto it.

A closed-door meeting of the entire Senate was scheduled for today to consider the redistricting measure.

The proposal—by Sens. John L. Harmer of Glendale, GOP caucus chairman, and George zenovich, D-Fresno — would abolish the district of Sen. Alan Short, D-Stockton.

The bill would create a new district in Southern California which would include parts of Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties. It is also designed to preserve the 20-20 split between the GOP and Democrats in the Senate.

In a letter to Harmer and circulated to all senators, Reagan said he hoped his declaration he would sign the bill would be "instrumental in resolving the entire question of reapportionment in California."

However, if the measure wins Senate approval, Zenovich says it faces a dubious future in the Assembly.

The author of a rival redistricting bill, Sen. Mervyn M. Dymally, D-Los Angeles, immediately released a statement accusing Reagan of "blatant hypocrisy by slamming the door in the face of the state's Mexican-Americans."

Dymally, Democratic caucus chairman, said the Zenovich-Harmer bill would not insure the election of a Chicano to the Senate while his would. Dymally's measure (SB62) would also preserve Short's district.

Dymally's allegation of hypocrisy stemmed from Reagan's purported statement that he would not sign a bill which fragments the Chicano community.

Harmer sought the private meeting of the Senate to resolve the question of the future of his bill.

He asserted that Dymally, chairman of the Reapportionment Committee, is stalling a committee vote on the Reagan-backed bill and is pushing his own instead.

Reagan said that while Harmer's bill is a "great improvement over any yet developed, it still does not meet some of the criteria I had hoped might be achieved."

Harmer said the criteria included creation of a Chicano district and preservation of Short's district.

The problem Harmer's bill faces in the Assembly was created last week when Democrats shelved their reapportionment plan. Zenovich said the Assembly is not likely to pass a Senate bill unless it also passes one of its own.

CHILD CARE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An $11 million bill backed by Gov. Ronald Reagan that would assure state support of child care services in the face of threatened Nixon administration cutbacks is now before the Senate.

The measure (AB387) by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, was approved by the Senate Finance Committee Tuesday on a 10-0 vote.

Under federal regulatins tentatively scheduled to take effect April 1, federal funds for such things as child care centers for low income working mothers would be abolished.

The proposed standards would affect about 30,000 California youngsters.

NEEDLES WORK

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A Chinese acupuncturist kept a state assemblyman on the job Tuesday by jabbing two long stainless steel needles into the lawmaker's hand and foot.

Assemblyman Lawrence Kapiloff, a Democrat from San Diego, came to work with a bad sinus headache and was about to take the day off.

"I told my secretary I felt so lousy I thought I'd go home," Kapiloff said.

He then dropped in on an acupuncture lecture being conducted near his office in the state Capitol and volunteered along with four other persons to be treated by the ancient technique of inserting needles into the body to cure pain.

"It's out of sight. It's hard to explain how it felt, but my headache is gone," Kapiloff said after the two-minute treatment.

LOBBYING

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. and the chairman of the Legislature's subcommittee on lobbyists have publically reconciled their dispute on reporting of lobbyist's spending.

But Brown and Assemblyman John P. Quimby, D-San Bernardino, issued differing statements on what exactly they resolved during a meeting Tuesday.

Brown said he was assured all lobbyists' expense reports are now available for public inspection.

"In addition," Brown said, "Mr. Quimby told me he has directed the subcommittee staff to make sure that the practice of deleting names from lobbyists records is immediately stopped."

Brown had earlier charged the committee with "illegally" striking from lobbyist's fiscal reports the names of lawmakers who received election campaign contributions from legislative advocates.

On the other hand, Quimby, chairman of the subcommittee on legislative advocate registration, made no mention of any agreed change in his panel's policy.

He previously denied that the reports were altered and insisted the law doesn't require lobbyists to identify by name the recipient of a campaign contribution.

POOR SHOWING

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Roughly 11 per cent of the persons in Gov. Ronald Reagan's work-for-welfare program have refused to participate and have been disqualified, the state reports.

Figures issued by the state Department of Human Resources Development Tuesday showed that 8,655 employable recipients in 10 counties were required to join the program from its beginning last July 1 through Jan. 31.

Of that number, the department said, 958 were taken off welfare for refusing to participate.

Under the experimental program, able-bodied recipients must be working, training for a job or performing non-paying community service tasks in exchange for their welfare grants.

Overall, the department said, 31 per cent of the employable recipients in the program, or 2,699 persons, have left the welfare rolls either by finding jobs or no longer qualifying for assistance.

SUPPORTS PLAN

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan has agreed to support legislation blocking the transfer of medical licensing boards from the Department of Consumer Affairs to the Department of Health.

The transfer is part of Reagan's 1970 government reorganization plans and is scheduled to be implemented June 1. But it has stirred bitter controversy between the two departments and health care professionals who would be affected.

At a meeting of his cabinet yesterday, Reagan, on the advice of Dr. Earl Brian, secretary of health and welfare, agreed to support the bill by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

An administration spokesman said the cabinet also decided to review the issue again in January and decide whether the medical licensing boards should remain in the Department of Consumer Affairs permanently.

More Precise Labels Proposed For Foods

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Is a potato chip "traditional" or processed? Is a frozen onion ring really a ring? Does an orange drink really have any orange juice in it?

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) is about to or has already answered those questions and others like them as part of a new campaign designed to let consumers know more exactly what they're buying in prepared and packaged foods.

At the same time it has taken new steps to make sure frozen dinners and packaged main dishes have what it takes to help maintain a nutritious diet, and to let the buyer know if there's something missing.

Some extensive changes in the labels and names by which many foods are known should result.

The FDA published several proposed and final rules in the area Tuesday, including one under which the agency, the industry and consumer groups are being invited to suggest common or usual names, in addition to brand names, for products in order to do away with fanciful titles.

Effective immediately under that rule any non-carbonated orange drink with less than 100 per cent real orange juice must now be labeled "diluted orange juice beverage" or similar descriptive name, followed by the exact orange juice content to the nearest 5 per cent.

Seafood cocktail must now state what kind of seafood is involved and what percentage; Greenland turbot may no longer be referred to as halibut; certain crabmeats may be referred to only as King, Korean or Snow; and bonito, a tuna-like fish, may be marketed only under the name bonito.

Peter B. Hutt, FDA general counsel, said the agency would soon order other foods to carry more exact descriptions. He mentioned potato chips—some of which are "traditional" or actual slices of potatoes, others of which are made from a batter, and frozen onion rings, some of which are actual onion loops, others of which are chopped onions formed into rings.

But Hutt said by far the most far reaching rule the FDA put forth Tuesday involved voluntary guidelines for the nutritional quality of various classes of food. Though the guidelines are voluntary, he added, competitive pressure should force their adoption.

"It doesn't do much good to have nutritional labeling if we have poor nutritional quality built into the food supply itself," Hutt said, referring to the nutrient label rules the FDA put out in January.

One guideline, for instance, involves frozen heat-and-serve dinners. It specifies how much protein, vegetable and potato or cereal products such a dinner must have to be nutritious. Along with that the agency proposed that frozen dinners be made to list on their labels what else has to be consumed —such as salad, bread or beverage—to make the meal truly a balanced "dinner."

Today is Wednesday, March 14, the 73rd day of 1973 with 292 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Mercury. The evening star is Saturn.

German-American scientist Albert Einstein was born March 14, 1879.

On this day in history:

In 1743, the first town meeting in America was held in Boston.

In 1812, the U.S. government authorized the issue of the first war bonds, floated to buy military equipment for use against the British.

In 1947, military and naval bases in the Philippines were leased to the United States for 99 years.

In 1964, Jack Ruby was found guilty of killing assassin Lee Harvey Oswald, slayer of President John F. Kennedy. Ruby was sentenced to death but the conviction was overturned and he died while awaiting a new trial.

A thought for the day: President Harry Truman said, "The responsibility of the great state is to serve and not to dominate the world."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide,-clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, clean air.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

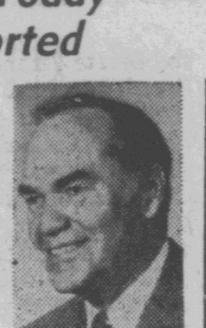
HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Polio Cases Are Rarity Today But Some Are Still Reported



The incidence of polio has declined markedly since the introduction of the oral (Sabin) vaccine. But there are still a dozen or more cases reported annually to the health department. These cases are not as newsworthy as they used to be. Before the vaccine, a daily score was kept much as we now do with traffic fatalities on holiday week-ends.

LAST YEAR 11 teen-agers from a private Eastern school developed the disease. This confirms the presence of polio viruses and shows us why complete immunization is necessary. And protection is simple, because the vaccine is taken orally. The marked decline in polio stems from the widespread vaccination of infants as they are born. Failure to protect these children could result in the buildup of a susceptible population, among whom an epidemic could spread like wildfire.

The oral vaccine may be ineffective, unless the complete series is given. There are three types of polio viruses and modern vaccines protect against one (monovalent) or all three (trivalent). Nowadays, the trivalent product is most popular. Three doses starting at 2 months of age are recommended. The second and third doses are given at 6-to-8-week intervals. A fourth dose is also recommended when the child is 12 to 15 months old.

A SINGLE DOSE of trivalent vaccine is also thought to be desirable when the child starts school. This is recommended mainly to fill in any lapses in the immunization schedule. Families move from one community to another and one of the scheduled doses may have been omitted. Children who have not had oral polio vaccine should be given the complete series.

Since polio viruses enter the body via the mouth, the oral vaccine simulates the natural infection. In addition to producing antibodies, the vaccine induces the intestinal tract to become relatively resistant to reinfection. Protection lasts for years. The vaccine contains live, but weakened, viruses and rapidly induces infection and immunity. Its safety and effectiveness is substantiated by the fact that it has been used successfully by more than 350 million persons.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.

VIRAL HEPATITIS

A reader writes: How long after recovering from viral hepatitis is it safe to take a cocktail?

REPLY

In my opinion, six months. Some physicians suggest one year; others approve when all liver function tests are normal and the individual is judged to be healthy.

RAW JUICES

N. M. writes: What do you think of raw juice therapy?

REPLY

Not much — either as a treat or a treatment. There is no harm in drinking raw vegetable juices, but personally, I prefer carrots, celery, and cabbage raw or cooked, rather than put through a blender.

HYPERTENSION

G. P. writes: Is there any use in treating high blood pressure?

REPLY

Yes. Early treatment of hypertension in younger persons prevents or lessens the severity of complications. It is not always necessary to treat elderly people who have slight to moderate elevations in pressure. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on high blood pressure.

GRAPES NO CURE

A reader writes: I have lung cancer and a friend told me that a grape diet will kill the sick cells, leaving the healthy cells to survive. Do you know of any cure along this line?

REPLY

No, and it is rather unlikely that grapes would have this strange power. This is an old quack remedy. Lung cancer is too serious a disease to treat with home remedies and the advice of well-meaning friends.

BOLTS HIS MEALS

W. D. writes: I know that food should be chewed well and dinner especially ought to be eaten slowly. However, my father eats in 10 minutes flat. Is this a healthful practice?

REPLY

No harm, if the stomach can take it. I believe in ordinary chewing — just enough to break up the food particles. Soft items require little mastication whereas tough meat requires more. The old idea of fletcherizing — chewing every mouthful 20 times — is passe. In contrast, most animals bolt their food and so do many healthy people. However, most persons feel better when they eat in a relaxed and leisurely manner.

HAPPY TUNE — Marta Cecilia Ketzelman, 13, and her brother, George, 10, practice a duet together at their Lucas Valley Home. Born in Argentina, they and a third Ketzelman child, George's twin sister, Sandra, became American citizens last month in naturalization procedures in U.S. District Court in San Francisco.

Three Santa Venetia Children Take Oath Of U.S. Citizenship

Thirteen-year-old Marta Cecilia Ketzelman of Santa Venetia plays clarinet in her junior high school band, a simple pleasure she said she might not have had in her native Argentina.

She and her brother and sister, 10-year-old twins George and Sandra, became American citizens last month in U.S. District Court in San Francisco.

Their father, Jose Ketzelman, an electrical engineer for a San Francisco construction company, became a citizen in 1971. And their mother, Marta, plans to begin naturalization procedures next year.

"I don't feel any different," said Marta Cecilia, who came to the U.S. in 1966 when she was 6. "But I'm glad to be a citizen."

She is a seventh grader at Miller Creek Junior High School, a good student her father says, and plans "to stay in school a long time."

Her sister and brother attend Oak View School in San Rafael.

"There is a more tranquil situation in living here than in Argentina said Ketzelman. "There they have many problems, political and economic, that don't make life easy."

The Ketzelmans who live at 12 Golf Avenue, came from Buenos Aires, where he was employed by an American construction firm.

He came to the U.S. in 1965, settling first in Chicago, and the rest of the family followed a year later. They have been living in Marin County since 1968.

Other Marin and Southern Sonoma residents who became American citizens in naturalization procedures in February in the United States District Court in San Francisco are:

BELVEDERE — Pamela A. Bagshaw, 35 West Shore Road.

CORTE MADERA — Lily Iona Soucie, 801 Meadowsweet Drive, Apt. C; Donna M. Roberts, 653 Redwood Avenue.

FAIRFAX — Amelia Angela Ferretti, 58 Sequoia Road, and Grehal Franzen, 303 Bolinas Avenue.

GREENBRAE — Hind Tanel, 81 Corte Encanto.

MILL VALLEY — Moss Galante, 147 Elm Avenue; Svetlana Kaleys, 377 Marin Avenue; Myrth Alicia Lord, 301 Ross Drive.

NOVATO — Robin Carmichael Greig, 80 Montego Key; Daniela B. Husa, 297 Montego Key; Petra and William C. Long, both of 88 Bonnie Brae Drive; Kiyo Getchell, 105 Palmer Drive; Yolanda Leandro, 886 McClay Road; Karl Joseph Zueger, 9 Shon Court.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Reagan Backs Remap Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Carrying the blessing of Gov. Ronald Reagan, a Republican lawmaker pressed forward today with a bipartisan Senate reapportionment plan aimed at protecting senators who expect to seek reelection.

In an unusual move, Reagan yesterday told newsmen he would sign the bill (SB195) if it reaches his desk unchanged from its present form.

The governor normally refuses to say—before legislation reaches his desk—whether he will sign a bill or veto it.

A closed-door meeting of the entire Senate was scheduled for today to consider the redistricting measure.

The proposal—by Sens. John L. Harmer of Glendale, GOP caucus chairman, and George zenovich, D-Fresno — would abolish the district of Sen. Alan Short, D-Stockton.

The bill would create a new district in Southern California which would include parts of Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties. It is also designed to preserve the 20-20 split between the GOP and Democrats in the Senate.

In a letter to Harmer and circulated to all senators, Reagan said he hoped his declaration he would sign the bill would be "instrumental in resolving the entire question of reapportionment in California."

However, if the measure wins Senate approval, Zenovich says it faces a dubious future in the Assembly.

The author of a rival redistricting bill, Sen. Mervyn M. Dymally, D-Los Angeles, immediately released a statement accusing Reagan of "blatant hypocrisy by slamming the door in the face of the state's Mexican-Americans."

Dymally, Democratic caucus chairman, said the Zenovich-Harmer bill would not insure the election of a Chicano to the Senate while his would. Dymally's measure (SB62) would also preserve Short's district.

Dymally's allegation of hypocrisy stemmed from Reagan's purported statement that he would not sign a bill which fragments the Chicano community.

Harmer sought the private meeting of the Senate to resolve the question of the future of his bill.

He asserted that Dymally, chairman of the Reapportionment Committee, is stalling a committee vote on the Reagan-backed bill and is pushing his own instead.

Reagan said that while Harmer's bill is a "great improvement over any yet developed, it still does not meet some of the criteria I had hoped might be achieved."

Harmer said the criteria included creation of a Chicano district and preservation of Short's district.

The problem Harmer's bill faces in the Assembly was created last week when Democrats shelved their reapportionment plan. Zenovich said the Assembly is not likely to pass a Senate bill unless it also passes one of its own.

CHILD CARE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An $11 million bill backed by Gov. Ronald Reagan that would assure state support of child care services in the face of threatened Nixon administration cutbacks is now before the Senate.

The measure (AB387) by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, was approved by the Senate Finance Committee Tuesday on a 10-0 vote.

Under federal regulatins tentatively scheduled to take effect April 1, federal funds for such things as child care centers for low income working mothers would be abolished.

The proposed standards would affect about 30,000 California youngsters.

NEEDLES WORK

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A Chinese acupuncturist kept a state assemblyman on the job Tuesday by jabbing two long stainless steel needles into the lawmaker's hand and foot.

Assemblyman Lawrence Kapiloff, a Democrat from San Diego, came to work with a bad sinus headache and was about to take the day off.

"I told my secretary I felt so lousy I thought I'd go home," Kapiloff said.

He then dropped in on an acupuncture lecture being conducted near his office in the state Capitol and volunteered along with four other persons to be treated by the ancient technique of inserting needles into the body to cure pain.

"It's out of sight. It's hard to explain how it felt, but my headache is gone," Kapiloff said after the two-minute treatment.

LOBBYING

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. and the chairman of the Legislature's subcommittee on lobbyists have publically reconciled their dispute on reporting of lobbyist's spending.

But Brown and Assemblyman John P. Quimby, D-San Bernardino, issued differing statements on what exactly they resolved during a meeting Tuesday.

Brown said he was assured all lobbyists' expense reports are now available for public inspection.

"In addition," Brown said, "Mr. Quimby told me he has directed the subcommittee staff to make sure that the practice of deleting names from lobbyists records is immediately stopped."

Brown had earlier charged the committee with "illegally" striking from lobbyist's fiscal reports the names of lawmakers who received election campaign contributions from legislative advocates.

On the other hand, Quimby, chairman of the subcommittee on legislative advocate registration, made no mention of any agreed change in his panel's policy.

He previously denied that the reports were altered and insisted the law doesn't require lobbyists to identify by name the recipient of a campaign contribution.

POOR SHOWING

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Roughly 11 per cent of the persons in Gov. Ronald Reagan's work-for-welfare program have refused to participate and have been disqualified, the state reports.

Figures issued by the state Department of Human Resources Development Tuesday showed that 8,655 employable recipients in 10 counties were required to join the program from its beginning last July 1 through Jan. 31.

Of that number, the department said, 958 were taken off welfare for refusing to participate.

Under the experimental program, able-bodied recipients must be working, training for a job or performing non-paying community service tasks in exchange for their welfare grants.

Overall, the department said, 31 per cent of the employable recipients in the program, or 2,699 persons, have left the welfare rolls either by finding jobs or no longer qualifying for assistance.

SUPPORTS PLAN

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan has agreed to support legislation blocking the transfer of medical licensing boards from the Department of Consumer Affairs to the Department of Health.

The transfer is part of Reagan's 1970 government reorganization plans and is scheduled to be implemented June 1. But it has stirred bitter controversy between the two departments and health care professionals who would be affected.

At a meeting of his cabinet yesterday, Reagan, on the advice of Dr. Earl Brian, secretary of health and welfare, agreed to support the bill by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

An administration spokesman said the cabinet also decided to review the issue again in January and decide whether the medical licensing boards should remain in the Department of Consumer Affairs permanently.

More Precise Labels Proposed For Foods

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Is a potato chip "traditional" or processed? Is a frozen onion ring really a ring? Does an orange drink really have any orange juice in it?

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) is about to or has already answered those questions and others like them as part of a new campaign designed to let consumers know more exactly what they're buying in prepared and packaged foods.

At the same time it has taken new steps to make sure frozen dinners and packaged main dishes have what it takes to help maintain a nutritious diet, and to let the buyer know if there's something missing.

Some extensive changes in the labels and names by which many foods are known should result.

The FDA published several proposed and final rules in the area Tuesday, including one under which the agency, the industry and consumer groups are being invited to suggest common or usual names, in addition to brand names, for products in order to do away with fanciful titles.

Effective immediately under that rule any non-carbonated orange drink with less than 100 per cent real orange juice must now be labeled "diluted orange juice beverage" or similar descriptive name, followed by the exact orange juice content to the nearest 5 per cent.

Seafood cocktail must now state what kind of seafood is involved and what percentage; Greenland turbot may no longer be referred to as halibut; certain crabmeats may be referred to only as King, Korean or Snow; and bonito, a tuna-like fish, may be marketed only under the name bonito.

Peter B. Hutt, FDA general counsel, said the agency would soon order other foods to carry more exact descriptions. He mentioned potato chips—some of which are "traditional" or actual slices of potatoes, others of which are made from a batter, and frozen onion rings, some of which are actual onion loops, others of which are chopped onions formed into rings.

But Hutt said by far the most far reaching rule the FDA put forth Tuesday involved voluntary guidelines for the nutritional quality of various classes of food. Though the guidelines are voluntary, he added, competitive pressure should force their adoption.

"It doesn't do much good to have nutritional labeling if we have poor nutritional quality built into the food supply itself," Hutt said, referring to the nutrient label rules the FDA put out in January.

One guideline, for instance, involves frozen heat-and-serve dinners. It specifies how much protein, vegetable and potato or cereal products such a dinner must have to be nutritious. Along with that the agency proposed that frozen dinners be made to list on their labels what else has to be consumed —such as salad, bread or beverage—to make the meal truly a balanced "dinner."

Merchant Brings Back An Era

Milo Illich of the Hobby Tree in Corte Madera is, indeed, a special person. Last November, after much planning, he opened the doors of his store with the intent of operating a "strictly pleasure" type of business.

As one enters the store and begins to browse through the endless rows of hobby and craft items, he almost immediately notices the absence of a hawking salesman, peering over his shoulder and demanding "may I help you, sir?" Rather than this, the customer feels comfortable and is not in the least afraid of picking up an item and exploring its workings at leisure. At the Hobby Tree it happens. Customers can browse and sip free cups of freshly brewed coffee.

This past week the Hobby Tree hosted it's first "Hobbies In Action" week, presenting many free demonstrations in various hobby crafts. In culmination, on Saturday and Sunday the store devoted its full attention to the wonderful world of puppets and free shows. The very people who built the world of puppets into a fond memory, appeared once again to mesmerize the spectators.

Virginia Curtis, famous for her "Clippo the Clown", and who toured with many famous bands during the "Big Band" era of the '40s, came forth with two performances daily on Saturday and Sunday.

The room filled with small children and adults who had either never experienced a marionette performance or had forgotten what it was really like. The show started, the background noise subsided, and Virginia left the spectators spellbound with her giant "Butzie" Clippo manipulating a smaller Clippo who then picks up a smaller third Clippo. Remaining performances played to capacity crowds. The smiles and applause literally shook the room.

On Sunday, March 4, still another treat was in store for visitors to the shop. Out of a quiet retirement came the man who at one time was the most respected ventriloquist in the Bay Area.

The man, Bruce Sedley; the figure, King Fuddle himself. Sedley arrived in the store wearing a casual gold sweater and carrying a black box, a thin layer of dust coating its lid. The old smile was there, the casual stride, and an unusual apprehension present. After Virginia's 2 p.m. performance, Sedley quietly walked to the stage.

In his arms was King Fuddle, motionless. The room became absolutely quiet. The show started, and King Fuddle came to life, just slightly nervous, and thoroughly captivated the children as well as the adults.

Within five minutes, the room was filled with people lost in the fantasy of an illusion. They sat quietly, their eyes glued to King Fuddle, lost in the experience. "Sir Sedley" was now performing as if he had never left television. His smile was contagious, his presentation hypnotic. What was supposed to be a 30-minute performance snowballed into a 2½-hour ad-

Merchant Brings Back An Era

Milo Illich of the Hobby Tree in Corte Madera is, indeed, a special person. Last November, after much planning, he opened the doors of his store with the intent of operating a "strictly pleasure" type of business.

As one enters the store and begins to browse through the endless rows of hobby and craft items, he almost immediately notices the absence of a hawking salesman, peering over his shoulder and demanding "may I help you, sir?" Rather than this, the customer feels comfortable and is not in the least afraid of picking up an item and exploring its workings at leisure. At the Hobby Tree it happens. Customers can browse and sip free cups of freshly brewed coffee.

This past week the Hobby Tree hosted it's first "Hobbies In Action" week, presenting many free demonstrations in various hobby crafts. In culmination, on Saturday and Sunday the store devoted its full attention to the wonderful world of puppets and free shows. The very people who built the world of puppets into a fond memory, appeared once again to mesmerize the spectators.

Virginia Curtis, famous for her "Clippo the Clown", and who toured with many famous bands during the "Big Band" era of the '40s, came forth with two performances daily on Saturday and Sunday.

The room filled with small children and adults who had either never experienced a marionette performance or had forgotten what it was really like. The show started, the background noise subsided, and Virginia left the spectators spellbound with her giant "Butzie" Clippo manipulating a smaller Clippo who then picks up a smaller third Clippo. Remaining performances played to capacity crowds. The smiles and applause literally shook the room.

On Sunday, March 4, still another treat was in store for visitors to the shop. Out of a quiet retirement came the man who at one time was the most respected ventriloquist in the Bay Area.

The man, Bruce Sedley; the figure, King Fuddle himself. Sedley arrived in the store wearing a casual gold sweater and carrying a black box, a thin layer of dust coating its lid. The old smile was there, the casual stride, and an unusual apprehension present. After Virginia's 2 p.m. performance, Sedley quietly walked to the stage.

In his arms was King Fuddle, motionless. The room became absolutely quiet. The show started, and King Fuddle came to life, just slightly nervous, and thoroughly captivated the children as well as the adults.

Within five minutes, the room was filled with people lost in the fantasy of an illusion. They sat quietly, their eyes glued to King Fuddle, lost in the experience. "Sir Sedley" was now performing as if he had never left television. His smile was contagious, his presentation hypnotic. What was supposed to be a 30-minute performance snowballed into a 2½-hour ad-

Soar with the winds, lie in the grass and fly these fantastic kites for hours (maybe days). The Amazing Classic Alexander Graham Bell TetraKite and Super TetraKite are, just perhaps, the most exciting kites ever created. Alexander Graham Bell created the concept but it took someone 70 years to bring it to you. In Bell's own (1903) words: "Tetrahedral kites combine in a marked degree the qualities of strength, lightness, and steady flight." Made practical by our patented connector and lightweight sails and struts, these kites are the most spectacular sight in the sky! Easily assembled and disassembled. They have to be. The Four Sail TetraKite is 2½ feet on an edge and the Sixteen Sail Super TetraKite is 5 feet on an edge. Combine four TetraKites and create a Super TetraKite. Use the Super TetraKite as four TetraKites, so everyone in the family can have his own kite. These easy-to-launch kites (they fly in the lightest wind) are for connoisseurs and beginners alike.

Congress Declares April Hobby Month

At a time when shorter work weeks and sophisticated machinery have given Americans more leisure hours than ever, hobbies are playing an increasingly vital role in our national life, according to Milo Illich of Hobby Tree Inc., in the Corte Madera Shopping Center.

Hobbies have become so important that Congress has officially designated April as "April Is Hobby Month." And, psychologists and sociologists say that a means of making creative and constructive use of leisure time is one of the most pressing needs of our society today.

To millions of Americans, the answer to this need is to have a hobby.

While hobbyists range from collectors of shrunken heads to builders of basement nuclear reactors, the great majority like to construct, race, sail, fly or display model airplanes, trains, cars, boats and work on craft items.

What is a hobby?

Almost anything you like to do in your spare time, says the dictionary.

Airplane modeling, for years a major factor in the hobby industry, got its big impetus when Lindberg flew the Atlantic. Model trains, now major hobby item for both young and old, got their big boost with the railroad display at the Chicago World's Fair of 1934.

More recently, the country's cultural explosion has resulted in greater interest in craft items in the hobby field, including more elaborate "paint-by-numbers" sets and the creation of mosaics and acrylic home decorations from hobby kits.

Kits of all kinds provide the basis for the largest percentage of hobby endeavors today. With them, persons of all ages discover they can find outlets for their creative urges and interest in the world around them.

Today's hobby kits are more detailed then ever, and can be used by persons of all degrees of skill. Whether it's a display reproduction of the latest airliner or ship, a flying model of the newest Air Force fighter, a kit for creating an elaborate and decorative wall hanging or plaque, a miniature train layout that takes up the entire basement, a miniature auto racing track for real competition among skilled "drivers," a scientific kit which permits young and old to duplicate basic experiments, or a simplified computer which can be constructed at home, the hobby kit is fast becoming the focus of leisure time in America.

Road Will Open Land Of Indians

NAZKO, B.C. (AP) — Progress is only a few miles away from the isolated Nazko Indian people of the Chilcotin district, about 400 miles north of Vancouver.

A two-lane gravel road from Quesnel is to replace the barely passable dirt trail that is the only link with the outside world for the Nazkos and the even more remote Kluskos Indians.

Brendan Kennedy, 25, a community development worker for the British Columbia Union of Indian Chiefs, has been monitoring the road-building project and says there is not much time left to prepare the Indians to meet the 20th century.

Kennedy said the Nazko and Kluskos people, mostly hunters, fishermen and trappers, have led isolated and unchanged lives in their hilly jackpine country since before 1900.

The largest community is Nazko, about 54 miles from Quesnel, with a population of 100. It's the only place with running water — cold.

Many are on welfare and have inadequate diets, health and housing standards, said Kennedy. Total population of the Nazko and Kluskos is 230 in a 400-square-mile area. Supplies are brought in twice a week to Nazko by truck over the dirt road

Kennedy was hired by the union last May to help the Indians to organize.

Whether it's a display reproduction of the latest airliner or ship, a flying model of the newest Air Force fighter, a kit for creating an elaborate and decorative wall hanging or plaque, a miniature train layout that takes up the entire basement, a miniature auto racing track for real competition among skilled "drivers," a scientific kit which permits young and old to duplicate basic experiments, or a simplified computer which can be constructed at home, the hobby kit is fast becoming the focus of leisure time in America.

Road Will Open Land Of Indians

NAZKO, B.C. (AP) — Progress is only a few miles away from the isolated Nazko Indian people of the Chilcotin district, about 400 miles north of Vancouver.

A two-lane gravel road from Quesnel is to replace the barely passable dirt trail that is the only link with the outside world for the Nazkos and the even more remote Kluskos Indians.

Brendan Kennedy, 25, a community development worker for the British Columbia Union of Indian Chiefs, has been monitoring the road-building project and says there is not much time left to prepare the Indians to meet the 20th century.

Kennedy said the Nazko and Kluskos people, mostly hunters, fishermen and trappers, have led isolated and unchanged lives in their hilly jackpine country since before 1900.

The largest community is Nazko, about 54 miles from Quesnel, with a population of 100. It's the only place with running water — cold.

Many are on welfare and have inadequate diets, health and housing standards, said Kennedy. Total population of the Nazko and Kluskos is 230 in a 400-square-mile area. Supplies are brought in twice a week to Nazko by truck over the dirt road

Kennedy was hired by the union last May to help the Indians to organize.

Medical Wax Museum Is Planned By Artist

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — Medical figures from Hippocrates to the Mayos are being molded in wax by a young self-taught artist and his wife, who will display them in a downtown Rochester building.

The goal of Henry and Andrea Geving is to put the 36 figures together by May 1, and with enough 18-hour days, they may make it.

Geving, 26, uses the couple's home in nearby Byron as a studio, and that means the basement and garage.

A native of New Richmond, Wis., Geving was a cinematographer in Hollywood when he took up art as a hobby. He'd had no formal college or art education.

"I got the bug for doing realistic things and began to wonder about a wax museum," he recalls. Three years ago, after the two married, he adds, "we gave up the money and glory of Hollywood" and moved to the Midwest.

While working at a television station in Waterloo, Iowa, Geving made frequent trips to a Springfield, Ill., museum to fashion a wax scenario of Abraham Lincoln's life.

The idea for a medical museum struck him nearly a year ago, when he was an outpatient at Mayo Clinic. He got the blessing of the clinic, so long as he didn't commercialize the city's rich medical history.

The medical greats the Gevings are molding and piecing together will appear in groups of two or three. Even props are carefully researched, and Geving is building a pegged oak trunk to make one setting more authentic.

Geving learned how to create heads from clay, making a mask of molding compound. He applies plaster of paris and pours hot wax into that for lifelike expressions.

Andrea finishes the heads, poking two or three hairs at a time into the scalp with a fine tool and sealing the pores. Each "coiffure" takes 40 hours.

Ball-and-socket limbs will make for more natural poses when figures are clothed by Twin Cities costumers. Geving's brother Mark painstakingly lays piece after piece of special paper, building up papier mache torsos.

Geving gets some money from the Lincoln museum and is in a partnership with an investor who will return a percentage of the gate.

Congress Declares April Hobby Month

At a time when shorter work weeks and sophisticated machinery have given Americans more leisure hours than ever, hobbies are playing an increasingly vital role in our national life, according to Milo Illich of Hobby Tree Inc., in the Corte Madera Shopping Center.

Hobbies have become so important that Congress has officially designated April as "April Is Hobby Month." And, psychologists and sociologists say that a means of making creative and constructive use of leisure time is one of the most pressing needs of our society today.

To millions of Americans, the answer to this need is to have a hobby.

While hobbyists range from collectors of shrunken heads to builders of basement nuclear reactors, the great majority like to construct, race, sail, fly or display model airplanes, trains, cars, boats and work on craft items.

What is a hobby?

Almost anything you like to do in your spare time, says the dictionary.

Airplane modeling, for years a major factor in the hobby industry, got its big impetus when Lindberg flew the Atlantic. Model trains, now major hobby item for both young and old, got their big boost with the railroad display at the Chicago World's Fair of 1934.

More recently, the country's cultural explosion has resulted in greater interest in craft items in the hobby field, including more elaborate "paint-by-numbers" sets and the creation of mosaics and acrylic home decorations from hobby kits.

Kits of all kinds provide the basis for the largest percentage of hobby endeavors today. With them, persons of all ages discover they can find outlets for their creative urges and interest in the world around them.

Today's hobby kits are more detailed then ever, and can be used by persons of all degrees of skill. Whether it's a display reproduction of the latest airliner or ship, a flying model of the newest Air Force fighter, a kit for creating an elaborate and decorative wall hanging or plaque, a miniature train layout that takes up the entire basement, a miniature auto racing track for real competition among skilled "drivers," a scientific kit which permits young and old to duplicate basic experiments, or a simplified computer which can be constructed at home, the hobby kit is fast becoming the focus of leisure time in America.

Road Will Open Land Of Indians

NAZKO, B.C. (AP) — Progress is only a few miles away from the isolated Nazko Indian people of the Chilcotin district, about 400 miles north of Vancouver.

A two-lane gravel road from Quesnel is to replace the barely passable dirt trail that is the only link with the outside world for the Nazkos and the even more remote Kluskos Indians.

Brendan Kennedy, 25, a community development worker for the British Columbia Union of Indian Chiefs, has been monitoring the road-building project and says there is not much time left to prepare the Indians to meet the 20th century.

Kennedy said the Nazko and Kluskos people, mostly hunters, fishermen and trappers, have led isolated and unchanged lives in their hilly jackpine country since before 1900.

The largest community is Nazko, about 54 miles from Quesnel, with a population of 100. It's the only place with running water — cold.

Many are on welfare and have inadequate diets, health and housing standards, said Kennedy. Total population of the Nazko and Kluskos is 230 in a 400-square-mile area. Supplies are brought in twice a week to Nazko by truck over the dirt road

Kennedy was hired by the union last May to help the Indians to organize.

Medical Wax Museum Is Planned By Artist

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — Medical figures from Hippocrates to the Mayos are being molded in wax by a young self-taught artist and his wife, who will display them in a downtown Rochester building.

The goal of Henry and Andrea Geving is to put the 36 figures together by May 1, and with enough 18-hour days, they may make it.

Geving, 26, uses the couple's home in nearby Byron as a studio, and that means the basement and garage.

A native of New Richmond, Wis., Geving was a cinematographer in Hollywood when he took up art as a hobby. He'd had no formal college or art education.

"I got the bug for doing realistic things and began to wonder about a wax museum," he recalls. Three years ago, after the two married, he adds, "we gave up the money and glory of Hollywood" and moved to the Midwest.

While working at a television station in Waterloo, Iowa, Geving made frequent trips to a Springfield, Ill., museum to fashion a wax scenario of Abraham Lincoln's life.

The idea for a medical museum struck him nearly a year ago, when he was an outpatient at Mayo Clinic. He got the blessing of the clinic, so long as he didn't commercialize the city's rich medical history.

The medical greats the Gevings are molding and piecing together will appear in groups of two or three. Even props are carefully researched, and Geving is building a pegged oak trunk to make one setting more authentic.

Geving learned how to create heads from clay, making a mask of molding compound. He applies plaster of paris and pours hot wax into that for lifelike expressions.

Andrea finishes the heads, poking two or three hairs at a time into the scalp with a fine tool and sealing the pores. Each "coiffure" takes 40 hours.

Ball-and-socket limbs will make for more natural poses when figures are clothed by Twin Cities costumers. Geving's brother Mark painstakingly lays piece after piece of special paper, building up papier mache torsos.

Geving gets some money from the Lincoln museum and is in a partnership with an investor who will return a percentage of the gate.

venture. The children learned how to bring King Fuddle to life all by themselves. The atmosphere was happy and when the time came to leave, the children were still tugging at the sweater of Sir Sedley, pleading with him to let them talk to King Fuddle. He obliged. Not a child's request went unfulfilled. It was like a nostalgic dream come true.

After this weekend, many Marin residents are convinced that Clippo the Clown, and King Fuddle are alive and well and waiting to come back.

The Hobby Tree has seen the need and met it. And those who enjoyed the occasion and had thanks for Mike Illich, Bob Williamson and Dennis Colthurst.

ENTERTAINER — Bruce Sedley and his friend, King Fuddle, drew raves from young and old alike following a recent appearance at the Hobby Tree in the Corte Madera Shopping Center.

GETTING READY — Virginia Curtis is shown putting the finishing touches on Clippo the Clown before her first performance recently at the Hobby Tree.

Executive Gives Up Business To Weave

TORONTO (AP) — Three years ago advertising executive Ray Senior decided enough was enough.

He opted out of the rat race and became a weaver.

In Toronto for the opening of a new craft boutique where his woven wallhangings are sold, Senior now calls himself an "environmentalist."

As president of the J. Walter Thompson Advertising Co., he said his life was a combination of high-priced decision and elegant dinner parties.

"I told the people at the office I was going to be an environmentalist," he said. "They told me I was crazy."

He moved to Hudson, Que., made a country home into a studio and then got to work with the weaver's loom and potter's wheel.

"I think it was hard at first for my wife to adjust from the life of an executive's wife to the wife of an artist, but now she's into the artistic thing herself," he said.

Senior said he probably works harder now than he did as an advertising man.

His big problem now, he said, is not to get carried away with his success so that he's producing art work the way he once churned out executive decisions in the advertising world.

Executive Gives Up Business To Weave

TORONTO (AP) — Three years ago advertising executive Ray Senior decided enough was enough.

He opted out of the rat race and became a weaver.

In Toronto for the opening of a new craft boutique where his woven wallhangings are sold, Senior now calls himself an "environmentalist."

As president of the J. Walter Thompson Advertising Co., he said his life was a combination of high-priced decision and elegant dinner parties.

"I told the people at the office I was going to be an environmentalist," he said. "They told me I was crazy."

He moved to Hudson, Que., made a country home into a studio and then got to work with the weaver's loom and potter's wheel.

"I think it was hard at first for my wife to adjust from the life of an executive's wife to the wife of an artist, but now she's into the artistic thing herself," he said.

Senior said he probably works harder now than he did as an advertising man.

His big problem now, he said, is not to get carried away with his success so that he's producing art work the way he once churned out executive decisions in the advertising world.

Engineer Sees Future Homes Built Of Flexible Components

MENLO PARK, Calif. (AP) — The house of the future will be a flexible, do-it-yourself dwelling that can grow, shrink, or even swap rooms at its owner's whim, an engineering researcher says.

The house would consist of a central steel frame with standardized components fastened to it, such as walls, floors, roofs, wiring and plumbing. Starting with the basic frame, builders could devise homes of almost any size, architectural style and price by varying the components.

The new type of home — potentially far more individualized than today's factory housing — could be in common use within 20 years, says Richard L. Martin, senior housing economist at the Stanford Research Institute here.

Martin, who with other SRI engineers developed and is studying the concept of component housing, is reluctant to put a pricetag on the technique. But he said he is confident the method eventually could be used to mass produce homes at prices competitive with standard housing.

"When somebody wants to build a house, he might go to a factory to select his components — just like a housewife today goes to the supermarket to buy food when she wants to cook a meal," Martin said in an interview.

"All the ingredients are there, and depending on your budget and your tastes you could put together any kind of home you wanted," he said.

Because everything but the central frame is a detachable component, Martin said the new style home would offer its occupants and urban planners some striking advantages over present housing.

"Nowadays if a wife tires of the furniture arrangement in her living room she can switch it around. With our housing, she could do the same with whole rooms — switch the living room with the bedroom, or put the bathroom where the kitchen was," Martin said.

He estimated a man and wife could move an entire room — walls, floor and all — in half a day.

A family could even add a second story to their home, with the aid of a contractor, in a few days by "taking off the roof like a hat from your head" and stacking a new steel frame on the old one.

Perhaps most important, Martin said, the new building concept would revolutionize urban renewal. Buildings that now deteriorate until they have to be condemned and torn down, could be quickly and inexpensively remodeled and refurbished, or even moved to a new location.

Martin said the construction principle could be used for other buildings besides homes — even highrise apartments and offices — and the structures would be at least as safe as conventional buildings from earthquakes or other disasters.

Martin said SRI researchers initially began looking for new housing concepts because they felt conventional methods were fast becoming outmoded.

"Homebuilding today is still pretty much of a craft operation," he said. "It's very expensive because of the labor involved. We took a look at what would be the most efficient way for the industry to build homes — to fit the needs of all segments of the population and how they could maintain their vitality over time."

He sees the new technique as ideal for low-cost housing, which he said now frequently is put together so cheaply it deteriorates into slums as bad as those it replaces.

Martin said fears in the building trades of lost jobs are unfounded, although he admits homeowners and amateur craftsmen could do much more of their own building and repair work.

"We don't build enough houses today to meet anywhere near the demand," he said. "And modernizing and remodeling would open up a fantastic market for the labor trade."

Widespread use of the technique still is a generation away, Martin believes.

venture. The children learned how to bring King Fuddle to life all by themselves. The atmosphere was happy and when the time came to leave, the children were still tugging at the sweater of Sir Sedley, pleading with him to let them talk to King Fuddle. He obliged. Not a child's request went unfulfilled. It was like a nostalgic dream come true.

After this weekend, many Marin residents are convinced that Clippo the Clown, and King Fuddle are alive and well and waiting to come back.

The Hobby Tree has seen the need and met it. And those who enjoyed the occasion and had thanks for Mike Illich, Bob Williamson and Dennis Colthurst.

ENTERTAINER — Bruce Sedley and his friend, King Fuddle, drew raves from young and old alike following a recent appearance at the Hobby Tree in the Corte Madera Shopping Center.

GETTING READY — Virginia Curtis is shown putting the finishing touches on Clippo the Clown before her first performance recently at the Hobby Tree.
